Growth and condos

by DOUG TRUAX

Charlevoix County experienced an enormous spurt of growth and development activity in 1985, including major new proposals for condominium developments. Fueled by falling interest rates and a pent-up demand for vacation homes, development companies began to focus on the Charlevoix area and its large section of undeveloped waterfront property on three lakes as prime spots for seasonal residents.

With the actual and proposed developments also came controversy. Major increases in the density on the area's lakes brought concern and protest. Critics charged we were in the process of losing the very quality of life that made the north country attractive. Developers required changes in zoning and those changes brought responses that ranged from eager acceptance to lawsuits to a public referendum.

FOX DEVELOPMENT

Fox and Associates, Inc. pressed on with plans to develop a condominium complex at the former Camp Charlevoix on Oyster Bay. In January 1985 Fox Associates filed suit in Charlevoix Circuit Court asking that the Hayes Township Zoning Ordinance be declared void and unenforceable and that it be allowed to construct a Planned Unit Development.

The Oyster Bay property consist of 338 acres of land and 2,800 feet of shoreline.

In 1984, William Fox's had submitted a plan calling for 228 condo units (106 of them on the lakefront), an 18-hole golf course, and 66 boat slips.

After the Hayes Township expressed concern, the plan was revised to 168 units. Hayes Township rejected that plan and said it would accept 126 units, 28 of them with lake access (one per 100 feet of lake frontage) and 28 boat slips.

In May 1985 the Hayes Township Planning Commission amended a section of the zoning ordinance dealing with "Shoreline Protection." which was the basis of the Fox suit.

The township ordinance provides for not more than "One slip or dock

County salaries approved

by FRAN MARTIN

The adoption of a salary schedule for 1986 highlighted the final meeting for 1985 of the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners held Friday.

The salary schedule was adopted by a 5-1 roll vote with Larry Matthew casting the no vote. Matthew said there were discrepancies in the schedule. He also said that in comparison with each other and other department heads, the duties of offices differed greatly and that additional work loads have been placed on some offices as the result of state mandates. These factors should be taken into consideration when setting salaries, he concluded.

Salaries, in most instances, represented a four percent across-the-board increase. The exception was the register of deeds who received a nearly seven percent raise in line with the work load of the office.

District Probate judge (47 percent of $6,000), $2,820 (same); county clerk, $20,896 ($19,906); register of deeds, $18,472 ($17,592); prosecuting attorney, $36,288 ($34,560); civil defense director, $17,796 ($16,196); equalization director, $23,426 ($22,310); veterans affairs counselor (20 hours per week), $5,757 ($5,340); county treasurer, $20,896 ($19,906); sheriff, $24,948 ($23,766); building maintenance person, $17,814 ($16,274); county planner, $21,264 ($20,446); building codes official, $22,365 ($21,314); park manager, $5,535 ($4,263); drain commissioner, $4,434 ($4,263); county road commissioner, per year, $1,500 - $1,350 plus $12.50 per diem for special meetings).

The commissioners will continue at the same salaries as in 1985: $165 per month and $65 per diem for committee meetings and limited work.

The per diem rate for members of all others boards and commissions will remain the same. The only exception is the annual salary of the medical examiner which was increased to $906 from $846.

Federal funds are allocated

By FRAN MARTIN

The Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners acted Friday to allocate 1986 federal revenue sharing funds.

At mid-year, the Board of Commissioners allocated $206,300 in federal revenue sharing funds to the 1985 general fund budget. At that time $80,000 was allocated for specific purposes and the remainder placed in the contingency fund for general administration.

The State of Michigan uniform budgeting regulations state that a contingency fund serves only as a holding fund from which no direct expenditures may be made.

As a result, the Board of Commissioners, Friday, adopted a resolution to transfer $201,000 to the general fund to be used as follows: $97,000, data processing (computer equipment); $20,000, copy and recording (copy machines); $60,000, board of commissioners to underwrite the cost of a job study and tax appeals; and $30,000, capital outlay (telephone equipment).

The remainder of the Federal Revenue Sharing monies were placed in the Federal Revenue Sharing Fund for use in the 1986 budget as amended and adopted Dec. 27, 1985.

Water, water everywhere

Workers attempt to instell the inteke pipe for the new Charlevoix water system.

The first concrete step toward replacing Charlevoix's trichloroethylene (TCE) contaminated well was completed in 1985 when an intake pipe was sunk in Lake Michigan.

The intake is the first step in a new Lake Michigan water supply for the city which has been wrestling with the problem of TCE in its water supply since 1981.

Work also began on the final phase of the new water system – a new pumping and filtration plant.

The intake pipe was sunk on a cold and windy day on Oct. 8, culminating a series of events that made many local observers wonder if the project would ever be completed.

In February 1985 the Environmental Protection Agency announced that "due to legal and programmatic constraints" it could not construct a replacement facility "providing capacity in excess of what is needed to meet present demand."

EPA had previously agreed to pay 90 percent of the costs of an intake and treatment plant capable of meeting the existing peak demand of two million gallons per day (MGD). City voters approved a $500,000 bond in 1984 to cover additional expense for an added one MGD capacity for future growth.

In February EPA and the Department of Natural Resources urged

1985: A digest of County events

by PEG OHLE

At year's end, we present a digest of some of the actions of the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners and other items of interest throughout the County.

JANUARY

Members of the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners convened for the Board's 117th session on Wednesday, January 9, 1985. I. Lee Moerland of Charlevoix was duly elected permanent chairman and the Board proceeded with its business.

Commissioner Larry Matthew offered the first resolution of the year (No. 85-001), recommending that Charlevoix County "enter into an agreement with Manatron, Inc....to purchase and install a computer system for Charlevoix County".

In a story concerning township governments' county-wide, the Courier reported that William R. Fox of Fox & Associates was sueing Hayes Township over provisions of its Township Zoning Ordinance. The suit centers around stipulations in the ordinance that only one dwelling can be built on the shoreline of Lake Charlevoix for every 100 feet of shoreline property owned, and residents may have docking space for only one motorized boat for every 100 feet of shoreline property owned.

The Lake Charlevoix Management Advisory Committee, appointed to study the management of growth and quality of the lake, held its first meeting. In a related meeting, members of the Antrim-Charlevoix Board of Realtors learned about the Groemaere-Anderson Wetlands Protection Act, which became effective in 1980 but was just beginning to be enforced in Charlevoix County. The Act, passed for the protection and use of wetlands in the State, is important to the area because about 80 percent of the shoreline of Lake Charlevoix is tentatively classified as wetlands.

FEBRUARY

Hudson Township advised the County Board that it wanted the name of Thumb Lake kept that way, not changed to Lake Louise as had been requested by some area residents.

The Ad Hoc Sanitary Code Committee presented the final draft of the revised code to the County Board, which approved the document and referred it to the District Board of Health.

Fred Welch, manager of the County Road Commission, explained the Weighmaster program, by which it is hoped to keep overloaded vehicles off designated roads, especially during the spring thawing season.

Richard Fotchman, representing the Charlevoix Chapter of the Michigan Township Association, told the County Board it will cost approximately $5,000 for road sign posts, which it is hoped the County will pay.

Chairman Moerland appointed a committee to study barrier free access problems in the County Building complex. Members of the committee are Gerald Chase, Kraig Leiberman, Larry Matthew, and Don Smith.

MARCH

Members of the County Commission on Aging told the County Board of the need for a senior center and meal site in Charlevoix.

Prosecuting Attorney Kraig Lieberman advised the County Board that he thought Marion Township had a gun-waiting ordinance and there was no need for the County to adopt one. The question of a County-wide gun-waiting ordinance had been brought up by local residents following an automobile accident on the night of a Castle Farms concert. They contended that Marion Township did not have the power to control its convicts and that the County should assume the responsibility.

Employees of the County were "not talking" about the upcoming murder trial being brought to Charlevoix County from Grand Traverse County. The case involved James Gainforth, 31, who was being tried for the murder of a Traverse City filling station attendant. It was moved to Charlevoix County because Gainforth's attorneys stated he could not receive a fair trial in Grand Traverse County.

Charlevoix resident Ralph McGhee announced his plans for a 70-bed nursing home and elderly care facility on property near the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Fire engine arrives, but where to put it?

1985 will long be remembered as the year Charlevoix paraded its new 'state-of-the-art' fire engine onto Bridge Street for the first time. Engine 85 was made a permanent part of the city's fire fighting brigade.

The year will also be remembered as a time of confusion and controversy over the issue of where to put the new $230,000 engine. Too big for the existing fire hall, Engine 85 was put in virtual storage at the city garage while City Council debated the location for a new fire hall.

In March Council discussed two new proposals for the fire hall and the relocation of the post office. Council originally had planned to build the station immediately north of city hall. The new plans were formed when it was learned that U.S. Postal Service officals were looking for a larger facility.

Opinion

Editor's Journal

1985 in Review

By Doug Truax

Collecting the images for the year-end review on pages two and three of this issue brought back a sea of memories.

For me, as a rookie editor of the Courier, it was a year filled with as much sensation as any I have ever experienced. If there is a lull in the life of this little town, I have yet to discover it.

The hands-down most interesting week this year in Charlevoix had to be the visit of the American Wind Symphony. For an event that was not supposed to happen at all it was presented to Charlevoix at the last minute after plans had fallen through in Petoskey. It turned into the stuff of legends. It will rank up there with the Christmas blizzard of 1984 as an incident to be told and retold.

Robert Boudreau brought his strange looking craft – one almost expected Peter Loree to step out as Captain Nemo – into port under fair skies and much anticipation. There was forewarning of things to come when the Point Counterpoint II torn out several pilings at the city docks before it could be subdued.

The fun was just beginning, however, and for the next several days the people of Charlevoix were treated to a fine concert and a bizarre drama that included the captain-conductor being led away after the concert in handcuffs and then transported to Grand Rapids where charges were filed in federal court.

A sea battle of epic proportions ensued. Boudreau versus the unbending bureaucracy that didn't know what to make of his futuristic boat-gallery-concert stage.

In the end, the beleaguered Boudreau was freed. Charlevoix bid adieu to a man and an orchestra that for many had become old friends, and Round Lake returned to the relative calm of hosting thousands of tourists.

But it will be a long while before I forget Mr. Boudreau's impromptu news conferences aboard the Point Counterpoint II or the sound of the woodwind and brass ensemble drifting over the lake.

There were other unforgetable images compiled over the course of the year. I can still see clearly the long black snake that was the water intake pipe being towed into Lake Michigan as wind and rain pounded in from the north. There was no brass band for this occasion – although I think there should have been. Only a small band of stalwarts were there to witness what was to be the climactic event. The mayor and a few other officials buddled under umbrellas. Dave Knight, former Courier editor, was there appropriately, since he had borne witness like few others to the long and often tragicomic saga.

And then, just before the pipe could be sunk, the waves grew to fearsome size and the pipe was ingloriously tugged back to shore. The whole dreary story seemed somehow to be crystallized that day.

There were bright and sparkling events as well. The crisp Friday evenings at high school football games – the first I had witnessed since my own high school days – and the exuberance of graduation. Venetian Apple Fest. The spectacular blaze in East Jordan. And events that tore at the heart. A sick boy waiting for Santa for the last time. The lonely vigil of a family waiting for news of a drowning victim.

And, of course, the people of Charlevoix. Remarkably friendly and helpful. A community of souls with much on their mind, but the spirit to see it through.

1985 you were an interesting year.

The BACKYARD NATURALIST

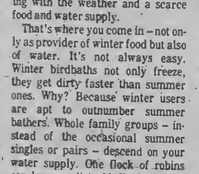
Winter water for wildlife

It's winter, and it's very difficult for wildlife to find water. Put yourself in the place of your friendly blue jay, cardinal or gray squirrel: all their familiar summer watering sites are frozen or hidden beneath snow; the summer leaves and other lush vegetation that furnish water for many small songbirds are gone.

It's a critical time for active winter creatures who need water as much in winter as they do in summer – due in part to the stress of coping with the weather and a scarce food and water supply.

That's where you come in – not only as provider of winter food but also of water. It's not always easy. Winter birdbaths not only freeze, they get dirty faster than summer ones. Why? Because winter users are apt to outnumber summer bathers. Whole family groups – instead of the occasional summer singles or pairs – descend on your water supply. One flock of robins can leave a dirty birdbath behind. Also, your most frequent winter visitors are fruit-eating birds, notorious for their messy droppings.



So, frequent cleaning and ice breaking are inevitable. However, here are a few ways to save steps and stave off nature's icing-up process.

Place your birdbath close enough to the house so that your chores (including lugging water buckets because your outside faucets are turned off for the winter) are made lighter.

Site your birdbath on the south side of the house, to capture as much warmth as possible from the winter sun. All the better if you can tuck the bath to leeward of good, dense wind-shielding shrubbery.

Put a livestock watering-trough heater in a large birdbath. Thermostatically controlled, it keeps the water at about 35 degrees, without running up your electrical bill – or boiling the birds. (Be sure to always use proper outdoor extension cords.)

Spend a bit extra on a birdbath with a built-in thermostatic heating coil (available through some bird-feeding supply stores or catalogs.)

You might like to try painting the exterior of your birdbath with black exterior latex paint. Friends of mine tell me this turns the bath into a solar collector that warms the water on sunny days and helps cut down on the number of de-icing trips to the container. (I haven't yet tried this one out myself.)

Build yourself a bird-sauna – such as the one designed by Harv and Robin Cashion, members of the National Wildlife Federation's Backyard Wildlife Habitat Program: Take a 6 to 10 inch deep galvanized pan with a 2 to 2½ foot diameter. Wrap some thermostatic heating tape around the outside circumference. Place rocks inside the pan from within ¼ to 2 inches of the surface (or even let some rocks protrude), thereby providing the birds with different depths of water for bathing and drinking. Plug the heating tape into an outdoor extension cord. Set the pan snugly into a stained wooded frame. (Anchor a small perching branch among the rocks, over the water.) Now, sit in the warm house and watch the birds splash in their warm sauna. With this set-up you never have to de-ice – just clean up once in a while after your guests.

Clockwise

Not much dough

By Bob Clock

Last week I paid 48 cents for a five-pound bag of white flour at Olesen's Food Store. I couldn't help feeling sorry for the farmer who grew it.

After all, that price translates into less than 10 cents a pound.

Yet consider for a moment the enormous costs that must be involved in producing a single pound of flour.

First, the farmer has to plow his fields, requiring not only man-hours but also the use of expensive farm equipment, most of it heavily financed. Then he has to harrow his fields to make the soil suitable for planting.

He probably also will treat the soil with expensive chemical fertilizers, insecticides, fungicides and whatever else he feels he needs to assure him a reasonable chance of raising a crop.

Then there's seed. That will probably necessitate a trip to town and pickup trucks don't run on hot air. If he is buying a lot of seed, he might have to stop at the bank first, which means he'll be making additional interest payments until the crop matures.

Next, the seed must be sown, involving more manhours and more equipment.

While the seed is germinating, he will probably be on tranquilizers worrying about the weather. When the first shoots appear he'll switch to sedatives because capricious weather will remain a continuing concern throughout the growing season. Heavy rains and high winds can flatten a crop of wheat overnight. Drought can cause just as much damage.

He also must stand ready to fight off blights of various kinds as the crop matures.

Once the wheat is ready for harvest, the farmer's costs are not over, since he probably will have to pay to have his wheat threshed and trucked to the local grain elevator.

There the farmer's costs will end. If he is lucky, he may have enough money in his jeans to take his wife and kids to the county fair.

But that's just a beginning, insofar as the cost of flour is concerned.

The elevator operator will have to sell – and deliver – the wheat to a mill. The miller, using more expensive equipment, will have to grind it into flour, sift it, bag it and ship it to a wholesaler. The wholesaler will have to find a customer for the flour and ship it, sometimes hundreds of miles, to a retail outlet.

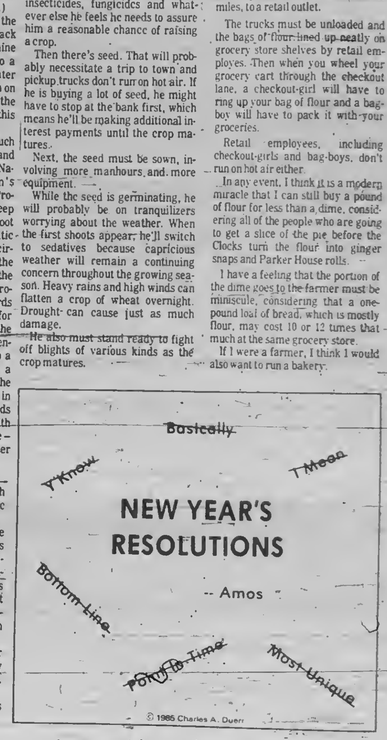
The trucks must be unloaded and the bags of flour lined up neatly on grocery store shelves by retail employes. Then when you wheel your grocery cart through the checkout lane, a checkout-girl will have to ring up your bag of flour and a bag-boy will have to pack it with your groceries.

Retail employees, including checkout-girls and bag-boys, don't run on hot air either.

In any event, I think it is a modern miracle that I can still buy a pound of flour for less than a dime, considering all of the people who are going to get a slice of the pie before the Clocks turn the flour into ginger snaps and Parker House rolls.

I have a feeling that the portion of the dime goes to the farmer must be miniscule, considering that a one-pound loaf of bread, which is mostly flour, may cost 10 or 12 times that much at the same grocery store.

If I were a farmer, I think I would also want to run a bakery.



Revenue sharing funds

In other action Friday, the board approved the payment of $1,140 in interest to the Chicago Club with the monies to be paid from the interest account of the general fund. The monies due the Chicago Club was accrued during the resort's appeal to the Tax Tribunal and the county's subsequent appeal to the Court of Appeals.

–Re-appointed three members to the County Planning Commission. They are: Arnold Hudson of Melrose Township, Junior Hunt of Boyne Valley Township and Thomas Wieland of Charlevoix. The three were named to serve "additional time" as members of the board while the board of commissioners studies the possibility of re-structuring the planning commissioner later in 1986.

–Voted to apply for Office of Highway Safety, alcoholic enforcement, and marine grants. Commission Chairman Lee Moerland was delegated to sign the applications.

–Approved a request by Sheriff George T. Lasater to increase prisoner reimbursement compensation for persons who are incarcerated and released to work from $10 to $30 per day, the maximum allowed. Two persons are presently in this category, he said.

–Heard Lasater request a snowmobile for his department. He stated that until recently the department had a snowmobile on loan. He also advised the board that he had been asked by the state prison system to house prisoners presently in state prisons.

–Heard from Dean Mikulski of District Health Department No. 3 regarding the department's involvement in the water problem in Melrose Township. He advised that the Michigan Department of Public Health was responsible for Type 1 water supplies and that Health Department did tests for the Public Health Department.

–Heard a communication from the National Association of Counties asking Charlevoix County's cooperation in supporting an effort to maintain federal revenue sharing funds to the counties. The initial cost would be approximately à $276 contribution. The request was taken under advisement.

–Heard a request for tax relief for taxes owed on properties presently leased by Carter Foods of Charlotte. The issue was tabled.

The next meeting of the board is scheduled for 9:30 a.m. Jan. 8.

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. Brian Williams

Davis-Williams

The First Congregational Church was the scene of the wedding of Deborah Davis and Brian Williams, both of Houston, Texas, on Saturday, Dec. 14.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. J. Calvin Davis of Houston and Mr. and Mrs. James Williams of Charlevoix.

The Rev. Philip G. Schuermann of the First Congregational Church and the Rev. Larry Grooters of the Community Reformed Church officiated at the double ring service in the presence of their immediate families. An altar decorated for the Christmas season formed a setting for the service at which Mrs. John Lignell, at the organ, played traditional music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a street-length gown of candlelight silk fashioned with a mandarin collar and lace yoke and sleeves. She wore a matching veiled cap and carried a small family Bible topped with an arrangement of white rosebuds.

Her sister, Jhenai Davis, of Houston, served as her only attendant. She wore a scarlet velvet street-length gown, styled with a mandarin collar and long sleeves and carried a white muff to which an arrangement of red roses was attached.

James Williams assisted his son as best man.

A family dinner at the Grand Traverse Hilton followed the ceremony.

After a wedding trip to Jamaica, the couple will be at home at 300 Westerland, Apt. 206, Houston, Texas 77063.

A rehearsal dinner was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents in Friday, Dec. 13.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Stevens, Jr.

Morrow-Stevens

The East Vernon Baptist Church of LaGrange, Ga., was the scene Nov. 2 of the wedding of Linda Morrow and Bruce H. Stevens, Jr., of Hogansville, Ga.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Lorene Morrow of LaGrange, Fa., and the late Devond Morrow. Mrs. Dottie Stevens of Hogansville, Ga., and Bruce H. Stevens of St. Louis, Mush. Mrs. Charles Stevens of Charlevoix is the grandmother of the bridegroom.

The Rev. Dan Payne of Rome, Ga., officiated at the double ring service before an altar graced with Boston ferns and candelabra. A Unity candle also graced that altar. Satin bows marked the family pews.

Mrs. Debbie Wynn at the organ and Ovid Wynn, soloist, provided the wedding music.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Benny Morrow of Morganton, Ga., the bride selected a gown of polysheer organza and Chantilly lace for her wedding. Fashioned with a Queen Anne neckline and empire bodice of Chantilly lace appliqued with motifs of Rochelle lace and seedpearls, her gown featured full bishop sleeves cuffed with lace and a lace-edged panel of crystal pleats which fell from the bodice into an A-line skirt that terminated in a lace-bordered chapel length train.

A Juliet cap secured her fingertip veil trimmed with lace. Her cascade bouquet was of white roses, stephanotis and lilies. She wore her grandmother's pearl necklace.

Pam Rogers of Columbia, SC served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Frances Johnson and Deana Gunter of LaGrange, Ga. and Kerry Stevens of Hogansville, Ga., sister of the bridegroom.

Barry Johnson of LaGrange, Ga., assisted the bridegroom as best man. John Price and Mark Arrington of LaGrange, Ga., Matt Smith of Pine Mountain, Ga., and Charles Neely of Warm Springs, Ga., seated the guests.

A reception, hosted by the bride's mother, followed in the Fellowship Hall of the Church. Mrs. Kim Moon, sister of the bride, tended the guest book.

Following a wedding trip to Stone Mountain, Ga., the couple will make their home in LaGrange, Ga.

Obituaries

Richard Potter

Funeral services for Richard Potter, 89, were held Monday Dec. 30 at the Christian Reformed Church. The Rev. Larry Grooters officiated. Interment was in the Barnard Cemetery.

Mr. Potter died Thursday, Dec. 26, at the Petoskey Geriatrics Village.

Mr. Potter was born in Banks Township, Antrim County, Feb. 14, 1896. On Nov. 27, 1918, he was married to the former Christine Klooster in Banks Township. They always made their home on the family farm in Marion Township. Mrs. Klooster preceded him in death in 1978. He was a member of the Community Reformed Church of Charlevoix.

He is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Theodore (Marion) Herres, Mrs. Clyde (Jean) Cuningham, and Mrs. Charles (Betty) Bergmann, all of Charlevoix; four sons, Harry, Eldon J., and Robert, all of Charlevoix and Theodore of Gaylord; 29 grandchildren and 41 great-grandchildren.

The family suggests memorials to Prison Fellowship. Envelopes for this purpose are available at the Hastings Funeral Home in Ellsworth which was in charge of arrangements.

Bloodmobile seeks donors for new drive

Needed: 115 donors for the Charlevoix Bloodmobile Thursday, Jan. 9.

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will make its first visit to Charlevoix in 1986 on January 9. It will be set up at the American Legion hall at 106 East Garfield from 1-7 p.m.

Volunteer workers for the day are being sought by Mrs. Vernon Mathews, Jr. The scheduling of area nurses is being taken care of by Mrs. Thomas Carey. Marilyn Izor is handling publicity.

Member of the Beta Sigma Phi sorority will staff the canteen for the day. Coffee will be furnished by the First State Bank and juice by Oleson Food Store. The committee has been serving homemade cookies to the donors for the past few times. However, during this visit donors will also be offered a choice of fresh fruit. Mrs. Richard Wojan and Vital Options will furnish the fruit.

Baking cookies or donating fruit is a good way for people who cannot donate blood to do their share toward a successful blook drive. If you can do either, please call Mrs. David Fowler (547-9314).

The Charlevoix Lions Club will be unloading and reloading the truck. They also help set up the units.

Start the New Year in a special way... give a pint of your blood, Mrs. Fowler advises.

Blood may be donated by any healthy persons from 17 to 70 years of age who weights at least 110 pounds. The process takes less than an hour and is simple, safe and risk-free. Call 547-9314 to make an appointment. Walk-in donations are also accepted.

New 4-H teen club organized

Charlevoix County is organizing a new teen club which is open to all 4-H'ers in grades 9-12. The organizational meeting will be held January 2 at 7 p.m. at the East Jordan City Hall.

This new group will participate in a wide variety of activities such as skiing, winter camping, exchange trips, community service projects, career and leadership activities and and many others. Anyone interested in joining the 4-H teen club should contact Shirley Thoms at the Cooperative Extension Service in Boyne City at 582-6232.

Dance Slimnastics course set

Dance Slimnastics Lt., a nationally recognized aerobic fitness club, will offer area residents the opportunity to shape up this winter with a seven-week series of aerobic dance and toning classes scheduled to begin the week of Jan. 6.

The new winter session entitled Lookin' Hot will give fitness-minded individuals the chance to work out aerobically as many times per week as desired. Each class begins with a series of floorwork routines set to upbeat music and designed to give a concentrated workout to the waist, hips and thighs. This floorwork is followed by dance routines that are fun and easy and elevate the heart rate to improve overall fitness.

A new feature, an exercise band, has been added to classes this session. The band will be distributed free to each student and is used to tone and firm during exercise.

New students can save $3 by clipping out the Dance Slimnastics advertisement in this paper and bringing it to class. A maximum of one super person can be used in addition to the program's "Recruit a Friend" feature enables eligible students to earn a discount on future class fees by sponsoring new students. Sponsored students also receive the discount.

Times and locations are: Charlevoix Hospital, Tuesday and Thursday, 6 p.m. and Monday and Wednesday 9:15 a.m.; Charlevoix High School, Tuesday and Thursday, 4 p.m.; Total Health in Boyne City Monday, Wednesday, Friday, 6 p.m. and Tuesday and Thursday, 9:15 a.m., and the Boyne Elementary School on Tuesday and Thursday at 4 p.m.

For more information on class times and locations as this are, call instructor in Charlevoix 547-4588 or 547-4748, in Boyne City, 582-6200.

Childbirth classes offered

Childbirth classes sponsored by Charlevoix Area Hospital for expectant parents will start Monday, Jan. 6 at 6:30 p.m. in the hospital classroom.

The classes, co-sponsored by the Hospital Guild and area physicians, continue each Monday evening for six weeks.

Included in the program are prenatal exercises, relaxation and breathing techniques, anatomy and physiology of pregnancy, labor and delivery, nutritional needs of the mother while pregnant and breast-feeding, emotional aspects of pregnancy, normal labor and delivery with practice sessions, coaching skills, cesarean sections, a film of actual labor and birth filmed at Charlevoix Area Hospital, a doctor's lecture, care of the newborn and parenting adjustments to the demands of a new family unit.

The classes are taught by Leanne Henry, R.N. who has run the program for eight years. Henry was formerly on the faculty of the Hurley Medical Center School of Nursing in Flint and is presently on the staff of the Charlevoix Area Hospital obstetrical department.

For more information call Henry at 547-4024.

1985 digest of action by Charlevoix Board of Commissioners

District Court Probation Department, Gary Knapp, Director of Community District Alternatives, reported that new drunk driving legislation had increased the Court's caseload by 450 percent. He said that streamlining many of the intake and screening processes was needed.

The lawsuit filed by Eveline Township against the Charlevoix Garbage Service and the Department of Natural Resources ended with an agreement and promises. The suit charged that the Charlevoix Garbage Service was not operating its landfill in Eveline Township in compliance with the Solid Waste Management Act by not controlling surface water runoff, not conforming to rules for testing ground water, not bringing landfill design up to requirements of statute, not providing for control of decomposition gases, not providing specifications for construction of final cover, not properly carrying out daily cover procedures, not providing proper drainage impoundments, and not installing proper trench lines.

The County Equalization Committee reported that the equalized valuation of Charlevoix County is now $418,806,610. Last year it was $400,414,178.

Representative Bob Davis visited Charlevoix to say he would work to keep the Coast Guard Cutter "Mesquite" stationed here. (The "Mesquite" stayed).

United States District Judge Richard Ensler signed a consent decree that is hoped will end the 15-year legal battle over Indian fishing rights.

An airplane accident on Beaver Island killed seven people.

MAY

District Judge Harvey C. Varnum's court was cited in the Detroit News as being the "third toughest jurisdiction in the State in handing out jail sentences for drunk driving".

It was decided to send the 1985 Child Care budget of $226,000 to the State with a letter explaining that the County had budgeted only $211,000 for child care. Probate Court had requested $226,000 to carry on its program, but the County Board of Commissioners said that amount of money was not available and budgeted the lower figure.

The Department of Natural Resources planted 244,000 Chinook salmon fingerlings in Medusa Creek.

JUNE

County Planner Larry Sullivan distributed and reviewed for the County Board a population forecast for Charlevoix County. The State estimated the County will have a population of 24,877 by the year 2000, but Sullivan said he believes it will be about 27,628. The 1980 census showed a population of 19,907.

Sheriff George T. Lasater and members of his Department have installed signs on roads leading into Charlevoix County which say "Drunk Drivers Go to Jail". Commenting on the signs, Sheriff Lasater said, "In the last 15 fatal traffic accidents in the County, 13 have been alcohol-related.

The County Board announced it would hire Health Share Systems of Petoskey to make a study of wages and salaries paid County employees.

The Buildings and Grounds Committee of the County Board agreed to allow the County maintenance supervisor to use jail trusties at the County Building as long as they are carefully supervised.

The Charlevoix County Department of Social Services reported that 16.49 percent of all households in the County receive some type of public financial assistance.

A new condominium development was proposed for Water's Edge, some 40 acres of property including 1,450 feet of Lake Charlevoix Shoreline.

JULY

County Medical Examiner Dr. Reed Freidinger told the County Board that in the future he would reject applicants for County jobs who are more than 35 percent overweight because of potential health problems.

Senator Carl Levin's representative, Jim Moran, reported to the County Board that Federal Revenue Sharing Funds will cease at the end of the fiscal year 1986. This year, Charlevoix County received $256,633 from this source.

AUGUST

Lee Arnold resident of Ironton, met with the County Board to outline some of his concerns regarding enforcement of the County's solid waste plan at the Charlevoix Garbage Service Landfill. He asked that the County enjoin the Charlevoix Garbage Service from accepting refuse from areas not designated in the County's solid waste plan. His concerns were referred to the Planning Commission and legal counsel.

The Charlevoix Planning Commission was preparing to mail 3,000 County property owners questionnaires asking their opinions on a wide variety of issues concerning Lake Charlevoix and Round Lake and adjoining areas.

The Charlevoix Township Zoning Board approved the rezoning of property near the Charlevoix Area Hospital for a nursing home.

SEPTEMBER

Commissioner Oral Sutliff told the County Board that Boyne City had decided to close its landfill effective October 1. This will leave the Charlevoix Garbage Service Landfill the only open landfill in the County with the exception of the one on Beaver Island.

The Department of Natural Resources installed a salmon blocking weir on the Jordan River to prevent large salmon from entering the river to spawn. The Jordan will be closed to fishing from its mouth to the weir while the weir is in place. Many local fishermen are objecting to this action.

A baby found abandoned in an automobile in Boyne City in August was placed in foster care after no one appeared at a Probate Court hearing to claim the child.

OCTOBER

The County Emergency warning sirens were activated when water spouts and a tornado were reported in the Atwood-Norwood area. This was the first time the sirens have been used except for testing. No one was injured in the storm and there was no serious damage to property.

Fox and Associates' lawsuit against Hayes Township went to court with a Plaintiff's Motion for Partial Disposition being heard before Judge Robert C. Livo in Cheboygan Circuit Court.

The second Charlevoix County Industrial Fair, sponsored by the Charlevoix County State Bank and the Antrim-Charlevoix Growth Alliance was a two-day event, with Friday, October 11, being devoted to high school students. They learned about job opportunities in the area and what education is necessary to fill these jobs. Lieutenant Governor Martha Griffis attended the fair.

William Lucas, Wayne County Executive, who is expected to be a candidate for Governor, was in Charlevoix campaigning for support.

A new identification method was announced by a local dentist. It is a "dot" bonded to the outside of a rear tooth. The dot bears the wearer's social security number.

The Charlevoix Township Zoning Board approved 288 condominium units for the Water's Edge development.

A group of Charlevoix fishermen attended the Board of Commissioners meeting to support the weir in the Jordan River despite objections of some river fishermen.

The Veterans Administration advised local Veterans Counselor Ron Geer that the V. A. had sent $1,301,456 into Charlevoix County in 1984.

After hearing about the weir on the Jordan River from two different factions of fishermen, the County Board met with the DNR, reaffirmed its support of the salmon program, and received a DNR promise to check with the County Board on decisions involving County waterways.

The County Board agreed to enter into a contract with Electronic Services for installation of Centrex lines and Cobort equipment for a new telephone system for the County.

NOVEMBER

Inter-city bus service along U.S. 31 from Petoskey south to Traverse City was abandoned by Shortway-North Star. Now the only way to reach Traverse City from Charlevoix County is by a 5:45 a.m. bus from Petoskey via U.S. 131 to Cadillac and a transfer from there to Traverse City.

Charlevoix fireman Tom Meggison was credited with saving the life of a four-year-old girl by entering the smoke-ridden second floor bedroom of a Charlevoix house, where the child was found huddled in a corner, and carrying her to safety.

Legislation to delay opening of public schools until after Labor Day was being debated in Lansing. "I think this is a sound piece of legislation that could give a tremendous boost to our State tourism industry," said Ralph Ostling, who represents Charlevoix County in the State legislature.

DECEMBER

Winter arrived early in Charlevoix County, dumping 14 to 18 inches of snow on the first two days of the month. This storm was followed by several days of light snowfall and two weeks later another major storm socked the area. By December 21, the first day of winter, 55.9 inches of snow had fallen in Charlevoix.

Another condominium project, this one on North Point overlooking Lake Michigan, was scheduled to be considered by the Charlevoix Township Zoning Board on December 30. The developer is asking for the rezoning of 30 acres.

Early results of the survey made by the Lake Charlevoix Management Advisory Committee indicated there is much support for a lake area ordinance that would make land use uniform around the lake. There is also support for a water use ordinance for Lake Charlevoix and Round Lake, the survey showed.

After several years of preparation, rural residents throughout the County received new post office numbers to replace the outmoded route and box numbers.

The County Board of Commissioners adopted its 1986 budget in the amount of $3,510,190. The 1985 budget was $3,211,957.

WATCH, the Charlevoix area environmental watchdog, announced Christmas gifts to the community totaling $8,000. Included is $1,000 to the Hayes Township Legal Defense Fund, to assist the Township in defending its zoning ordinance; $2,000 to the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council to continue its monitoring of lakes, streams, and other water resources in the area; $2,000 to the Lake Charlevoix Management Advisory Committee to continue its efforts toward formulating a lake management plan; and an annual scholarship fund of $3,000 to high school seniors in county high schools, details of which are yet to be worked out.

FOLLOW-UPS

Fox & Associates' lawsuit against Hayes Township is still in the hands of Judge Livo in Cheboygan Circuit Court.

The County Board decided to hire the services of professional engineers for advice on making the County building complex barrier-free.

The proposed Charlevoix nursing home received the approval of the Northern Michigan Health Systems Agency and the plans have been forwarded to a State agency in Lansing.

A second probation officer was hired to help handle the caseload in District Court.

Health Shares is continuing its study of wages and salaries of Charlevoix County employees.

Ski team packs experience and depth

by FRAN MARTIN

Experience and depth should payoff for the Charlevoix Rayder ski teams this year. "I'm very optimistic about both the boys and girls teams," said coach Erik Lundteigen. We have six seniors returning who have four years of experience on the varsity. Our ski program is beginning to pay off. It has depth. We shotld have a very good season."

Lundteigen is beginning his fourth year as Rayder ski coach.

The teams will take to the slopes in competition Wednesday, Jan. 8 when they join Harbor Springs, Petoskey, Gaylord and East Jordan at Nub's Nob at 1 p.m.

The girls team will be out to defend its Michigan-Huron Shores title. Last season the team placed second in regional competition and third in the state behind Traverse City and Cadillac.

The girls also won the Cadillac Invitational and placed second in the Manistee Invitational.

The boys team came in second in the conference competition, and third in the regional meet to qualify two skiers, Jason Brindel and Matt Lignell, for state competition. The boys won the Manistee Invitational and came in third in the Cadillac Invitational."

"We should be very competitive," Lundteigen continued. "We have numbers to work with. There is success in numbers and this year we have 40 candidates out for the team, all of them competing for a chance to ski with the varsity."

Among the 40 candidates for the squad are the six seniors with four years varsity experience: Brindel and Nonie Pace who each received All-State honorable mention last season, Lignell, Brian Wilmot, Jim Morgridge and Sue Miller. Pace and Miller were members of the girls team that qualified for state competition.

Backing up these candidates are Karl Erber and Wendy Volsin, juniors, and Lauren Pace and Allison Hall, sophomores.

Vying for positions on the boys varsity are Curt McCandless, Matt Dixon, Dave Warth, Wes Cumberland, Heath Moore, Charlie Withhoeft and Dan Bickersteth. "The positions are open and the competition for them is tough," Lundteigen commented.

Competition for the starting positions on the girls team is equally as keen, Lundteigen said, with Cheryl Miller, Carla Hoffman, Monica Havens and Christie Coolman in the running.

Lundteigen is also pleased to have Mike Bonello take time from his busy schedule at the Charlevoix Area Hospital to help train the team for racing. "He's a great technician and very knowledgeable about racing. He does a lot for us," Lundteigen said. Both work with the large number of freshmen and sophomores who are out for the team, Lundteigen added.

In discussing the ski team, Lundteigen also explained the format for ranking ski teams as compared with other sports in the state.

"In skiing, all teams compete together. There are no classes. In this area, for example, we compete against Traverse City the largest school, and Harbor Springs, the smallest.

"There are 88 ski teams in the state, all of them in the same class. As a result, you have to be very competitive to stand a chance. We've been working hard in preparation for the season. We had a lot of dry land training and are now taking advantage of the early snow. I think we are ready."

Lundteigen said Harbor Springs is expectd to be the strongest team in the immediate area.

Volleyball squad returns four veterans in 1986

by FRAN MARTIN

The Charlevoix Rayder Volleyball team will open its 1986 season Wednesday, Jan. 8, on the home court when Cheboygan comes to town, coach Brenda Bryan reports.

Within the week the team will travel to Central Lake on Thursday to Petoskey for the Petoskey Invitational on Saturday and to Petoskey again for a dual contest on Jan. 15.

Coach Bryan is looking forward to a good season with four returnees from the 1985 Rayder team which finished the season with a third place tie. "Hopefully we will have a good season. The girls are working hard, we have a good nucleus from last season and others who are looking good," Bryan said.

Heading the list of returnees are seniors Lara Stargardt and Carol Holm and juniors Amy Antaya and Jennifer Sell. Antaya will fill the position of spiker, Sell and Stargardt are setters and Holm, listed as an all-around player, will fill various positions.

Backing up this foursome will be three other experienced seniors in Chaya Moore and Shannon Titsworth, all-around players, and Stacy Way, a setter.

Giving the team much needed depth will be a senior, Dawn Benoit, a senior and newcomer to the school, who shows promise and others up from JV ranks including Rhonda Brown, Julie Martin and Jill Taylor, all setters, along with Amy McKinney and Maria Parsons who will be back-up players for other positions.

"We should be fairly strong and very competitive this year compared to other years. The girls are enthusiastic and are shaping up well in preparation for what should be an exciting season for us," Bryan said.

Coach Bryan also has 15 candidates all of them freshmen and sophomores, out for the JV squad which will also play a full schedule of games.

The team will play a 10-game schedule plus two tournaments during the season which will end Feb. 20 prior to the pre-district play-offs.

Fowler given letter at Alma

ALMA – Meg Fowler, a 1985 Charlevoix High School graduate, was awarded an Alma College first-year varsity letter at the Scots' field hockey awards banquet Nov. 24.

Fowler had great success with the sport and started nearly every game for Alma. She played forward for the Scots and tied a league record for assists with eight.

The Alma Scot stickers, 10-6-2 overall, ended their 1985 campaign with a second-place finish (6-1-1) in the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association (MIAA) final standings, while setting two and tying one MIAA season records. The Scots scored shutouts in seven of their 10 wins. Their only loss to a league opponent was during the semifinals of the MIAA championship tournament.

56th annual cribbage tournament planned

The 56th annual cribbage tournament sponsored by Charlevoix Lodge No. 228, F. & AM. and Round Lake Lodge No. 293, IOOF, will begin Thursday, Jan. 2, at the American Legion Post home, Hugh Mayne, tournament secretary, has announced.

The IOOF is the defending champion.

The tournament, which runs for 10 weeks, is played alternately at the "homes" of the sponsoring organizations, the post home at 106 E. Garfield and the Masonic Temple at 401½ Bridge St. at the corner of Mason and Bridge (the entry is on Mason St.).

The tournament is played at 8 p.m. every Thursday at the designated site.

All cribbage players in the area are invited to play in the tournament. It is not necessary to be a member of either sponsoring organization.

"If you're a cribbage player we'd like you to join us," Mayne said.

The cribbage tournament is a "child" of the Great Depression of the 1930s. At that time, the two organizations joined in organizing the event which was played at the former IOOF Hall on the second floor of 207-209 Bridge St. and the present Masonic Temple. At the time, each player put a nickle in the "kitty" in order to play.

Though the depression eventually ended, the players had enjoyed the experience and the camaradrie so much that the tournament was continued and is still played every Thursday beginning the first Thursday of January for 10 weeks. It is climaxed with a dinner for the winning team hosted by the loser.

Citizens urged to help police combat drunk drivers

Michigan citizens are urged to help the State Police combat the drunk driving problem by calling 1-800-525-5555, a special toll-free hotline introduced recently, to report suspected drunk drivers, according to Col. Gerald L. Hough, department director.

"Drunk-driving isn't just a police problem - it's everyone's. So far this year, 1414 people have lost their lives on the state's highways - fifty percent of these fatalities involved the use of alcohol," Hough pointed out. Although 80,000 arrests are made statewide by all law enforcement agencies, Hough says this represents only a small percentage of the offenders.

The toll-free number will be in operation 24 hours a day for citizens to report intoxicated drivers. This is the first time a hotline has been used in the state to increase the opportunity for removing drunk drivers from the roadways. When reporting a suspected drunk driver, citizens should provide the location and direction of travel, vehicle description, license number, and be able to describe the type of erratic driving observed.

Although this program is new to Michigan, ten other states are currently using this concept. Funding for the program is provided through a federal grant.

Architect Jack Begrow recently released this drawing of his plan for the Edgewater Inn being constructed on Round Lake. The Inn is scheduled to open during the summer of 1986.

Growth issues dominate news in 1985

space for 100 feet of lake frontage or lake access or more than one single family living unit for each 100 feet of lake frontage."

The planning group amended that to says that the restriction on boat slips does not apply to rowboats, canoes, dinghies, rubber boats and the like. The amendment also specifically stated that the ordinance does not apply to public access sites.

On October 9 attorneys for Fox filed a Motion for Partial Disposition of its lawsuit.

The attorneys argued that the part of the zoning ordinance controlling the number of motorized boats and limiting lake access to one single family unit per 100 feet of shoreline should be declared invalid.

The case is being heard by Judge Rober Livo in Cheboygan Circuit Court. As 1985 ended no decision on the Fox motion had been reached nor had a trial date been set.

WATER'S EDGE

A similar battle took shape across the lake on 40 acres of land known as Water's Edge. In June First Centrom Corp. asked Charlevoix Township for a rezoning of the property, which includes 1,450 feet of shoreline, to allow for multifamily condominiums. The change asked was from R-2 residential to R-4 Planned Unit Zone.

The developers said they could not cite the specific number of units to be built, but said they planned a quality development with condos in the $150,000 to $300,000 price range.

Critics of the zoning change charged that it would allow an inappropriate density on the lakefront – up to 600 units some said – and would not control the number of boats using the area.

After long and argumentative public hearings, the rezoning was passed by the Charlevoix Township zoning board and in August was voted in by the township board. The rezoning was delayed 120 days so that site plan review conditions could be added to the ordinance.

The Charlevoix County Planning Commission in an advisory vote had rejected the rezoning by a 6-3 vote.

In August a group called ALERT (Area Leaders Environmental Response Team) was formed to oppose the rezoning. ALERT launched a petition drive to rescind the rezoning and on Sept. 12 submitted petitions with over 170 names to the Township Clerk.

The developers of Water's Edge presented their first site plans in early Oct. and indicated they hoped to build 240 units. Township Supervisor Oscar Stroud said he was dumbfounded by the high number. Officials passing the rezoning, he said, had always understood the permissible number to be from 80-120 units.

The township later approved revisions in its zoning ordinance in October which limited the maximum units that could be built at Water's Edge – to any other R-4 development – to five units per acre. Under that change Water's Edge would be allowed up to 204 condos.

After obtaining legal counsel on the issue, the Charlevoix Board of Trustees voted to schedule a referendum on the Water's Edge rezoning. The date agreed to by the Charlevoix County Clerk's office was February 17, 1986.

EDGEWATER INN

New life was breathed into a hotel complex for the former Finn Lumber Co. site on Round Lake when Jon Haley announced plans to build a 98-unit hotel.

Plans for the $5 million condominium hotel were unveiled in early September. It will include 98 hotel units, a 133-person conference room, a row of retail shops with 4,400 square feet of space along U.S. 31, and several boat slips on Round Lake.

Haley, owner of J.A.H. Development Inc., was the developer of the Harbour Club condominiums on Round Lake and the Lakehouse on Lake Michigan.

The new hotel complex was initially called the Inn at Charlevoix but was later changed to Edgewater Inn.

Earlier attempts to develop a similar hotel at that site, initiated by John McGoff and Joel Altman, were unsuccessful when they failed to secure all of the necessary property and, subsequently, a $1.1 million urban development action grant.

Edgewater Inn, unlike other projects in the area, received virtually no opposition and was readily accepted by the Charlevoix Planning Commission and City Council.

Site preparation for the hotel began in late fall and is continuing during the winter. Haley said he expects to open the hotel during the summer season of 1986.

He also announced that he had bought Riccardi's Inn restaurant on the opposite side of U.S. 31 and a home on Round Lake next to the hotel site.

Charlevoix to accept the two MGD plant, saying that any other decision could hold up the new water system until mid-1987 at the earliest.

The EPA meanwhile announced that it was making plans to rebid the work on the intake pipe with work starting as early as March. The 1,500-foot intake pipe was to have been completed by fall of 1984, but work came to a halt when the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers fired South Shore Construction for lack of progress.

Revised figures also revealed that the entire project – intake and treatment facility could cost $3.5 million compared to the $1.9 million originally estimated. The new cost estimate "raised serious questions regarding the cost effectiveness of a lake water intake project," said T. Eftaxiadis, DNR groundwater specialist.

By late February EPA had agreed to a water treatment plant with the capabilities for future expansion.

South Shore was rehired by its bonding company, Union Indemnity Co. and was to have the intake pipe completed by June 15.

It was not long, however, before the intake project received more bad news. On May 13 a stop work order was written because of financial difficulties facing the bonding company.

Although that temporary setback was resolved, matters got worse in June when Union Indemnity filed for bankruptcy.

Contractors refused to work or deliver supplies. By July the Corps of Engineers had again fired the contractor. "Union Indemnity Co. was going nowhere," said the Corps' District Counsel Alan Shapiro. "We had to bite the bullet and default them."

New bids were let and Ryba Marine Construction Co. of Cheboygan was hired to complete the project. By October the pipe had been fused and was ready for submersion in a trench on the Lake Michigan bottom. On Oct. 4 the pipe was towed into place, but the effort was aborted when high winds began to kick up waves on the lake.

Finally, on Oct. 8 the pipe was sunk in place and attached to the intake vault on shore. The first milestone in the bumpy history of the city's water supply was completed.

Fire hall site changes

One plan called for both the post office and the fire station to go to the north of city hall. The other called for the fire station to occupy the existing post office and the post office to go to the north on property occupied by a city-owned house.

The Postal Service real estate branch in Detroit considered the city proposals for keeping the post office downtown and agreed to the one which would place the new fire hall on property occupied by the existing post office.

Those plans were further developed and the Postal Service let bids on a downtown location. In August City Council approved the site plan for a new fire station on Mason Street – at the site of the current post office.

Rumblings of discontent began to surface, however. Dale Boss suggested a location on U.S. 31, at the Fochtman property. The airport was suggest as a location. William Kunina offered his downtown property.

Although the issue of where to put the fire hall still hung in the balance, City Council approved a $290,000 bond issue. Mayor Hal Hill appointed an ad hoc committee to study the various fire hall possibilities.

In early October, the committee issued its report recommending the Mason Street location. The committee concluded the other sites would be more costly and less effective.

The matter was not put to rest as several council members questioned the report's conclusion and the city's cost estimates. F. Earl Muma, Ray. Wood, and others pressed for a less expensive, "pre-engineered" steel building.

They obtained independent bids showing that the building could be built for up to $290,000 less than previously estimated.

On Nov. 5, voters approved the fire hall bond issue by a 442 to 352 margin.

On Nov. 13, City Council reversed its position and voted to put the fire hall to the north of city hall again and determined that the location of the new post office was no longer a prime consideration.

Early in December architect Jack Begrow unveiled a plan for the new fire hall on the north side site at an estimated cost of $363,389 plus and additional $121,700 for the demolition of the post office and the construction of new parking.

The U.S. Postal Service, irritated by the change of direction, said it would ask for new bids not limited to a downtown site. A citizens' group was formed develop a new downtown site for the post office.

KCB meets Saturday

Keep Charlevoix Beautiful, Inc. will hold its monthly meeting at 218 Bridge St. restaurant on Saturday, Jan. 4 at 9 p.m. Featured will be a narrated film strip presented by Dr. Jeff Porter of the Downtown Development Authority. The filmstrip, from the National League of Cities, deals with the rehabilitation of older buildings in downtown areas. Also featured will be a presentation by the recycling committee headed by Michael Greeley.

Why Are These Men Smiling?

Meet Cecil Peterson. He's the smallish man with the newspaper. Cecil never misses a chance to check what's happening in his hometown.

Why? Just last week he found a bird cage for his pet gerbil in the Charlevoix Courier Classified section. The reason Cecil is reading while standing up in a crowd (he usually has better manners but he doesn't know any of these fellows anyway) is because he's reading a story about his nephew's basketball team.

Cecil never misses one single issue of his hometown newspaper because he knows that it's crammed full of stuff that the city dailies never touch. Stuff like local bargains at his favorite stores, those juicy classified ads, and what's happening at city hall.

There was even a story about Cecil the time he grew the largest squash he's ever seen. Or anyone else had ever seen for that matter. Cecil cut that picture out and put it in his scrapbook. He ate the squash.

Oh yes, why are those other fellows smiling?

Well, first they're on their way home and second they know their hometown newspaper will be waiting for them when they get there.

Don't miss an issue -

Ellsworth Lake is OK:

State wants cleanup at Morweld Steel

by SARA GAY DAMMANN

ELLSWORTH – The news that the Department of Natural Resources goofed when they reported in early fall that Ellsworth Lake was highly contaminated with arsenic, heavy metals and other toxic chemicals, was greeted with relief in Ellsworth.

But DNR, Health Department and the Attorney General have become involved in the problem because of dangerous conditions and toxic chemical pollution which does exist at the lakeshore site of the former Morweld Steel.

Orders were served, Jan. 3, by the Public Health Department, acting with the DNR and the Attorney General's Office, to the owners of the former Morweld Steel property, requiring that they post fence and clean up the property, according to Lawrence Chadzynski, chief of the Center for Environmental Health.

The semi-abandoned factory site on the shore of Ellsworth Lake is a public health hazard, according to the Health Department.

The papers were served to Joseph Tanebaum, President of "4991 Ontario Limited," a Canadian Corporation, which has been identified as the most recent owners of the property. Also served were Maurice Taylor, founder of Morweld Steel and resident agent for the Canadian Corporation, and his son Brent Taylor, who operates a small steel business in the building on the site.

Thus, while Ellsworth Lake was given a clean bill of health, DNR and Public Health Department officials say that a potential for pollution of the lake exists at the lakeside factory site. Chadzynski pointed out that there are hundreds of barrels of chemicals improperly stored on the site. The plan for clean up must be accomplished before the snow melts in the spring.

The property owners were given 96 hours to reply and permit Health Department officials on the property for posting. They have until January 31 to entirely secure the property. It is speculated that the ordering will require the closure of the DNR public boat launch site near the factory and the closing of a public road which runs between sections of the property.

Chadzynski explained that public health problems exist because of numerous pits full of water, the dilapidated conditions of the buildings, and potentially dangerous storage of chemicals.

Acid in a powder form was found to be stored above ground in one of the derelict buildings, according to District Health No. 2 Director of Environmental Health Dean Mikulski.

Had the acid and cyanide combined the chemical reaction would produce deadly cyanide gas, Mikulski reported that Brent Taylor assured

First Baby of 1986

Rev. William and Phyllis Blakeslee of Mancelona became the winners of the Charlevoix Courier New Year's Baby Contest after having the first baby born at Charlevoix Area Hospital in 1986. Mrs. Blakeslee gave birth to Christa Tyme Blakeslee, shown above, at 9:17 a.m., January 4, 1986. The new baby was six pounds, nine ounces. Rev. Blakeslee is minister at the Mancelona Free Methodist Church. The couple has one other child, Tina, 3.

North Point condos get zoning board OK

by BOB CLOCK

Rezoning of a 26-acre tract of sand dunes and hardwoods on the Lake Michigan shore at North Point for multiple-family housing was recommended by the Charlevoix Township zoning board on a 3-1 vote recently.

The property presently is zoned for single-family homes.

The only dissenting vote was cast by Jerry Puhl who said the 120-unit condominium development would double the population of North Point practically overnight.

Zoning Board Chairman Larry Campbell endorsed the change, as did the other two members of the panel, Hal Forbrig and Clarence Goldstick.

The question now goes before the Charlevoix County Planning Commission, which is scheduled to meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 9, at the county building annex. However, assistant planning director Barbara Fels says the question has not been placed on the agenda.

The Charlevoix Township Board, which has the final world on the issue, could take up the matter as early as Monday, Jan. 13, pending action by the county planners.

About 75 township residents and other interersted Charlevoix residents, including Mayor Hal Hil and members of the Charlevoix council, attended a public hearing on the zoning change in Stroud Hall.

Scope of the project – to be called North Poiont Club – was explained by developer Jeff DeGayner of Petoskey, who was accompanied by architect Jack Begrow and engineer Alvin Ranger.

DeGayner said the project would have a density of only four units per acre, one of the lowest in Northern Michigan. He said the one-, two-, and three-bedroom units would range in size from 1,400 to 2,200 square feet and in price from $150,000 to $250,000.

He said the units would be built in clusters of six and eight and that the project should generate less traffic in the area than single-family residences.

From a financial standpoint, DeGayner said the North Point Club property owners would pay about $500,000 a year in taxes, $300,000 of which would go to the Charlevoix School District. Because of the seasonal nature of the expected occupancy, it should have "a negligible demand on schools," he said.

Begrow described the property as a "gorgeous" piece of real estate. He said the dwelling units would be constricted well back from the Lake Michigan dunes and would occupy only 6 percent of the land, "leaving 94 percent untouched."

He anticipates building the units immediately behind the dunes on what he calls "Nantucket pilings," leaving an open area under the buildings for the sand to shift at will.

Amenities on the ground would include tennis courts, a gazebo near the point and a clnbbouse with indoor pool, sauna and meeting room.

Entry to the property would be via a circular drive with two entryways onto Mount McSauba Road.

Ranger said that occupancy of the point, with an in-place caretaker, should prevent further damage to the dunes by dune buggies and four wheel drive vehicles. He said the development also would discourage all-night parties, which have been common in the area in the past.

Dale Boss, who characterized himself as the "oldest permanent year-round resident at North Point," said he has fought condominiums in the past, but believes the North Point Club is "the greatest thing ever to hit this area."

Another resident asked if the project would increase property taxes, adding that she is afraid persons on fixed incomes will be "run out."

She was told by DeGayner that the project should have the opposite effect. However, he doted that property values should increase once the project is in place, in the event anyone wants to sell.

Louis Orlowski wondered where the marina would be, noting that marinas are the focal point of most oew developments.

Council moves snowmobile route for sledders

by DOUG TRUAX

The official snowmobile route was changed by City Council Monday night to accomodate concerns over the safety of children sledding on the May Street hill between Hurlbut Street and Belvedere Avenue.

The new route will now go from Belvedere to Alice Street and then to Garfield Avenue.

Council also agreed to add snow to the mound at the bottom of the hill to prevent children sliding into Belvedere.

Bob and Jeanne Gorkiewicz were almost residents of the neighborhood who brought the issue to Council. They told Council that children often waited at the base of the hill, next to the snow mound, and snowmobiles coming over the mound were unable to see them.

Bruce Livingston and Jeffrey Hochmiller, also residents of the area, expressed similar worries over having the children and sledders on the hill at the same time. "Our concern is not to prohibit snowmobiles, but to separate them."

Council took action to change the route after Councilman Shirley Roloff objected to delaying the matter because of the safety risk to the children. "Something should be done now. We shouldn't have to wait a week," she said.

Council opened its first session of 1986 by swearing in Councilmen Robert Timms and Norm Probert. Timms, an incumbent, was re-elected to his Second Ward seat in November. Probert was elected for the first time to a seat in the First Ward.

F. Earl Muma, re-elected in the Third Ward, was absent.

Council re-elected Ray Wood as Deputy Mayor for 1986. It also made appointments to several committees. Richard Hodgson and John Dixon, currently alternates to the Board of Appeals, were named as members of the Board. They replace Susan Erber and Don Seelye who wished not to be reappointed. City Council will seek two new alternates for the Board.

Vince Olach, Timms and Roloff were reappointed to the Board of Review. Olach will serve a three-year term, the two councilmen will serve one-year terms.

James Willis was reappointed to the Recreation Commission.

Trout Tournament to raffle boat

The Lake Charlevoix Area Trout Tournament has announced that it will raffle a 19-foot Wellcraft powerboat and trailer prior to this year's tournament. The boat, with 140 h.p. inboard/outboard motor is valued at over $12,000. An additional $2,500 in cash will also be given away during the raffle.

Only 200 tickets will be sold for the boat raffle. They are available for $100 each from any tournament director and from Irish Boatshop, which supplies the boat to the tournament. Irish Boatshop of Charlevoix and Yamaha will be sponsoring the 1986 tournament.

This year's tournament will be held May 16, 17 and 18.

R.J. Flowers dies

Funeral services for Raymond James (R.J.) Flowers, Jr., three-year-old son of Raymond and Vickie Flowers of Charlevoix, were held Tuesday, jan. 7, at Immaculate Conception Church in Traverse City. The Rev. Casimir J. Zawacki, pastor of St. Mary's Church here, was the celebrant of the mass. Interment will be in Rose Hill Cemetery in Leelanau County.

R.J. died Saturday, Jan 4, at the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

R.J. was born in Charlevoix Feb. 27, 1982.

Besides his parents, he is survived by two sisters, Shawna M. and Danielle R.; paternal grandparents, Frank and Delphine Flowers of Cedar; maternal grandparents, Robert and Nancy Haywood of Empire; paternal great-grandmother, Mrs. Gladys Flowers of Cedar; maternal great-grandmother, Mrs. Mary Haywood of Empire and several uncles, aunts and cousins.

The Rosary was recited at the Reynolds Jonkhoff Funeral Home in Traverse City Monday evening.

The family suggests memorial contributions to the Raymond J. Flowers, Jr. Memorial Fund. Envelopes for this purpose are available at the funeral home.

Strong growth expected in state's northwest

by PEG OHLE

The 10-county northwest Michigan area (including Charlevoix County), for which Traverse City is the hub, receives considerable attention in the recently released Hudson Institute study on Michigan's future over the next 20 years.

The study indicates that the area will have more impact on the future of Michigan than just in employment and population. Not only will it grow rapidly over the next 20 decades, increasing its economic and political influence, it will symbolize the lifestyle and economy toward which Michigan is heading.

With an employment base built less on manufacturing than on services and tourism, and public priorities strongly influenced by "post industrial values," the area offers a glimpse of how Michigan's population and economy are likely to change between 1985 and 2005.

It is predicted that these trends will play a major role in growth: The development of large new resorts and convention centers, the growth in the number of individuals reaching retirement age, and the expansion of jobs in service industries, particularly those in research, development, and engineering. Of these trends, the growth of the retiree population is the most certain and the most beneficial to the area.

Between 1960 and 2000, the number of Michigan residents over the age of 65 will increase by 23 percent, the report says. Many of these older residents will pick Michigan's lakefront areas as the place for their retirement.

The area may also benefit from the development of new high technology research and development facilities. Although there is currently little such employment in the area, the potential for establishing new facilities of this type is significant.

Increasingly, improvements in communications and transportation are making it possible to locate corporate facilities such as headquarters buildings, education or training centers, or research and development laboratories wherever attractive living and working conditions are found. With some of the most pleasant and scenic sites in the state, northwest Michigan could potentially attract corporate facilities of this type much more easily than it could win traditional manufacturing facilities plants. This could be especially true if the community decided to make attracting such facilities a top priority.

By 2005, growth could boost the population of the 10-county area from 213,000 to approximately 328,000, almost doubling its share of the state's population to more than four percent.

Because of enrollment restrictions placed on all community colleges by the State Legislature it will be necessary to make the decision concerning whether a class has sufficient enrollment to be taught at the time of registration. Therefore, it is extremely important that students register on the scheduled registration dates.

TUITION AND FEES

Tuition: Emmet County Residents – $25.25 per credit hour
Residents of counties other than Emmet – $31.25 per credit hour

Registration Fee: Two Dollars ($2.00) is charged per credit hour or partial credit hour. Laboratory or Materials Fees: Certain courses have additional fees to cover the cost of materials, supplies, or to compensate for breakage or consumables. A list of these fees is posted in the Student Service Office at the Main Campus and will be available at each Off-Campus Center at the time of registration. An activity fee of $8.00 is charged each student who enrolls for eight (8) credit hours or more on campus.

FINANCIAL AID

There are several kinds of Financial Aid for which a college student may apply. Pell Grants and Michigan Guaranteed Student Loans provide a majority of the financial aid funds for our students at the present time. More information and applications for these programs are available from the Office of Financial Aid at North Central Michigan College. Application materials for Veteran's benefits are available from the Dean of Students Office on campus. Students must enroll for at least six credit hours in order to be eligible for consideration for Financial Aid.

NCMC reserves the right to change tuition, fees, course schedules and instructors, without notice.

Opinion

Editorial

North Point should be saved

Charlevoix has developed its well-deserved reputation as "Charlevoix the Beautiful" based on an unusual abundance of natural beauty. It stretches in every direction and has for over a century proven a powerful magnet attracting visitors and new residents alike.

Charlevoix has filled its very lifeblood by using and exploiting that beauty as it has built a strong tourist trade and a sturdy year-round band of residents.

Like many tourist areas, Charlevoix has had to make hard choices between preservation of its natural resources and the exploitation of them for financial gain.

In the last two decades, the face of Charlevoix has been significantly altered as economic interests prevailed. Several of the most prominent and appealing natural features of the town have been forever altered to make way for economic development.

The beautiful Lake Michigan overlook at the top of Michigan Avenue gave way to high rise condominiums.

South Point was given over to the Medusa Cement Co. And much of Round Lake itself was altered by high density development.

Now one of Charlevoix's last fine natural areas – North Point – is on the development block.

We think it is time the city and township slowed the process down and took a careful look at preserving this key landmark. North Point, situated as it is next to the Mt. McSauba nature area, is too pristine and beautiful, too ideally situated next to other public land, to lose forever.

It is, of course, a ripe plumb for any developer as it may be the most significant piece of undeveloped Lake Michigan property in many, many miles of shoreline.

But is development of this parcel really in the best interests of the community and its future? Will we ever have another area as remarkably untouched as this to offer future generations of Charlevoix residents and visitors?

We doubt it. North Point is a unique opportunity to put aside for all future generations a piece of the essence of northern Michigan.

Luckily for the state and the city, there are programs available – like the Michigan Heritage Trust Fund – capable of purchasing property such as this for the benefit of all.

We have no quarrel with the specific development plans. Jeff DeGayner, the proposed developer of this property, has been a careful and sensitive student of local zoning.

He has proposed a plan that has much merit and avoids some of the excess of other developments proposed elsewhere in the watershed.

We are particularly impressed that DeGayner has forthright in putting his site plan and the number of units he expects to build up front.

But the issue is much broader than whether the development is a good one or a bad one. The people of Charlevoix must decide whether or not they wish to preserve this piece of untouched shoreland.

We think North Point can and should be preserved as living testament to Charlevoix the Beautiful.

THE NEW YEAR HAS BROUGHT A WEALTH OF CATALOGS OF EVERY DESCRIPTION. AMONG THEM HAVE BEEN SEVERAL SEED CATALOGS TODAY MY GARDEN IS FILLED WITH THE LONG SHADOWS OF WINTER AND I CAN ONLY DREAM OF THE FLOWERING PLANTS THAT WILL EMERGE COME SPRING IN NOVEMBER A WALK THRU THE DUNES YIELDED AN ARMLOAD OF SEED PODS FOR WINTER BOUQUETS PLUS SEEDS FOR MY WILD FLOWER GARDEN. ONE PLANT THAT I WANT TO INTRODUCE IS THE SOAPWORT OR BOUNCING BET THIS LOVELY PLANT IS NOT ONLY PRETTY BUT HAS THE ADDED QUALITY OF BEING VERY USEFUL. ITS LEAVES MAKE A DETERGENT THAT IS EXCELLENT FOR SHINING GLASSWARE. IT WAS FOR THIS REASON THAT THE ENGLISH LADIES BROUGHT THE SEEDS WITH THEM WHEN THEIR FAMILIES EMIGRATED TO THIS COUNTRY

Clockwise

Anti-litter brigade

By Bob Clock

I know what the neighbors think when they see me struggling through the snow on Dixon Avenue with an open beer can in my hand:

"There goes old Clock again, drunk as a bartender's uncle."

Of course, there's not a dram of truth to the contention; but I don't have an ounce of defense, particularly when I'm caught dead-to-rights with a frosty Budweiser can clutched in my gloved fist. ...

The fact is I don't like to see empties strewn along the roadway. They not only offend my delicate aesthetic sensibilities but they might shred tires on the Ford if I should run over them. Bottles are particularly worrisome.

So I pick them up and tote them home to add to my own personal collection of empties on the back porch.

Don't ask me why anyone would toss an empty beer can or bottle out of a moving automobile, unless the gendarmes were in hot pursuit. After all, Michigan does have a returnable bottle law and every container is worth at least one thin dime at your local beverage dispensary.

But I suppose when you're tooling around town – half tanked – you don't care what you do with your empties, since they do tend to get underfoot in a crowded car. So out the window they go.

To be perfectly honest, I do not pick up empties for the deposit. But you will notice that I don't throw them away, either. Children of the Depression still have a great deal of respect for small change.

Perhaps it is time the Legislature upped the deposit on cans and bottles to 15 cents. That extra nickel might make our beer can tossers think twice.

If not, I'll be better paid for my trouble.

Of course, I'm not entirely alone in my anti-litter campaign. I know some early morning joggers who can hardly make it home they have so many empty beer cans stuffed in their sweatpants.

THE NEXT TIME you see a Coastie, say thank you.

The fellows and gals aboard the Cutter Mesquite have really had a rough fall and winter. With just about every other buoy tender on the Great Lakes laid up for one reason or another, the Mesquite crew has done double, triple, quadruple duty trying to get all of the aids to navigation stashed away for the winter.

The Mesquite has ranged from the Keweenaw Peninsula in Lake Superior, to Escanaba, Green Bay, Chicago, Port Huron and the suburbs of Detroit.

I don't think it would be much fun wrestling ice-slicked buoys on an ice-slicked deck, with the temperature nudging zero.

Maybe Coast Guard headquarters in Cleveland is making up for the winter of 1984-85 when Mesquitians patrolled the tepid waters of the sunny Caribbean.

Letters to the Editor:

Blood donors needed

Dear Editor:

The last few blood drives in our area have been poorly attended. Consequently, the push is on for Charlevoix to do all it can to have a successful drive on Thursday, January 9.

The importance of having blood available for transfusions is sometimes overlooked by the general public. To help us remember, the Red Cross presents the following facts:

Every few minutes, an American receives a blood transfusion. Blood is needed for open heart surgery, organ transplants, accident victims, and persons with debilitating illnesses such as cancer. More than 30,000 units of blood are transfused daily across the United States. To keep up with the amount of blood used, healthy volunteer blood donors are needed every day to keep the lifeline flowing so that blood is available for any patient needing it.

Despite the tremendous [illegible] fewer than five percent of those eligible to be blood donors give each year. The process is quick, easy, and safe.

Disposable needles are used and all equipment is sterilized. Volunteer donors undergo a rigorous examination, including medical history, blood pressure, hemtocrit, and other procedures. There is no possibility that a blood donor will contract an infectious disease from donating blood.

Tests are performed on the donated blood for antibodies to hepatitis B and HTLV-III, the virus thought to cause AIDS. All these measures and many others are taken to provide the safest possible unit of blood for patients.

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will be in Charlevoix Thursday from 1 p.m. to 7 p.m. at the American Legion Hall on Garfield Street.

Beacons of Blessing

A devotional column prepared by the Charlevoix Ministerial Association

by Rev. Bruce E. Hamilton
Community Church of God

What did you do over the holidays? Our family did something that a lot of families do. We spent those days visiting our parents. It was the first time since we had moved here that we had left our newly adopted home town.

I don't think I had realized quite how much it had become home for us until a little episode in our car. It is a long drive to grandma's and we were playing an alphabet game with my daughter to pass the time. Do you know this one? A my name is Allen. I come from Alabama and I grow apples."

We had played a couple of rounds of it when my three year old son wanted in. He said, "My name is David and I come from Shar-la-boy (spelled the way he pronounced it) Michigan." We tried to explain to him that in the game, everything should start with "D", like Delaware and doughnuts. But he got very insistant, "not Delaware Daddy, Sharlaboy, Michigan!"

It is great to be home. But would that more of us would realize that the Charlevoix-the-Beautiful that we know and love is only our earthly home. The real home we should be attached to, the one we should be excited about is not here. It is with our Father who is in heaven.

In the first three verses of John 14, Jesus reminds us that heaven is a planned place. It is no accident that we have such feelings about home. Even before we were born, God placed a love within us that could only be known and experienced by seeking out his plan for our lives. Jesus goes on telling us that heaven is a prepared place. Everything is made ready for us to reassure us that any struggles we may face in this life will be more than made up for by what lays ahead. Then never forget that heaven is a promised place. Jesus said, "I will come again and receive you unto myself that where I am, there ye may be also." Resonous blessings, celebrations unlike any we can imagine here await the faithful in heaven.

I am glad that my home is in Charlevoix. But I would be happier still if more people would come to realize through Jesus Christ that our real home is in heaven.

"I think the units will sell on the merits of what is there," DeGayner said, noting that turbulent Lake Michigan would not lend itself to marina development.

Dean Mikulski claimed the density would be higher than claimed, citing a county survey by Johnson, Johnson and Roy several years ago which characterized 10 acres of shoreline in the tract as a high-risk soil erosion area. He also objected that the developer had offered no environmental impact statement.

Dick Aull supported Mikulski, suggesting the township hold a referendum election on the question of rezoning.

Dr. Bob Davis of Grand Blanc, who owns a home across the road from the proposed development, said he was sorry to see increased "urbanization" of the area and what he called a "Disneyland approach to living."

"There must be better things to do with that property," he added.

Thomas Ramsey, another seasonal resident, said DeGayner's plans were "very handsome and well thought-out; certainly better than a refinery."

But he said the project has no place at North Point, which should be designated a scenic reserve.

"If (the North Point Club) is being done because people want to make money; and there is nothing wrong with making money. But I don't want to see North Point crucified on a cross of gold," he said.

"Nothing they (the developers) can do will be as environmentally beautiful as what is there tonight.

He suggested residents contact Rep. Jerry E. Bartnik in Lansing on how to secure state funds to purchase the property. Bartnik is a member of the House committee on conservation and the environment.

Marcia Trimper urged the board to move carefully. "Once the zoning is changed, it stays that way," she said.

The property is owned by Richard H. Turner of Birmingham and Walloon Lake.

Turner also owns the 200 Center in Petoskey which DeGayner has helped develop. The Petoskey project has been stalled for several years due to bankruptcy proceedings, but DeGayner expects increased activity in the near future.

the Health Department that the cyanide had been removed.

Initial concern about Ellsworth Lake began in early summer when fishermen reported the lake had a peculiar odor and was ringed with a strange off-white foam.

Reacting to complaints, the DNR took samples of the lake in midsummer. It was the report that those samples revealed high concentrations of arsenic and other heavy metals that spurred further investigation, under a search warrant, in early fall. The fall investigation focused on the factory site, because DNR officers had reported evidence of barrels of toxic waste on the lakeshore.

The DNR took samples of the lake water, sediments and fish for laboratory testing. It was these tests that did not confirm the earlier reports of high levels of waste in the lake.

A mistaken switch of laboratory samples in the DNR Lansing labs is being blamed for the early erroneous reports.

A sample from a barrel of toxic waste found along a roadside in Livingston Conty was taken out of sequence and mixed with the Ellsworth Lake sample, according to Paul Blakesley, chief of compliance in the Surface Water Quality Division of the DNR.

State-wide attention was focused on the reported problems of Ellsworth Lake because it is at the top of the Chain of Lakes, including Intermediate Lake, Lake Bellaire and the Grass River Nature Conservancy. The lakes are a major attraction for the resort industry, a vital part of the local economy.

The reports of high levels of toxic wastes in the lake worried local officials and everyone connected to the local tourist economy.

The concern for the lake was focused on the former Morweld Steel site; because they were said to use toxic chemicals in the steel plating process.

For several years the factory site has become increasingly dilapidated, with barrels of waste and piles of steel shavings lining the lake front.

Ron Hext, Ellsworth Village Council president, reacted to the DNR's report that the lake itself was not contaminated with relief.

"Tourism is very important to Ellsworth. We just completed new showers at our campground and we have been remodeling many sites.

"Ellsworth is definitely a resort community." Using his general store as an example, he reported, "In the five months from April through September, my receipts double."

Thinking ahead to the coming spring's bass season, Hext remarked, "The lake is full of bass and bluegills and we are full of bass fishermen. They are definitely a shot in the arm for the community.

"I just hope the people who read the articles about our pollution read the one that clears it all up," Hext concluded.

City Council

In other action, Council approved a resolution recognizing the Lake-Charlevoix Area Trout Tournament Committee as a nonprofit organization. The resolution was necessary, Jim Withers, director of the tournament said, so that the tournament committee could sell raffle tickets under a permit from the Bureau of State Lottery.

Council also approved an easement for Michigan Bell to use eight feet of Veteran's Park for a pedestal and underground cable installed last summer.

City Attorney Jeffrey VanTreese told Council that the case of Pat and Nora Martin versus the City of Charlevoix is progressing in the 6th Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati and oral arguments will be presented on Feb. 4.

The Hastings Funeal Home was in charge of arrangements.

Obituaries

Fay A. Bradley

Fay A. Brodley, 80, a former Charlevoix resident, died Tuesday, Dec. 31, at Gaylord where he had been living in recent months.

Born in Millbrook, Mi., the son of Alfred D. and Mary Ellen (Cameron) Bradley, on April 20, 1905, Mr. Bradley was gradnated from a Lansing high school and attended a business school in Juliet, Ill., and Ferris Institute (now Ferris State College) before coming to Charlevoix in 1923.

In 1925, he was named deputy county clerk, a position he held until early 1940 when he was employed briefly at the Chicago plant of the Douglas Aircraft Company. In March 1943, he was drafted into the U.S. Army where he joined the 106th Division of the First Army. On Dec. 21, 1944, he was taken as a prisoner of war by the Germans during the Battle of the Bulge and held until the end of Warld War II May 10, 1985.

Following his discharge from the service, he returned to Lansing where he joined his brother, Cecil, in the operation of Bradley Hall, a popular games hall, prior to joining the Howard Johnson operation. He was manager of the Howard Johnson restaurant on South Cedar in Lansing for many years and later operated restaurants for the company in Saginaw and Cookville, Tenn., until his retirement in 1980. At that time he returned to Lansing to live, and more recently, had resided in Gaylord.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Gerald (Barbara) Chambers of Havasu, Ariz. and Mrs. William (Shirley) Lusk of Charlevoix; seven grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

The family suggests memorials to the Community Church of God, 202 W. Hurlbut, Charlevoix.

A memorial service will be held at a later date.

Cecil H. Burpee

Private services for Cecil H. Burpee, 82, of Ellsworth were held at Rosedale Memorial Park in Grand Rapids on Thursday, Jan. 2.

Mr. Burpee died Tuesday, Dec. 31, at Munson Medical Center in Traverse City.

Mr. Burpee was born in Lewis, N.Y., Oct. 20, 1903. On Jan. 21, 1942, he was married to the former Laverna Bemis at South Bend, Ind. They made their home in Grand Rapids where Mr. Burpee founded the C.H. Burpee Co. which he operated until his retirement in 1968. At that time they moved to Banks Township. He was a veteran of World War II having served in the U.S. Army.

He is survived by his wife, Laverna; two sons, Thomas of Grand Rapids and Richard of Elizabethtown, N.J.; two daughters, Mrs. Thomas (Ruth Ann) Cooper of Ellsworth and Mrs. William (Lila) Anderson of Elizabethtown, N.J., and 13 grandchildren.

The family suggests memorials to the American Cancer Society. Envelopes are available at the Hastings Funeral Home which was in charge of local arrangements.

Anna K. Schroeder

Mrs. Anna K. Schroeder, 94, of Charlevoix, died Sunday, Dec. 29, at the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Funeral services will be held at Mancelona in the spring. Interment will be in Fairview Cemetery.

Born in Bauren, Germany, March 3, 1891, the former Anna K. Makel came to this country with her parents at the age of four. She was married to Will Schroeder at Mancelona on Nov. 14, 1909. For many years they operated the Schroeder Furniture Store and Funeral Home in Mancelona. They came to Charlevoix to make their home in 1956. Mr. Schroeder preceded her in death in 1976. She was a member of Bethany Lutheran Church and was active in the guild.

Surviving are a son, John of Petoskey and Sun City, Fla.; two grand-daughters and two great-grandchildren.

The family suggests memorials to Bethany Lutheran Church.

The Paullin Funeral Home in Mancelona was in charge of arrangements.

Majestics bring Southern gospel sound to town

The Charlevoix Assembly of God Church will host the Majestics on Saturday, Jan. 11 at 7 p.m. and Sunday Jan. 12 at 11 a.m.

The Majestics, an energetic group with a smooth blend of harmony bring the salvation message with Southern Gospel Music.

Whether singing in concerts, special services in auditoriums, campgrounds or churches, they always have one goal, to encourage each Christian and to introduce Jesus Christ as Savior to every person they minister to.

The Majestics are:

Tom Udell, a singer and musician who plays bass guitar and piano.

Barb Udell, Tom's wife, has been singing gospel music since childhood.

Howard Straub brings the country flavor to The Majestics with his steel guitar.

Dave Thurston, Jr., founder and manager, has been involved in Gospel Music all of his life. He plays the bass guitar, lead guitar and has been honored with many awards.

Paul Loomis comes to The Majestics after traveling for eight years with the Loomis Brothers Quartet. He sings tenor and is a song writer.

Rev. Lowell Anderson invites everyone to come and enjoy the message of The Majestics as they sing. A free will offering will be taken.

County accepts ban on oil well brine

by PEG OEHLE

While some county road commissions in northern Michigan have vowed to fight the Department of Natural Resources' ban on use of oil well brine on their roads, Charlevoix County has accepted the decision.

Fred Welch, engineer-manager of the Charlevoix County Road Commission, says his crews use plain rock salt mixed with sand to spread on snow and ice. Some other counties, including Antrim, Benzie and Grand Traverse, have mixed salt with commercially produced mineral well brine, which costs five cents a gallon compared with one cent a gallon for oil well brine.

Jim Thompson, engineer-manager of the Benzie County Road Commission, is feeling the fight between the DNR, oil well brine, against "We want to continue to use it until further testing is done to show the effects on groundwater." He added the tests made by the DNR did not determine that benzene in oil well brine presents a hazard by gaining entry to groundwater.

The DNR banned the use of oil well brine after determining that it could contaminate groundwater. Thompson said the DNR denied only one site in the state and then banned oil well brine because there was a "potential for contamination." He called the ban the result of a push by a group of environmentalists who want to ban the use of salts altogether. "We use only one ounce of brine spread over a mile of roadway," he added.

About 46 of the state's 83 counties used oil well brines to keep roads free of dust and ice before last year's ban. While Charlevoix County is getting along with rock salt for winter use, Welch did say that dust control in the summer is a big job and finding the right kind of brine may be a problem.

According to Thompson, 18 counties have joined a coalition to fight the DNR and have agreed to spend money to seek an injunction to lift the ban "until we get an element of goodness bearing in court to argue our case."

County lands enrolled in state forest program

The Department of Natural Resources (DNR) reports that 64 counties recently received $1.5 million in payments as a result of participation in the Commercial Forest Act program. The payments represent the State's portion of taxes paid to local governments.

In Charlevoix County 9,587 acres were enrolled in the program with $3,369 paid by the state.

Under Michigan law, private land enrolled under the Commercial Forest Act is not subject to general property taxes. Instead, commercial forest landowners pay 10 cents per acre to the local governmental unit, and the State pays the local government an additional 10 cents for each acre enrolled.

Payments must first be received from the DNR in order to harvest timber on enrolled lands. Following harvest of timber products from the land, the owner pays a "yield tax" equal to 10 percent of the stumpage value, which the State then turns over to the township.

Staff of both DNR Forest Management and Lands Division administer portions of the program, explains Jay Schaefer of Lands Division, who prepares the tax information each year.

DNR's Forest Management Division provides advice and technical assistance to the landowners. The law requires that all commercial forest lands controlled by the DNR, totaling 3,320,246 acres this year – be open to public hunting and fishing and managed solely for timber production.

If the land is taken out of the program, Schaefer says, the owner pays a withdrawal fee of 10 percent of the value of the standing marketable forest products, plus a tax penalty if the land has not been enrolled under the act for at least 30 years.

Safe use of medications discussed at hospital

As the family medicine cabinet accumulates more and more medications, both prescription and over-the-counter, the danger of misuse grows. There is a wider array of medicinal drugs available to Americans today than ever before – but they can only be helpful when taken correctly.

People wishing to know more about the medications they are currently taking or may still have on hand from past use are invited to attend Charlevoix Area Hospital's Third Thursday Health Talk next week, entitled "Done Busters: A Discussion on Wise Use of Medications."

The session is free and will be held Thursday, January 16, at 7:30 p.m. in the Community Room of the Pine River Place housing complex, 210 West Garfield Street.

Reed Freidinger, M. D. of the hospital's medical staff will join pharmacist Thomas Butcher from Dockside Pharmacy in Charlevoix in explaining common misuses of prescription and over-the-counter drugs.

Often medications taken in combination with other substances, including other medications, can be harmful. There is also potential danger in using medications left over from a past prescription for a new illness without checking with a doctor.

These are some of the issues to be discussed at the Health Talks. People are encouraged to bring with them the medications they have questions about as well as medications they may have kept in unlabeled containers that they wish to have identified. Parents of small children who wish to know more about the safety of giving certain over-the-counter drugs to youngsters are also invited.

Dr. Freidinger specializes in internal medicine and received his medical degree from Wake Forest University in Winston-Salem, North Carolina. He served as an intern at Swedish Hospital in Seattle and completed his residency in internal medicine at William Beaumont Hospital in Detroit.

Butcher received his degree in pharmacy from the University of Utah and has been on the staff of Dockside Pharmacy for two years.

School Board hears report on gifted program

by FRAN MARTIN

The Charlevoix Board of Education heard reports on the gifted and talented program and an evaluation of the inservice program held earlier in the school year at its regular meeting Monday night.

Carol Elliott and Tom Sothard who teach the programs for the talented and gifted in the elementary and middle schools, respectively, related how the students are selected for the program, outlined the program being offered and the length of stay of students in the program. Elliott said the students in the K-8 were studying world hunger. Middle School students are preparing for the Future Problem Solving competition, Sothard said.

Mary Ann Chew, who chaired the inservice program in November, presented an evaluation of Nancy Johnson of Apple, Inc., stating that the entire staff had given her program an excellent mark. A second inservice program is scheduled for February.

In the only other action, several line items in the budget were transferred from one account to another to balance the budget.

Chamber announces calander of events

A busy 1986 year looms ahead according to the calendar released recently by the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce. The majority of events are sponsored by the Chamber though others of public interest have been included Claudia Kenfield, executive director of the chamber said.

The 1986 events will include the Winter Sports Carnival at Mt. McSauba recreational area, Feb. 8 and 9; Second Annual Lake Charlevoix Area Trout Tournament, May 17 and 18; Operation: Petunia, May 22; 75th Annual Michigan Amateur Championship Golf Tournament at the Belvedere Golf Club (26th consecutive year at this site) June 15-21.

During the month of July there will be St. Mary's Parish Festival, July 4 and 5; 10th Annual Lakeside Craft Fair in East Park, July 12; Charlevoix Area Home Tour, July 17; 56th Annual Venetian Festival, July 24-27; Kentucky Polo Association matches at Windmill Farms.

August will find a new list of events including the Captain's Corner Shopping Center Sidewalk Sales, Aug. 1 and 2; 5th Annual Petunia Auction in East Park, Aug. 2; Waylier Sailboard Nationals on Lake Charlevoix with headquarters at Ferry Ave. Beach, Aug 2-4; 28th Annual Waterfront Art Fair in East Park, Aug. 9; How Big is Your Heart Muscular Dystrophy Teen Dance (aboard the Star of Charlevoix) Aug. 13; Downtown Charlevoix Sidewalk Sale Days, Aug. 14-16; Budweiser Olympic Triangle Sail Races on Lake Charlevoix (headquarters Charlevoix Yacht Club) Aug. 29; Red Fox Regatta (headquarters Charlevoix Yacht Club) Aug. 30-31.

The fall will bring the 7th Annual Apple Festival to East Park Oct. 11-12 and the 3rd Annual Industrial Fair to the Charlevoix High School, Oct 11.

Other events including the annual Chamber of Commerce Dance will be added to the calendar Mrs. Kenfield said.

Jennie Haughn

New aerobics classes offered at gym center

by ANNE KELLY

A new face at the Charlevoix Physical Education Center, formerly the Charlevoix Gym Club, will be aerobics instructor Jennie Haughn of Elk Rapids.

Haughn received her training at the University of Michigan, where she received a B.S. in Physical Education. Her experience includes setting up exercise programs for senior citizens, implementing programs in almost every nursing home in the Traverse City area, teaching aerobics at the Health Beat, Elk Rapids; Christian Aerobics at Campus Life, Traverse City; and at Elaine Powers, while still in Ann Arbor.

The Charlevoix Physical Education Center, under the direction of Jim Mitchell, continues to offer a complete program for family physical fitness. Mitchell believes that Haughn's expertise in the department of aerobic fitness, will round out his program.

"A variety of classes are to be offered for men and women under Haughn's instruction: Youth Fitness – fun, not necessarily aerobics; Rock Aerobics – exercise to upbeat music; Seniorsize – exercise for senior citizens; Corporate Fitness; Cross Country Skiing – beginning through advanced; and Body Toning – through the use of weights.

The rate of $22.50 per month includes an appropriate level of aerobic training, a more personalized approach to individual fitness, body toning and nutritional counseling. Child care will be provided for participants. Registrations will be held the week of Jan. 13 at the Physical Education Center, Taylor Rd. Information regarding these or other gymnastics or dance classes may be obtained by calling 547-5405.

Haughn hopes to begin classes on Jan. 26. "I'm really anxious to offer people what they want and need in an aerobics program," she explained.

Program helps poor to pay winter fuel bills

Poor people in northern Michigan need not be cold this winter because they cannot pay for fuel.

The Northwest Michigan Human Services Agency has been allotted $105,000 to help persons on the 10-county area keep warm. The Agency, under its Targeted Fuel Assistance Program, will provide a one-time fuel assistance benefit up to $200 per eligible household.

Eligibility for the program is determined in two ways: (1) A household of one must have a total annual gross income of less than $6,963, with each additional household member adding $2,250 to the gross total income allowed. (2) The annual cost of all fuels used for heating the home minus the Department of Treasury's Home Heating Credit or Department of Social Services Special Heating Allowance must exceed 12 percent of the total gross annual income. Electric costs can be included only if electric heat is used.

Because the eligibility formula is somewhat complicated, Human Services suggests that those who want to apply for the program contact the Agency by phone to help determine whether or not they qualify. They should be able to furnish proof of income and documentation of fuel costs.

The Petoskey phone number of the Northwest Michigan Human Services Agency is 347-3070.

Course offered for parents of young children

Parent Education in Prevention, a course directed toward parents of young children, will be offered by Char Counseling Center as part of the Family Focus Series there in Community Reformed Church of Charlevoix. The course will meet for seven consecutive Wednesday nights from 7:30 p.m. beginning Jan. 15. The aim of the course is to educate parents in basic strategies early so that they can be aware of early warning signals that a child may be headed for problems later and to help parents of young children be aware of behaviors that will help prevent adolescent issues.

Parent Education in Prevention will give participants an opportunity to examine ways in which their behavior provides a model for children's personality and moral development. In addition, the participants will arrive at appropriate models for supporting youth through the challenge of adolescence.

Jeanne Lutz, prevention educator for Char Counseling Center, will lead the course. A graduate of the University of Michigan, Mrs. Lutz is a certified lecturer for the National Center for Health Promotion speaking on topics including substance abuse, family dynamics and stress management. In addition, she has had a wide range of experience in counseling youth and families and in crisis intervention.

Jan. Bliss, Christian Education Director at Community Reformed Church, says that the joint offering is an effort to offer to anyone in the community tools to help people live together as families more effectively.

Among the topics that will be examined in the seven week series are the following: how to recognize various parenting styles; how to show appreciation and validation of the child; how to manage and accept behavior; how to resolve conflict; how to facilitate the development of family traditions and rituals and pride in being a family member, and how to recognize substance abuse, warning signals and youth who are at high risk.

The course for which there is no cost, will be limited to 35 participants so early registration is recommended. For further information on the course and/or registration forms, contact Jan Bliss at 547-9488.

Developer gets delay on North Point vote

by DOUG TEUAX

The Charlevoix Township Board agreed Monday night to postpone action on the proposed rezoning of approximately 20 acres of land at North Point from R-1 residential to R-4 planned unit zone.

The action followed a letter sent to the Board Monday by Jeff DeGayner, proposed developer of the North Point Club, requesting a joint meeting of the Township Board and the Township Zoning Board.

Township Clerk Carol Martin produced a copy of the "Handbook of Michigan Zoning and Planning" by William McTaggart which she read to the meeting. The passage said: "If the township board has prior to the meeting at which it considers the proposed ordinance or amendment received a written request for a joint meeting for the township board and zoning board from any interested person in a particular case, then the township board cannot act on the ordinance until after the joint meeting is held."

The Board unanimously agreed to hold the joint meeting in April.

Critics of the North Point Club development charged DeGayner made the last minute move to delay a vote on the proposed rezoning because it appeared the rezoning would be defeated by the Charlevoix Township Board.

The Charlevoix County Planning Commission had earlier defeated the rezoning request by a 6-3 vote.

DeGayner denied the request for a joint meeting was an attempt to avoid a negative vote. He said the extra time would be used "to present information relevant to the multi-family project." DeGayner said he would be available to meet with any members of the community to discuss the project or alternatives to it.

In his letter to the Board, DeGayner said the request was due to some of the concerns expressed recently by interested parties which should be addressed so that the Board can make a fully informed decision."

The letter also said the request was "due to the completely inadequate and inappropriate reviews of the rezoning request by the County Planning Commission."

The letter also said DeGayner would also use the additional time to "review a sale to the State" and to "explore other development opportunities and needs in the Township" including a mobile home park, low income housing, retirement housing, a resort-hotel conference center, a residential subdivision, and a private campground.

DeGayner showed the Board a plan with the North Point property subdivided into 42 residential home sites which he said would be considered if the multi-family zoning was defeated.

Gaylene Ramsey, a neighbor of the project and an opponent of the rezoning, said she was "very, very disappointed" by the postponement. "I believe that we had enough people concerned and stirred up that we could have gotten a no vote."

Ramsey and her husband Tom are among North Point residents who are seeking to get the area set aside as a scenic reserve. She said the group was exploring several approaches to preserving the land.

DeGayner said he was open to discussions with the State of Michigan a public reserve for the land, but he questioned the need for additional public land. The State of Michigan presently owns five miles of lake frontage south of Charlevoix," he said. "There is very little land available for development."

DeGayner did the initial development work for the Sunset Shores project on the Petoskey waterfront and then sold the property to Triad Development Co. He is involved with

COMMUNITY NEWS BRIEFS

March for life

Members of March for Life are organizing a silent march from East Park to St. Mary's School on Wednesday, Jan. 22 to commemorate the Supreme Court Decision of Roe vs. Wade - 1973 - allowing abortion.

The group will meet at 6 p.m. on East Park at Clinton and Bridge streets, and march to St. Mary's where there will be a brief prayer and refreshments. The march will then return to East Park. More information may be obtained from Margaret Martin at 547-9401.

Post office looks for site

The U.S. Postal Service has announced that it is seeking offers for a building to be built and leased for a new Charlevoix post office. The action follows a recent decision by the City Council to build the new Public Safety building on the downtown lots once considered for the new post office.

The Postal Service says it is seeking a site with 175 feet of frontage and some 250 feet deep, or approximately 39,375 square feet. "No progress can be made without a suitable site to locate the post office so your cooperation is requested," Robert T. Wiles, Jr., of the Southfield Real Estate Field Office wrote.

All offers must be submitted by February 14. Sample option letters are available at the Charlevoix post office.

Star of Charlevoix leaving?

The fate of the Star of Charlevoix cruise ship is being decided this week by officials of the Star Line Corp., according to Jim Wilmerding, director of marketing for the company.

Corporation officials and regional general managers met in Detroit on Tuesday, Jan. 14 to decide the fate of the dinner-cruise ship. There have been persistent rumors that the Star of Charlevoix will be moved to Milwaukee this summer.

The Ship Line currently operates boats in Charlevoix, Detroit, Chicago and Sanford, Fla.

The boat, originally known as the Edy Queen, has operated out of Charlevoix since 1984 and this past summer handled some 25,000 visitors.

Visitors bureau sought

The Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce applied last week to the state Department of Commerce to establish a Charlevoix Convention and Visitors Bureau.

If approved, the bureau would require innkeepers with 30 or more rooms to levy an additional 3 percent room tax. The money would be used to promote tourism in the area.

Claudia Kendrick, executive director of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, says the room tax could generate $25,000 to $30,000 annually for marketing of Charlevoix.

After the Department of Commerce reviews the application materials, Kendrick says, it will send out referendum ballots to each innkeeper with 30 or more rooms. They will then have 30 days to respond. The Convention and Visitors Bureau will be set up if a majority of the innkeepers favor it.

Kendrick notes that the bureau will be established as a division of the Chamber of Commerce and will be limited to the city boundaries.

Charter boat group forms

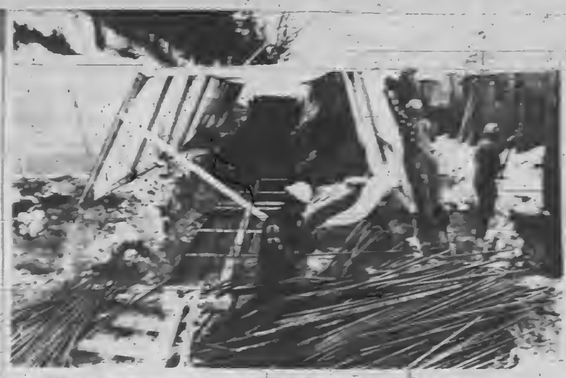
Twelve charter boat captains recently met in Charlevoix to form the Charlevoix Area Charter Boat Association. Jim Withers, one of the organizers of the group, said the association's purpose is "to preserve and promote the sport fishery that the DNR has worked so hard to establish."

The charter boat captains heard from Wyatt Kelley, head of the Great Lakes Fisheries Station, and Capt. H. Barton Hill, regional law supervisor for the northern Lower Peninsula.

They discussed tribal fishing negotiations and how the charter boat association could help in enforcement of the treaty provisions. Withers said,

"It is our desire to be the DNR's eyes and ears on the water," Withers noted. "We are going to be in direct contact with regional officers with whom we will be in contact with tribal officers. We want the Indian fishermen to fish where and when they are supposed to be. We don't want them out there when they are not supposed to be."

Withers said the association will also be working with the U.S. Coast Guard to insure safe waterways for the public.



Workers construct a water holding lagoon at the water treatment plant site.

Water plant work progresses

by DOUG TEUAX

Weather has been a problem in getting work done on the new Charlevoix water filtration and pumping plant, according to U.S. Army Corps of Engineers Supervisor Jim Semcal, but the plant is expected to be completed by mid-November 1986.

Semcal said the original completion date was Nov. 1, but Comstock Construction Company, the primary contractor on the job, had to wait a week for Hydra Marine Construction Co. to remove equipment after the water intake work was completed.

"The weather has been a bear," Semcal said, noting that there has been so much snow that construction crews have to spend a lot of time clearing snow from the equipment each Monday morning.

Semcal said some seven to 12 men are currently working on the project. Efforts are being made to de-water the wet well which will receive the incoming water from the Lake Michigan intake pipe. The de-watering is necessary in order to lay foundations for the structure. Semcal says they have to go about four feet deeper in the de-watering process.

The city has taken steps to obtain emergency water through the intake pipe, Semcal said, should the de-watering process dry up the city well.

The city has already run chlorine through the emergency system, Semcal explained, and has Department of Natural Resources approval should it need to call on the lake water system.

Semcal said the city well is not ready to be dried up if the water levels drops only four feet as planned.

In addition to the wet well, Comstock Construction has excavated an area for 500,000 gallon filtered water reservoir. The city will pay for construction of an additional 500,000 gallon reservoir.

Also on the works is a lagoon where wash water from the filter operation will be stored.

The filtration building itself will be approximately 122 by 70 feet with a brick exterior. It will include the water filters, the wet well, electrical vaults, and chemical storage areas.

A separate building will house the pumps necessary to move the filtered water into the city's water storage system.

Semcal says that close to the end of January, Comstock will be starting another crew on the project and begin work on the filter and flocculation area.

Masonry work on the filter plant should begin in mid-April, Semcal said.

Council approves reopening of Petoskey Avenue zoning issue

by DOUG TEUAX

City Council agreed Monday in a 4-1 straw vote to put the issue of a special use rezoning for a flower shop on Petoskey Avenue before the city Planning Commission and City Council again.

Roger Peacock, co-owner of the Expressions Unlimited floral shop, asked the city to reconsider a request for a special use amendment to the city code which would allow the flower shop to operate from a residence. Peacock spoke at the Petoskey Ave. lot in a letter to Council. Peacock drew attention to over 300 signatures on petitions in favor of the flower shop.

Voting to approve were Councilmen Ray Wood, Robert Tinkler, Norm Provost and Shirley Bishoff. William Sellers cast the lone dissenting vote.

The topic will presented to the Planning Commission on Wednesday, Jan. 29 and will come before City Council on February 3.

The special use amendment for Petoskey Avenue was defeated by Council in May 1985 on a 3-3 tie vote. Four affirmative votes are required to pass an amendment to the charter.

The amendment would have allowed three types of commercial businesses in the otherwise residential district - art and photographic studios, interior decorating stores, and florists shops - on Petoskey Avenue between Sheridan Street and Mercer Boulevard.

The Charlevoix Planning Commission had approved the amendment after removing three other proposed special uses including radio and television stations, adult foster care and nursing homes.

The Planning Commission took a three vote at its meeting Monday night preventing the Council from not again endorsed the special use change.

Dave Newberg, a member of the Planning Commission, said Council felt that the special use permit was the

Planners say no to condos

by DOUG TEUAX

The Charlevoix County Planning Commission voted 6-3 Thursday to oppose the rezoning of North Point for multi-family housing.

The vote, strictly advisory, was taken after developer Jeff DeGayner requested a hearing on his proposal to build 124 condominium units on some 20 acres of vacant land at North Point.

The rezoning issue was not on the regular planning commission agenda, but the commission agreed to hear the issue under the new business portion of Thursday's meeting. County Planner Larry Sullivan told the commission he had not had time to prepare a staff report on the issue.

The meeting was attended by some 25 citizens, many of them opposed to the development.

Voting against the motion to deny the rezoning from R-1 residential to R-4 planned unit were Dennis Jaquet, Kass Tolan and Chairman Fred Wieland. Jaquet indicated he thought the planning commission should wait for a staff report and more information before making a decision on the rezoning.

The Charlevoix Township Zoning Board voted 5-1 in favor of the rezoning on Dec. 30.

The original motion to deny the rezoning for the North Point development was made by Larry Levengood who said the rezoning would change the residential nature of the North Point area and damage a sensitive environmental area.

DeGayner appeared in Levengood making the motion since he lives at District Health Department No. 1 in Grand Rapids, a neighbor of the proposed development and an opponent of the rezoning.

Levengood withdrew the motion, and it was reintroduced by Arnold Hanson. It was supported by Norman Visscher.

Dr. Hanson outlined the pain for the development to the commissioners. He said the density would be four units per acre and he said gone to great lengths to meet the recommendations from the three areas concerning of multi-family condominium projects. Better utilization of the land, DeGayner said, than the construction of single family residences on the property.

DeGayner said it appeared this would be the only multi-family project undertaken in Charlevoix Township.

Visscher said that the density of projects like this and Water's Edge should be based on the "buildable land" available and not on the large acreage. She said such an approach, being considered in Bayview Island, would give better consideration to fragile lands.

Beaver Islanders want full-time law officer

by PEG OHLE

Residents of Beaver Island do not believe they should be living without the services of a Department of Natural Resources officer and only a half-time law enforcement officer.

Ever since DNR Officer Bill Wagner retired last year, Beaver Islanders have hoped that another one would be assigned to them, but Stahl headquarters has decreed that the job can be handled on a part-time basis by a person sent from the mainland. A half-time Deputy Sheriff has provided the Island with protection of the law for many years.

Now, the governing boards of both St. James and Peaine Townships have petitioned the Department of Natural Resources and the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department to join forces to provide Beaver Island with a competent full-time law enforcement officer who is capable of meeting the demands of both agencies and pay him a commuter salary that is compatible with the assigned responsibilities.

Kenneth Capitan is presently serving as Deputy Sheriff on Beaver Island and occasionally a DNR officer, from Gaylord goes over to check on the vast DNR properties there.

Vivien Visscher, St. James Township Clerk, told the Courier she is concerned about the DNR's lack of concern for the many thousands of acres of timber and other lands it owns on Beaver Island. The County Equalization Department's records indicate that the DNR owns 9,671 acres of land on which it is required to pay taxes. The number of acres it owns on which taxes are not paid is probably as large or larger.

The winter population of Beaver Island runs between 250 and 300, but in the summer it reaches about 2,000, according to Miss Visscher. About the proposal for one man to do both jobs on the Island, Miss Visscher said, "For one man to cover the Island doing DNR work as well as that of the Sheriff is really a lot."

Connie Ford's students hear the roar of greasepaint

by DOUG TRUAX

There was a time the high school dramatic instruction was limited to a speech class or two and the annual school play.

Anyone coming out of that type of curriculum would have a hard time recognizing the program at Charlevoix High School these days.

The range of options available to students in teacher Connie Ford's performing arts classes is staggering. You need a playbill just to understand the program.

Ford came to Charlevoix in 1968 and has quietly been expanding the program ever since. Quietly and a with a good deal of work, it should be added.

Ford's day begins at 7:30 a.m. and usually ends sometime after 9 or 9:30 p.m. On weekends she is on the road with the kids, attending one of the many performance competitions. Starting in January, I can only think of one weekend I will have free until spring break," she says when pressed on the subject.

Not that Connie Ford is complaining. She thrives on it. Why? "I just always get enjoyment in seeing a student all of a sudden find success. The light turns on and they say 'Gee, I did it right.'"

Charlevoix students are doing it right to such an extent, Ford believes, that they deserve varsity letters for participating, just like the band and varsity athletes do.

So far her efforts to get varsity letters for the speech team have failed, but she will apply again this year. "The hours spent practicing in debate are just as tiring as running up and down a basketball courts," she adds.

"We have a very viable program here compared to other programs in the state," Ford says pointing to the many trophies lining the walls of the performing arts class. If all the individual trophies were present (the kids take those trophies home), they would fill the room, she says.

Connie is especially proud that Charlevoix placed third in the state drama finals last year. Only two class A schools were better.

The growth of the performing arts program has been gradual, Ford says, although it took some coaxing to get the first drama class started. She had agreed to do the school plays and other extra-curricular activities on the condition that she could teach the academic end of it during school hours.

The principal at the time offered a class in drama if she could round up enough students within two weeks. With only one student signed up she had to do a little recruiting. "I got it started by saying 'You ... you ... and you would like to take Speech II, wouldn't you.'"

The program really took off seven or eight years ago, she says. There are currently some 80 kids taking performing arts classes.

Performing arts involves three separate programs – debate, drama and individual events. Students can start the program as freshmen where they are given a survey of various types of performances. They then move on to advanced classes in various specialties.

The debate program is divided into novice, junior varsity, four-man varsity and two-man varsity classes. At the varsity level the debate team works on a national debate topic and learns one of four positions: first and second affirmative and first and second negative.

The debaters are trained in research, argumentation, organization, analytical thinking, learning how to justify arguments, and, of course, the subject matter of the debate topic itself.

The debating season runs from September to January and on into February if the team is fortunate enough to qualify for the state finals.

"I am a firm believer in all events that you give an opportunity to everyone that wants to try," Ford says. "If they say they want to try, I let them try. The only time I do any actual cutting is when they get to the districts."

Charlevoix belongs to the Northern Michigan Debate League which includes Petoskey, Gaylord, Elk Rapids, Traverse City, Traverse City St. Francis, Big Rapids, and Manistee. The team also participates in up to five invitationals each year.

The drama classes are built around a big winter show which is presented in the high school gym. This year's show is "Fiddler on the Roof." The students learn how to act, to be on stage, build sets, handle makeup and lighting, design costumes, and all of the many tasks necessary to put on the show.

Parts in the fall show are awarded on the basis of tryouts. The varsity also performs a variety show in the fall and a dinner show in the spring.

Ford likes to pick a show for the winter production that will stretch the students a bit. "If it isn't a good show you shouldn't do it. I like shows that are a challenge, that make the kids work," she notes.

The big show then becomes the basis for state drama competition.

The final category of performing arts is individual events, what used to be called forensics. It is composed of six interpretive areas and six public speaking ones.

The interpretive events include multiples (involving from three to eight people), storytelling, humorous, serious, dramatic and duo.

Public address areas are oratory, informative, impromptu, extemporaneous, radio broadcasting and sales.

All are worked on in class and those students who want to can join the interscholastic competition.

Opinion

Chamber Chatter

By Claudia Kenifeck
Executive Director

Welcome 1986. January is a busy month: Budget forecasting, market proposals, goal-setting, new board members, new ideas, rental lists, applications, planning and.... more planning. These are the ingredients that make the first of the year so busy at the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce.

Three directors will be leaving the Chamber Board at the end of this month. All have worked hard to accomplish the goals of the Chamber. Thank you for three years of service to the community.

With his agricultural influence, John Frey strengthened the success of the Apple Festival and was noteably always calm during intense Chamber Board meetings. Thank you for your insights into the many facets of the Chamber.

While on the Chamber Board Mike Greeley also served as Chamber treasurer. His influence, while simultaneously on the City Council, was a big asset to the Chamber. Thank you for the many hours spent giving accounting advise and support.

Representing the professional element of Chamber membership, Dave Strawbridge always participated and could consistently be counted on for input. Thank you for your active decision-making capabilities, and for your influence on the policies of the Chamber.

Thank you John, Mike and Dave for your commitments to serve. We look forward to your continuing involvement and support, as you step down from the Chamber Board.

The Chamber Board of Directors' retreat is January 15. Any ideas as to what you, the membership, feel the Chamber goals should be for 1986, are welcome.

Mark your calendars for February 7 and 8; this years Winter Sports Carnival. Details to follow.

1986 is going to be a great year!

Beacons of Blessing

A devotional column prepared by the Charlevoix Ministerial Association

by Rev. Bruce E. Hamilton
Community Church of God

He was an old country preacher. His call to the ministry burned deep in his heart. His formal training was non-existant. But if anyone challenged him, he had an answer that said it loud and clear. "I may not know much, but I know I've been to Calvary and I know I know Jesus."

Let's have a real heart-to-heart talk as you are reading today. What does it mean to you to know Jesus? Have you seriously thought about that wondrous friendship before?

In Luke 7:37-50, you will find the story of a woman who realized all too clearly what Jesus meant to her life. She thought of her background. She remembered her sins. She felt her own sense of lostness.

As she anointed the Lord with her most precious possession, the tears poured out of her heart. In Jesus, she had found a new hope for living. He had helped her to see that she was worth something after all. The weight of the world that threatened to crush her spirit was lifting as she saw just how much she was loved.

God wants you to know that you are loved. If it has been a rough day, you probably need to read that encouragement. God wants you to know that you are someone very special in his eyes. If it has been a good day, you already know that but don't forget to thank him for it.

As a Christian, you are a member of God's forever family. Your pastor and I want to make sure you know that. You say you are not sure about that? I can't know Jesus for you. But you can. Come to him just as you are. Believe in him. That's where the woman's tears of joy came from. She knew how far she had come since she met Jesus.

Your life may be nothing like hers. But it can be much more than it is. Real joy is knowing Jesus.

Letters to the Editor:

Condos set bad precedent

Dear Editor:

Planning in Michigan was designed to be a democratic process. Appointees to planning commissions should represent the views and values of all the citizens, and a community master plan should reflect the region's collective character.

A great deal of thought, time and money went into the design of Charlevoix and Charlevoix Townships master plan. For the most part local citizens have learned to live within it's framework, knowing full well that some changes can have serious, negative effects on the community.

The rezoning of 25 acres at North Point for a 120 unit condominium is such a proposal. The problem with the proposal is not in the development so much as with the precedent it will establish for the north Charlevoix area. Once a precedent of this nature is set, and shown to be successful, it is nearly impossible to change or stop the trend that follows. Then, local citizens who judiciously followed the master plan can only sit back and wonder what went wrong. Skillful manipulation of the rezoning process by developers or unscrupulous officials is a major weakness of the planning process.

The planning process may have some weaknesses but we must not forget it's democratic basis and permit developers motivated by the fast dollar, and a small group of local officials, motivated by the quick tax dollar, to make this change.

More public hearings must be held on all these requests for multiple zoning. North Point and Charlevoix The Beautiful," that is borders, are truely lovely areas — let's keep it that way by getting citizens out and communicating their feelings to their elected officials.

Condo cancer is spreading

Dear Editor:

The City of Charlevoix is suffering from condominium-cancer, and I am distressed to read in the media that this cancer is spreading into the township.

The idea of 120 units and recreational facilities at the sand dunes of North Point is shocking. The dunes are very fragile, as evidenced by massive in recent years. What destruction can be expected when suddenly the population doubles and the habitat is disturbed to construct buildings, access roads and utilities?

Rezoning from single residence (R-1) to multiple dwelling (R4) was recommended by a few township officials. And, some local residents are selling their skills to a developer who went bankrupt in his past adventure) to pillage an area that is treasured by all those who want Charlevoix to maintain its image. Do these people feel no responsibility to their community called "Beautiful"? Do they have no conscience?

This development is not appropriate for the area selected. The North Point home owners deserve consideration for the quality of homes they have constructed in their quiet, secluded, R1 area. Rezoning for condominiums is a great injustice to these people.

Rainbow Shoppe a godsend

Dear Editor:

On behalf of the Sr. Citizens of the City of Charlevoix, we would like to thank the Rainbow Shoppe of Charlevoix for making it possible for us to open the nutrition program this December at the VFW Hall on U.S. 31. Without their most generous donation we would not be able to pay our bills this month. Thank you ladies, you are a godsend.

Mt. McSauba name OK

Dear Editor:

This letter is written in reply to the kind person who felt that the name of Mt. McSauba should be returned to the native American pronounciation A-mik-o-sabe.

There are thoughts and feelings in the inner being of a native American that can not be translated or transmitted to an outsider, however bright they are or willing to share. Many things have been done to help the native American without asking him first, but the error has been realized. I believe I have the native American background to understand this name change problem but my heritage is from the Southwest. We should first, ask the local native American what he feels he needs.

A native American life was based on poverty and simplicity. His religion forbade wealth to keep his spirit free to follow his divine decree which was important to him. His stories were sacred and told only to chosen ones. Names were given only to change again as events happened.

North Point, said his family has owned property in the area since after World War II. He noted that it was "very difficult to live in Charlevoix and make a living without people. If we have people everyone can make a fair living."

The land would be better used in R-4 than R-1, Haggard said.

"I don't think 120 units at North Point is going to make or break the business community," said Marcia Wimper. "If we are going to have to talk about growth, we are going to have to talk about year-round residents."

Mt. McSauba seems to be named by the white man since the spelling is incorrect. The authentic native American name and story is not known. I believe that the authentic story of Mt. McSauba can be felt in the heart by silently walking through the forest, by blending into the forest as the native American did, and thus becoming one with the Great Spirit. Many visitors never heed the silent call of the forest, but the forest is always ready to tell it's secrets.

You can envision a smile on the Chief's face in the Mt. McSauba recreation lodge where many happy children can see the Chief's picture and story on the lodge wall. A special thanks to Marilyn Boss for keeping the Mt. McSauba history intact.

I do not feel that there should be any name changes or signs erected. Everything is acceptable as it is.

Clockwise

No average dictator

By Bob Clock

He may be "flaky," as President Reagan claims, or even an "intractable, mewic," as the late President Anwar Sadat once asserted, but Libya's Col. Moammar Khadafy doesn't fit the mold of your average run-of-the-mill dictator.

Contrary to the stereotype of international bullies, Khadafy is a very nice-looking guy — tall, well-built, muscular, with a full head of hair, rugged good looks, a broad smile, good teeth and a commanding presence. Teenage girls clutch each other and swoon whenever Khadafy takes center stage.

There is no comparison between Khadafy and, say, Napoleon Bonaparte who was so short he had to stand on a Louis XIV settee to look out the window. Or Adolf Hitler, a sharp-featured little pip-squeak who looked as though he plastered down his famous widow's peak with mustache wax. Or Benito Mussolini, Italy's answer to the Goodyear blimp — with under-bite.

I am no psychologist, but I have always had the idea that all three men became power-hungry to compensate for their physical unattractiveness. History is rife with examples of stunted little shrimps who seemed to forge that which would not accrue to them naturally.

But such is obviously not the case with Moammar Khadafy. Commanding his personal magnetism, Khadafy could have worked miracles in the arena of international peace and goodwill, as did the late Anwar Sadedy.

If Khadafy has any parallel in the world stage today it is Cuban dictator Fidel Castro who possesses many of the same personal attributes and much of the same charisma.

I hesitate to think about what powerful world statesmen, what shapers of public opinion, both of them could have become if they had elected to work within the legitimate framework of their respective governments. But Castro chose the communist revolutionary route, alienating himself and his island-nation from good friends and neighbors in North, Central and South America to the detriment of the Cuban people. Khadafy also achieved power through a coup d'etat in 1969 and has alienated himself with all of the sworn enemies and cutthroats of the Middle East.

Why? No one knows for sure. But I wouldn't be surprised if both are afflicted with virulent cases of paranoid schizophrenia, resulting in persecution complexes and low degrees of self-esteem.

REAGAN'S declaration of sanctions against Khadafy's Libyan regime was obviously a move of desperation. In the wake of the slaughter at the Rome and Vienna airports in December, the president felt he had to do something to assuage the nation's outrage.

But there is little evidence that sanctions will work, particularly since the United States, Canada and Israel stand virtually alone in their condemnation of the Khadafy regime.

From here it appears that the road to peace in the Middle East will be paved with more violence, more bloodshed and more wasted lives.

struggles among competing specialists allowing regulations of all aspects of a new business. He cited several instances of old homes that have been rehabilitated due to special use permits.

Michael Greeley, former councilman and a neighbor to the property in question, said the commercial business would have a negative impact on single family homes on Petoskey Avenue. The city's master plan, he added, after much discussion and expense had established that most of Petoskey Avenue should be preserved as single family homes.

"I think you are changing the residential nature of this neighborhood," Greeley said. "If you want to change it, why have a master plan? Once you allow a special use permit, I don't think it's going back to residential. You have to, and I know it," he added.

Peabody told Council there must be a progression from residential to commercial. "I have spent lots of money and time improving that property and all I get is roadblocks," he stated. "I am ready to pack up and say Charlevoix has been."

Barbara MacArthur asked Council to remember that the basic question is "Are we going to plan our future or are going to shrink by that plan?"

MacArthur added that "The question isn't progress. It's planning. You (the council) are caving in to personal interests by one businessman."

Elmer MacArthur added that he was disturbed by the attitude that the whole of Petoskey Avenue will eventually go commercial. He said efforts are being made to retain the residential beauty of properties on U.S. 31.

Harriet Towsley celebrates 101

There was no call from Willard Scott of the "Today Show" or a note from the President like last year, but Harriet Towsley of Charlevoix celebrated her 101st birthday on Jan. 8 in fine style anyway.

Family and friends joined Mrs. Towsley at the home of her son and daughter-in-law Harold and Mary Towsley to honor her first birthday past the century mark.

Born in Pleasant Valley outside East Jordan, Mrs. Towsley has been a resident of the area for all but two of her years when she lived in Canada.

During the winter she lives with her son and daughter-in-law, but in the summer she still maintains her own home on May Street and is known to tend a fine garden. She has lived in the May Street home for over 62 years.

When she is not gardening, Harriet also makes her own cookies, bread and homemade soups.

Beatties observe 50th

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Beattie

Mr. and Mrs. Carl W. Beattie of Island View observed their 50th wedding anniversary with a reception Saturday, December 21, at the Pheasant Run Club in Saginaw.

The former Vivian Fike and Carl Beattie were married December 20, 1935 in Midland. Mr. Beattie was born and raised in Charlevoix and Miss Fike also lived here for several years. She moved away in 1933 and he remained until the time they were married.

Mr. Beattie served in the United States Navy for several years before entering the teaching field. The couple moved back to Charlevoix in 1984.

The Beattie's daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bryan, hosted the anniversary party.

Victories move Rayders into first place

The Charlevoix Rayders scratched and clawed their way to the top of the Huron Shores Conference last week with impressive victories over Gaylord on Tuesday and Cheboygan on Friday.

The home victory over Gaylord required some last second heroics before the Blue Devils, previously unbeaten in the league, succumbed 58-56.

Buoyed by the victory, the Rayders made the trek to the home of the league leading Cheboygan Chiefs and came away with a come-from-behind 75-61 win.

Going into Tuesday's contests Charlevoix, Gaylord and Cheboygan were tied for first place in the league with identical 4-1 records. Charlevoix and Gaylord are each 6-1 overall and Cheboygan is 4-2 on the year.

The Cheboygan game started with an explosion of offense from the Chiefs. The Rayder defense could do little to contain the opponent as Cheboygan piled up a 23-12 lead at the end of the first quarter.

Cheboygan built its lead to 13 points in the third period in what looked like a long night for the Rayders.

Coach Dave Smith's team failed to fold, however, and Charlevoix slowly began to close the gap. With one minute to go in the half and down by 10, the Rayder defense stiffened and force two turnovers as Sean Ferguson led a five-point surge that took the Rayders into the half down by just five points, 35-30.

The Rayders started the third quarter where they left off, pouring in six unanswered points in just a minute and 10 seconds to take a 36-35 lead.

The Rayder defense crippled Cheboygan while junior Jim Culik's driving inside shots and senior Sean Ferguson's accuracy from outside gave Charlevoix a six-point edge, 52-46, at the end of the third quarter.

Cheboygan, with four of the top twenty scorers in the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference, was unable to crack the relentless Charlevoix defense in the fourth quarter. Stu Hancock, the Chief's leading scorer who is averaging over 20 points a game, was held to just two points in the second half and 12 points overall.

The Chiefs tried desperately to regain control as the clock wound down, but the Rayder defense held on to a 14 point lead and closed out the game 75-61 to gain a share of the conference lead.

Coach Smith had high praise for his defense. "We didn't blow our cool," he said. "And we did the things we do well. The biggest difference in the second half was the defense."

Smith complimented the play of his three guards along with the defense of Tim Plaggé and the all-around play of Ferguson.

He noted that Tim Salmonson was impressive defensively, holding 6-foot-five center Dan LaHaie to just three points in the first half.

Ferguson scored a game high 21 points against the Chiefs. Jim Cink added 16, while Putnam and Salmonson had eight each.

Charlevoix had control of the boards with 33 rebounds to the opponents 14. The Rayders shot 50 percent from the floor compared to 46 percent for the Chiefs.

Hancock, Steve Sklera and LaHaie each had 12 points to lead Cheboygan's scoring. Todd Charboneau added 10.

On Tuesday the state ranked Blue Devils of Gaylord brought a perfect conference record to Charlevoix.

"They took an early lead but were unable to open the gap by more than two points until early in the second quarter when they went up by four.

The Rayder defense came alive, however, and Putman racked up six straight points. Salmonson added four and Charlevoix went into the half with a 33-28 lead.

The Blue Devils quickly reversed the momentum at the beginning of the second half, forcing five turnovers while their offense scored 16 unanswered points to give them a 38-34 lead.

At the end of the third quarter it was Gaylord by one point, 43-42. Gaylord expanded their lead to five points early in the fourth quarter but the Charlevoix defense chopped the lead down to one point with two minutes to go.

The Rayders took time out with 20 seconds left and Gaylord leading by one point. With just seven seconds on the clock Packy LaBlanc sank an arching set shot from the top of the key to put the Red Rayders ahead 57-56.

After a frantic time out, Gaylord came in with a razzle dazzle play to get the ball up court quickly, but Ferguson slept high to intercept the full-court pass and draw a foul in the process. Ferguson converted the foul shot and the Rayders celebrated the 58-56 victory.

"We were very, very patient on offense," Coach Smith said. "We kept it close and gave ourselves a chance to win." The victory, he noted, "was the biggest confidence builder we've had."

The combination of the last two wins, Coach Smith added, has set the tone for the second round. Our kids are on a real high now."

Leading the scoring in the Gaylord game was Ferguson with 17 points, Putman had 12, Salmonson 11, and Jim Gibbs eight.

Terry Salmonson contributed to this report.

Boys ski team defeats Traverse City

CEDAR — The Charlevoix Rayder boys ski team won the Traverse City Invitational ski meet at Sugarloaf Monday, defeating the defending state championship Traverse City "A" Team for the first time.

The Rayder girls team placed second behind a strong Traverse City "A" squad.

"I am aesthetic," said Coach Eric Lundteigen. "It's the first time a Rayder team has ever defeated the Class A Traverse City team. In skiing teams are not classified by enrollment as they are in other schools so it means we defeated a team that comes from a school much larger than ours. The girls were also very competitive though they placed second in the six-team meet."

The Rayders won their meet with a total of 50 points followed by Traverse City "A" team with 54; Traverse City B team 104; Petoskey 148; Traverse City St. Francis 155 and Grayling 180.

The Traverse City girls A team took first place in their division with 45 points followed by Charlevoix with 62; Traverse City B team 89; Grayling 132; Petoskey 158 and Traverse City St. Francis 187.

The Rayders took the first two places in the giant slalom and a second in the slalom plus a sixth in the giant slalom to give them the winning score Lundteigen pointed out.

The Rayder results follow:

Noni Pace in recent action

Jason Brindel had a second in the slalom and a third in the giant slalom; Matt Lignell 5th in the slalom and a first in the GS; Brian Wilmot 13th in the slalom and 2nd in the GS; Jim Morgridge 22rd in the slalom and 8th in the GS; Karl Erber 18th in the slalom and 17th in the GS and Wes Cumberland, 5th in the GS.

The girls placed second in the slalom and first and second in the giant slalom.

Their results follow: Sue Miller, 4th in the slalom and second in the giant slalom; Lauren Pace second in the slalom and 5th in the GS; Noni Pace 1st in the GS; Allison 4th in the slalom; Wendy Voisin 20th in the slalom and 21st in the GS and Sheryl Miller 17th in the GS.

The teams will be at Hidden Valley, Gaylord, on Wednesday and at Boyne Mountain the following Wednesday.

Ski teams win opener at Nubs Nob meet

The Charlevoix Rayder ski teams, coached by Erik Lundteigen, got off to a great start last Wednesday with both teams posting wins in five team meets held at Nub's Nob.

The Rayder boys won with a score of 25 points. Harbor Springs came in second with 73 points followed by Petoskey with 92, Gaylord with 120 and East Jordan with 166.

The girls win was equally as impressive with Charlevoix nosing out a strong Harbor team by seven points to take the meet. Charlevoix had 34 points; Harbor Springs 41; Petoskey 146; Gaylord 187 and East Jordan 198.

Coach Lundteigen was elated with his teams' performances. "It was a great way to start the year. I was pleased with both teams. It was a great team effort. The boys came out strong. The girls were consistent all the way. It looks like a good season for us."

For the boys, Jason Brindel placed second in the giant slalom and first in the slalom; Matt Lignell, first in the giant slalom and second in the slalom followed by Brian Wilmot, third in the giant slalom and seventh in the slalom; Jim Morgridge, sixth in the giant slalom and 19th in the slalom; Karl Erber, 14th in the giant slalom and 20th in the slalom and Wes Cumberland, 11th in the giant slalom and 3rd in the slalom.

Competition was keen between Charlevoix and Harbor in the girls meet as Sue Miller placed second in the giant slalom and third in the slalom; Noni Pace, 4th in the giant slalom and 5th in the slalom; Lauren Pace, 5th in the giant slalom and 2nd in the slalom; Wendy Voisin, 6th in the giant slalom and 5th in the slalom; Allison Hall, 20th in the giant slalom and 8th in the slalom; Cheryl Miller, 17th in the giant slalom and 6th in the slalom.

The teams will be at Boyne Mountain with Grayling and Kalkaska Wednesday, Jan. 15 and at Hidden Valley with Gaylord, Petoskey, East Jordan and Bellaire on Jan. 22.

JVs defeat Cheboygan

The Charlevoix Rayder JV squad posted a 58-51 win over the young Cheboygan Chiefs on the latter's floor Friday night as Charlevoix made a clean sweep for the night.

Outscoring their hosts 26-21 from the floor, the Rayders added six of 14 from the free-throw line while collecting 13 personal fouls. The Chiefs said 15 personal fouls and nine of 17 from the charity line.

The Rayders got off to a fast start, scoring 10 field goals for a 20-14 first period lead and outscored their opponents 11-6 in the second period to go ahead 31-22 at halftime. Cheboygan scored 17 points to Charlevoix's 10 as the second half got underway but the final period saw the Rayders come back strong to claim the game by a seven-point margin.

Charlevoix had three players in double figures - Scott DeYoung with 17, Owen Phillips with 16 and Roger Smith with 12 points. McNitt had 17, Harden 11 and Grondin with 10 for the Chiefs.

Rogers City will be here Friday and Traverse City on Tuesday.

Gaylord falls to Rayders

The Charlevoix JVs rolled over the visiting Gaylord Blue Devils by a score of 66-42 in a game played here Tuesday.

The Rayders jumped to 13-0 first period lead and increased it to 33-18 at halftime and 55-30 going into the final period.

The Rayders outscored the visitors 26-26 from the floor and connected on six of nine free throws while collecting nine personal fouls. Scott DeYoung set the pace with 15 points for Charlevoix with Roger Smith adding 13 and Owen Phillips 10.

Gaylord had two of six from the line and 10 personal fouls. C. Krajniak had 17 points for the Blue Devils.

Depot lengthens lead

The Depot of Boyne City continued to increase its lead in the A division of the Independent Basketball League by posting two wins during last week's action.

The first was an 85-66 win over Judy's Restaurant on Wednesday and an 84-58 victory over Dr. Dave's Green Grinders the following night. In other action, Kit Carson Lumber took over second place in the standings with an 87-65 win over the Grinders and Judy's defeated Dutch's 82-75.

In their game with Judy's, the Depot took an early lead and never let their opponents get closer than 10 at the intermissions.

Brian Eicks led the team's scoring with 28 points followed by Tom Beyer with 17 and Tony Williams and Tim Hargreve with 15 points each. Randy Holtschlag scored 13 points and Jim Marsh 13 for Judy's.

Hicks scored 22 points, Beyer 21 and Jeff Seibert 10 for the Depot as the team rolled past Dr. Dave's Green Grinders 98-11, 38-28 and 57-43 by quarters. Dirk Sweese had 19 points, Dave Sturm 16 and Don McKenzie 11 for the Grinders.

In their game with Carson Lumber, the Grinders led the Lumberjacks 22-20 before Carson's took over 46-41 at halftime and held on 87-65 as the three-quarter mark. Tom Garey had 23 points, Vince Lutz 22, Curt Vikings 17 and Butch Glocester 15 for the victors.

In other Action, Kit Carson Lumber will meet First State Bank at 5:30 p.m. and The Clothing Company will meet Paul Lindberg Inc. at 7:45 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 15 and Nanny's and Lindberg and Wojan's and the Clothing Company will play Monday, Jan. 20.

Paul Lindberg team wins in B division

The league-leading Paul Lindberg Inc. quintet added another win to its record by defeating First State Bank 77-58 and Nanny's edged the Clothing Company 61-60 as the B division of the Independent Basketball League began the 1986 portion of its schedule Monday.

The Lindberg lire opened with a 43-13 first period lead and were never headed as they went ahead 26-20 at the half and 50-35 going into the final period.

Dave Norton paced the scoring with 18 points with Mike Cram adding 14 points and Stan Martin 13 for the victors. Dennis Bumpus had 20 and Bill Boss and Eric Jess 10 points each for the Bankers.

A 25-point surge by the Clothing Company brought the team to within one point of Nanny's after the latter had led 54-44 at the three-quarter mark. The Continent had taken over 17-14 at the quarter and trailed 30-29 at halftime and 45-40 going into the third period before trimming Nanny's win to 61-60.

Scoring for Nanny's were Ron Matkowsky with 24 points, Tim DeYoung with 22, Ray LaVoie with 11 and Steve Voorheis with 10. Dave Gale had 27 points for Tom Morrison 13 for the Clothing Co.

Wings Aluminum will meet First State Bank at 5:30 p.m. and The Clothing Company will meet Paul Lindberg Inc. at 7:45 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 15 and Nanny's and Lindberg and Wojan's and the Clothing Company will play Monday, Jan. 20.

Two Rayders win medals in mat tourney

The Charlevoix Rayder matmen had two third place medal winners in Saturday's 10-team Kalkaska Invitational tournament won by the host team.

They were Dan Kelly (135) who posted three wins and one loss and Bill Marquardt who lost his first match before winning his next three in the double elimination tourney.

Kelly won by a pin over Carl Burke of Reed City in :56, lost to Pete Vance of Gaylord by a 5-4 decision in the last 10 seconds to drop him out of the finals before defeating Mark Hellerich of Mancelona by a pin in :50 and Todd Seyting of Kalkaska by a pin in 4:40 to capture third place. He dominated the final opponent throughout the match, according to Coach Greg Bryan.

After losing his first match to Mark Hunchback of Mancelona by a pin in 1:36, Marquardt defeated Jim Fredrickson of Fremont by a pin in 2:36; Tony Walker of St. Ignace by a 9-3 decision and Chris Richardson of Reed City by a 3-0 decision.

Bryan said this was Marquardt's best performance of the season and hopefully a turning point for him. "I was especially pleased with his intensity and control after his first loss," he commented.

Bryan went on to say that all the freshmen, members of the team showed great improvement and, if a few details in their technique were corrected they could have placed in the tourney.

Charlevoix forfeited points in the 112 and 145-pound weight classes.

The other results follow:

Chad Thorp (105) lost by a pin in 4:26 to Mike Leitman of Gaylord; won by a pin in 2:56 over Jack Leatherman of Evangeline and lost to Mike Joynt of Traverse City St. Francis as the result of a default by injury. Bryan said Thorp wrestled well in a weight class which featured three top seeded wrestlers.

Scott Novotny (112) won by a pin in 2:36 over Dean Jenkins of St. Ignace, lost by a pin in 1:26 to Kevin Sanders of Gaylord and by a pin in 4:48 in overtime to Ross Hardy of Traverse City St. Francis.

Jason Wisner (119) did not place.

Jason Whitley (126) lost to Todd Fenton won by a pin in 5:44 over Dave Sawyer of Reed City and lost by a pin in 5:36 to Tim Clemens of Kalkaska. Whitley wrestled very well, Bryan said.

Jamie Monteith (132) lost his next matches of the season but trimmed both.

Matt Hall, wrestling in the 145-pound weight class for the first time, lost two but "Kevin Pearsall (Gaylord) came and Jim Tilton won one and lost two but looked better," Bryan commented.

In conclusion, Bryan said the team needs much more work but with each competition the younger members, especially, are improving.

The Rayders will be at Kalkaska with Roscommon Tuesday and will host Petoskey Thursday.

Matmen fall to Gaylord, TC St. Francis

The Charlevoix Rayder matmen dropped matches to Traverse City St. Francis by a score of 48-30, and Gaylord, 66-14, in dual meets held here Thursday.

The team looked flat against Gaylord. We didn't work too hard during the recent holiday break and it showed. However, they did look more knowledgeable with their technique and strategy against St. Francis," Coach Greg Bryan commented.

In the meet with Traverse City St. Francis the results were as follows:

98-pound class: Frisco Borrazo won by forfeit for the visitors.

112: Scott Novotny (Cx.) won by a pin at 3:50 over Ross Hardy.

119: Jason Wiser (Cx.) lost by a pin in 3:40 to Schickel.

126: Jason Whitley (Cx.) won by forfeit.

132: Shaun Eler (Cx.) lost by a pin at 2:32 to Wayne Kelderhouse.

138: Steve Hopkins (Cx.) won by forfeit.

155: Dan Kelly (Cx.) won by a pin in :30 over Kelly Powers.

167: Kevin Pearsall (Cx.) won by forfeit.

185: Derek Dutcher (Cx.) lost by a pin in 2:43 to Jake Rossi.

198: Jim Tilton (Cx.) lost by a pin at :15 to Joe Connolly.

Hvy.: Bill Marquardt (Cx.) lost by a pin in 1:30 to Andrew Vaara.

In the meet with Gaylord the results were as follows:

98: Pat Lehman (Cx.) won by forfeit.

105: Chad Thorp (Cx.) won over Mike Lehman by a 7-4 decision.

112: Novotny (Cx.) lost to Karl Sanders by a pin in 2:37.

119: Wiser (Cx.) lost by a pin in 3:40 to Tom Freeman.

126: Whitley (Cx.) lost by a pin in 1:20 to Dave Walker.

132: Eler (Cx.) lost by a pin at 4:58 to Tony Cantrell.

138: Hopkins (Cx.) lost by a pin in 4:47 to Bob Powell.

145: Monteith (Cx.) lost by a pin in 1:04 to Bryan Eley.

167: Kelly (Cx.) lost by a pin in 1:20 to John Dettmer.

185: Dutcher (Cx.) lost by a pin in 1:20 to Dave Barbers.

Hvy.: Tilton (Cx.) won by an 11-4 decision over Dan Shapton.

Hvy.: Marquardt (Cx.) won by a pin in :30 over Chris Hardy.

Charlevoix will host Petoskey and Gaylord at 6:30 p.m. Thursday.

Obituaries

James G. Taber

James G. Taber, 58, former Charlevoix resident, died Dec. 30 at Bay Pines Veterans Hospital in St. Petersburg, Fla. He had resided in Grand Rapids and Longboat Key, Fla., in recent years.

Born in Petoskey Jun 26, 1927, Mr. Taber, son of Harold and Marion Taber, had moved to Grand Rapids with his family at an early age. He attended East Grand Rapids schools. During World War II he served three years in the U.S. Navy. He resided in Charlevoix from 1965-70.

Surviving are a daughter, Holly S. Taber of Charlevoix; two sons, John J. of Hemet, Calif., and Scott G. of Grand Rapids; one grandson and two brothers, Walter A. Taber of Oldsmar, Fla., and Thomas H. Taber of Jacianto, Calif.

The family suggests memorials to the American Cancer Society.

Carl F. Harmon

Funeral services for Carl F. Harmon, 78, of Hayes Township, were held at the Winchester Funeral Home at 2 p.m. Wednesday. The Rev. Jerry Jaquish of Epsilon United Methodist Church, Petoskey, officiated. Interment was in Brookside Cemetery at Charlevoix.

Mr. Harmon died Saturday, Jan. 11, at his Hayes Township home.

Born at the family homestead in Springvale Township, Emmet County, Oct. 8, 1907, Mr. Harmon was raised in Springvale Township. On April 2, 1930, he was married to the former Marie M. Mindel at Petoskey. In 1941 they moved to Lansing where he was employed at the Oldsmobile Company, 24 of the years as in-plant engineer as machinery repairman. He retired in 1971. In 1975 they moved to their present home in Hayes Township. He was a member of UAW Local 652 in Lansing.

Surviving are his wife, Marie; three sons, Carl D. of Okemos, James L. of Delray Beach, Fla., and David E. of Woodland Hills, Calif.; 12 grandchildren; four great-grandchildren; a brother, Emil of Petoskey and three sisters, Miss Gertrude Harmon of Gull Lake and Mrs. Myrtle Moore and Miss Anne Harmon, both of Petoskey.

The family suggests memorials to the Charlevoix County Hospice or the American Cancer Society. Envelopes for this purpose are available at Winchester Funeral Home.

Bessie G. LaForce

Funeral services for a former Charlevoix resident, Mrs. Bessie G. LaForce, 77, of Riverview, were held Thursday, Jan. 9, at the Martenson Funeral Home in Allen Park. Interment of the remains will be in Norwood Cemetery at a later date.

Mrs. LaForce died Monday, Jan. 6, at the Riverside Hospital in Trenton.

The former Bessie G. Hardy was born in Charlevoix March 15, 1908 to Judson and Edith Hardy. In 1924 she was married to Julius Elzinga. They later moved to Detroit where they lived until 1935 when they returned to Charlevoix. Following their divorce in 1941, she returned to Detroit where, in 1942, she was married to C.P. Burgess of Traverse City. They were divorce in 1973 and later that year she was married to Thomas LaForce of Waterford, Ont. She lived in Waterford until 1979 when they were divorced. She had been a patient at the Rivergate Convalescent Home for the past five years.

She had been employed at the Ternstedt Plant, now Fisher Guide, a General Motors subsidiary, for 24 years, except for four years spent in East Jordan, until her retirement in 1969.

She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Jolie Martin of Lincoln Park; six grandchildren, five great-grandchildren, five sisters, Mrs. John (Marie) Mackstrom of Royal Oak, Mrs. Vernie (Mandi) Manor of Sheridan, Mrs. Don (Claire) Yocum of Florida, Mrs. Earl (Lila) Bamberg and Mrs. Donald (Lyle) Swack, both of Saginaw, and three brothers, Gerald and Charles of California and Richard of Traverse City.

Bloodmobile drive surpasses goal

Charlevoix experienced its most successful blood drive in many months last week when local donors turned out to donate 136 pints of the life-giving liquid, Mrs. David Fowler, coordinator for the visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile, reports. The quota for the visit was 115 pints.

A total of 145 potential donors, including 10 first-time donors, responded. Eleven of the number were deferred for various reasons, mostly for colds, Fowler said.

In behalf of the committee, Fowler expressed the appreciation and gratitude to all those who joined in making this visit of the Bloodmobile so successful.

Screening clinic held

There will be a Developmental Screening Clinic for all children who will be entering kindergarten in the fall of 1987 sponsored by the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District.

The clinic will be held Jan. 29 at the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District Building on Mercer Blvd. in Charlevoix.

The purpose of this clinic is to provide parents information regarding normal child development, an opportunity to interact with parents of other three-year-old children, and to have their child informally screened in order to identify any potential learning difficulties which may arise during the school years.

This is a free service with appointments made on a first-come, first-served basis.

If you are interested in attending the above clinic, or reside in a district other than the one listed above, please contact Pat Gauthier, 547-9947, at the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District for an appointment or for further information.

Middle School basketball teams win

The Charlevoix Middle School basketball teams launched their season Wednesday by chalking up wins over Petoskey.

The eighth graders, coached by Barry Pierce, won by a 50-38 margin while the seventh-grade quintet posted a 29-13 victory.

Bill Gengle is the seventh grade coach.

In the eighth-grade game, Charlevoix held a slim 22-20 halftime lead before outscoring Petoskey 28-18 in the second half for the 12-point win.

The Rayders outscored their opponents 23-15 from the floor and had four of 16 from the charity line while Petoskey had eight of 22.

James Gerwin with 19 points and Scott Miller with 13 led the way for the victors. Toby McFarland had 12 for Petoskey.

The Charlevoix seventh grade took a 10-6 halftime lead and outscored their opponent 19-7 in the second half for the win.

Charlevoix had 11 field goals and seven of 18 free throws to Petoskey's six from the floor and one of eight from the line.

Dan Terryberry had four points. Jason Miller 11 for Petoskey.

Charlevoix will host Harbor Springs at 5:30 Wednesday, Jan. 22.

Freshmen have easy time with Cheboygan

In a make-up game played at Cheboygan Friday, the Charlevoix Rayder freshmen gave Charlevoix its third victory for the night, a 66-42 win over Cheboygan.

Later in the evening, the Charlevoix JV and varsity squads also posted wins over their Cheboygan counterparts.

Cheboygan took an early lead over the visiting Rayder freshmen with an 18-15 first period advantage. The Rayders, however, snatched a three-point halftime lead, 31-28. As the second half got underway Charlevoix outscored their opponents 24-6 in the third period to go ahead 55-34, and then took the win by a 66-42 score.

Shawn Putman with 21 points and Dyl Stewart and Mike Himebauch with 16 points each accounted for a lion's share of the team's score. Mike Newman had 10 points for the young Chiefs.

Netters defeat Cheboygan

The Charlevoix girls volleyball teams opened their season with decisive wins over Cheboygan which is sponsoring its first such teams.

Coach Brenda Bryan's sextet swept the series in the varsity game by scores of 15-2, 15-3, and 15-1.

Amy McKinney and Lara Stargardt were the top servers and Amy Antaya the chief bumper for the team.

The JVs won two of their three matches by scores of 15-10, 13-15, 15-9. Charla Martz was the top server and Shelly Crain the bumper.

Charlevoix will be at Petoskey Wednesday and will host Gaylord the following week, Jan. 22.

Children's Activity Hour

The Children's Activity Hour sponsored by the Charlevoix Public Library every Saturday during January and February will feature Bo Boss talking about the sport of skiing, Marybeth Wallick, librarian, has announced.

The special program for all elementary school children is held at the library at 205 Clinton St. from 11 a.m. until noon.

German paper cutting offered the first week attracted 36 youngsters, Wallick said.

The Charlevoix Rayder volleyball team, assigned to the strongest pool in the fourth annual Petoskey-Burger King volleyball tournament, lost its first three matches and did not advance to the semi-finals.

Brimley won the 12-team tournament and Sault Ste. Marie came in second. Kalkaska was third and Gaylord St. Mary's finished in fourth place.

Charlevoix lost to Grayling by scores of 15-7, 15-13, Kalkaska 16-14, 15-9 and Brimley 15-3, 15-2.

Coach Brenda Bryan named Lara Stargardt as the top server, Stacy Way, setter and Rhonda Brown, spiker.

Charlevoix will be at Petoskey Wednesday and will host Gaylord Wednesday, Jan. 22.

County will outline all its child care policies, activities

by PEG OHLE

A committee consisting of County Juvenile Officer Brad Campbell, County Commissioner Don Smith, and a representative from the Department of Social Services will soon undertake the writing of a Child Care Policy Bulletin and Flow Chart.

The Bulletin will outline the function of all Child Care activities before and after the court process and spell out the intake process in terms of policy and philosophy, according to Smith. The need for such a document became evident during a recent meeting of the County Board's Child Care Committee with Campbell, Smith said.

In the past, it has been noted that all Child Care agencies do not share the same philosophy, with the result that children are sometimes caught in the middle of philosophical differences. Agencies from which children are referred to Juvenile Court include the Department of Social Services' Protective Division, Char-Em Intermediate School District Truancy Services, and the County Prosecutor (following review of petitions).

Sixty-five percent of the Child Care caseload are children who have not done anything wrong but who have been abused or neglected and need protection from further harm. This is accomplished through out-of-home care and/or bringing the home environment up to at least minimal standards. These children are usually put under the jurisdiction of the Department of Social Services.

Delinquent children who are referred to Juvenile Court are handled in various ways. Following investigation, a hearing, and due consideration, they may become a State ward, be placed in a foster care home, remain in their own homes under strict supervision, be enrolled in counseling sessions, or referred to an agency for help. Those who do not become State wards remain under the jurisdiction of Juvenile Court on a probationary basis.

The cost of Child Care is one of the biggest drains on the Charlevoix County budget. During the fiscal year 1983-1984, the County paid out $214,922 to take care of its delinquent, neglected, and abused children. For 1985, $211,600 was budgeted for the purpose but final figures will probably be higher. For 1986, the budget figure is $219,106.

Out-of-home care for these unfortunate children accounts for most Child Care costs. During fiscal 1983-1984, 64 County children received 23,754 days of out-of-home care.

The new Child Care Policy Bulletin will focus on out-of-home care in an attempt to cut the number of days used for this purpose. Ways of improving home environments will also be studied so that children can live safely in their own homes.

On hand for the removal of its 44-foot patrol boat from the water for winter storage was the majority of the crew at the Charlevoix Coast Guard Station. Pictured are: front row (left to right) are Rhonda Blair SA, Tim Ramey MKL, Louis of the Koboski Company, who operated the company's crane, Allison D'Andrea SA, Matthew Jones SN. Back row: James Couture BM3, Mark Husak FN, Greg Ebersole FN, Don Brazier SN, Mark Simmons BMC, officer in charge of the station, Leon Lee BM2, Dave Waters MK3, Dave Smith BM1, executive officer. Other members of the crew not pictured are Jerry Bukowski CS2, Roger Knoop MK3, Julie Price SN and Vern Sweirt SN.

Coast Guard pulls patrol boat

by FRAN MARTIN

The crew at the Charlevoix Coast Guard station removed its chief lifeboat, the 44-foot all-weather vessel, from the water recently to mark the close of its search and rescue season.

The vessel, referred to as the "Forty-four," is the work horse of the station's vessels with a range of 300 miles, according to James Smith, BM1. Utilized chiefly as a search and rescue vessel, it has a capacity of 21 passengers plus its crew of four. It is also capable of towing a vessel up to 75 feet in length with an overall weight of 300 tons and, in an emergency, up to 120 feet and 150 tons. It is equipped with 600 feet of 3½ inch double braid nylon line for towing purposes.

According to Smith, the vessel is well equipped for search and rescue duty in heavy weather. It has an average speed of 20 knots and can withstand seas up to 20 feet. The craft draws 7.4 feet of water. Its full displacement load is 51,360 pounds. It is powered by two Detroit Diesel 6V92 165 hp engines and is equipped with all gear needed under any extreme circumstances the vessel might encounter.

The craft was removed from the water by a crane leased from the Koboski Company of Petoskey.

Home economist explains warning

by PEG OHLE

When asked about the Michigan Farm Bureau's television series advising homemakers not to use paraffin to seal jams and jellies, Janet Rathke, County Extension Home Ecopomist, offered the following explanation.

It has been found that jams and jellies sealed with paraffin more often produce mold than those preserved in other ways. Persons with allergies often have severe reactions when coming into contact with mold, so anything that can be done to prevent it is a good health measure.

Mrs. Rathke says that Michigan State University is now recommending that jams and jellies be processed in a hot water bath canner for from 10 to 15 minutes.

The Charlevoix County Extension Office is located in Boyne City. The question about paraffin is representative of the many questions answered regularly by the Home Economist. A recent listing of subjects on which help is offered includes such diversified subjects as budgeting, credit, and savings, nutrition and health, cooking and preserving food, leadership training opportunities, family relationships, including how to handle stress, clothing, fabrics, and stains, and legislation affecting the family.

Mrs. Rathke serves as Extension Home Economist for both Charlevoix and Antrim Counties. The Charlevoix County phone number is 582-6222 and the Antrim County Bellaire phone number is 533-8607.

218 Bridge shows Simon play

The 218 Bridge St. Theatre continues its season this week with "I Ought to be in Pictures," a Neil Simon comedy about a Hollywood screenwriter's reunion with his teenage daughter.

The play runs Thursday through Sunday this week and next with the final appearance on Sunday, Jan. 26.

Curtain times are 7:30 p.m. Thursday, 8:30 Friday and Saturday, and 6:30 Sunday. Dinners are available 1½ to 2 hours prior to the performance and special matinees can be arranged for any day for 20 or more, with or without meals, according to theatre owner Tom Warth.

"I Ought to be in Pictures" centers around the visit of Libby Tucker (played by Janice Tettoni to her screenwriter father Herb Tucker (played by William Gregory Etter) whom she has not seen in 16 years. The two, plus Herb's live-in girl friend Steffy (Rebecca Zarna) work out their differences in a comedy filled with laughter and dramatic moments of touching seriousness.

Star of Charlevoix will stay for 1986 season

The Star of Charlevoix dinner-cruise ship will be staying in Charlevoix for the 1986 season, according to Jim Wilmouth, director of marketing for the Star Line Company.

Wilmouth said he and company president Gary Priestat reached the decision Monday to retain the Star. There has been persistent reports that the ship would be moved to Milwaukee this summer.

"The decision was based on the fact that Charlevoix did very well last year and on the community support we have had," Wilmouth said. The company has received numerous phone calls and letters in support of keeping the Star in Charlevoix, he said.

No decision has been made on the fate of the ship after 1986.

Wilmouth said the 1986 schedule will stay much as it was last year and prices will not be raised.

Claudia Kenifeck, executive director of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, said she was "very happy" about the decision. "It will certainly make for a happier summer," Kenifeck said. "Especially since we had cancelled our color cruises on the Beaver Islander and our July 4 champagne cruise because the Star Line was doing such a professional job of providing those services."

She said a lot of 1986 hotel business had been booked as a result of the Star of Charlevoix. "The Chamber is willing to work with the Star Line to help make the 1986 season a successful one," Kenifeck said, noting that special arrangements may have to be made to get people to the ship because of the construction of the Edgewater Inn.

Jackie Merta, director of sales for the Star of Charlevoix, was also "very pleased" by the news. "I know this ship is not only an attraction for Charlevoix County but also a draw for the entire great northwest," Merta said. The ship is featured in the plans of tour operators, hotels and convention/eventers from as far away as Cadillac, she noted.

"The Star draws customers from throughout Michigan as well as outstate," Merta said. "It makes us a vital part of the economy of the northwest."

She noted that bookings for 1986 have been good.

Circuit Court rules in favor of Hayes Township zoning

by DOUG TRUAX

In a broad-based decision, Cheboygan Circuit Judge Robert C. Livo ruled Friday against developer William Fox's contention that the Hayes Township zoning ordinance contained an unconstitutional section prohibiting funnel development.

Livo not only ruled against the motion to dismiss the case on constitutional grounds, but said the Hayes Township ordinance in question was "reasonably related to a valid public interest: conservation of water for the benefit of all."

At issue are portions of Section 7.21 of the Hayes Township zoning ordinance which limits dockage for boats powered by engines to not more than one mooring or slip for each 100 feet of lake frontage. It also limits boats to condominium development on the lakefront to no more than one unit per 100 feet of frontage.

Fox filed suit against Hayes Township in January 1985 charging that Section 7.21 is unconstitutional and violates his rights as a lakefront property owner.

Fox and Associates Inc. had offered a variety of proposals for the 304 acres it owns in the township on the Camp Charlevoix property. The latest proposal was for 106 lakefront condos, 56 boat slips, 125 inland condos and a public golf course. The Hayes property includes approximately 2,800 feet of frontage on Lake Charlevoix.

Supporters of the Hayes Township zoning ordinance stayed the ruling by the judge's decision.

"The judge is a wise man," said Sara Gay Dammann, head of the Hayes Township Planning Commission. "I don't see how he could have made a different decision. Our zoning ordinance represents the will of the people of Hayes Township. The people of any township should be in charge of how they want their area to develop."

William McTaggart, who with Grand Rapids attorney Peter Stuyvesant represents Hayes Township in the suit, said he was "very gratified by (the judge's) decision." McTaggart added that "to the best of my knowledge it is the first judicial decision that a township has the legal authority to pass anti-funneling provisions as part of its zoning ordinance."

McTaggart said he was surprised the judge went to the extent that he did in his five-page decision. "It strikes down just about every opinion they Fox Associates made," he added.

Attorneys for Fox were surprised and disappointed by Judge Livo's decision. They said an appeal would be prepared for the Michigan Court of Appeals within the required 21 days.

"I find it unusual that the mere fact of boating is detrimental to the lake," Seberon "Boo" Litzenburger of Petoskey, an attorney for Fox, said. "These resources have got to be taken care of. On the other hand, I don't think we should allow the lakes to be walled up by people who own the fringe of the lake."

Thomas Pointner, Fox's other attorney, was similarly disturbed by the judgement. "I am astounded by the breath of the Court's holding," Pointner said. "For example, I find it surprising that the Court elected to overrule the Attorney General, the Supreme Court and 100 years of Michigan jurisprudence."

Litzenburger said he had talked with Fox following the judge's decision. "Bill is very unhappy. He believes very strongly that he has addressed in his development every environmental concern."

Litzenburger said that in his opinion the state Inland Lakes and Streams Act provides the necessary uniform control on shoreling development.

Gail Gruenwald, attorney for the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council which supports Hayes Township in the suit, said she was "very pleased to see that (Judge Livo) felt as strongly as we did regarding the authority of the township to zone the waterfront." The decision, she added, "doesn't leave much for a trial on the merits of the case." She noted that if upheld on appeal the ruling would give authority to other townships to enact anti-funneling ordinances. "We would like to see that," she said.

Judge Livo's decision noted that "The ordinance restriction at bar is intended to limit the numbers of users of the lake or stream frontage to preserve the quality of the waters and to preserve the quality of recreational use of all waters within the township. Surely this is a valid governmental aim which affects the health, safety and welfare of the public."

The ruling also stated: "The power to zone thus fairly includes the regulation of the number of residents or docks-slips or boatwells to be constructed and affixed to lands within the Township.

"In summary," the decision reads, "the Court concludes that Section 5.13 of the Hayes Township Zoning Ordinance is constitutionally valid both on its face and as applied to Plaintiff's property in Hayes Township on Lake Charlevoix because it is authorized by the Township Rural Zoning Act and further because it is reasonably related to a valid public interest: conservation of water for the benefit of all."

DNR makes case for Jordan weir

by DOUG TRUAX

Over 30 people attended a public hearing in East Jordan on Wednesday, Jan. 15, to voice their opinions of the Department of Natural Resources' salmon weir on the Jordan River.

The DNR is requesting to operate a salmon-blocking weir from August 15 to November 15 in 1986 and 1987.

The majority of those addressing the hearing, including a large contingent of sport fishermen from Charlevoix, supported the weir. Among those opposed were a group of salmon and steelhead fishermen who objected to the closure of the Jordan River from the weir to the mouth of river at East Jordan for the two months during the salmon run.

Steve Swan, DNR fisheries biologist, told the group that the Jordan "is much too small to provide a sport fishery for the large number of returning salmon."

Experience has shown, Swan said, that the salmon "entice outlawing, stimulate poaching." He said DNR law enforcement officers had made as many as 200 arrests during salmon runs in the upper Jordan.

Swan said there was also a biological concern that salmon may take over the spawning habitat of resident brown and brook trout.

He outlined the previous history of salmon plants in the Jordan, noting that 715,000 Chinook salmon had been planted in May 1983 and would result in a large return to the river. This would be an addition to the 20,000 to 25,000 fish that return to the river from natural reproduction, Swan said.

He later chafed at suggestions that he and the DNR were profiting by the contracts with TempoTech Industries to install and maintain the weirs and harvest the excess salmon.

"I've dedicated my entire professional life to provide the best fishing for sport fishermen," Swan said. "I resent any implication that I'm on the take."

Swan noted that the salmon plants have been moved to Medusa Creek in recent years. "We made a mistake planting salmon in the Jordan River," he said, "and now we are paying for that mistake. We're trying to make the best out of that now."

Addressing the issue of the closure of the lower stream to fishing when the weir was in place, Swan said: "A guy with four-pound test line is not going to do any harm, but if the fish come in he is going to be run off the river by the black market fishermen. It has happened on river after river."

Jerry Manz, regional fisheries chief from Roscommon, told the audience the DNR was paid $45,000 for the salmon taken from all the weirs. But the main benefit to the state, he said, was some $325,000 saved by not having to use DNR personnel to operate the weirs.

A recent ruling by the Attorney General has stated that it is illegal for the state to sell surplus salmon. The state will now either have to get legislative authority to have TempoTech operate the weirs or use state employees.

Hal Hill, mayor of Charlevoix, was among the public officials supporting the weir. "We need this economy of trout in northern Michigan," Hill said. "I'd like to go on record as supporting the DNR."

Harold Pletz, supervisor of South Arm Township, told the hearing he objected to the DNR not seeking the opinion of the South Arm Township

Tom Kneeland and Diane Pace discuss plans for the franchising of Tom's Mom's Cookies.

Tom's Mom's Cookies go national with new franchise operation

by SARA GAY DAMMANN

Tom's Mom's Cookies are going national, with franchised cookie stores being considered from Washington, D.C. to Palm Beach and Fort Lauderdale, Fla., according to Tom Kneeland, creator of Charlevoix's famed chocolate chunk cookies.

Kneeland explained recently that his cookie business, which garnered national attention when President Reagan gave them equal time with jelly beans, has been incorporated as Tom's Mom's Cookies, Inc., a franchise company.

In late October, 1985, Kneeland was approached by Charlevoix restauranteurs Paul Lindberg and Jerry Uhrich, owners of JR's Deli, with propopsals for a franchise operation.

In November the company was organized with Kneeland as president of the board of directors, Diane Pace as vice president and treasurer, and investors Myrtle Chandler of Battle Creek, Edward Skidmore of Washington, D.C., John Rowe an attorney in Petoskey, and Jack and Jim Uhrich and Paul Landberg of Charlevoix as other directors.

Dorothy Kneeland, Kneeland's mother, in whose honor the cookies were named (although she didn't ever bake them), is an honorary member of the board.

Commenting on the new company, Pace observed, "When my triplet brothers and I agree, who know it has to be good." Pace's brothers are Jerry, Jack and Jim Uhrich.

"There is no limit to the potential," Pace continued. "It is a wonderful product. We plan to focus on establishing franchises in the East and South first," she explained, adding that franchise stores have been explored for California and Europe.

The first franchised Tom's Mom's Cookie store will open in Palm Beach in early March, under the ownership of Lindberg and Jerry Uhrich. Franchise stores for Mackinaw City and Mackinac Island and Fort Lauderdale have been sold to Pam and Jim Holmes of Detroit and Charlevoix.

Craig and Julie Ellison who operated a cookie outlet in Harbor Springs last summer will open a franchise operation in Traverse City in partnership with Roberta and Jim Seeburger. The Washington, D.C. franchise is being planned for a summer opening.

Each store will focus on cookies. Many will serve espresso and cappuccino coffees, Kneeland said. There are no plans, now, for opening more Tom's Cafes, although the Charlevoix Tom's Cafe will reopen in early summer.

The cookies will be prepared at each store to Kneeland's original recipe and only using ingredients approved by Kneeland, including VanLeer chocolate. The individual stores will conduct their own mail order business.

Franchise terms include a $25,000 franchise fee plus 5 percent of gross sales, Pace and Kneeland revealed. They estimated that individual store start-up costs would range from $80,000 to $100,000, depending on location, and should include building costs and equipment.

The parent company will teach franchise owners how to make the cookies, advise them on equipment purchases and work with the stores on advertising.

Advertisements have been run in Detroit and Grand Rapids newspapers and a restaurant trade journal announcing the franchise opportunity. The response, Pace and Kneeland reported, has been impressive. To date they have sent out well over 100 information packets.

Kneeland, who took his cookies to the ANUGA World Food Show in Cologne, West Germany in October, is optimistic that he will sell franchises in Europe. He said Europeans were initially baffled by his cookies, because cookies, especially chocolate chunks, are an American cultural phenomenon.

"They were shy. People would ask if they could try a cookie. We were serving them free on silver platters. Our promotional style of doing business is new to Europeans," he observed.

"And they have no word for cookie. Germans thought they were cakes. But when they tasted our samples, they really loved them." Kneeland recalled adding that for European tastes the cookies were made with a bittersweet chocolate.

"We will be introducing the Tom's Mom's International Chocolate Chunk Cookie, using bittersweet chocolate, soon."

Charlevoix Garbage asks for rate increase

by DOUG TRUAX

Dawson and Barney Way of the Charlevoix Garbage Service asked Council Monday to approve an increase in residential garabage rates from $5.50 to $7 per month.

Dawson Way told Council that rates had not been raised in seven years. In the four years he has owned the company, Way said, he has seen salaries, workmen's compensation, equipment, and other costs increase.

"We are kind of proud of our record (of not raising rates)," Way told Council. "Our rates are the lowest we can find in the North."

Way also pointed to an increase in household production of solid waste. A McDonald's McDLT hamburger now comes in a box twice as big as was previously used for the same size hamburger, he said.

Way reported that a preferential rate for senior citizens would continue, but would be limited to year-round residents.

City Attorney Jeffrey VanTreese disqualified himself from the discussion because his law partner is the attorney for Charlevoix Garbage

Commissioners paid $42,494 in 1985

by PEG OHLE

The six members of the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners received a total of $42,494 in salaries and per diem during 1985.

This figure includes compensation for attending regular and special meetings of the County Board, meetings of committees which operate as part of the County Board, and meetings of outside Boards, Commissions, and Committees to which Commissioners were appointed because of their positions on the County Board.

Each Commissioner received a base salary of $700 a month, or $8,400 a year, for attending two county Board meetings a month, one daytime and one evening, plus per diem for attending other meetings which were held either on a regular or as-needed schedule. Board of Commissioners per diem was paid at the rate of $60 for meetings lasting four hours or more including travelling time, and $45 for meetings lasting less than four hours including travelling times. For these same duties and functions were paid at lower rates.

In addition to salaries and per diem, members of the County Board were re-imbursed for travel costs for all meetings at the rate of 25 cents a mile. This re-imbursement is not included in the above figure of $42,494.

So ten-town by County Board members, salaries and per diem were paid as follows:

Larry Matthew Shaw, Bay Township, 1st District, $8,400; Townships' Board vice-chairman, $8,540; Oral Sutliff, Boyne City, $8,350; Lee Moerland, Charlevoix, board chairman, $7,525; Thomas Bradley, East Jordan, and South Arm Township, $8,400; Ralph Harmon, Boyne Valley, Chandler, Hudson, Wilson, and Eastern Echo Townships, $5,810; and Don Smith, Western Echo, Marion, Norwood, Pauline, St. James, and Charlevoix Townships, $5,620.

All County Commissioners have other employment, with the exception of Bradley, who is retired. Matthew is a farmer and cottage maintenance person; Sutliff is an accountant and owns a Boyne City school bus; Moerland is warden of the Belvedere Club; Shannon is a farmer, and Smith teaches school in Petoskey.

Regional Council aids employment

A little known organization is helping residents of northwest Michigan in many ways.

The Northwest Region Council of Governments, with headquarters in Traverse City, is a source of information and assistance for all of the area. It is made up of the chief elected officers of the 10 northwest counties or their appointees. I. Lee Moerland, chairman of the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners, serves as chairman of the Council of Governments.

As the administrative agency for several Federal and State programs, the services of the Council are many and diversified. At a recent meeting of the Charlevoix County Board, Richard Beldin, an employee of the Council of Governments, explained some of the services.

In the field of human services, the Council is concerned with long term unemployed people. It has set up a career development program, including individual counseling, to help these people apply for, get, and keep jobs.

The Council assists local business men through its Federal Procurement program, its Certified Development Corporation with help for businesses to secure loans, its Economic Development Corporation and its labor market information. For others, there is help from census information, a nationwide computer hookup, and the Regional Planning Library.

The Council is also dealing with Community Justice Alternatives (ways of rehabilitation without incarceration) as part of a project to do something about the overcrowding of prisons and jails, historic preservation, transportation, and water quality.

The Council of Governments meets once a month and separate project committees also meet at regular intervals. Besides Federal and State grants, the Council receives contributions from the 10 northwest Michigan counties based on population. This year, Charlevoix County will pay $2,600 as its share for Council operations.

Tom Dammann picks up thread of a 50-year-old story

A Reporter's Odyssey

by DOUG TRUAX

The byline of Tom Dammann has long been familiar to readers of newspapers from northern Michigan to southern California.

For the last fifteen years that byline has appeared over the dateline "Charlevoix" or some other location near Dammann's home in Horton Bay.

But it has not always been so for the peripatetic writer. Prior to his settling in Charlevoix in 1970, Dammann filed stories from nearly every corner of the world and in the process covered some of recent history's most significant events.

The Dammann byline has originated from such far flung places as Dandig, Beirut, Hong Kong and Tripoli. His subjects have ranged from King Hussein of Jordan and King Faisal of Saudia Arabia to Nehru and Chiang Kai-shek.

Along the way he has reported such historic occasions as the German panzer divisions' invasion of Poland in 1939, the seven-day war in the Sinai and the United States' early incursions into Vietnam.

There was also a commentator for the Pulitzer prize, a host of exclusive reports, and even a stint in Hollywood with the likes of Gregory Peck.

Now, after a decade and a half of domesticity, Dammann is again taking up the nomadic life. Or perhaps it is more accurate to say he is putting his domestic life on the road for a while, since wife Sara Gay and children F. L., age 14, and Nancy, 9, will be accompanying him.

The Dammanns plan to leave for Europe in early March, live in Geneva for six to eight weeks, and then travel, camping most of the way, through eastern Europe and the Mediterranean before returning to Germany and France in mid-August.

"I want to take my children and show them where I spent the most important part of my life, while I was still young enough to do it and they were old enough to appreciate it," Dammann says.

He will do a series of stories on the feelings of people around Germany today, compared to how they felt in 1939 prior to the outbreak of war in Europe.

Tom and Sara Gay will ship the travel and feature stories from Europe on a variety of subjects.

Tom Dammann's love for journalism and life overseas came together at nearly the same time. Born in Winnetka, Illinois, he went to Harvard College with intentions of being a lawyer like his father.

He joined the Harvard Crimson student newspaper and soon was hooked on journalism, giving up all good intentions of pursuing law.

In the summer of 1936 he joined his family in England after his graduation and his fate was cast.

He had fallen under the spell of journalism and life overseas.

Dammann returned to the United States and served his apprenticeship as a cub reporter for the City News Bureau in Chicago. The City News Bureau was a syndicate owned by all the Chicago papers and provided them with the city gritty news of the day – everything from the city morgue to the police beat.

His first job as a reporter was covering a suicide and he managed to get there before the police arrived. "I can still see the image in my mind," he recalls some 50 years later.

His last job in Chicago had the same raw quality of the city of the "big shoulders." Dammann was crossing the street just as someone jumped from a high window in the Sherman House onto the street next to him. He filed the suicide report.

"One of the saddest stories I ever reported was from Chicago," Dammann says. His closest friend, a fellow reporter at the syndicate, had an uncanny ability to come in with reports of penny ante politics. "He'd report them before the police ever knew about them," Dammann remembers.

Then one day, Dammann says, he got a call when he was on the city desk. His friend, it turned out, had more than a nose for news. He'd been picked up and charged with a series of stockups and ended up spending time in Joliet prison. Dammann had to write the story of his best friend's arrest.

"He spent five or six years in prison," Dammann adds with a wistful grin, "and then got involved in a robbery of an all-night bank. He was shot to death when the cops came in."

Dammann's first stint overseas as a writer was in 1939 when he wrote for the Chicago Motor Club magazine. He returned to the states briefly to work at the Chicago Daily News and the National Tennessean.

In 1940 he helped form a syndicate of 26 major papers. He and several other writers planned to write about young people in Europe and how they were reacting to what appeared to be the inevitability of war.

Dammann headed for Berlin but was soon expelled by the Nazis. He recalls cheerily the antidote that got him kicked out.

"There was a sea elephant, a gigantic animal, at the Berlin zoo, that had a habit of spitting this great spout of water at people as they walked by.

"We got a camera ready and just as two brown shirts, all spic and span, walked by and gave a 'Heil Hitler' the sea elephant hit them.

"We got the picture and it ran all over the world," he chuckles. Dammann soon got word that he had 24 hours to get out of Germany.

He drove to Brussels and as his excitement to be out of fascist Germany proceeded to total the car he was driving.

From Brussels, Dammann circled Germany, covering the reaction to the growing threat of war. He was sent to Danzig with the expectation that war might break out there.

There had been reports of German submarine pens in Danzig and Dammann proceeded to investigate. He went to the shore of the river and hailed a fisherman. "If it was a communist, who was collecting lumps of coal that washed up along the shore to dig and sell," he recalls.

Lying flat in the boat and covered by gunny sacks, Dammann was able to see the German submarine pens and collect his report on them.

From Budapest, he went to Slovakia. I popped into Hitler had taken from Czechoslovakia. The German army was massing on the border near the capital city of Bratislava. Most western correspondents, fearing the worst, had moved out. Dammann rented a car and drove to the capital building in Bratislava to get credentials. The first floor was virtually deserted, but on the second floor he found the prime minister and a few others listening in terror to a radio broadcast in which Hitler declared war.

Dammann attempted to escape on his own but ended up riding in tandem with the German infantry slogging across the border. His car, with American flags flying and French license plates, even packed up a German motorcycle escort. "I guess the Germans thought I wouldn't be there if I hadn't been approved by somebody in the rear."

From Poland, he went to Hungary, Greece and Italy before eventually heading back to the United States.

He worked for a paper in Hartford, Connecticut for a while and then joined the San Francisco Chronicle. After Pearl Harbor he became editor for the Office of War Information and was in charge of broadcasts to the Far East.

Following the war, Dammann was one of two persons in charge of the foreign press for the United Nations conference in San Francisco.

After the UN conference, Dammann changed gears again and headed for Los Angeles to write for motion pictures.

He formed his own public relations firm in Hollywood and LaJolla and became associated with the LaJolla Playhouse, which Time magazine called the most star-studded theatre in the country.

It was at the playhouse that he worked with Peck, Mel Ferrer, Dorothy McGuire, Jennifer Jones, Joseph Cotton and other Hollywood stars. "Gregory Peck was the finest executive I've ever had anything to do with," Dammann remembers.

During this period he also worked as West Coast correspondent for the Times of London. He bought a farm in southern California and became active in local politics.

By 1959, however, he was ready for overseas reporting again. He sold the farm and returned to Europe, the Far East and the Mideast as a syndicated columnist.

Before leaving he received a tip from Richard Nixon's press aide that the vice president would be in Moscow later that year. Dammann arranged to go from Poland to Moscow where he stood behind the vice president during the famous "kitchen debate" at the American pavilion. "Nixon was slaughtered," Dammann recalls. Khrushchev was a real alley cat fighter."

Dammann then temporarily left his wife and kids in Moscow and toured Russia with Nixon.

In 1964 he was nominated for the Pulitzer for breaking the story that the Egyptians were using phosgene gas in Yemen.

The tip for the story came from King Faisel during an interview. Dammann proceeded immediately to Yemen where he found victims of the gas to support the story.

The same year he had an interview with Nehru and was the first person to hear that the Chinese had crossed into India to begin the border wars.

In 1964 he was also in Vietnam talking with the commanding officer when General Westmoreland came in the office to take over the U.S. operations there.

He was in the Middle East again during the 1967 seven-day war between Egypt and Israel and broke a scoop that the Russians were rearming Egypt.

Dammann continued to rise in mines throughout the Middle East, North Africa and as far away as Taiwan where he interviewed Chiang Kai-shek.

His syndicated columns, written with his first wife, were carried for many years by Field Enterprises which owned the Chicago Sun Times and later by the Chicago Tribune-New York Daily News syndicate.

In the early 60s he also covered eastern Europe for the World Book Yearbook.

During one of his many, many world trips, Dammann noted a movie that he thought sure to Cyprus because it looked like was between the Greeks and the Turks. Enroute to Geneva to hear Khrushchev, Dammann stopped at Nicosia. There was no room in the hotel where the correspondents were staying, so he found a place at a country little hotel and registered on the

"A guy came in with the goddamnest costume I've ever seen – British naval officer's cap, swashbuckler, paratroopers boots – and ordered a brandy and ginger ale.

"It struck me as an appalling combination," Dammann recalls. He mentioned that fact to the who turned out to be the chief intelligence officer for the Secretary. He was head of a group of British, Turkish and Greek officers that were dispatched to various places around the island to put down any conflicts or flareups.

Dammann asked if he might and soon ended up dinner to the amusing with endless flying overheard – three on one side, Greeks on the other. The story of that unusual meeting was reported in the London Times.

He married his second wife Sara Gay, in 1967 and they went back to the Midwest once they returned to Lake Charlevoix in 1970 to settle down and raise their family.

They lived at first at the summer home his family had owned until it the summer of 1971, before building a year-round house on the Horton Bay property.

Lake Charlevoix was a familiar part of Dammann's life – Tom made his first visit when he was three months old to his grandparents' cottage at the Belvedere Club. "The earliest memory I have," Tom says, "is of the swans down on the river by the Chicago Club."

The Pan-Am flight from London to Chicago travels directly over Lake Charlevoix. Tom and Sara Gay were on the flight in 1969 on a return to the States. "I pointed out the window and told her that was where we were going to live."

Now the itinerant life calls again. If possible, to be warmer, by the increased risks of world terrorism.

"We considered all the risks involved and consulted with the FBI. Our conclusion is that we take much greater risks driving into Charlevoix during winter whiteouts than of getting caught in a terrorist situation," Dammann concluded. "Sometimes you get you take chances."

The lifelong world traveler also finds the benefits for his children alluring. "We are dedicated to the idea of exposing the kids to other cultures. It is important to learn that we are just a small part of this world."

Few have borne as great a witness to history as has Tom Dammann in his fifty years reporting from datelines across the face of the globe.

Jordan River restoration needed

The DNR received a clear message at last week's public hearing on the Jordan River salmon blocking weir: the vast majority of citizens and public officials support a weir.

There is a small group of fishermen who oppose the closing of a small section of the river below the weir to fishing for the two months of the salmon run. But even among this group, there is little real opposition to the weir itself – the argument is against the closure of fishing.

Closing streams to public fishing below weirs during the salmon runs has been instituted by the DNR for the simple reason that wherever it has not been done there is chaos and anarchy. Snaggers possessed by salmon fever have trampled banks, harassed and beaten legitimate fishermen, and destroyed private and public property.

To prevent this outrage, the DNR has instituted its policy of closing the area immediately below a weir where thousands of dying and decaying salmon congregate during the spawning run.

The unfortunate price legitimate fisherman have had to pay on the Jordan River is the loss of a small section of stream for a short period of time. This is an inconvenience for those who want to fish this area for anadromous runs of brown trout and early steelhead runs, but it should be noted that the main fall steelhead fishing on the Jordan is in November when the weir is out and that the river above the weir as far upstream as Grove's Crossing is open all year long – even during the salmon blocking period.

All sportsmen and conservationists should rejoice that the DNR has finally resolved to block salmon in the Jordan. For over a decade the river has been brutalized by massive runs of these fish. Anyone who has ever witnessed these massive runs of large fish in the upper river knows the destruction they can do to the habitat of resident populations of brook and brown trout. Anyone who has fished the river in recent years knows that the small salmon fry are everywhere, outcompeting resident species for food and habitat.

Scientific evidence of the phenomenon is lacking, primarily because so little research has been done on the subject. But the empirical evidence is clear to the many fishermen who have followed the demise of this river over the years.

Now that the DNR has resolved to do something about these destructive runs of salmon, it is gratifying to see the vast majority of concerned citizens support the effort.

But the visioning of the agony of the Jordan River must not be limited simply to blocking salmon. There should also be widespread public support for recent efforts by Trout Unlimited, the Wildlife Habitat Foundation, the DNR and other groups to stop the destructive sedimentation of the stream. Sand, or sediment, has been pouring into the Jordan from road crossings, a scenic road that runs too close to the river, trampled banks and canoe put-in sites. The result is a loss of habitat and fish.

In this issue the research findings are clear. Sand and sedimentation can and has populated brown trout.

The DNR is beginning a process of removing the sand through the use of sand traps – large holes dug in the river bottom at various intervals which collect the sand so that it can be dredged out and taken away from the stream.

This effort needs continuing support and financing through such groups as Trout Unlimited and the Michigan Wildlife Habitat Foundation.

More important, stringent efforts must be made to control the sources of sand and sediment entering the river.

The Jordan River is one of nature's rare gems. It is potentially one of the finest trout streams – and certainly among the most beautiful – in North America.

But it has suffered greatly in recent years, and although it remains beautiful, it is but a shadow of its former self as a flowing river.

The time is now to restore the Jordan to its former glory. And there is no better place to start than: strong public support and state resolve to block salmon from the river.

Letters to the Editor:

Time to stop condos

Dear Editor:

Old Charlevoix, remember the inscription on the wall of the old dime store corner of Bridge and Park? that began "Charlevoix the Beautiful, the resort city on three lakes. First named Green River then Pine River until..." The signature following that succinct paragraph was simply – Earl A. Young, Realtor."

More time has past since I last saw that quiet and many fine improvements have been made in the beautiful resort city on three lakes including the new bridge, the new hospital, the trees lining the downtown business district, the historical museum, the fantastic petoskey project, improvements in East Park and much more.

We Mothers do miss Hooker's Barn and the sights and smell of the horses clopping to and from the paddock, but most would agree that Olesen's Shopping Center is an acceptable modern convenience.

I would like to say, "Charlevoix, you're not getting older, you're just getting better" – but that is not entirely true. The stately pines that marked South Point have been replaced by Medusa. The Lake Michigan view from the top of the north hill has been blocked by high rise condos. Much of Round Lake's now almost entirely ironclad shore is occupied by condos.

There are condos on the channel, on the bluff over Ferry Beach. There are even condos where Hemingway Pointe used to be. And now there are plans to invade those beautiful and fragile sand dunes at North Point. Why? To build more condos!

The responsible people of the Charlevoix area must realize it's time to stop and assess the situation. Time to consider whether such "development" is ever necessary or desirable and if it is, must it be done now? It is time to take positive action to protect the priceless shorelines on which Charlevoix the Beautiful does and will forever rest.

Enjoyed absence of condos

Dear Editor:

This past summer my wife and I vacationed in your area, enjoying horses at the Emmet County Fair and sailing on Torch Lake.

On the way home we decided that the one thing we especially enjoyed was the lack of rows and rows of condominiums and other developments.

We feel that it is the lack of these types of developments and a still uninterrupted view of your waters that makes it possible to refer to it still as "Charlevoix the Beautiful."

Here's hoping you will be able to maintain your treasure for as many generations as our Dear Lord grants us. Best wishes for this New Year and may you all be warm, healthy and filled with the Holy Spirit.

Florist shop supported

Dear Editor:

It begins to be passing by, that Rhea Peabody has done a beautiful job of beautifying this part of that block on Petoskey Avenue. There are three other commercial establishments on that corner already, the largest of which is a considerable addition to the beauty of Petoskey Avenue. The hassle to get Roger got to open is flower shop there, seems pretty childish.

Cheerleading help appreciated

Dear Editor:

I was employed by Charlevoix High School as cheerleading coach for the 1984-85 school year. I coached the junior varsity and varsity cheerleading squads during this time.

This was a challenging and rewarding experience and accomplishments. During this period I was associated with extraordinary talented and gifted high school students.

I resigned from this position in the fall of 1985 and I wish to thank the board of education and administration for accepting my resignation without question.

A special thank you to Gordon VanWieren and the central office: Vane Smith and Joan Grubaugh for their time, understanding and cooperation; Vince Olach and Barry Anderson for transportation; Chuck Bentley, Glenda Ferguson and the high school office for their support, and encouragement from Marcus Trumper, parents and friends.

Rosa Parks

by Bob Dietz

Sometime before I make my final great newsroom in the sky I want to meet Rosa Parks – the little black lady who gave substance to the civil rights movement by refusing to give up her seat on a Montgomery bus to a white man on Dec. 1, 1955.

Ms. Parks, who now lives in Detroit, is one of my heroes, and I hope she doesn't mind if I give her a brief word on these pretentious pinfeathers.

You have to be middle age or older to remember the days when in the Old South when by tradition and law blacks were second class citizens – not much better off than they were during the days of slavery.

Detroit itself wasn't such a paradise of anti-discrimination. Segregation kept the Northerners traveling through the South comfort – help out feel embarrassed by some of the rules imposed upon blacks.

One of the most painful was the requirement that blacks ride in the back of buses and other forms of public transportation.

I'll never forget a journey I made by bus into the Deep South in 1948. The trip originated in Detroit and the passengers – both blacks and whites – sat where they pleased. The trip was not an organized tour or anything of the sort, just a regular bus run. But before we reached Toledo we knew each others' names. And by the time we hit Columbus we were all singing like larks. "Down by the O-Hi-O, I've got the cutest little O-Mi-Ou..."

Then came Cincinnati on the Ohio River – traditional line of demarcation between the North and the South. After a rest stop we all boarded the bus to cross the river and enter Kentucky. The blacks, almost instinctively, moved to the back of the bus and whites, somewhat confusedly, were relegated to seats up front.

We never sang another word on the way to Miami.

I HAD ENCOUNTERED segregation on public transportation once before, during a trip to Washington, D.C. during World War II. One day I had a few hours to kill and I boarded a bus headed into rural Virginia.

In the mid-town, run, I sat at the front because the benches were all dirty or the only I wanted to see everything. About 15 miles into Virginia, the bus pulled up in front of a general store in a small town – the end of the line – and everyone disembarked.

I ran into the store bought a candy bar and then glanced back at the bus but the driver was gone. Wondering what was going on, I went to the rear of the bus and stretched out on the back seat for a few minutes. Another driver and I was becoming bored.

A few other passengers – blacks and whites – boarded and finally the driver appeared. He stopped, took the money I was charged and engine. But the bus didn't move. He wheeled and walked and watched.

Finally I walked to the front of the bus and asked the driver what the problem was.

"We're waiting for enough passengers to make it worthwhile to operate the bus," he said as I was expected to sit.

I was puzzled and had enough sense to think that my presence alone would make it worthwhile. But a moment later I was seated in the front of the bus and we continued on our way.

But when I walked into a white men's restaurant in Miami I was told I couldn't be served there. I was told I had been given a ticket.

Rosa Parks and I probably would have much in common if we could have been given a ticket.

Chamber Chatter

by Claudia Kamfleck
Executive Director

At the Annual Chamber Board of Directors Retreat Wednesday, Jan. 15, the outgoing and incoming directors participated in a six-hour policy-making goal-setting session.

The new executive committee for 1986 is: President, Gary Glenson; first vice president, Dave Strawbridge; second vice president, Harold Scratch; and treasurer, John Gebs.

The energy, enthusiasm, and commitment of the Board should have a real positive effect on the Chamber membership. The Chamber expects to become a more vital part of this community. As evidenced by the type of leadership displayed on the Board, this year should be remarkable.

The new 1986 Board members are: Suzie Bell from SK & Shore Charlevoix; Barry Kloczynski from Bell's Hallmark Shoppe; Dave Peng from Central Drugs; and Sam Agnello, C.P.A.

Other Board members serving are: Scott Bentley, Manager, McKeown; Ester-McKeown Funk; Gordon VanWieren, Charlevoix Public Schools; and Tom Wurth, Bill Bridge Street Restaurant.

Other new faces of support to the Chamber Board, Dick Copeland, recently resigned became of other commitments. Dick continues to be a consistent chamber supporter and promotes the business industry and community. Chuck Wade, thank you for the many contributions. Filling the remaining years of his term is Dave Strawbridge.

As the Chamber moves into 1986, many events from the community will be more information than ever before. Be sure to read your newsletter and watch the mail in any way possible that you can stay in the Chamber and be as aware as you would like to across the community.

Volunteers are a major support for non-profit organizations. The Chamber needs you. Make the Chamber aware of your concerns and ideas. Let's all work together to make business and community a stronger, and maintain the quality of life we have all come to enjoy.

The next board meeting will be held on Thursday, Jan. 23, 8:30 a.m. in the conference room of Bell's. All chamber members are encouraged to attend the meeting. Winter Expo development will be making a presentation.

Weir hearing

Evans in the meantime, at the very least, can increase the weir site in the Jordan River Natural River zone, but does not oppose a site below Ingalsa Bridge.

Conservationist Sierra Emanuel noted that the Grand Traverse Bay Council had planned a presentation in complete support of the DNR plan. "We are going to have a full salmon program with those few streams they are blocked off," Emanuel said.

Also speaking in favor of the weir were Dan Miller, president of the East Jordan Chamber of Commerce, and Pat Sweet, mayor of East Jordan.

Randy Visser of South Arm Township was among those objecting to the weir. Visser was angry that the weir would be placed in the mainstream of the river. "We can't see anyone in the area like in the Jordan River Natural River zone,"

Girl skiers win at Grayling

Charlevoix Rayder ski teams stopped off their activities last week with the Charlevoix girls winning a triangular at Grayling and the boys team coming in second.

The Charlevoix girls had 37 points to Grayling's 44 and Kalkaska's 85. Grayling won the boys meet with 80 points; Charlevoix was second with 48 and Kalkaska with 79.

"I felt that this meet gave me an opportunity to see some of my younger skiers in action. It's important that they compete to give them confidence so I used a lot of my younger skiers who performed very well," Coach Erik Lundteigen said.

Charlevoix girls, took the first three places in the giant slalom and the first two in the slalom. Sue Miller was first, Nonie Pace second and Lauren Pace third in the giant slalom. Carla Hoffman placed eighth and Sheryl Miller 11th in the event.

In the slalom, Wendy Voisin was first, Allison Hall second, Monica Havens, ninth and Hoffman 11th to account for the Rayder points.

The boys team competed without their top three performers - Jason Brindel, Matt Lignell and Brian Wilmot - giving several other skiers a chance to show what they could do.

Jim Morgridge placed first in the giant slalom and fifth in the slalom; Karl Erber sixth in the GS and second in the slalom; Jason Fetig ninth in the GS and sixth in the slalom; Matt Dixon 10th in the GS and ninth in the slalom; Charlie Withoeft 13th in the GS and 11th in the slalom; and Curt McCandless 14th in the GS and 13th in the slalom.

The teams will be at Hidden Valley, Wednesday, with Gaylord, Petoskey, Bellaire and East Jordan. On the following Wednesday they will be at Boyne Mountain with Boyne City, Bellaire and Sault Ste. Marie. The meets are at 1 p.m.

Rayders win two

The Charlevoix Rayders rolled to an easy 69-51 victory over Rogers City on Tuesday, upping their season record to 8-1 and keeping them tied with Cheboygan for the lead in the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference.

The game was close through the first quarter with Charlevoix holding a 16-14 advantage, but the Rayders opened things up after that point, shutting down the Huron's offense and taking a 34-18 lead at the half.

"I was really pleased with the kids who came off the bench, coach Dave Smith said afterwards.

Everyone played for the Rayders and 10 of 12 players scored. Sean Ferguson led both offensively and defensively, pulling down 15 rebounds and pumping in 19 points. Jim Ciuk, starting for the Rayders, had 12 points on the night and Dan Drury came off the bench to chip in 10 points.

For Rogers City, Harry Guentenber hit 12 points and Scott Orr added 10.

IN ACTION on Tuesday, the Rayders overcame a sluggish start but managed to spring back for a 60-45 victory over cellar dwelling Grayling (1-8).

The Vikings took a surprising 11-6 first quarter lead but Charlevoix came back strong to go up by 28-21 at the half. After three periods the Rayders had built the lead to 37-27.

"We did not play that well," said coach Smith. "We had a rough start but I expected a letdown after last week (when Charlevoix beat Gaylord and Cheboygan).

Ferguson was high point man with 23 and Ciuk added 13. Jim Gibbs came in to add 9 points and five other Rayders shared in the scoring.

Ferguson led the rebounding with eight boards.

For Grayling, Tom Bacon and Dave Sommerville had 12 points each.

Charlevoix scored 24 field goals, 13 of 25 from the line and picked up 16 fouls.

Sue Miller placed first in the giant slalom at Grayling's Bear Mountain.

JVs roll to easy wins

The Charlevoix Rayder JVs rolled to an easy victory over the young Grayling Vikings on the latter's floor Tuesday night, outscoring their hosts 63-49.

The young Rayders edged to an 18-11 quarter lead which they increased to 40-19 at halftime and 52-24 going into the final period as Coach Dick Swenor emptied the bench.

Charlevoix outscored the Vikings 29-17 from the floor and had five of seven from the line while collecting 12 personal fouls. Grayling scored on five of 14 free throws and had 14 personal fouls.

Chad DeVries had 23 points, Scott DeYoung 17 and Jeff Skeel 10 for the Rayders. Jon Kinnee had 12 for the Vikings.

Matmen get first wins of season

The Charlevoix Rayder matmen split their Tuesday matches, winning over Frankfort 41-23 and losing to Kalkaska 43-30 last Tuesday. It marked the team's first win of the season.

"Despite having three weights out because of illness and two due to injuries, we managed to win six of seven matches to defeat Frankfort," Coach Greg Bryan said. "Because of the match-ups in forfeits, Frankfort did not have as great an advantage as Kalkaska did. In the latter meeting we won three of five."

Bryan went on to say he was especially impressed with Scott Novotny (112 pound class) and Jason Whitley (132) who wrestled well and showed much improvement.

The Rayders chalked up their second win of the season over Onaway 41-31 but was over-powered by a strong Petoskey squad 72-6 in action on the local mats Thursday.

"Dan Kelly wrestled well in both meets, winning each time. Jason Whitley and Jamie Whitmeth also showed real improvement," Coach Greg Bryan said of his wrestlers.

"As a team we are getting a little more confidence. Some of our new members are beginning to see the light at the end of the tunnel," he added.

Of the Petoskey team he commented "Petoskey is just too experienced for us to handle. They have a very balanced squad with no weak weight classes."

In the Frankfort meet, there were double forfeits in the 98 and 105-weight classes before Novotny lost to Jeff Letterman by a 10-6 decision.

119-pound weight class John McCall (Frankfort) won by forfeit.

125: double forfeit.

132: Whitley (Cx) pinned Mike Racynarek in :55.

138: Mike McAlbum (Fr) won by forfeit.

145: double forfeit.

112: Scott Novotny (Cx) pinned Tony Freeman in 2:38.

119: Scott Saxton (K) won by forfeit.

126: Greg Jerkins (K) won by forfeit.

132: Jason Whitley (Cx) lost to Sean Lucas by a 14-6 decision.

138: Ray Martindale (K) won by forfeit.

145: Jeff Fairbaigh (K) won by forfeit.

155: Matt Hall (Cx) lost 9-4 to Todd Setting.

167: Dan Kelly (Cx) pinned Scott Mattley in 3:45.

185: Derek Dotcher (Cx) won by forfeit.

198: Jim Tilton (Cx) pinned Mike Long in :09.

Hvy.: Bill Marquardt (Cx) won by forfeit.

In the meet with Onaway:

126: Shaun Burr (Cx) was pinned by Tony Friday in 1:25.

132: Jason Whitley (Cx) pinned John Crawford in 3:25.

138: Dan Kelly (Cx) pinned Andy McGinnis in :09.

167: Kevin Pearsall (Cx) was pinned by Dave Dunham in :36.

185: Derek Dotcher (Cx) pinned Robert Peterman in 1:46.

Hvy: Bill Marquardt (Cx) lost 7-1 to Chris Miller.

The 98 and 105-pound weight classes were double forfeits; for Charlevoix: Scott Novotny (112); Jason Wiser (119) and Jamie Whitmeth (132) won by forfeit. For Onaway: Todd Friday (145) and Jerry McGinn (190) also won by forfeit.

In the meet with Petoskey:

155-pound class: Kelly (Cx) pinned Rick Main in 1:46.

112: Novotny was pinned by Chris Guerman in 1:38.

119: Wiser was pinned by Mike Guerman in :36.

126: Whitley was pinned by Chris Stowe in 1:06.

132: Lost by a technical pin 15-1 to Dan Green.

138: Monteith was pinned by Brant Fortune in 2:56.

167: Pearsall was pinned by Adam Richelieu in 2:26.

185: Dotcher was pinned by Paul DeBoe in 1:57.

Hvy.: Marquardt was pinned by John Parkelain 1:02.

Bill Nochtmer (98), Mike Eatchman (105), Eric Whitmeyr (145) and Joe Haggerty (185), all of Petoskey won by forfeit.

The team will be at Glen Lake Wednesday, at Grayling the following night and at the Petoskey Invitational on Jan. 25.

Freshmen chalk up two recent victories

The Charlevoix Rayder freshmen ran their season record to six wins and one loss after defeating East Jordan 67-59 on the latter's floor Thursday night.

The game was a seesaw battle until the last period when the young Rayders out-scored their hosts 14-5 for the victory. East Jordan took over 18-17 at the quarter only to have the Rayders edge to a 41-40 advantage at halftime.

Outscoring the Red Devils 12-19 as the second half got underway, Charlevoix went ahead 53-50 going into the final period when they put the game on ice by eight points.

Dylan Stewart led the way with 17 points followed by Shawn Putman with 17 and David Miller with 10. Gerry Czszewski had 18 points and Dan Pepin 17 for East Jordan.

Charlevoix will be at St. Ignace Friday and will host Boyne City Monday.

The Charlevoix freshman basketball team posted a 47-24 win over Central Lake Monday, Jan. 13.

Playing on their home floor, the young Rayders took over early and led the visitors 11-4, 22-14 and 35-18 by quarters before taking the game by a 23-point margin.

Shawn Putman scored 13 points and Dylan Stewart 10 for the Rayders. Craig Newton had 12 for Central Lake.

The team's next game will be at St. Ignace on Friday, Jan. 24. Boyne City will be here on Monday, Jan. 27.

Middle Schoolers win

The Charlevoix Middle School basketball teams made it two in a row Monday, Jan. 13 defeating Boyne City teams by decisive scores. The seventh graders came through with a 55-8 win and the eighth graders with a 43-20 victory.

Dennis Maillioux scored 12 points and Jason Parrish 15 as the seventh graders shot out the visitors at halftime 28-0. Four young Ramblers had one bucket each.

In the eighth-grade game, Charlevoix was ahead 19-16 at halftime before outscoring the visitors 25-14 in the second half for the 12 point win.

Chad DeYoung and James Corwin had 16 points each for Charlevoix.

Charlevoix will host Harbor Springs Wednesday Jan. 22.

Depot takes two more

The Depot of Boyne City added two more wins to their growing skein of victories last week by defeating Judy's Restaurant 86-75 and Kit Carson Lumber 76-71. In other action, Dr. Dave's Green Grinders won over Duffy's 82-74.

In their game with Judy's Restaurant, the Depot led 22-16, 44-32 and 63-51 by quarters before taking the game by an 11-point spread.

Dean Hicks poured in 34 points, Tom Beyer 16, Jeff Bellford 12 and Mark Gunter 10 for the victors. Randy Heisenbeck had 19, Tex Drenth 14, Rob Hilton and Jim Marsh 11 each for Judy's.

A fourth quarter surge by the Depot during which they outscored Carson's 25-19 kept the Boyne City team's record clean as action Thursday night. Carson had jumped to a 57-54 quarter lead and held on 39-35 at halftime and 55-54 at the three-quarter mark before bowing to the league leader.

Hicks had 26 points, Beyer 16 and Tim Hartwick 12 for the Depot. Roger Craig scored 17, Curt Vallenga and Tim Carey 12 each and Butch Hoester 10.

Duffy's started with Dr. Dave's Green Grinders tying the score 35-all at the quarter before the Grinders edged to a 41-40 halftime lead and increased the margin to 10 points, 64-54, going into the last period when they out-scored Duffy's for the 11-point victory.

Dick Swenor dumped in 36 points with Dan McKenzie adding 12 points, Dean Felix 11 and Dave Storm and Barney Way, 10 points each.

In action this week, Judy's Restaurant will meet Dr. Dave's Green Grinders at 6:30 and Carson Lumber will play Duffy's at 7:45 p.m. Wednesday.

Lake Charlevoix Advisory Committee works toward final management report

by PEG OHLE

Almost a year ago, on January 30, 1985, the Lake Charlevoix Management Advisory Committee began studying the many elements affecting Lake Charlevoix and adjoining areas as well as conditions which might be important in the future.

After 12 months of work, the committee has studied and acted upon a long list of agenda items, including water quality presentations covering the natural lake aging process; uses of water quality data; and self-help water testing programs; studies of soils, wetlands, and land use; differences in zoning laws among townships and cities; and preparation, distribution, and analysis of an "attitude survey" to learn how lake area landowners use the lake, view its water quality, feel about the adequancy of boat launching ramps and swimming beaches, and many other features of the lake and lake shore.

Water quality was on the agenda at a meeting last spring, when Dr. Darrell King, limnologist at Michigan State University, told the committee, "You have a good lake", and Richard Mikula, water quality expert from the Department of Natural Resources, echoed that assurance. Mikula further told about the lake studies his Department has made in the past and plans for future studies. Last summer, two County residents regularly took samples from Lake Charlevoix, and this program will continue in the future.

At other meetings, Ron Brown of the Department of Natural Resources explained the Wetlands Act, which governs the use of land determined to fall into that category; County Planner Larry Sullivan discussed the soil study made by the Planning Department a few years ago; and committee members learned about the uses being made of land in the Charlevoix area.

Also, last fall, Dr. Leighton Leighty, specialist in land and natural resources law at Michigan State University, talked about riparian rights, zoning, and matters of water use.

Several parts of the attitude survey have been analyzed to get an idea about what local landowners think about the lake area and how they would like to have it treated in the future. A comprehensive analysis of the study will be completed in the near future, and it will serve as a base for a Lake Management Plan.

The differences in zoning laws were brought to the attention of the committee by a study completed by students at Au Sable Institute. They found a total of 108 zoning districts in 10 ordinances around Lake Charlevoix, no two of which were the same.

In a broad sense, the Lake Charlevoix Management Advisory Committee has been studying, and continues to study, all aspects of the lake area, including the natural phenomena of topography, plant life, wild life, and water; physical, economic, social, and cultural makeup of local residents; and many other features of the area, including agriculture and industry.

Sullivan estimates it will take another two to three months for the committee to complete its agenda, to be followed by discussions for an outline and the writing of a Lake Management Plan in cooperation with the County Planning Commission.

"To date, we have been mostly in the educational process," Sullivan explained. "It will take another four to six months to write the Plan and hold public hearings. Then the Planning Commission can begin to work with the various governmental units to put elements of the Plan into the various zoning ordinances. One suggestion may be a county zoning ordinance.

"The Plan will help us find areas too sensitive for development and others that would be ideal. The recommendations will also be aimed at local and state regulations and laws, such as those governing boat hbilding tanks. We will also be able to use the material in considering other problems facing the County, including disposition of solid waste. Some people still believe we need more water quality studies, and we can continue with that," Sullivan added.

The Lake Charlevoix Management Advisory Committee consists of 15 people representing the seven townships and three cities bordering on Lake Charlevoix, environmentalists, land developers, and the County Planning Commission. They meet at least once a month, without per diem, in a Charlevoix or Boyne City location.

Members of the committee are Dr. John Hall, physician, representing the Lake Charlevoix Association; Jerry Puhl, school teacher, representing environmental groups; J. Richard Smith, real estate developer; Ivin Sturm, engineer, representing Bay Township; Clarence Goldstick, retired, representing Charlevoix Township; William Wasylewski, employee of the Boyne City Co-op, representing Evangeline Township; and Alan Sibinic, veterinarian, representing Eveline Township.

Also, Leah Green, county employee, representing Hayes Township; Paul Klingenberg, representing Marion Township; Robert Cummins, employee of DCI in Charlevoix, representing South Arm Township; William Grimm, retired head of the Charlevoix County Soil Conservation Service, representing Boyne City; John Friedly, computer salesman, representing the City of Charlevoix; Carl Beck, real estate salesman, representing East Jordan; and Larry Levengood and Tom Wieland, representing the County Planning Commission.

Service.

City Manager Michael Wiesner said a public hearing with seven days prior notice was required before the rate change could be approved.

Council agreed to hold the public hearing at its Feb. 3 meeting.

IN OTHER BUSINESS, Council passed a resolution "recasting" a purchase agreement from Charlevoix Development Company for the purchase of 300 feet of additional Ferry Beach frontage.

The new arrangement will include interest and holding costs in the purchase price so the city can recover one-half of all costs through the state's Land Trust Fund.

Council also approved the use of East Park for the following Chamber of Commerce events: HobbyCraft Show, July 12; Venetian Festival, July 24-27; Waterfront Art Fair, August 9, and Apple Festival, Oct. 11 and 12.

Obituaries

Gordon B. Todd

Gordon B. Todd, former Charlevoix resident, died Wednesday, Jan. 15, at Hayward, Calif. where he had lived since 1962.

Funeral services were held Monday at the Chapel of the Chimes in Hayward. Burial was in a Hayward Cemetery.

Born in Petoskey Jan. 6, 1905, Mr. Todd was raised in Charlevoix. He was graduated from the Charlevoix High School in 1924. He was employed at local business places including the Kroger Company before becoming executive secretary of the Charlevoix Board of Commerce, a position he held until going to Florida in 1939.

He later went to Texas where he became affiliated with the Dr. Pepper Company and in 1963 was transferred to California as the company's national accounts representative. He retired in 1972 after living in Glendale and Fresno before moving to Hayward.

He is survived by his wife, the former Evelyn Helms; three daughters, Mrs Donald Barbara Bellinger of Elk Rapids, Mrs James (Janet) Williams of Big Rapids and Mrs. Larry (Donalyn) McNeill of Sandy, Utah; nine grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Annabelle Cunningham

Funeral services for Annabelle Cunningham, 73, retired Charlevoix city treasurer, were held Tuesday at the Community Church of God. The Rev. Bruce E. Hamilton officiated. Interment was in Brookside Cemetery.

Miss Cunningham died Saturday, Jan. 18 at the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Born in Marion Township, March 20, 1912, Miss Cunningham graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1931. She served as deputy county treasurer for 26 years and as Charlevoix city treasurer for 19 years. She retired in 1979.

She was a member of the Community Church of God and Women of the Church of God. Board of directors of Pine River Place and treasurer of the Rainbow Shoppe.

Surviving are three brothers, Alvin D. "Hap" Raymond R. and Clyde E., all of Charlevoix; two sisters Mrs. Ole (Edna) Nielsen of East Jordan and Mrs. Gordon (Luella Tut) Bartlett of Ironton and Tavares, Fla., and many nieces and nephews.

The family suggests memorials to the Community Church of God or the American Heart Association, Michigan Chapter. Envelopes for this purpose are available at the Winchester Funeral Home which was in charge of arrangements.

Group seeks funds for performing arts

A group of concerned parents is making efforts to raise up to $10,000 as an endowment to cover expenses for the debate and drama teams.

The group says the money will go into a fund, interest from which will be used to pay travel expenses for the teams, buy scenery and costumes, and pay royalties and rentals.

Parents on the Performing Arts steering committee are organizing a fund-raising committee and expect to start soliciting individuals, businesses and professional people as early as next week.

"We will be asking for $25, $50, $100 and more," says Sara Gay Dammann, a member of the steering committee.

Dammann says the group is committed to one massive fund-raising effort, rather than a lot of small bake sales and the like.

As an example of the expense of running the program, Dammann says, last year's musical "The Music Man," cost the school $235 in royalties each time it was performed.

She also noted that the debate team travels by van but often does not have the money to stay overnight when going to such distant locations as Detroit. The result is that the team must begin the trip early in the morning and return late at night. "We feel it is not safe and doesn't give the kids the edge they need."

The first organizational meeting of the fund-raising committee was held Wednesday, Jan. 15.

The drama team will enter district competition on Jan. 25 at Petoskey High School. The regional meet is scheduled for Feb. 7 and 8 at a place to be announced and the state competition will be the following week – Feb. 14 and 15 – also at a place to be decided.

Sledding and tubing party planned at Mt. McSauba

It promises to be a great party – the Mt. McSauba sledding and tubing party scheduled for Saturday night, Jan. 25, and sponsored by the Charlevoix Recreation Department and Station 7.

The party will begin at 7 p.m. and last until 11 p.m. and will be open to everyone from youngsters in the seventh grade to grandparents and all those in between.

Tom Plunster and the Captain, Bill Vogel, will be on hand with live remote music for dancing in the lodge from 8:30 until 11 p.m.

The admission will be $1 for all participants and a treat of hot chocolate will be included in the admission price. Snacks will also be available at the lodge.

Those planning to attend and participate in the sledding and tubing party are reminded to bring their own tubes and plastic sleds, Dwight Boss, director of the Charlevoix Recreation Department, said.

For more information call 547-2387.

Memorials welcomed

Memorials for William C. Peck of Charlevoix who died Jan. 4 in Grand Rapids may be made to the Memorial Fund of the First Congregational Church or to the Charlevoix Area Hospital Memorial Fund.

Mr. Peck was for many years a member of the Charlevoix Area Hospital Board and was a longtime member of the First Congregational Church, serving as chairman of its board of trustees.

Lawyer joins local firm

Attorney Michael B. Buckingham has joined the Charlevoix law firm of Thomas D. Pommers, P.C., as an associate.

Buckingham received his Juris Doctor degree from Thomas M. Cooley Law School in 1985. He received Michigan State University and graduated from Marshall University in Huntington, West Virginia.

He has worked for the law firm of Jacobson, Early, Smit & O'Farrell and State Supreme Court Justice James M. Brenne. Following graduation from law school, he was employed as a research attorney for the Honorable Robert Hayden Bell of the 30th Judicial Circuit Court in Ingham County Michigan and for the past three years he has been an assistant prosecutor in Leelanau County.

Buckingham is a member of the American, Michigan, Bay County Bar Associations and the Prosecuting Attorney's Association of Michigan. He has practiced before the Probate, District and Circuit Courts of Michigan as well as the Michigan Court of Appeals.

Buckingham and his wife, Laurie will be residing in the Charlevoix area.

Youth shot in leg

A Charlevoix youth, Jeffrey F. Bergeron, 16, remains in fair condition at Northern Michigan Hospitals in Petoskey where he is being treated for a gunshot wound of the right leg on Jan. 4.

The incident, which occurred on the Nelson Street residence of a friend of the youth, remains under investigation by the Charlevoix City Police.

National Jaycee week honors service group

The week of January 19-25 has been designated as National JayCee Week.

In observance of the 66th anniversary of the organization, The Charlevoix JayCees will host a sleigh ride for the clients at Bergmann Center, John Loucks, president of the club, has announced.

The event will be held at the Archie Potter farm at 1 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 22. The group will then return to Bergmann Center for a social hour and refreshments.

The Charlevoix JayCees have been a part of the local scene for some time and have participated in a number of local events with little fanfare. Loupks, who is serving as the club's first president, explained that the organization is dedicated to community, individual and management development resulting in leadership. "We arrive at this goal while helping our community," Loucks added.

The sleigh ride for the Bergmann Center clients is but one of the projects in which the JayCees will be involved. Present plans call for operation of the children's trout pond in East Park during the Second Annual Charlevoix Area Trout Festival scheduled for mid-May. The trout pond will again be stocked with fish, children will be allowed to fish for them and, for each one caught, there will be $1 fee. The proceeds will be donated to the Big Brother-Big Sister Program of Charlevoix County.

Tentative plans are being made to participate in other community events.

Since its formation the JayCee group has participated in the first annual trout festival; conducted its own Thanksgiving turkey giveaway to 22 needy families and is presently conducting a raffle to raise funds for the 1986 event; actively participated in the Community Pantry Project at Christmas by making a donation and assisting with deliveries; and conducted a Burn Awareness program at the Charlevoix Elementary School during National Fire Prevention Week.

The group arranged for volunteer firemen to visit the school with the city's fire truck, distributed literature detailing methods of preventing burns in the home and gave "red ball" stickers to the children who were advised to place them on windows where members of the family sleep to aid firemen in evacuating a home in the event of a fire. The latter is a National JayCee project. Last fall's event was chaired by Erik Lundteigen.

Serving on the executive board with Loucks are: Karl Gilewicz, vice president in charge of community development; Jeff Wellman, vice president in charge of individual development; Dudley Stevens, vice president in charge of management development; Sherry Loucks, secretary-treasurer; Cheryl Barron, Linda Empey and Ronald Winchester, directors.

Membership in the JayCees is open to both men and women 18-35 years of age. Interested persons may contact Loucks at 547-6679 or Winchester at 547-6143 for more information.

The Charlevoix JayCees will host an Individual Development Seminar at the Pizza Hut in March.

Neil Simon play explores relationships

A Review

by DOUG TRUAX

Playwright Neil Simon lofts one-liners like soft fly balls to center field in his play "I Ought to be in Pictures" and the viewer can pick off the ones he likes and let the others sail by.

The Friday audience at the 218 Bridge St. Theatre was fielding their share of Simon's fungoes and enjoying every moment of it.

"I Ought to be in Pictures" chronicles the confrontation between Libby Tucker, a tough fast talking 19-year-old from New York and her father, Herb Tucker, a failed Hollywood playwright.

Libby, who has not seen her father in 16 years, suddenly shows up at his sleazy Hollywood bungalow, looking both for a break in pictures and an understanding of her father.

It looks for a while like she will get neither. Herb is living at the fringes of Hollywood and prefers visiting the Hollywood Park Racetrack to meeting with young executives in Pierre Cardin suits, particularly since he has nothing to show them. Herb is consumed by a severe case of writer's block, an acute sense of his own failures as a writer and, buried more deeply, his abdication as a father to Libby and her brother.

It is a play of contrasts. Herb – paunchy and balding, indolent and unaspiring; Libby – young, filled with energy and unrealistic expectations, and carrying her resentment like a loaded revolver.

The confrontation produces the inevitable sparks, aided by the fact that Herb has a once-a-week live in girlfriend, Steffy.

The characters grapple with their situations, and their emotional hangups, like wrestlers on the Saturday night tag team – there is a lot of posturing and bluff, but little solid contact.

Gradually, the masks are removed and the characters begin to interact with each other. Herb, played with a fine touch by William Gregory Etter, delivers lines that vascillate, between hardboiled humor and tragic self appraisal. Libby (Janice Tetrault) prods and parries in an attempt to drive her father out of his emotional hiding place. The girlfriend Steffy (Rebecca Zarna) adds a nice touch of conciliation to the battle between father and daughter.

Eventually the battle lines soften and Libby trades some of her Hollywood fantasies for an emotional understanding with her father. Herb, buoyed by his daughter's high spirits, shows signs of coming to grips with his life. The interchange is complete.

"I Ought to be in Pictures" will be shown at the 218 Bridge St. Theatre this weekend from Thursday through Sunday.

Curtain time is 7:30 p.m. on Thursdays, 8:30 on Friday and Saturday, and 5:30 Sunday.

Bullfrog Light Company seeks the good life in Charlevoix

by SARA GAY DAMMANN

"Any businessman with common sense goes to where he can sail."

With a wry smile, Bill Stewart, founder of Bullfrog Light Company, offers his semi-dogmatic explanation of why he loved his candle making business to Charlevoix from the Saginaw area.

Since December, Stewart and his crew have been setting up the complex of mysterious equipment and wax works to return the candle factory to full production, somewhere around 2,000 candles a day.

An unique pillar candle which glows from within when lighted, the Bullfrog Candle is the result of five years of refining an idea evolved from an after-school craft project by Stewart and his children.

The glow and the spiral stripes of color revolving the full length of the pillar are Stewart's secrets.

"The spiral stripes are not uncommon but these are the only candles where the wax spiral stripes are an integral part of the whole candle, not just surface coloring," Stewart explains, adding he cannot reveal anything about his process, for reasons of competition.

Not inexpensive, Bullfrog candles retail from $7 to $20 depending on the size and retailer. The nationwide distribution of the candles is just taking off and Stewart is somewhat amazed by his increasing success.

"The glow," which Stewart recognizes is the candle's major appeal, "was an accident."

"That's how smart I am," he laughs, stroking his braying beard. "It's sort of like falling down and breaking your nose on a diamond."

Bullfrog Candles, their glow, spirals and other trade secrets, did start with a stove top experiment that found Stewart lingering over the intrigues of wax long after his children wandered away bored. The candles and Stewart's success are a coalescing of his previous professions and background, which include engineering, psychology and fabrics.

Stewart was born in Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan, where his father Mahlon Stewart was judge. He planned to be an engineer and entered what was then Sault branch of Michigan College of Mining and Technology, now Lake Superior State College.

After transferring to Michigan Tech in Houghton, he switched directions and ended up with a Masters Degree in Education from Michigan State. He went to New York as a school psychologist, but returned to Michigan to join the family business, Stewart's Fabrics in Birmingham. His father and mother, Ada, had moved to southern Michigan when his father left his Sault Ste. Marie law practice. Bill opened a Stewart's Fabrics in Saginaw and bought an old farm house in St Charles.

"What intrigued me about fabrics was where they came from, how they were made, their color and designs."

It was soon after moving to St. Charles that his four children involved him in their candle making projects.

"Way back in my mind I began to think wax was fascinating," he recalls. The fascination simmered and grew until he came home from work years later and announced to his family that he was going to "leave the fabric business to start a candle factory."

The switch took several more years, during which time he put his engineering talents in gear, experimenting with the manufacturing ideas that eventually led to The Bullfrog Light Company. He also had to convince his wife Betsy, an English teacher at Arthur Hill High School in Saginaw, that he was serious. She was naturally dubious, he recalls.

"I figured it would cost about $700 to prove my method. It actually cost $5,000. We made all the equipment by hand. It was primitive – the precursors to this equipment, but it worked," he recalls with pleasure. He built his candle manufacturing plant in a small building adjacent to his St. Charles home. He was his sole employee, working at night after the fabric shop closed.

"An altercation" over a bill with Consumer's Power Company, and Stewart's musings of an alternative power company using the "swamp gas" from the Shiawassee Flats near his home, led naturally to the naming of his new business "Bullfrog Light Company."

He got a few orders, sold the fabric shop, had an accident, the candle factory burned down, and he started again. The second time it took closer to $35,000, and "slightly more sophisticated equipment," once again jury rigged from Stewart's mechanical drawings and built with the help of a St. Charles neighbor.

"My goal was to make a candle I thought other people would like. These are not typical machine-made candles. There is a lot of hand-crafting involved," he explains, adding that he personally developes each new design, each new color combination.

The spiral striped candles range from delicate pastels to bold reds and greens. Stewart has created a design with an inlaid agate effect on a white background and a candle that resembles a burl of fruit or maple.

By the time Stewart was ready to move to Charlevoix, and fulfill his dream of combining sailing and candle making, he was employing 16 people.

"We have stayed by 50 percent for the last three years."

Bullfrog Candles are available all over the U.S., including Barb's Hallmark Harbor in Charlevoix and Macy's and Bloomingdale's in New York.

The Charlevoix candle factory is now operating with seven employees. Stewart predicts he will have employed and trained 26-28 more people in July. "We really are not a manufacturing factory, that implies a lot of automation. I like to think of us as a group of people engaged in a craft," he says searching for a definition of his operation.

MichCon asks help with snow

The snows of winter have come early to northern and western Michigan, with more than 100 inches having already fallen in Charlevoix.

The heavy snows bring problems for Michigan Consolidated Gas Company meter readers. MichCon is asking customers to help by clearing away snow and ice from outside gas meters while they are shoveling sidewalks and driveways.

Although we are only into our second month of winter, snow accumulation in many areas is making it difficult to read gas meters," said William L. Johnson, vice president, district operations for MichCon.

Falling ice, snow drifts and bitter cold temperatures are tough adversaries for meter readers. When outdoor meters are inaccessible, customers will receive estimated bills.

Falling ice can damage meter connections and if ice and snow have accumulated around the meter, it then becomes a hazard in an emergency or if customers need repairs," Johnson said.

MichCon is a natural gas distribution company serving more than one million customers living in more than 430 communities across Michigan.

High water poses threat to waterfront structures

by PEG OHLE

Even ice and snow can't hide the fact that the levels of lake Michigan and Lake Charlevoix, and even tributaries such as the Jordan and Boyne Rivers are high.

Beaches have disappeared in many areas around the lakes, boat docks are under water, houses sit precariously on land that has become too close to the shoreline, and high bluff structures are losing their foundations as wind and waves batter and erode the lower part of the cliffs.

These violent acts of nature attest to the fact that lake levels are higher than they have ever been in recorded history. And predictions are that they will continue to rise, at least until mid-summer.

The January report of the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers tells us: At the beginning of 1986, Lake Michigan (and its tributaries) was more than one-and-a-half feet above its long-term mean monthly basis. Heavy precipitation caused new, record high levels to be set in April and continued throughout the summer and fall, bringing about more new record high levels in October through December and exceeding the previous high levels for December by about nine inches.

The Corps of Engineers' lake levels chart indicates that the Lake Michigan basin level will rise about another 12 inches by the end of June.

This is bad news for lake front property owners, as noted above, but high water causes other problems. Septic systems, such as those installed several years ago between the house and lake may fill with water and become inoperable. Roads, both public and private, located too near bodies of water may erode from lapping wave motion. Underground equipment such as pumps, heating units, plumbing fixtures, and utility wires may be endangered.

In a short survey, the Courier located several trouble spots and more possible trouble spots.

In the immediate Charlevoix area, residents of the Lake House, atop the bluff at the end of Pine River Place, are worried. Alyce Lesser, who has a home in the Lake House, told the Courier, "It's scarey. Our beach is Supporters of the Water's Edge condominium project rezoning have put up billboards on U.S. 31 at the north and south ends of Charlevoix.

Chamber endorses condo project

by DOUG TRUAX

The Board of Directors of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce unanimously endorsed the Water's Edge condominium project Thursday.

It was the first endorsement under a new Chamber policy adopted in October which set guidelines for business seeking Chamber approval.

The action followed presentations by First Centrum Corporation, speaking for the development, and ALERT, speaking against it. Each group was given 30 minutes to make its case to the Chamber Board.

First Centrum Corportation and John McGoff propose to build 208 condominium units on the 41.6 acres owned by McGoff at Water's Edge. The project was rezoned from R-2 ressidential to R-4 planned unit zone by the Charlevoix Township Board on August 12, 1985 with the rezoning taking effect Dec. 10. The rezoning is subject to a township referendum scheduled for Feb. 17 (see related story).

Marcia Trumper of ALERT (Area Leaders Emergency Response Team) told the Board that the 208 units proposed were too many. "That is an extremely high density for an area as sensitive as this," Trumper said.

There would be one unit for seven feet of lake frontage, Trumper said, making it 14 times more dense than any other shoreline development. The Water's Edge property includes some 1,450 feet of frontage.

The area is already saturated with boat docks, marinas, and condominiums, Trumper added, pointing out that there are currently 517 boat slips in a 3-4-mile area north of Water's Edge.

Edward Oelschlaeger, president of First Centrum Corporation, told the Board that everyone agrees that the property is ideally suited for multifamily development." He said the density was not high and would be lower than other developments on Lake Charlevoix like the Harborage and Hemingway Pointe.

Oelschlaeger pointed to the economic benefits of the proposed development. Water's Edge would contribute $650,000 to the tax base when fully built, he said, and would have very little impact on the schools.

The project would generate 150 to 160 construction related jobs and would purchase $8 million in materials. Oelschlaeger said there would be eight to 10 permanent jobs created, including security guards, a dockmaster, and rental personnel. He estimated there would be a $90,000 payroll per month during construction.

When completed Water's Edge would have some 150 units available for rent, Oelschlaeger said.

When completed, Water's Edge would have some 150 units available for rent, Oelschlaeger said.

"We need your help in this community," he told the Board. "We have not had any help from the press and we seek your support to get the message out."

The developer said condominiums would replace some of the inventory of housing that has been lost in Charlevoix since the turn of the century.

Steve Andreae, realtor and head of the pro-development Northern Lower Michigan Development Council, told the Board "The only obvious decision the Board can make is to endorse the project if the object of the Chamber of Commerce is to promote commerce."

Board member Gordon VanWieren said he had talked with many members of the Chamber and found they supported Water's Edge. "I think we'd be remiss if we didn't support it," he added.

Rick Lobenherz of Ski and Shore realtors told the Board the endorsement could help defeat the referendum. "The Board's approval can go a long way toward getting the right decision on the referendum," he said. "I see a real danger in having

Area man missing

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department was using metal detectors and magnets Tuesday to search under the Lake Charlevoix ice for evidence of Rex Blanchard, 55, who has been missing from his home on Sequanota Road since noon Friday.

The Lake Charlevoix search followed reports from three eyewitnesses who observed a truck matching the description of Blanchard's on the ice at approximately 1 p.m. Friday.

Blanchard's 1983 blue four-wheel-drive Chevrolet pickup with license number CD 5506 is also missing.

Blanchard is described as 5 feet tall, 200 pounds and has brown hair and brown eyes.

Family members, including his wife Joan Blanchard, Charlevoix County equalization director, had no information about his whereabouts.

Anyone with information regarding the missing man is asked to call the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department at 547-4461.

Show held over

The Neil Simon play "I Ought to be in Pictures" is being held over at the 228 Bridge St. Theatre due to popular demand. Originally scheduled to end last weekend, the play will be shown again Thursday, Jan. 30 through Saturday Feb. 1. There will be no Sunday showing.

Dinner begins at 6 p.m. on Thursday and 7 p.m. on Friday and Saturday. For those attending only the play, show times are 7:30 Thursday and 8:30 Friday and Saturday.

Middle School may be charged for TCE cleanup

Richard Johns, chief of the DNR groundwater quality division, says the Michigan Department of Natural Resources may ask the Charlevoix Public Schools to clean up groundwater contamination at the Charlevoix Middle School property.

The Middle School is the suspected site of trichlorocethylene (TCE) contamination which has seeped into the aquifer beneath Charlevoix and contaminated the city well.

The Environmental Protection Agency recently told Gov. James Blanchard it is not altering its proposal to leave the contaminated water in the ground while monitoring it as the water migrates toward Lake Michigan.

"As drafted, the DNR letter proposes that the school system voluntarily undertake cleanup action, according to Johns.

Under department policy, Johns said, if a potentially responsible party does not voluntarily take action, the DNR could use state or federal funds to clean up the contamination or take legal action against the responsible party.

Campaigns kick into gear on Water's Edge referendum

The campaigns to win the hearts and minds of voters in Charlevoix Township to the Water's Edge rezoning issue have begun in earnest.

Billboards supporting the Water's Edge rezoning have appeared at the north and south ends of Charlevoix on U.S. 31. Opponents of the rezoning have begun a direct mail campaign, and both sides are planning advertising efforts in the time remaining before the referendum vote.

At issue is the rezoning of 41.6 acres on Water's Edge from R-2 residential to R-4 planned unit zone. The rezoning would permit Water's Edge owner John McGoff and the First Centrum Corporation to develop up to 208 condominium units on the property.

The property was rezoned by the Charlevoix Township Board on August 12 and took effect December 10.

ALERT, a group opposed to the rezoning, filed petitions with over 476 signatures asking for a referendum to decide the issue.

Charlevoix Township voters will go to the polls on February 17 to vote for or against the rezoning.

Both sides are confident of victory. "We are getting a tremendous response from people," said Marcia Trumper of ALERT (Area Leaders Environmental Response Team). "There are a lot of people in this township who want to see this R-4 rezone go down."

Ed Oelschlaeger, president of First Centrum Corp., said he thought the issue was public confidence in the leadership of the township. The election will depend in part on the turnout, he said. "If there is a large turnout we will probably win. If there is a small turnout we will probably lose."

Jacquie Mertz, sales director for McGoff's Star of Charlevoix cruise ship, is heading a group called Charlevoix Township Vote of Confidence Committee to support the rezoning of Water's Edge. The committee, Mertz said, has paid for the two billboards on U.S. 31 and is buying newspaper advertisements. "We will also be sending out informative fact sheets," Mertz added. "We'd like everybody to be able to read the facts. We'd like the voters to be informed to make a more intelligent decision."

Trumper said ALERT has sent out two direct mail letters to township residents and plans to send another prior to the election. The group will also be taking out newspaper ads, putting up posters, and telephoning township residents, she said.

"I think people are tired of hearing about condominiums," Trumper said. She noted that there are 517 boat slips in the three-quarter-mile area north of Water's Edge.

The recent decision of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce to endorse the Water's Edge project will help supporters of the R-4 zoning, according to Susi Reis of Ski and Shore who is heading a Chamber committee to support Water's Edge rezoning.

"The Chamber is going to get behind the project as much as we can," Reis said. Support will come in the form of legwork and organization, she added. "I wish we could contribute funds (but) the Chamber doesn't have the money."

Neither side is sure what to expect in terms of voter turnout. Carol Martin, township clerk, said after recent registrations there are now 840-845 registered voters in Charlevoix Township.

"I think the people we are going to hear from are the ones that feel strongly one way or the other," Trumper speculated.

Township votes Feb. 17

Residents of Charlevoix Township will go to the polls on Monday, February 17, for a special election to vote on the proposition, "Shall the decision of the Charlevoix Township Board on August 12, 1985 to rezone the property commonly known as 'Water's Edge' (identified by tax code 24-06-102-001-00 and 24-06-102-002-00 on the tax roll of Charlevoix Township) from R-2 (Low Density Residential) to R-4 (Planned Unit Development) be upheld?"

Registered voters of Charlevoix Township will be allowed to vote on the question. Voting will take place at Shroad Hall on Waller Road. The poll will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Glass will take an exploratory approach, developing students' abilities on an individual basis. Prior experience is not required.

Students will have to provide a limited amount of materials. For more information and to register, please call the McCune Arts Center in Petoskey at 347-4337. Class fee is $46 for six two-hour sessions.

School trips approved

Charlevoix High School foreign language students will make planned trips to Europe during the spring break in April following action by the Charlevoix Board of Education Monday, Jan. 20.

A delegation of 50 parents and students along with the French teacher, Yvonne Wendt, and Spanish teacher, Ted Miller, attended the meeting after learning that action regarding foreign trips would be on the agenda.

Wendt and Miller opened the discussion, mentioning the records of the student tour companies through which reservations had been made. Josh Barnes, speaking as a parent, presented figures of how many planes travel to Europe every day and the low percentage of attacks. Brian Anderson, a student, said that the Spanish group planned to spend only 1½ days in a large city with the remainder of the time being spent with families in the countryside. Wendt and Miller also said that student tours receive more security than the average tourist.

After hearing from everyone, Ardeth Wieland presented a resolution, seconded by Ronald Moore, tha the trips be permitted and that parents make any decisions regarding their student's participation.

In other action, the board awarded a bid for a new heating plant at the Charlevoix Public Library. Peters Electric with a bid of $3,275, was awarded the contract. Should the plant he proposed not meet all specifications. Advance Plumbing of Charlevoix whose bid was $5,620 will do the work. A total of eight bids was received, the highest for $8,200.

Vincent Olach, business manager, advised that the school district—must return $30,725.60 in taxes to the county which, in turn, will refund the money to the Chicago Club resort which had appealed to the State Tax Tribunal and won its case.

In the only other action, the board accepted, with regret the resignation of Barry Pierce as girls middle school basketball coach.

Larry Lemerand, president of the Sports Boosters, advised that his organization had raised $8,000 as seed money for the renovation of the Kipke Field sports complex at the Charlevoix High School. Ways of raising the remaining funds were discussed briefly. Supt. Gordon W. VanWieren said that the possibility of extending the 1.25 mills approved last year for one more year might be considered for this project. No action was taken on the issue.

Chamber director reviews first year

by DOUG TRUAX

She may just have the most visible job in town, and one of the toughest. After all, not even the mayor gets 10,000 visitors a year.

But Claudia Kenifeck, executive director of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, who as of next week will have been on the job for one year, appears to be enjoying her job, visitors and all.

"I knew it was going to be tough," Kenifeck says. "It is a no win situation because you can't please everyone."

Still, Kenifeck finds the job challenging and rewarding. "One of the biggest challenges is to interpret what direction the board of directors wanted to take. And I like the people part of the job – talking up Charlevoix with people that live here, not to mention the throngs of people that walk through the door."

Kenifeck says that between June and November some 8,000 people contacted the Chamber at its Bridge Street Office.

And what is their reaction to Charlevoix? "People ask 'How can I live here?' and they are curious how we do it," Kenifeck says. Nancy Kaufmann, Chamber office manager, fields a lot of the questions at the front desk. Her candidates for the most frequently asked questions are: Where is a good place to eat? and What's there to do? About half of the crowd is looking for solitude, Kaufmann says, the other half wants action.

But the role of the Chamber of Commerce is more than fielding visitor's questions and pointing people in the direction of a good restaurant or the Star of Charlevoix. It must seek growth and commerce and still promote what is best about Charlevoix – its beautiful surroundings. And it deals with a mixed clientele.

Charlevoix includes several distinct groups, Kenifeck says, including natives, tourists, reesorters, condominium owners, and people in retail, industrial and commercial businesses.

An example of the difficulty of representing all factions was a recent membership drive to solicit new members from the resort, condominium owners. The results, Kenifeck says, were "very disappointing." Some 350 letters went out with only 10 new memberships returned. "It was designed to give the opportunity to people who love this area as much as we do to support the Chamber," she says.

Nonetheless, she feels the Chamber still provides a unifying force. "The Chamber feels we are the umbrella for all these categories. Our mission is to be the energizing force for all groups."

Is it possible for Charlevoix to grow and still preserve what people come here for? "That goes beyond the scope of my job as executive director for the Chamber," Kenifeck replies. "Personally, I would like to think that could happen. We are trying to promote controlled growth. Carte balance growth is not the answer."

After a year on the job, Kenifeck feels the biggest frustration was simply "figuring out how things work." Another ongoing challenge, she says, is trying to convince people to help. "Maybe because I'm new in the community, I didn't have the ties to get the help I needed."

Among last year's accomplishments, was the acquisition of a computer and copy machine for the Chamber office. "Those tools have greatly helped to make us a viable business," she says.

Also on the list of accomplishments is a weekly newspaper column in the Charlevoix Courier, a monthly newsletter, and a successful membership drive that added 73 new members in 1985 and has already put 38 on the rolls in 1986.

"I'm excited about that kind of increased support," Claudia says.

She also points proudly to the Chamber's action to play a role in resolving the TCE problem and its help and participation in the Industrial Fair.

Nancy Kaufmann, office manager, and Claudia Kenifeck, executive director, over Chamber business.

The Chamber Board of Directors recently held a retreat to discuss the future of the organization. Among the top short-term priorities, Kenifeck says, is an effort to get more community involvement through a new committee structure designed to call on people from different segments of the community.

"We also want to promote new industry for year-round jobs," she adds. The Chamber has set aside $2,000 for promoting new industry and designing an informational package.

The Chamber is also concerned about the retention and expansion of existing industry. "We all know we need more year-round jobs," Kenifeck says. "It is probably time for a new industrial survey, similar to what was done in 1963."

Other short-term goals include trying to build up the ambassador group that welcomes new business and establishing a cash reserve for the Chamber.

Among the long-term goals approved by the Chamber was an effort to maintain the quality of life, or as Kenifeck says, "trying to keep the balance between growth which is inevitable and still enable us to live in the slower lane."

Kenifeck's enthusiasm for the job remains intact after a year of long hours and countless challenges – by one told her, she says, that she'd be spending some 60 hours a week on the job in the summer. Her view of the year ahead, like her unflagging spirits, is optimistic.

the general public vote on something when they haven't been given enough facts to vote intelligently."

Jerry Puhl, president of the environmental group WATCH and a member of ALERT, also spoke against the development during the formal presentation period.

Development is much needed for the Charlevoix area," he said. "We are concerned with overdevelopment."

A good development could be put in at Water's Edge, Puhl added, if the density was lower. "In the past 10 years a lot of people have seen what has happened to Charlevoix and it has turned a lot of people off."

Landscape architect William Johnson showed the Board a new site plan for the Water's Edge development.

Endorsement policy aimed at business

The Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce first addressed the issue of giving its blessing to various new enterprises after it was approached for an endorsement by Fox and Associates, which has proposed a development on Oyster Bay in Hayes Township, and First Centrum Corporation, developers of Water's Edge.

Having no policy at the time, the Chamber passed a resolution on August 15, 1985 which stated: "We the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, and its Board of Directors support controlled growth and economic development in the area, but we do not endorse or oppose individual development projects."

That policy was vigorously objected to by the Northern Lower Michigan Development Council, a group realtors and their representatives formed to promote growth in the area. Several members of the Council appeared before a subsequent meeting of the Chamber's Board of Directors and asked for the resolution to be changed. They argued that the Chamber should promote growth in the Charlevoix area and should give its endorsement to individual projects.

On October 21, 1986, the Board of Directors of the Chamber held a special meeting and passed a new policy statement which said the Chamber would give its endorsement if several criteria were met.

The new policy reads:

"The Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce fully supports responsible commercial endeavors.

"Anyone seeking the Chamber's endorsement for a commercial venture shall be scheduled to appear at a Board of Directors meeting after having submitted a written request and pertinent documents for perusal by the Executive Committee.

"The Board will consider all presentations and will extend their support to projects that will improve commerce in our community.

"All presentations shall be limited to thirty (30) minutes. They shall include information on, but are not limited to, the following: local employment impact during and following construction; capital investment in the community, effect on tax base; adherance to zoning and municipal laws; conformance to existing Master plan add changes required; status of project with various permit agencies, site plan and rendering; a summary of an environmental impact report if one has been filed on the project."

Chamber Chatter

By Claudia Kenifeck
Executive Director

All Chamber members are invited to attend the "first Chamber Business Mixer" of the year to be held in February. At that time, membership will have a chance to vote on by-law changes.

Several mixers are planned for 1986, to be sponsored by any interested member. The mixers are designed to get Chamber membership together in a social atmosphere, where ideas can be exchanged and communication enhanced. More details on the "Business Mixers" will follow.

At the first Official Board meeting of the year, the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors voted to endorse the Water's Edge project proposed to be developed on Lake Charlevoix. The Chamber Board feels this type of responsible growth will enhance the economic development of the area.

Now is the time to start thinking about the Charlevoix Winter Sports Carnival coming February 8 and 9. Sponsored by the City Recreation Department, Ike and Bo Boss promise another fun-filled weekend for all.

Saturday activities include downhill racing and bump-jumping races, Snow-cat rides to the top of Mt. McSauba will be available for those who want to take in one of the most spectacular views in all of northern Michigan.

On Sunday, the World Thunder-Tube Championships will be held. Immediately following will be the awards ceremony for the two-day carnival. Even if you do not participate, be sure to come and watch.

The Mt. McSauba lodge is open to the public. Concessions and restrooms are available.

Guest Viewpoint

Communication of TCE issue discussed

by Dave Knight

The industrial chemical trichloroethylene TCE, we have been told since October 1981, is gradually flowing into the groundwater beneath Charlevoix. What has also been flowing since that time, through not nearly as gradually, is a steady stream of news stories, position papers, editorials, news releases, public meetings and street talk about the situation.

One could say that the informational flow generated by the discovery of TCE in Charlevoix's water has been of certainly greater volume and possibly greater impact than the chemical itself.

Thus it was most appropriate for an EPA public affairs conference last week to examine Charlevoix as a case study of the roles media coverage and community relations play in dealing with environmental issues.

Attending the conference in Lansing were public affairs officers from natural resources agencies of the six states in EPA's Region V: Michigan, Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin and Minnesota. Almost all the sessions over the two-day conference dealt with new challenges facing DNR-type communicators in an era of increasing environmental awareness.

To address the Charlevoix experience, a panel was assembled with representatives of the Michigan DNR, the EPA, several print news media and the Charlevoix citizenry. I participated as a former reporter on the local level. Keep Charlevoix Beautiful president Bruce MacArthur was the other local panel member.

Initially, the ground rules limited discussion to how the EPA communicated its decision last fall not to pursue cleanup of the groundwater in Charlevoix, a decision which has stimulated a whole new round of controversy in the ongoing saga.

The DNR - and the governor's office - has taken the official stance that precedent must not be set by letting the contaminant flow toward Lake Michigan, regardless of plans to have a replacement water system on line soon. Don Inman, DNR chief of environmental enforcement, admitted that this position emerged despite internal disagreement within the agency.

He said that the DNR response deserved some hard study because of its many ramifications. But, forced by the EPA's hand, it was made more hastily than the DNR would have preferred. The media, Inman added, picked up on the internecine friction creating an embarrassing public affairs problem.

As the discussion continued, it occurred to me that there have been several times over the past four years of this ordeal when the message by the public was not that which was desired by the sender. Listening at DNR and EPA and even a Detroit Free Press reporter last week, one sensed firm conviction of righteousness on the part of everyone.

But how much of that good faith is perceived by the Charlevoix resident.

One city councilman was quoted a few weeks ago as saying he still thought the Whole TCE matter was "foolishness" and I don't think he's the only one in town who thinks that way.

In the minds of more than a few local residents, the Charlevoix TCE situation has been used by the DNR to provide legal leverage at other, more hazardous sites; used by the Department of Public Health to replace an aging municipal well; used by the Free Press to liven up an otherwise mundane environmental story; and used by a young city manager (now departed) and a young newspaper editor (now departed), among others, to embellish their resumes.

And that's what I told the panel.

As a charge for communicators, Charlevoix's groundwater communication could not be more formidable. Not only is the problem undetectable to the consumer, but there is still no identifiable source and no absolute data on its threat to human health. All people know about TCE in their water and what should be done about it is what they are told.

The fact that there is significant discrepancy between what is being told and what is being heard - or believed - indicates a failure in the system that hopefully can be avoided by the "Charlevoixs" of the future.

Picture identified

The picture of the combined kindergarten and first grade classes of the Lower Arm School in 1926 which appeared in the Courier of November 6 has brought much comment.

One student was identified as Charles Hendrickson, but that identification was later questioned. The final answer comes from Mrs. Charles Hendrickson, writing for her husband from Brown Deer, Wisconsin. "I found his picture right away for we have one very similar on the wall of our family room," Mrs. Hendrickson wrote.

Letters to the Editor:

Enough snowball soup

To the Voters of Charlevoix Township

Do you realize that most of the letters objecting to progress in Charlevoix are coming from people who make their living in other cities? Two of the most active do not even get their paychecks from our town!

We who live here need progress and our livelihood depends on growth and the income from it. We are not able to sit back with pensions earned in other cities and advocate no growth. Nor can we continue to eat snowball soup, and send our kids away to other jobs in other cities because they can't make it here.

Let's name progress that is good and well thought out, like these projects are. Nuff said.

Enough is enough

Dear Editor:

As a North Point property owner of 40 years corner of McSauba and Bay and a strong advocate of the preservation of priceless land, I heartily endorse your fine editorial of last January 8 entitled "North Point Should Be Saved." I'm sure this editorial will make a strong impression upon many Charlevoixans and hopefully will help abort this latest development.

We are among many summer residents who settled in North Point, bought land and have paid taxes for years in order to "get away from it all" and enjoy the beauty, the aesthetics of nature. If this project goes through, much of this will be lost, and in addition we would have a very substantial increase in traffic in North Point, probable McSauba street widening and lighting glaring from street lights rather than seeing nature's starlight, noise pollution and the final ironic result, a property tax increase.

Enough is enough and we've got to put our foot down NOW. Besides all this, there is a glut of condominiums in Charlevoix now.

On behalf of many citizens in Charlevoix and especially present North Point property owners, thank you so much for the sensible, strong stand you are taking in order to sustain the anti-development groundswell you have helped create, please consider two or three more similar editorials soon in the editorial writing meeting which I understand is now set for April.

Door to commercialization

Dear Editor:

A number of those who signed the petition of a flower shop owner supporting this request to relocate his business in a residential area are having second thoughts.

This now calling itself a move, even under "specific use" zoning, would open the door to commercialization of Petoskey Avenue, on the north side of Charlevoix.

Some city and planning officials are saying there will be controls to manage and/or preserve the scale under specific use but they're losing sight of the fact that a couple hundred citizens who attended several workshops in 1981 designed a master plan which discouraged turning Petoskey Avenue into a commercial strip.

In essence the master plan is about to be scrapped, even though there has been no compelling change in Charlevoix to warrant abrogating the master plan. Be sure to thought there's no other location available to the applicant.

In the future, it will be difficult for the Council to defend its zoning in court if need be, or to refuse other applicants who wish to complete a residence to business use.

By our enough reason to go with the master plan simply because an applicant spends a lot of time and money with a building group or zoning approval. Nor is it enough reason because a building looks "pretty."

The bottom line is whether taxpayers are going to spend $30,000 to plan our future and then sit back and watch City Council members make weak excuses as to why they feel compelled to accommodate this "special interest" over community interests.

Clockwise

Sweaty macho bigots

By Bob Clock

Perhaps I'm an insensitive clod, but I fail to understand why some women are so upset by a recent vote at the Detroit Athletic Club (DAC) to continue to bar women from membership.

One of the more vocal trumpeters against the DAC is Detroit Free Press columnist Nickie McWhirter who apparently has taken the vote as a personal affront.

I do not know why a girl of Ms. McWhirter's delicate sensibilities feels it is so all-fired important to rub elbows with people she considers sweaty macho bigots; but she does.

Under present bylaws, female relatives of DAC members are welcome to take part in most DAC activities — although they may not belong.

From here it appears that the only thing that will break down resistance to full membership would be a boycott of club activities by women who now enjoy the privilege through marriage or blood.

But as long as these women are satisfied with their lot, Ms. McWhirter will have to be satisfied with hers. And no amount of caterwauling in the public prints will help.

The DAC has spoken and that, my friends, is that.

I CONTINUE to stand with mouth agape at the exploits of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

On Friday, traveling faster than a Charlevoix police car, the spacecraft Voyager II, whizzed past the Planet Uranus and her many moons, sending back pictures of unusual clarity to Planet Earth.

The two planets are so far apart — almost two billion miles — that it took the pictures two hours and 45 minutes to reach Pasadena, Calif., traveling at the speed of light.

Earthlings with slide rules have arranged things so that Voyager II will pick up additional thrust from Uranian gravity, propelling the space lab toward a 1989 rendezvous with Planet Neptune.

The suprising thing about Voyager II is that it was launched from Cape Canaveral in 1977 — nine years ago — and has been poking around the solar system ever since, picking up a wealth of information about our neighbors in space.

How many 1977 automobiles are still on the road in good running condition?

ONE PARTING SHOT about Uranus.

It was named after Urania, the Greek muse of astronomy. But some bigot years ago had to masculinize the name of the planet to Uranus, making it the butt of many bad jokes.

I, for one, would like to have the planet renamed Urania, if only in the interest of mythological integrity.

Furthermore, why should Venus stand alone as the only planet in the solar system with a feminine name?

Out of the Blue

No idea came to me
Out of a headline
I could rhyme in time
For this week's deadline.

Haggard replies to building article

Charlevoix business man John Haggard replied to the Courier's recent story about building activity in Charlevoix County during the last 11 years as follows:

"Charlevoix County) $85 million in 10 years — thought you might enjoy seeing what the other part of the world is doing — $43 million in 11 months.

The $43 million building boom to which Haggard referred took place in Fountain Hills, Maricopa County, near Scottsdale, Arizona.

Haggard sent along a clipping from the Fountain Hills newspaper reporting there had been a 51 percent increase in the total number of residential units in Fountain Hills during the past two years. In 1985, the building permit valuation total was $30.6 million, with 484 residential units started. In the first 11 months of 1985, the building permit valuation was $40.3 million, with 508 residential units and 87 commercial units.

The residential permits included three large developments of 87, 57, and 58 homes, respectively. The commercial permits included a large shopping center and a satellite of the Mayo Clinic.

Commenting further on the growth of Fountain Hills, Haggard wrote, "Just goes to show what a progressive area can do to develop itself. We need this also to survive."

Incidentally, the newspaper clipping contained a weather report for the third week in December. The temperatures were: High, 67, 71, 72, 72, 73, 72. Low, 41, 41, 42, 41, 42, 42.

True value of North Point

Dear Editor:

My husband and I want to compliment you on the fine editorial you wrote pointing out to the community the value of the undeveloped land on North Point.

All of your points were well stated.

Please continue educating the public about the disasters that can occur when master plans are disregarded by a few, for financial gain of a few.

Artful coach is happy

Dear Editor:

As one of Erik's Lundeagen/former teachers, and later, coworkers, I am sure he is aesthetically pleased, but probably was ecstatic (delighted) about the ski team victory over Traverse City. Congratulations, Erik!

It warms our hearts to get a letter from Arizona, even if it is regarding one of our mistakes. I think our proof reading department had their eyes glazed over when this one slipped by. Thanks.

Engagements

Weddings

Linda Beal

Beal - Vallejos

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Beal of Charlevoix announce the engagement of their daughter, Linda, to Theodore Vallejos, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stan Vallejos of Homewood, Illinois.

The bride-elect graduated from Andrews University in 1984 with a bachelor of business administration degree in accounting and is now working on a master's degree at the University of Texas in Austin.

Every child who enters the Hospital is given one of these toys, which he or she may select from the assortment on hand.

Auxiliary to make stuffed toys

The Women's Auxiliary of the Charlevoix Area Hospital will hold a sewing workshop Thursday, February 6, at the home of AnnaBelle Webb, 706 Park Street, to make stuffed toys for pediatric patients at the Hospital.

All interested persons are encouraged to join the group. Sewing skill is not necessary because there will be other jobs, including stuffing the toys and painting or embroidering the faces.

Participants are asked to bring their own scissors and thimbles and a sandwich. The hostess will provide coffee and cookies.

Beth Camilleri and Christopher Cowie

Camilleri - Cowie

Beth Camilleri and Christopher Cowie exchanged marriage vows on Saturday morning, December 7, at Holy Trinity Church in Georgetown in Washington, D.C.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Camilleri of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom is the son of William Cowie of Baltimore, Maryland and Mrs. Lois Kirkwood of Long Island, New York.

The Reverend Father Larry Madden officiated at the double-ring rites, in which the bride was given in marriage by her father. The bride's gown was fashioned with a white velvet fitted bodice with full sleeves and a collar of moire taffeta. The gathered skirt was also of moire taffeta, and a fingertip veil with pearl tiara completed the costume.

The bride's bouquet was composed of white freesia and foliage tied with narrow white ribbons. The church was decorated with baskets of burgundy pink and white chrysanthemum blossoms and buds.

Mary Camilleri assisted her sister as maid of honor, and Denise Campbell served as bridesmaid. They wore tea-length gowns of burgundy taffeta fashioned with fitted bodices and modified mutton sleeves, and carried bouquets of chrysanthemum blossoms and buds with matching burgundy ribbons.

William Cowie, Jr. served his brother as best man, and Greg LaCava was groomsman. Michael Sordi and Patrick Camilleri assisted as ushers.

The bride's parents hosted a reception at the Phoenix Park Hotel following the marriage ceremony. The bridegroom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner at the 1789 Restaurant in Georgetown.

The bride graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1979, from the University of Michigan in 1983, and received a master's degree from Catholic University of America in 1985. She is employed as an architectural designer by Architrave in Washington.

The bridegroom is an architectural designer employed by Rounds, Vanduzal ASC in Falls Church, Virginia.

Following a wedding trip to London, the newlyweds are at home at 433 3rd Street, N.E., Washington, D.C. 20003.

Extension Service hosts communication skills two-day workshop

For those wanting to improve their communication skills, the Cooperative Extension Services of Charlevoix, Antrim, and Emmet Counties are sponsoring a two-day workshop called "Communicating Effectively."

The workshop will be held on two consecutive Saturdays, February 15 and 22, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the City Hall Auditorium in Boyne City. There will be communication practices, videos, lectures, coffee, and lunch.

In announcing the workshops, Janet Rathke, Charlevoix County Extension Home Economist, stated, "We have found that stress can be reduced and conflict can be positively handled if we learn to speak and hear less defensively."

Further information may be obtained from the Extension offices phone 582-6232, 533-6607, and 348-1770.

Free tax counseling available

Tax counseling for the elderly is available at no cost to area residents in the Emmet and Charlevoix counties.

IRS test qualified volunteers will perform these services at locations convenient for the elderly. The Retired Senior Volunteer Program, through a special grant from the Internal Revenue Service, is coordinating the program.

For further information regarding tax assistance or questions pertaining to income tax, please call 616-347-5070.

Persons interested in volunteering their services need only call the Petoskey office of RSVP 348-5070 for further information.

Oddfellows take cribbage lead

The Oddfellows had a big night at the cribbage table during the fourth round of play in the annual Mason-Oddfellow cribbage tournament, winning by 231 points and wiping out the lead the Masons had held since the tournament began, Hugh Mayne, tournament secretary, reports.

With 7½ tables in play, the Oddfellows now lead by 82 points.

Bob Wise Sr. was high for the Masons with a score of 924. George Smith had 952 for the Oddfellows who are the defending champions.

Play will be at the American Legion Post Home at 8 p.m. Thursday.

Rayders absorb two defeats

The Charlevoix Rayders suffered their worst week of the season, coming away with defeats at the hands of Traverse City and St. Ignace.

On Tuesday, the Rayders lost a non-reserve game to Class A Traverse City by a score of 60-48 on the same court.

Charlevoix travelled to St. Ignace Friday and found their luck no better. The Saints propelled by a fourth quarter surge, took the game 71-63.

Charlevoix's Mackinaw-Straits Shores Conference title hopes were dealt a blow by the defeat to the Saints. The Rayders are now 1-2 in the league, one game behind Cheboygan. They are 5-6 overall. St. Ignace stands at 3-3 in the league, 5-5 overall.

Free throws were the Rayders' undoing at St. Ignace as the Saints hit 32 of 38 attempts in the last eight minutes.

Charlevoix started strong with a 16-10 first quarter lead but St. Ignace pulled even at the half, 33-33. After three periods the game was still close at 51-50, but the Saints' free throw shooters took over after that, and put the Rayders away.

"We were slow on defense," Rayder coach Dave Smith said. "The defense let us down. That and free throw shooting were the two big factors."

Tim Salmonson led the Rayders with 18 points. Sean Ferguson hit 15 and Packy LaBlance 11.

Ron Massey led the St. Ignace attack with 29 points, 11 of them coming in the final quarter. Jon Belonga added 15.

Charlevoix also took an early lead against Traverse City on Tuesday but saw the Trojans make up the difference and lead 26-24 at halftime.

Traverse City, playing without top scorer 5-foot-6 junior Steve Mayerle, pushed the spread to 44-34 after three quarters.

"I was pleased with our rebounding, but our offense bogged down," Smith said. "We struggled all night."

Junior guard Jim Cook led the Rayder scoring with 17 points. Ferguson added 14.

Both teamds had 21 field goals but Traverse was 18 of 34 from the line with 18 fouls while Charlevoix hit six of 15 free throws and had 22 personals.

Jason Brindel in action.

JV's rip Saints

The Charlevoix JV's came through with a 62-50 win over the St. Ignace Saints on the latter's floor Friday.

The visiting Rayders took an early lead, scoring 27 points with Scott Bell using scissor-like field goals and three pointers, shots and Chad DeYoung making four from the floor in their second-quarter 20-20 at the quarter.

Though the Saints stayed the course, the young Rayders still held a 28-26 advantage at the half and 39-38 going into the fourth period when Robert Dice Skinner emptied the bench.

Charlevoix outscored St. Ignace, 23-12 from the floor and six of 10 of charity shots while collecting 20 personal fouls. The Saints connected on 12 of 30 from the line and had 15 personal fouls to the Rayders' six of eight charity shots and 21 personal fouls.

Scott Bell rung up 16 points and Derek Phillips 10 for the game.

Packy LaBlance lays up an easy two

Trojans victorious

The Charlevoix Rayder JV's suffered one of their very defeats Tuesday by the Traverse City Trojans by a score of 55-46.

The visitors outscored the young Rayders 20-9 from the floor as they led 16-10, 29-25 and 45-36 at quarters before being outscored 20-10 in the final period. Traverse City scored seven of 20 from the line and had 15 personal fouls to the Rayders' six of eight charity shots and 21 personal fouls.

Scott Bell rung up 16 points and Derek Phillips 10 for the game.

Frosh beat Harbor, fall to Saints

The freshmen continued their perfect ten-game season with a 48-36 victory over Harbor Springs.

The young Rayders jumped to a 12-4 first quarter lead and were never headed as they led the Rams 25-21 at the half and 38-27 going into the final period.

Jim Hamilton had 16 points and Don Ward 10 for Nanny's.

The Clothing Company had no trouble with Wojan Aluminum as they lead by margins of 20-6, 36-25 and 53-29 by quarters.

Volleyball team beats Gaylord

The Charlevoix Rayder volleyball teams won over Gaylord on the local court Wednesday.

The varsity won by scores of 15-10, 15-13 and 15-6.

Coach Brenda Bryan named Lara Sheppard as the outstanding server and setter and Rhonda Brown as the spiker.

The JV squad won by scores of 15-12, 16-14, and 15-10. Ann Sanford was serving, bumper, Karla Henry setter honors and Billie Jean Hatzel spiking recognition.

Charlevoix will host Kalkaska on Wednesday, Jan. 29.

Skiers win Cadillac Invitational

The Charlevoix Rayder ski teamers swept the six-team boys meet and the four-team girls competition at the Cadillac Invitational meet Tuesday.

In the boys meet, Matt Lagnes took a double first and Karl Erber was second all day in the girls divisions. See Miller skied very well and Wendy Vicent was steady, Coach Erik Lonnegagen said. "Everything went really well."

Charlevoix took the boys meet with 34 points followed by Cadillac "A" with 66, Cadillac "B" 100, Gaylord 106, Cadillac "C" 109 and Elk City-Ath Saints 241.

In the girls meet, Charlevoix had 44 points, Cadillac "A" 84, Grayling 73 and Cadillac "B" 120.

Lagnes placed first in both the slalom and the giant slalom; Jason Brindel, third in the slalom; Brian Willmott, 4th in the slalom and 7th in the GS; Wes Cumberland, 1st in the giant slalom; Karl Erber, 1st in both the slalom and GS and Jon Montague, 10th in the GS.

In the girls meet, Miller was 3rd in the slalom and second in the giant slalom; Lauren Pare, 2nd in the slalom; Alison Hall, 4th in the GS; Monica Harvey, 10th in the slalom; and 11th in the GS; Vicent, 4th in the slalom and 9th in the GS and Karrie Hoffman, 12th in the slalom and 11th in the GS.

Wednesday will find the teams in Boyne Mountain with host team Boyne City, Sault Ste. Marie and Bellaire at 1 p.m.

Wrestling team finishes well

The Charlevoix Rayder wrestling teams had its best finish ever in a tournament, coach Greg Bryan says of the team's performance in the Petoskey Invitational tournament Saturday.

"In fact, with our empty weight classs this was as good as we could hope for. Overall, the team wrestled better than any time this season. It was a great confidence builder and upped our team record to five total victories, the best win record in the past five years," Bryan continued.

"Our final dual meets of the season are some time Thursday, and the last chance for fans to see the team in action before school starts. Your support would be appreciated by the team."

Charlevoix placed fifth in the tournament that was won by a strong Gladstone team. The scores follow: Gladstone 94, Charlevoix 77, Cheboygan 48.5 over Glen Lake and 40.5 over St. Ignace.

Five of the Rayder wrestlers won two of their three matches. Scott Newtony, 112 pounds, Jamie Mayo, 126, Matt Hall 145, Dan Reilly 155, and Bryan Margerardi heavyweight.

Wrestlers who won more were Shaun Burr 103, Steve Hopkins 145, Derek Dutcher 145 and Jim Tilton 198.

Wrestling especially well was Burr at 103, Bryan said.

The fastest pin of the tournament was credited to Derek Dutcher who, downed a Glen Lake rival in :28.

Charlevoix will host Manistique and Ogemaw at 5:30 p.m. Thursday.

Lindberg, Clothing Co., Judy's all win games

Action in the Charlevoix Independent Basketball League was limited to three games last week including two in the B League and one in the A League.

In the B League, Paul Lindberg, Inc., defeated Nanny's 70-55 and the Clothing Company won over Wojan Aluminum 70-49.

In the single A League game, Judy's defeated Duffy's 86-71.

Larry Brock scored 20, Dave Norton 17, Stan Martin 14 and Don Smith 11 as Lindberg took off after edging to an 8-6 lead to go ahead 28-15 at the half and 46-37 going into the final period.

Jim Hamilton had 26 points and Don Ward 21 for Nanny's.

The Clothing Company had no trouble with Wojan Aluminum as they lead by margins of 20-6, 36-25 and 53-29 by quarters.

Dave Cole with 15 points, Gary Verdon with 13 and Gordon Block with 11 were top scorers for the victors. Gene Morrison had 25 and Darrell VanLoo 18 for Wojan.

Judy's Restaurant was in command all the way as they led 35-19, 61-39 and 82-55 by quarters over Duffy's.

Randy Holecheck had 37, Tex Dvorak 26, Jim Marsh 15 and Doug Bonny 10 for Judy's. Clint Bass had 30 and Larry Shoppenhorst 10 for Duffy's.

On Wednesday, Jan. 29, First State Bank will meet the Clothing Company at 7:30 p.m. and Nanny's will play Wojan Aluminum at 7:45 p.m. in B League action and Dr. Dave's Green Grinders will play the Depot of Boyne City in the A League at 8 p.m.

Matmen just miss at Grayling meet

The Charlevoix Rayder wrestlers missed tying Grayling by one point Thursday in a meet held on the Viking mats.

The score was 45-44 in Grayling's favor.

"The kids wrestled well, showing constant improvement," coach Greg Bryan said, adding that Jason Whatley looked especially good.

As the season runs down, the Rayders will host their final meet with Mancelona and Bennie Centers at 1:30 p.m. Thursday. The next outing will be the Mitchigan-Huron Conference meet on Feb. 8.

In Thursday's meet there were five forfeits.

The 98-pound class was a double forfeit. Robert Johnson (98, Grayling; Jamie Montoya (103), Grayling; Derek Dutcher (105), Cx; Jim Tilton (138), Cx, and David Nielsen (Hy), Grayling all won by forfeit.

In other classes:

112: Scott Newtony (Cx) was pinned by Brock Monfraton at 2:20.

126: Shaun Burr (Cx) was pinned by Tim Cook at 1:46.

132: Whatley (Cx) pinned Gary Nemacheck 2:58.

138: Jamie Montoya (Cx) was pinned by Jim Gay at 3:34.

145: Steve Hopkins (Cx) pinned Bill Frankes at 1:28.

167: Dan Kelly (Cx) pinned Pop Gotsen at 2:48.

The matmen split with Glen Lake and Sleet City at a meet held Wednesday at Glen Lake. The Rayders took the former 54-1 score of 42-25 and lost to Reed City by a 48-24 score.

"But we not been pleased by the fact we might have beaten Reed City Overall, the team is much improved," Coach Bryan said. "However, I am sorry to have lost Chase Parry as the result of a concussion suffered in the Kalkaska tournament. He had a 9-1 record for the season at the time."

Bryan added that Shaun Burr and Jason Whatley wrestled well, especially Burr who demonstrated a much more experienced wrestler.

He also showed vast improvement in just the past two weeks," Bryan commented.

At the Glen Lake meet, the 98 and 105-weight classes were double forfeits. Scott Newtony (112) won by forfeit for Charlevoix and Tom Thomas (Hy) of Glen Lake won by forfeit.

Other results include:

126: Burr (Cx) won a 14-5 decision over Jarvist Valentine.

132: Whitley (Cx) lost 11-5 to John Pawlinski.

138: Jamie Montoya (Cx) won by forfeit.

145: Steve Hopkins (Cx) won by forfeit.

155: Matt Hall (Cx) won by forfeit.

167: Perry Jones (GL) won by forfeit.

185: Derek Dutcher (Cx) pinned Phil Pfannkuch at :28.

198: Jim Tilton (Cx) pinned Hal Evans at :22.

Hvy: Todd Ferrand (GL) won by forfeit.

Middle schoolers win at Harbor Springs

The Charlevoix Middle School basketball teams posted wins over the Harbor Springs teams in action here Wednesday night.

The eighth-graders won by a score of 58-41 and the seventh-grade by a 51-15 margin.

The eighth-graders, scoring 24 field goals and 10-of 15 free throws, had a 33-17 lead at halftime before winning by the 17-point margin. Harbor had five field goals and five of six charity shots.

Chad DeYoung had 14 points, James Corwin 13, Jason Corwin 11 and Scott Miller 10 for Charlevoix. Jon Tippett had 17 for the visitors.

The seventh-graders had a 25-11 halftime advantage before tailing the game by a score of 51-15.

Jason Parrish had 14 points for Charlevoix. Shelton and Racine had four points each for Harbor.

Charlevoix had 25 field goals and one of five free throws. Harbor had five field goals and five of six free throws.

Guy Gengle played a good floor game and Bob Jess did an excellent job on defense, coach Guy Gengle said.

Barry Pierce is the eighth-grade coach.

Beaver Island Lodge becomes condo-hotel

The Beaver Island Lodge, on the sandy north shore of Beaver Island, just a half mile from St. James, is being transformed into a 16-unit condominium-hotel. This will be the first condominium of its type on Beaver Island.

The rustic lodge, built in 1962 in the style of traditional shoreside resorts, is well known for its comfortable home-like atmosphere and fine cuisine. Owner Richard Bailey of Rochester was quick to reassure those who know and love The Lodge that becoming a condominium-hotel will not bring major changes and units will still be available for guest rental.

According to Bailey, who purchased the lodge in 1979, renovations will include the addition of decking, expansion of the dining room and the creation of six third-floor studio apartments.

With condominium units ranging in price from $29,500 to $45,500, depending on number of rooms, location and other amenities, Bailey anticipates considerable demand. Owners, he explains, may either use the units themselves or have the Lodge management rent them to guests.

The Lodge has a considerable regular following and a high average occupancy rate, which Bailey sees as incentive to potential owners.

The renovations were designed by Charlevoix architect Jack Begrow. Beaver Island builder Ron Wojan is in charge of construction. In addition to room renovations and additions, the electrical and heating systems are being improved to lengthen the Lodge's season further into fall.

The Beaver Island Lodge, probably the largest building on Beaver Island, sits on three acres of land, surrounded by white pines and oaks, and fronting on a broad sandy beach.

With its wood frame exterior, wood paneling interior, large fireplaces in the lobby and dining room, and comfortable atmosphere, the Beaver Island Lodge holds special attraction for vacationers.

Rick Lebenbert, of Ski and Shore of Charlevoix, who assisted Bailey in designing the condominium package, is acting as agent for the condominium sales.

High water threatens homes, businesses gone, the stairway to the beach fell into the water, and even its base is torn away from the building. There is erosion behind the buildings that were placed to cut the force of the waves against the bank. We're talking to engineers to see what can be done."

Two homeowners at the Horton Bay Club have lost at least 20 feet of property to erosion of their sandy soil, according to Ron Geer, County Soil Erosion officer.

Geer also reported that a condominium owner at Nine Mile Point called him from Florida to learn about possible high water level damage to his property and asked that he be called immediately if there is trouble. Geer says that last year, lake ice was within 67 feet of the building, and the best way to control the problem would be to dynamite the ice.

Most of the older lakeshore settlements along Lake Charlevoix face problems because of high water. District Health Department Sanitarian Larry Levengood, especially cited Glenwood Beach and Springwater Beach near Boyne City, where low-lying septic systems are an on-going problem which will become worse as the water level rises.

Some of the beach homes at Oyster Bay have water close to their back doors. What was once a real estate development called Porter Shores on M-66 is mostly under water, an observer reported. The former Landings Restaurant building at Ironton is being undercut by wave and wind action. A house across from the Landings cannot be occupied by the owner because of high water. The city sidewalk along the south side of Round Lake in front of Ward Brothers has been replaced by a dock so pedestrians will not have to walk in water.

The story is the same about possible trouble spots everywhere. Such large and well-known structures as The Dunes and LaCroft Condominiums, the East Jordan Iron Works, and the Bendix and United Technologies factory buildings in Boyne City are considered vulnerable, along with other structures.

Not to be overlooked is Lake Shore Drive past the Charlevoix Area Hospital and Boulder Park, where the space between roadway and lake shore is narrow. The same is true of the shore drive along the south side of Lake Charlevoix between Advance and Boyne City.

The Charlevoix County Planning Department reports that many of the questionnaires sent out in the Lake Charlevoix Attitude Survey were returned with comments about high water problems.

Obviously, nothing can be done to keep lake levels from rising, but what can lake shore property owners do to minimize or halt water, wind, and ice damage to their property?

There are several sources of advice and suggestions for building rip-rap and other barriers. John McKinney, District Sea Grant Agent for the Cooperative Extension Service, has several pieces of literature explaining all types of barriers and how to install them. "It is important that people learn all they can about their own situation before they talk to professionals," McKinney says.

Clayton Healey, Charlevoix County Drain Commissioner, believes that those with erosion problems should act quickly. He advises they secure proper permits to install rip-rap or other barriers before the spring thaws. He has application forms.

Ron Geer also has help to offer in the way of literature and application forms. He explains that, "We can't do much about these acts of God, but we can help those who want to help themselves." He added that it is not the responsibility of the County or any other branch of government to repair damage from high water.

Among the types of rip-rap and barrier materials recommended by professionals are sand bags, stone - dolomite or field stones, broken concrete, and wooden or metal walls. Geer notes that field stone is becoming difficult to find since contractor spent three days flying around the area trying to locate stone piles. The dolomite, which comes from the northeastern part of the state, is probably better, anyway, according to Geer, because it has sharp edges and locks into a wall more easily than rounded field stone.

County Building Inspector Howard Carson says his Department has nothing to do with possible lake damage when making inspections of new buildings.

The addresses and phone numbers of agencies which have material and application forms for installation of rip-rap and other barriers are:

John McKinney, District Sea Grant Agent, 400 Boardman Avenue, Traverse City, 49684, phone (616) 841-2256.

Clayton Healey, County Drain Commissioner, County Building, Charlevoix, phone 547-7229 (in office only on Tuesday).

Ron Geer, County Soil and Sedimentation Officer, County Building, Charlevoix, phone 547-7236.

Conjunctivitis warning issued

An increasing number of infections of the eye called conjunctivitis have been reported in Northern Michigan, according to Dr. Brian L. Youngs, M.D. Youngs offers the following information.

Conjunctivitis is an inflammation of the membrane which lines the inner surface of the eyelids and the surface of the white part of the eye. It can be infectious or noninfectious.

Bacteria and related organisms, fungi and viruses can cause infectious conjunctivitis. The common causes of noninfectious conjunctivitis include allergies and chemical irritation.

The symptoms of conjunctivitis vary depending on the cause. Patients with bacterial conjunctivitis, or "pinkeye," have a redness of the eye with large amounts of pus-like discharge. Frequently, the eyelashes are crusted with crusts or foreign material, causing the eyelids to stick together.

Viral conjunctivitis may be caused by one of a large number of viruses including herpes (the virus which causes cold sores) and adenoviruses; which ordinarily cause sore-throat or respiratory illness. The patient with viral conjunctivitis has a red, inflamed eye, frequently accompanied by excess tearing and large amounts of clear discharge. Patients often feel as if they have sand in their eyes.

Symptoms of allergic conjunctivitis include itching, redness, and swelling of the membranes and eyelids.

Infectious conjunctivitis is transmitted in a number of ways. In some forms of viral and bacterial conjunctivitis, the most common means of transmission is the contamination of hands, towels, and lines with infectious eye excretions. Because of the extremely contagious nature of many kinds of conjunctivitis, it is good public health practice to exclude effected individuals from contact with others at their school or work place during the time they are ill.

Treatments vary widely, because of the many causes of conjunctivitis. It is very important that anyone with a red, irritated eye seek medical attention. Only someone experienced in the diagnosis and treatment of eye diseases can accurately distinguish between the many kinds of conjunctivitis.

There is no specific treatment for some types of conjunctivitis. With other types specific treatment, such as the use of certain antibiotics, is very important for prevention of long-term vision problems. If a person suspects that they or a member of their family has conjunctivitis, the person should see a physician to rule out serious forms of conjunctivitis.

Obituaries

Marygrace Robinson

Mrs James (Marygrace) Robinson, 61, a native of Charlevoix, died January 19 in Romeo.

Mrs Robinson was born in Charlevoix August 26, 1924, the daughter of Norman and Genevieve Durance Ragen. She graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1942 and later attended the University in Bowling Green, Ohio.

In 1947, she married Mr. Robinson, who preceded her in death in 1965. A son, Eugene, also preceded her in death.

Mrs. Robinson is survived by her mother, Geneview Baumgarten of Romeo; a daughter, Jean Scatterfield of Clearwater, Florida; an aunt, Frances Durance of Charlevoix; and, a cousin, Edward Durance of Midland.

Funeral services were held at the Roth Funeral Home in Romeo. Interment was in Romeo Cemetery.

Norman R. Kessler

Funeral services for the Rev. Norman R. Kessler, 62, of East Jordan, were held Friday at the Pleasant Valley Free Methodist Church where he had served as pastor since August 1985. The Reverends Ted Johnson of Big Rapids and William Kinnan of Grand Blanc, district superintendents of the Wesleyan Church in their respective districts officiated. Interment was in Sunrise Memorial Gardens in Muskegon where a memorial service was held Friday afternoon.

The Rev. Mr. Kessler died Tuesday, Jan. 21, at the Traverse City Osteopathic Hospital.

Born in Merrill Sept. 8, 1933, Mr. Kessler was graduated from Muskegon Heights High School in 1953. He attended the Owosso Bible College for several years. On Dec. 8, 1962, he was married to the former Marilyn Gardner at Grand Rapids.

He had served as pastor of several Wesleyan churches in southwestern Michigan for the past 20 years. He was ordained in the Wesleyan Church in 1976.

He had come to Echo Township, Antrim County, as pastor of the Pleasant Valley Free Methodist Church in August, 1985. He was a veteran of service in the U.S. Army.

Besides his wife, he is survived by two sons, Charles N. of Clio and Edward A. of Vassar; a daughter, Anita, at home; one grandchild; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kessler of Muskegon; a brother, the Rev. Dale Kessler of Sault Ste. Marie and two sisters, Naomi Kessler of Zeeland and Mrs. Dan (Elda) Andrews of Muskegon.

The Hastings Funeral Home of Ellsworth was in charge of arrangements.

Lorraine Grassmid

Funeral services for Mrs. Lorraine Grassmid, 58, of Ellsworth were held Friday at the Bellflower Reformed Church. The Rev. James Heneveld officiated. Interment was in the Lakeview Cemetery in Torch Lake Township.

Mrs. Grassmid died Tuesday, Jan. 21, at the Meadowbrook Medical Care Facility.

The former Lorraine Hinkley was born in Prescott, Michigan, Jan. 26, 1927. She was married to John W. Prevost on Oct. 9, 1946, at West Branch. He preceded her in death in 1943. On Jan. 8, 1959, she was married to Sidney Grassmid. They lived in Grand Rapids until coming to Torch Lake Township, Antrim County, in 1961. Mr. Grassmid died in 1971. She was a member of the Bellflower Reformed Church.

Surviving are five sons, James D. Prevost of Spokane, Wash., Owen B. Prevost of Scottsdale, Mass., John M. Prevost of Sheridan, William E. Prevost of Chelsea and Robert H. Prevost of Voodasta; four daughters, Mrs. Vivian Tohda of Union Lake; Mrs. Doris Fox of Cass Grange, Ariz.; Mrs. Patricia Nelson of Ellsworth and Mrs. Roxanne Russell of Marcellus; a step-son, Robert Grassmid of Grand Rapids; a step-daughter, Mrs. Donna Lubbers of Jenison; 30 grandchildren; 31 great-grandchildren; two brothers, Thomas Hinkley of Mesa, Ariz., and Bruce Hinkley of Venice, Calif., and a sister, Doris Hinkley of Mesa, Ariz.

The Hastings Funeral Home of Ellsworth was in charge of arrangements.

The family suggests memorials to the Bellflower Reformed Church.

Kenneth J. Tunison

Private funeral services for Kenneth J. Tunison, 82, of Ironton, were held at the Winchester Funeral Home.

Mr. Tunison died Friday at the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Born in Detroit March 29, 1903, Mr. Tunison was graduated from Western High School in 1921. He and his wife, Alice, were married in Royal Oak where they lived until coming to Ironton in 1956. He had been employed at the Detroit Edison Company as a cable splicer.

Surviving are his wife, Alice, of Charlevoix; two daughters, Mrs. Charles (Roberta) Hosper and Mrs. Jane Lawson, both of Royal Oak, two sons, Richard of Reston, Va., and Mel of Ironton; 13 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

The family suggests memorials to the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

James V. O'Leary

James V. O'Leary, Sr., 88, of Greenwich, Connecticut and Ironton died January 15 in Greenwich.

Mr. O'Leary served with the United States Army in both World Wars and was the retired president of Northwest Chemical, Ltd.

His wife, the former Elizabeth Martha Messinger, preceded him in death. He is survived by three sons, James V., Jr., Michael and John F., all of Connecticut; a daughter, Elizabeth D. O'Leary Meaoy of Connecticut; a sister, Margaret O'Leary of Appleton, Wisconsin; and three grandchildren.

Mass of Christian Burial was held January 17 at St. Catherine of Siena Church, Riverside, Connecticut. Interment was in St. Mary Cemetery, Greenwich.

The family suggests that memorials be made to the Greenwich Hospital.

Margaret Dvorsky

A former Charlevoix resident, Mrs. Joseph (Margaret) Dvorsky, three 79, died January 21 at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Robert (Joan) Butkovich, in Romeo.

Mr. and Mrs. Dvorsky lived on St. Johns Street in Charlevoix from 1975 to 1984, when they moved to Davison to live with their daughter.

Mrs. Dvorsky, is survived by her husband, whom she married in 1927; her daughter; two sons, Robert Dvorsky of Goodrich and Joseph Dvorsky of Chesaning; three brothers; two sisters; 13 grandchildren; and six great grandchildren. She was preceded in death by her daughter, Lois Hallwood, in 1968.

Funeral services were held January 24 at St. Mary Catholic Church in Flint, and burial was in New Calvary Cemetery, Flint.

For memorials, the family suggests mass offerings to St. Mary's Church in Charlevoix.

Marriages

The Charlevoix County Clerk recently issued a marriage license to Michael Bradley, 22, of Boyne City, and Dawn Hadix, 20, of Petoskey.

County births, marriages down

The number of deaths in Charlevoix County was higher in 1985 than in 1984, but the numbers of births, marriages, and divorces were lower.

In fact, the 166 deaths reported in 1985 was the highest number in this category in the seven-year report recently released by the Charlevoix County Clerk, and the 204 births reported was the lowest number in that category.

From 1979 through 1985, the numbers were:

BIRTHS: 263, 249, 256, 251, 230, 237, and 204.

MARRIAGES: 202, 232, 245, 205, 228, 226, and 216.

DIVORCES: 94, 130, 122, 109, 90, 107, and 100.

DEATHS: 100, 111, 126, 122, 121, 138, and 166.

Inspection permits tallied

Throughout the year, the Courier has run monthly reports from the Charlevoix County Department of Building Inspection indicating the number of building permits issued each month.

In addition to building permits, this County department is responsible for inspecting and issuing permits for electrical work and soil and sedimentation control.

During 1985, the Department of Building Inspection issued 561 building permits for which it received $52,562 in fees; 439 electrical permits, for which it received $21,954; and 117 soil erosion permits, for which it received $3,610.

The Departmental income of $78,653 (including $527.25 for miscellaneous services) was used to offset some of the expenses incurred in operating the Department.

Misfortune recently struck part of the dairy herd of Archie Potter as 13 of his heifers wandered out of pasture onto Skinner Lake, broke through the ice and drowned. Potter said the heifers, which were expected to freshen in the spring, were worth some $8,000 to $10,000. He said the animals apparently broke through the ice Friday night to early Saturday morning. He discovered the cows missing early Saturday. Jack Danbert is shown breaking ice around the heifers so that they can be dragged out of the lake.

Senior center offers high school classes

High School completion classes for senior citizens are being offered through the Community Education Consortium at the Senior Center in the VFW Hall.

The classes, which started a new semester last week, include Creative Writing, Mondays at 9 a.m.; Book Club, Tuesdays at 9 a.m.; and U.S. Government and American History, Wednesdays at 1 p.m.

Other class activities include: exercise for both men and women, Wednesdays at 9 a.m. and craft classes Wednesdays at 10 a.m.

Thursday afternoons are "Special Events" times. The first special event was a presentation by Patti Knapp and Carol Spaulding of East Jordan, whose program is said to "light the fires of creativity" – a blend of creative movement, music puppetry, and storytelling. Last week, the group attended a performance at 218 Bridge Street Theater. Next Thursday, a movie about the first capital of Virginia will be shown.

Looking toward the future, the Senior Citizens are planning a trip to Washington, D.C. and Williamsburg in May. Further details are available from Sherry Black, phone 549-5361.

Bingo games on Tuesdays are also being planned.

All senior men and women in the Charlevoix area are welcome to participate in events at the Senior Center, which include the Commission on Aging meal program.

Bergmann Center goes for sleigh ride

The Charlevoix Jaycees staged a hay ride for clients at the Bergmann Center last Wednesday. Archie Potter and his son Jim helped out with two pairs of Belgian draft horses and sleighs. Nathan and Clarence Himebaugh brought along a pair of Belgians as well.

After an hour's ride through Potter's woods on Pleins Road, the crew went back to the center for hot chocolate and a chance to warm their feet.

Potter said his horses range from two years to 7 and weigh up to about a ton.

Performing Arts group scores well, moves on to regional

by FRAN MARTIN

The Charlevoix High School Performing Arts group received a coveted I rating in the district competition at Petoskey Saturday to advance to regional competition early next month according to director Connie Ford.

In addition to receiving the top award for its presentation of "Fiddler on the Roof," the 39-member cast received a Superior Ensemble Award and several individual excellence awards, Ford said.

"We received I ratings from all three judges which gave us a start. It's the first time this has ever happened to us," Ford said. "It tells me it was a solid show. I am very pleased with the entire group, the cast as well as the support staff."

Standish also received a I with 267 points; Charlevoix had straight As and 254 points and Petoskey a II with 213 points. First and second place winners will advance to the regional festival meet to be held at Emerson-Harbor Feb. 7 and 8.

In addition to the Superior Award accorded the cast, the support staff received an Excellence for costumes. Receiving Excellence Acting Awards were Rusty Coolman as Tevye, the father, Kathleen Buday as Golde, his wife, and Jeff Grooters as Motel, the tailor.

Other members of the cast are Laurie Moore, Tara McLelland, Ember Spencer, Kristen McLelland and Betsy Haggard as the five daughters. Tonia Wiser as Yente, the matchmaker, Bence Wallace as the tailor's mother – Nick Swanson as one of the daughter's husband; John Gray, the butcher, Marvin Witthoeft, the innkeeper, Brian Anderson, the rabbi, FL Dammann as his son, Boy Sell, the bookseller; Chuck Hastings, the constable; Mike Horton as Fyedka who marries the daughter, Chava. David Salmonson and Eric Moore as the Russians and Kristen Terry as the fiddler.

Jill Taylor is the pianist for the show.

Portraying the villagers are Debbie Bartz, Jennifer Bonar, Kristie Hand, Carol Ormsby, Lorie Raymond, Christie Coolman, Meagan Johnson, Jennifer Warner, Heather Dietrich.

Barb Haggard, Matt Miller, Stacy Ketchem, Barb McClanaghan, Kerry McKeown, Darcy Spenceley, Jeff Skeel, Ken Groves, Lori Maue, and Alicia Kunz.

Technical staff is composed of Lori Gleason, Val Barnes and Jennifer Sell, lighting and Shelly Swegles, Angel Foster, Gary Miller and Karl Erber, stage crew.

"Fiddler on the Roof" was written by Joseph Stein with music by Jerry Brock and lyrics by Sheldon Harnick. The play is based on Sholom Aleichem's stories.

Middle row: Rebecca Wallace, Ember Spencer, Chuck Hastings, Tara McLelland, Laurie Moore, Betsy Haggard and Kristin McLelland.

Mesquite takes a breather in port after a very busy season

by FRAN MARTIN

The year of 1985 was definitely a busy one for the U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Mesquite.

It began with the 180-foot buoy tender patrolling the balmy coastline of Grenada 90 miles off the coast of South America and ended with the ship fulfilling an icebreaking assignment in the St. Clair River.

The ship had been deployed to Grenada late in 1984, arriving there on Christmas Eve, two days short of a month after leaving Charlevoix and a delay in the St. Lawrence Seaway because of a damaged bridge at Montreal.

Early in February the Mesquite became involved in a variety of activities off the coast of Florida and the Bahamas – among them search and rescue, a communication assignment in Haiti and law enforcement patrol – culminating in the seizure of a 25-foot freighter for drug smuggling.

The trip to Port-au-Prince, Haiti, was arranged to transport a large load of items including more than two miles of plastic pipe, a jeep and a truck. The equipment was then taken by a smaller vessel to an isolated island where it was used to tap a water source for a remote village.

Finally in March the Mesquite began its return to the Great Lakes, arriving in Charlevoix in the midst of a nor'easter on Lake Michigan that jammed the harbor entrance with ice and forced the ship to seek shelter in the bay at Harbor Springs. The following morning it steamed into homeport after an absence of five months for a joyous reunion between the sailors and families and friends.

For many, this would have been enough travel and adventure but the year was still young.

After a brief respite, the spring buoy season approached and the ship was underway, setting her own buoys in Lakes Huron and Michigan and in Lake Superior when the Sunday, out of Duluth, remained in drydock while new engines were being installed.

Spring soon turned into summer, and with it came a trip to the National Cherry Festival at Traverse City and restoration work on lighthouses in Sheboygan and Manitowoc, Wisc.

The season was also the time for working with other government agencies planting fish, transferring thousands of lake trout from hatcheries to the open waters of the lake. Approximately six trips were made to a mid-lake location between Milwaukee and Muskegon.

The fall brought with it the year-end buoy run for the Mesquite. This usually takes a month for the switching of lighted summer markers for unlighted winter aids.

This season, however, with three of the five 180-foot buoy tenders on the Great Lakes down with engineering problems, the buoy tending duties went beyond the new year. The Mesquite began work in Lake Superior during October and by mid-November was hurrying to complete her own work on Lake Michigan.

On Dec. 4, the ship began work in Green Bay, Wisc., hampered by very early ice cover, and continued working in Lake Michigan from Escanaba to Chicago until the job was completed and the Mesquite could return to Charlevoix on December 22, in time for Christmas.

But just as it seemed she may be finished for the season, the Mesquite received orders on Christmas Day to proceed to Port Huron to assist in work in the St. Clair River area. The following day, the ship departed the harbor and after completing work in Lake Huron, that included attempting to break up a bad ice jam on the St. Clair River, returned to its home port January 2 to begin a well-earned rest.

All-told, the Mesquite had been away from Charlevoix for more than 250 days of the year.

While the crew has done well to meet such a schedule in a ship that is going on her 43rd year of service, there are signs that the toughest battles may still be ahead, Lt. Cdr. Robert E. Young said. All five of the tenders in the Great Lakes are over 40 years old so maintenance problems should be expected among the fleet, he noted. As a result, the possibility of reducing the number of ships is ever present. With the failure of Congress to come up with a federal budget, the biggest challenge may be just keeping the ship running, Young concluded.

Medusa cement workers settle contract dispute

by DOUG TRUAX

Cement workers at Charlevoix's Medusa Cement Company overwhelmingly ratified a new contract on Jan. 23, ending prolonged negotiations which have lasted since the last contract expired in May 1984.

Also reaching an agreement with Medusa's parent company, the Medusa Portland Cement Co. of Cleveland, Ohio, were workers at Clarkville, Georgia.

Medusa's Charlevoix plant employs some 115 workers covered by the bargaining agreement when at full force. There are currently approximately 90 persons employed during Medusa's annual maintenance period.

The new contract will mean an immediate $1 an hour raise across the board, a union spokesman said. Union and company officials declined to discuss further details of the pact since some 70 percent of the Cement, Lime, and Gypsum Workers nationwide are operating without contracts.

Charlevoix's Local D480 is a part of the Cement Division of the International Brotherhood of Boilermakers, Iron Ship Builders, Blacksmiths, Forgers, and Helpers.

"A majority of the membership indicated they are satisfied with the new contract," said Elbert Kaiser, plant manager of Charlevoix's Medusa operation.

Kaiser said he was "happy to have it put to bed."

"We are pleased that Medusa broke with the rest of the cement industry in agreeing to a new contract our members could accept," reported Henry W. Bechtholdt, director of the Boilermakers' Cement Division.

The union credited its "Solidarity and Unity program" with helping bring about the settlement. The program calls for "strong in-plant resistance to imposed, implemented, or otherwise, non-negotiated work rules and provisions."

Bechtholdt said he thought the agreement would heal the sometimes bitter contract dispute. "Hopefully the parties will be able to put things back together where there are no ill feelings," he said.

There were two key issues in the contract negotiations, Bechtholdt said: two-tier wage provisions and subcontracting language.

Two-tier wages would permit new employees to come in at lower rates and never be able to get to the existing rate, he said.

The agreement also preserves the subcontracting language of previous agreements, he maintained.

"We hope that the rest of the cement industry will follow the lead of Medusa, several other companies, and the nation's largest cement producer, Lone Star, in bargaining in good faith with its workers," the union spokesman said.

The new contract runs to May 1, 1987.

Medusa expects to call back the remainder of its workforce by late February or the first of March, Kaiser noted.

Petoskey Avenue florist shop gets approval of Council

by DOUG TRUAX

A controversial amendment to the Charlevoix City Code which would allow a florist shop on the corner of Petoskey Avenue and Burns Street was approved unanimously by City Council Monday night.

The amendment would permit three special uses within the residential section of Petoskey Avenue between Nettleton Street and Mercer Boulevard.

Approved special uses would include florist shops, art and photographic studios, and interior decorating shops.

The special use amendment was defeated by Council in May 1985 after a 3-3 vote. Attorney Jeff Van-Treese informed Council that four affirmative votes were required to amend the city charter.

Since that time, the composition of Council has changed with Michael Greeley, an opponent of the florist shop, having been defeated in November by Norm Probert.

The zoning issue results from a request by Expressions Unlimited, owned by Roger Peacock and Ren Taepke, to operate a florist shop from the home they purchased on Petoskey and Burns. Previous efforts to have that area of Petoskey Avenue rezoned commercial or to classify it the business as a home occupation were defeated.

The special use amendment was approved by the City Planning Commission on January 29 by a 4-1 vote.

Proponents of the florist shop cited the attractive renovation the building had received since being purchased by Expressions Unlimited and the need for additional space for business in Charlevoix.

Opponents argued that the move ignored the city's master plan which calls for residential zoning along Petoskey Avenue. Several also stated that allowing one commercial enterprise would open the door to commercial development along the street.

Joan Hoffman, a resident of Dixon Avenue, complimented the owners on the improvements on the building.

"The downtown doesn't have a lot of room for expansion," she said. "This could open up that stretch of Petoskey to other business."

Dave Fowler, also of Dixon Avenue, noted that other cities have created businesses in residential homes. He said some of the city's adverse public relations on the contaminated water could be overcome with such businesses. "Put good shops in here and they'll spread good PR downstate."

Greeley told Council approving the flower shop, would set a precedence and open the door to commercial development of the area. "If you want to add commercial, go through the proper steps and revise the master plan," Greeley said.

"The reason we are supposedly here," said Greeley, "is because of deterioration. Where is the deterioration?"

Also objecting to the amendment was Phyllis Gill, who owns a home on Burns Street adjacent to the property. The amendment, she said, is discriminatory because it excludes the first two blocks of Petoskey Avenue. "I don't think this is the way to change any zoning. This is piecemeal," she said.

Dave Cole of Nettleton Street was another neighbor expressing displeasure with the commercial venture. His home, he said, has been in his wife's family for 80 years. He called the renovation of the neighboring property for the flower shop "direct disobedience" of the zoning laws which provided people with an example of how to get what they wanted by ignoring the ordinance.

"We would like to be able to have quiet possession of our family home," Cole said.

Marge Dinwiddie, a resident of Dixon Avenue, defended the flower shop. "I don't think the master plan was written in stone," she said. "That corner was deteriorating. I think having a flower shop there will not be all that bad."

Councilman Probert said he con-

Flu delivers knockout to area school children

by SARA GAY DAMMANN

It's an all-too-familiar syndrome: sudden onset of a headache, followed by fever, sore throat, cough, general aches and pains. Such symptoms are becoming increasingly common as Influenza B marches through northern Michigan.

Physicians and public health officials have termed this is the worst break of Influenza B, as opposed to Influenza A, for which many have been vaccinated. Doctors admit they really cannot do much to prevent or stop the flu season beyond advising patients to "give into the symptoms, go to bed and take plenty of fluids."

We are three weeks into this outbreak," Dr. Brian Youngs of Health District No. 2 reports. "It will last about six weeks, so we are mid-way.

"There was a prediction this would be a mild flu year, but this has been the worst I've seen in three years," Dr. Youngs continued.

Dr. Youngs said that Health Department statistics are based on school reports, which are based on parents' reasons for keeping children home. The absentee rates in Charlevoix, Emmet and Antrim Counties ranged between 20 and 33 percent, last week, he said, adding "Anything over 25 percent is considered significant."

Absenteeism in the Charlevoix schools peaked at 22 percent last week, dropped to about 18 percent by Friday, and Monday morning was down, to 10 percent, according to Superintendent Gordon VanWieren.

The hit hit the elementary school first, then rushed through the middle school and on to the high school, VanWieren reported.

The Charlevoix Children's House, preschool reported an absentee rate of about 25 percent early this week.

Officials and teachers added that teacher illness had created problems with funding, enough substitutes to take over classes. At one point last week nine high school teachers were out.

School closings, Dr. Youngs pointed out are not a health department decision. "We do not close schools to prevent the spread of the flu because the children have already been exposed. The administrators may decide to close schools when there are too few children or teachers to make school worthwhile.

In Charlevoix, VanWieren said a rate of 30 percent would cause his office to consider closing schools.

Charlevoix school nurse, Geraldine Brady, R.N., and area physicians agree the flu bug lingers once it bites, urging parents not to send children back to school too soon, and definitely not with a fever.

"It's a five- to ten-day illness. Dr. Edward Newcomb observed. "The first three to four days are the worst then patients may feel badly for another week.

This influenza hits every age but slightly children and young adults. We have not seen too many elderly or people over 50, but that may become these people do not have children around," Newcomb adds.

Charlevoix Area Hospital spokespersons report few flu related hospitalizations, adding that complications such as pneumonia may account for a few admissions.

Complications are a concern of the Health Department and area physicians. Pneumonia, either viral or bacterial, can strike, although infrequently according to Dr. Newcomb.

Safe drinking water standards proposed for trichloroethylene

by DOUG TRUAX

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has proposed drinking water standards for eight volatile organic chemicals, including trichloroethylene (TCE), the suspected cancer-causing chemical which as contaminated the Charlevoix municipal well.

The EPA has set two standards. The first, a final recommended maximum contaminant level (RMCL), was set at zero for TCE, according to an announcement in the Federal Register.

A second standard, more likely to be the final one approved for drinking water, is called proposed maximum contaminant level (MCL) and was set at 5 parts per billion (ppb).

RMCLs were set at zero for all five organic chemicals considered as probable carcinogens.

Denise Steurer of the EPA's Water Supply Investigation Team said the final RMCLs are based on probable health effects. They are goals for drinking water based on health considerations.

The EPA then comes up with a proposed maximum contaminant level (MCL) based on the technology available, the practicality of using the technology to treat the water, health effects and cost.

Steurer said the proposed MCL of 5 ppb is likely to become the national drinking water standard, but the agency will wait one year to receive any additional information.

A hearing on the eight volatile organic compounds, including TCE, was held Jan. 12. Public comment is open until Feb. 11.

Once finalized, Steurer said, the MCL standards are enforceable by the federal government if exceeded in the drinking water supply.

Victim's body recovered from lake

The body of Rex M. Blanchard, 55, manager of the Sequanota Club, who had been missing from his home since noon Friday, Jan. 24, was recovered from Lake Charlevoix at 9:32 a.m. Wednesday, Jan. 29, by divers from the East Jordan Volunteer Fire Department.

The recovery of the body climaxed the search initiated Saturday by the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department after Blanchard was reported missing.

The pickup truck which Blanchard was driving across the ice was located when three persons reported they had witnessed a vehicle answering the description of the truck at approximately 1 p.m. Friday. Following a route described by the witnesses, the vehicle was located approximately 1,000 feet from the north shore of the lake in 93 feet of water off Windmill Farm after debris from the truck was located through the ice.

The divers were then called in to recover the body.

Sheriff George T. Lassiter expressed his appreciation of all those who responded in numerous ways to the emergency. He mentioned especially the team of divers and the East Jordan Ambulance crew.

Reye's Syndrome warning issued

The National Reye's Syndrome Foundation issued a warning alert to be aware of the symptoms of Reye's Syndrome, a fatal children's disease that has been associated with the flu, chicken pox, or an upper respiratory illness.

In a recent statement from the national Center of Disease Control in Atlanta, federal health officials say the winter flu season is taking a heavy toll on school children and the outbreaks are expected to increase in coming weeks.

An epidemic of flu-type illnesses is commonly followed by an increase in the number of cases of Reye's Syndrome.

Influenza has been reported in 38 state and most cases have been Type B influenza. Reye's is frequently associated with outbreaks in children.

Although its symptoms are similar to other flu viruses, Type B flu can be the forerunner of Reye's Syndrome, a neurological illness with 20 percent death rate, "the CDC warned.

Reye's Syndrome affects children from infancy through young adults and can develop three to five days after the onset of the chicken pox, an upper respiratory illness, or other viral infection. It affects all organs of the body, but predominately the liver and brain, is non-contagious and is often misdiagnosed as encephalitis, appendicitis, diabetes, poisoning, drug overdose, or sudden infant death.

After a viral infection has seemingly run its course and the person is feeling better, the following symp-

March of Dimes plans Coffee Days

"Coffee Days" for the Charlevoix March of Dimes are scheduled to be observed at nine local restaurants and coffee shops on Thursday, Feb. 6 and Friday, Feb. 7. Shown, above are Leafa Ford, chairperson for Coffee Days, delivering a canister to Ken Gray of 7-Eleven, one of the participating establishments.

According to Ford, the restaurants will donate to the March of Dimes the proceeds from all coffee sales on the two designated days. Those participating include Dockside Pharmacy; Dufty's; Fireside Inn; Jouliaret's; J. R.'s Deli; Manny's Old Place, Riccardi's Inn; 7-Eleven and 218 Bridge Street.

Each business will also have a canister next to the cash register for any additional contributions restaurant patrons may wish to make.

"Monies received will be used for research and education to prevent birth defects in babies. It's an investment in the future," said Ford.

Winter Sports Carnival set for Mt. McSauba this weekend

There is a big weekend in store for winter sports enthusiasts as the community prepares for its annual Winter Sports Carnival to be held at Mt. McSauba ski area under the sponsorship of Charlevoix Recreation Department and Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce.

The program, directed by Dwight Boss, recreation director, and "Bo" Boss, manager of the Mt. McSauba ski complex will include downhill ski races for all age groups, bump jumper and ski bump jumper races on Saturday afternoon, and the popular Thunder Tube Races on Sunday.

The presentations on Sunday of medals for all events will climax the carnival.

Another attraction for everyone attending will be Sonny-cat rides to the top of Mt. McSauba for viewing the spectacular panoramic the area offers.

The schedule for the two-day event will be as follows: registration for the downhill ski races beginning at noon with the races to start at 1 p.m. Entry may be made in the following classes: Buddy five years and under; 6-7-8 year olds; 9-10 year olds; 11-12-13 year olds; and 14 years and older.

Registration for the original bump jumper and ski bump jumper races will be held at 2:30 p.m. for the following classes: up to 10 years, 11-15 year olds, and 16 years and older. The races will follow at 3 p.m.

On Sunday, registration for the Thunder Tube races, which requires a crew of five, will begin at noon. Tubes will be furnished. A registration fee of $5 will be required. The age restrictions will be seventh grade and older.

The races, which have proven to be one of the fun events of the carnival, will begin at 1 p.m.

The Awards Ceremony will follow.

During the entire festival the Mt. McSauba Lodge will be open for spectators and participants alike. Snacks and hot drinks will also be available.

Area residents are invited to join in the fun by participating as or being a spectator at the carnival.

Consumers asks help with snow

A white blanket of snow may be beautiful to the eye, but for the Consumers Power Company meter reader, its smooth surface may conceal all sorts of hidden dangers.

"Shovels, garden hoses, holes in the ground and other obstacles are hidden from view after a heavy snowfall," says Richard G. Dahlquist, area community services director of Consumers Power's Cheboygan area. "These obstacles can cause injuries to our meter readers as they approach meters located far from shoveled walkways."

While Consumers Power does not expect customers to shovel a path to meters, the utility does request that customers try to remove potential obstacles that could cause injury. That would benefit meter readers, children at play and others walking through the snow," says Dahlquist.

By helping the employee do his or her job, the customer, helps avoid estimated meter readings.

Rayders watch lead disappear as Petoskey rallies for win

by DOUG TRUAX

For a moment, midway in the third quarter, the Charlevoix Rayders may have wanted to pinch themselves to make sure it was real. They were leading arch-rival Petoskey by a comfortable 14-point lead and seemed headed for a surprisingly easy win to put them within a hair of league-leading Cheboygan.

The dream did not last much longer.

Petoskey arose like a sleeping giant and quickly brought the Rayders back to reality, eventually coming away with a 50-46 victory.

Down 36-22, the Northmen hit four quick field goals and suddenly found themselves in the game. By the end of the third quarter it was 40-32 with the Rayders still leading but rapidly losing control.

The final period was played at the foul line and it was a game the Rayders lost. They hit only two of 10 field goals for the final eight minutes and went two of eight at the free throw line.

Petoskey took control at the line during the final quarter – hitting 12 free throws and taking full advantage of one-and-one opportunities. They fared little better than Charlevoix from the field, however, scoring only two baskets and failing to sink a field goal after 4:27 of the period.

Charlevoix's last basket came with 5:17 left in the quarter.

Despite the heartbreaking loss, coach Dave Smith was proud of his team's effort. "I was pleased with the way we played," he said. "We played as well as we have in the last four or five games.

"We pushed the ball inside and got the shots we wanted," Smith added. "They just didn't drop."

The loss hurt Charlevoix's hopes of landing a fifth-straight Michigan-Huron Shores Conference title as the Rayders fell to 7-3 in the league, two games behind Cheboygan. The Rayders now share second-place with Petoskey and Gaylord.

Sean Ferguson and Jody Putman were the only Rayders in double figures. Ferguson scored 17 while hauling in eight rebounds. Putnam hit for 14 and picked up 10 rebounds. Tim Salmonson also figured prominently on the boards, pulling down 8.

The Rayders started fast with Ferguson and Putman scoring accurately from the field. At the end of the first quarter, Charlevoix was in front 18-13. Putman put in two a couple of minutes into the second quarter and Ciuk followed suit with two more. Ferguson picked up a steal and took the ball down court for a score and a 24-15 Rayder lead with 4:43 remaining in the quarter. The teams traded buckets and at the half it was 28-19 Charlevoix.

Charlevoix continued to apply strong offensive and defensive pressure at the start of the second half. They went up 36-22 on a basket by Ciuk. Then Petoskey suddenly began to take control. Consecutive buckets by 6-foot-6 center Steve Mann (twice), Tim Kruskie, and Denny Hewitt started the Northmen's resurgence.

The quarter ended with the Rayders holding on to an eight-point lead which they maintained until Ferguson hit a basket with 5:17 remaining. It turned out to be the Rayders' last field goal of the night.

Mann scored for Petoskey with 4:20 left in the contest and the Northmen converted three foul shots to bring them within one point as the score stood at 44-43 with 2:18 remaining.

Tim Kruskie evened the score with a foul shot a minute later. His second shot missed, but Mann picked up the rebound and was fouled. He sank one and gave Petoskey the lead for good.

From that point on the Northmen continued to draw fouls and convert free throws while the Rayders came up empty.

The Rayders held an 18-17 edge in field goals but were 10 of 17 from the line compared to 16 of 25 for Petoskey.

Mann finished the game with 22 to lead the Northmen. Don Proctor scored 11.

Charlevoix had an easier time earlier in the week as they defeated Boyne City 65-51. Smith said his team attacked the Rambler's zone well and had a good night shooting.

"We were confident in what we did," he said. The Rayders were also more accurate from the line than they were at Petoskey, dropping 10 of 13 in the final quarter.

Ferguson lead the Rayder offense with 27 points Putman and Ciuk had 12 each and Packy LaBlanc added 11.

Depot, Carson win in Independent play

In the only games played in the Charlevoix Independent Basketball League last week, the Depot of Boyne City edged Duffy's by a score of 79-75 and Kit Carson Lumber defeated Judy's Restaurant 80-64.

Duffy's got off to a fast start and led the Depot 18-12 at the quarter before the Depot poured in 30 points in the second period to go ahead 45-33. The Depot stayed ahead 59-48 going into the final period when Duffy's outscored their opponents 27-20 to cut the Depot's winning margin to four points.

All five Boyne players were in double figures with Dean Hicks scoring 26, Mark Guitar 15, Tom Beyer and Jeff Belford 14 each, and Tony Williams, 11. Cliff Haas and Woody Pearson had 21 each, Steve Martinus 19 and Larry Skippergosh 13 for Duffy's.

The Carson-Judy's game was fairly close until the final period when the Carson players got a hot hand and outscored Judy's 28-19 for the 80-64 win.

Judy's held a slim 11-10 first period lead, only to lose it to Carson's 31-25 at halftime. Carson's increased the margin to 52-45 going into the last period before taking the game by a wide margin.

Vince Left had 19 points, Roger Crain 15, Tim Carey 14, Barney Way 13 and Bo Boss 11 for Carson. Doug Buday had 20, Jim Marsh 17 and Dave Swanson 13 for Judy's.

Action in the independent league this week will find the Clothing Company meeting Nanny's, and Paul Lindberg, Inc. and First State Bank tangling at 7:45 p.m. Wednesday. On Tbursday, Dr. Dave's Green Grinders will meet Carson Lumber at 6:30 p.m. and the Depot and Judy's will clash at 7:45 p.m.

Middle Schoolers split with Boyne City

The Charlevoix Middle School boys basketball teams split with Boyne City Thursday with the eighth-graders losing by a score of 54-40 and the seventh-graders winning by a 43-21 score.

In the eighth-grader game, Charlevoix was ahead 23-21 at halftime before being outscored 35-17 for the loss.

Chad DeYoung had 11 points for Charlevoix. Hammontree had 15 and Gasco 12 for the young Ramblers.

The seventh-graders coasted to an easy win over the Boyne City five, heading the group 19-6 at halftime before winning by a 43-21 margin.

Jason Parrish lead the attack with 18 points for the victors. Dusty Patton had eight for the young Ramblers.

The eighth-grade "B" team dropped its game by a 36-17 score after trailing 13-7 at halftime.

Brad Zoet had five points for Charlevoix.

The teams will host Petoskey on Monday and play at Harbor Springs the following Wednesday.

Ski teams triumph on 'fabulous day'

The Charlevoix Rayder ski teams had what their coach, Erik Lundteigen, said was a fabulous day on the slopes at Boyne Mountain Wednesday as the boys team took their division with a perfect score of 20 and the girls won their meet with a score of 21.

"The boys took the top six places in both the slalom and the giant slalom. The girls took the top five places. It's unheard of in skiing circles," Lundteigen reported.

The scores in the five-team boys meet were Charlevoix 20; Bellaire 92; Boyne City 97; Boyne City "B" 130 and Sault Ste. Marie 158.

In the four-team girls meet Charlevoix had 21 points; Bellaire 76; Sault Ste. Marie 89 and Boyne City 114.

In the boys meet Matt Lignell placed first in the slalom and third in the giant slalom; Jason Brindel, second in both the slalom and in the GS; Wes Cumberland, third in the slalom and first in the GS; Karl Erber, fourth in the slalom and sixth in the GS; Brian Wilmot, fifth in the slalom and fourth in the GS and Jim Morgridge, sixth in the slalom and fifth in the GS.

The results of the girls meet were: Lauren Pace, first in the slalom and third in the giant slalom; Allison Hall, second in the slalom; Sue Miller, third in the slalom and first in the GS; Nonie Pace, fourth in the slalom and second in the GS and Wendy Voisin, fifth in both the slalom and the GS.

"It was a great team effort. I can't single out any one skier on either team," Lundteigen said of his teams.

The teams will be at Schuss Mountain with Bellaire, Petoskey and Grayling Wednesday; at the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference meet which Charlevoix will host at Boyne Mountain Monday, Feb. 11, and at the Regional Meet at Schuss Mountain on Thursday, Feb. 13.

JV blasts Boyne City

The Charlevoix Rayder JVs won over the visiting Petoskey Northmen on their home floor Friday night by a score of 62-39.

Though the Rayders got off to a slow start and trailed 12-10 at the end of the first period, they outscored the visitors 19-14 in the second period to take over 29-26 at halftime and 39-33 going into the final period. After scoring 13 points to Petoskey's six they won by a 13-point margin.

Both teams had 18 field goals. The difference came on the free-throw line where Charlevoix connected on 16 of 20 attempts and committed only 10 fouls. Petoskey scored only three of six free-throw attempts and had 20 personal fouls.

Dan Drury, who has returned to JV ranks from the varsity had 15 points, Roger Smith 13 and Scott DeYoung 11 for the Rayders. J. Hirschenberger had 11 for Petoskey.

The JVs came through with 68-37 win over the young Boyne City Ramblers in a game played Tuesday on the latter's floor.

The young Rayders forged to a 29-3 first-period lead which they increased to 43-13 at halftime and 57-27 at the three-quarter mark before rolling to an easy win.

Scott DeYoung set the tempo with 18 points. Dan Drury and Roger Smith had 10 points each. Mark Harris had 18 points for the Ramblers.

Frosh fall to Petoskey

The Charlevoix Rayder freshmen dropped their game Thursday to Petoskey by a 62-40 decision.

The young Northmen headed the visitors 12-7, 33-21 and 39-32 by quarters.

Shawn Putman had 22 points for Charlevoix. Dean Rasmussen and Todd Stimson had 12 points each for Petoskey.

The team will be at Gaylord Thursday.

Wrestlers lose final dual meets

The Charlevoix Rayder wrestlers dropped their final dual meets of the season Thursday when they lost to Mancelona 42-30 and to Onaway 48-32.

The team's next competition will be in the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference meet at Gaylord Saturday, Feb. 8.

"The team wrestled well. A couple key matches could have gone either way but unfortunately they went against us," coach Greg Bryan said of the team's performance. "Scott Nowotny wrestled well as did Jason Whatley, Dan Kelly, and Jason Wiser, all winning two matches."

In the Mancelona meet, Charlevoix forfeited the 98-pound class to Mike Wood of Mancelona and the 105-pound division was a double forfeit.

The results of the remainder of the meet follow:

112: Scott Nowotny (Cx) pinned Adam Wayne in 2:56.

119: Jason Wiser (Cx) won 12-5 over Carl Williams.

125: Shaun Bien (Cx) lost 14-4 to Rod Ridgeway.

132: Jason Whatley (Cx) pinned Jason Hilliard in 3:04.

138: Jamie Monteith (Cx) was pinned by Tony Mosby in 2:37.

145: Matt Hall (Cx) lost 14-4 to John Newman.

155: Kevin Pharsall (Cx) was pinned by Jeff Bellefeuille in 4:46.

167: Dan Kelly (Cx) pinned Stan Soderquist in 5:22.

185: Derek Dutcher (Cx) pinned Scott Crothers in 4:37.

196: Jim Tilton (Cx) was pinned by Carey Campbell in 1:58.

Hwy: Bill Marquardt (Cx) was pinned by Charles Munchback in 4:56.

In the Onaway meet the 98 and 112-pound divisions were double forfeits and in the 119 and 125-pound divisions Nowotny and Wiser won by pinfall.

The results in the other weight classes follow:

132: Bier was pinned by Todd Fraus in 55.

138: Whatley won 7-5 over John Crawford.

145: Monteith was pinned by Casey Crawford in 1:50.

155: Hall lost 14-0 to Jim Fridley.

167: Kelly pinned Andy McGann in 4:58.

185: Pearsall pinned Rick Peterman in 1:20.

Hwy: Dutcher was pinned by David Jump in 2:08.

Hwy: Tilton was pinned by Jerry Williams in 4:38.

Hwy: Marquardt was pinned by Chris Miller in 4:52.

Netters drop two games

The Charlevoix Rayder volleyball teams dropped both games to Kalkaska on the road trip Wednesday night.

This week the teams will travel to Grayling on Wednesday. The varsity's next outing will be at the Elk Rapids Invitational Tournament on Feb. 8.

In their games with Kalkaska on Wednesday, the teams were not at their best coach Brenda Bryan said in the losses.

The varsity lost to the visitors by scores of 15-7, 15-7 and 15-13.

In the JV action, the team scores were Kalkaska 15-3, 14-16 and 15-4.

Michelle Seibert was named top server. Billie Jean Bubel setter and Sam Sanford spiker.

The Masons upset the Oddfellows' slim lead and forged to a 504-point lead in the annual combined tournament Thursday night.

With 14 rollers at play, the Masons had a score of 688 points.

Chuck Staley had 547 points to take scoring honors for the Masons. Hugh Wayne had 542 for the Oddfellows.

On Thursday the tournament play will continue at the Masonic Temple at 1 p.m.

Flu season strikes

Ear infections are a concern in young children, the doctors warn.

Treatment for the flu is standard: Time, rest, give in to the symptoms, take extra fluids, use humidifiers and take non-aspirin pain relievers, such as Tylenol, if necessary, Dr. Newcomb advises.

Symptoms to worry about are: fever lasting more than two or three days, a cough that continues to get worse, and no gradual improvement. With those symptoms patients should see their doctor, the physician said.

"If a child under two years old has a fever longer than 24 hours, that child should be taken to a doctor," Dr. Newcomb stated strongly.

"This flu seems to have a double hump," Dr. Newcomb added. Patients start to feel well and get sick all over again.

Observing how little can be done to prevent the flu, except flu shots for older people and others at high risk, Dr. Newcomb commented:

"Like to common cold, the flu is one of the plagues of mankind."

Reye's Syndrome warning

toms should be treated as serious and as possibly the first indication of Reye's Syndrome:

Persistent or continuous vomiting

Listlessness (loss of pep and energy, drowsiness)

Personality change (such as irritability, combativeness or slurred speech)

Disorientation (unable to identify whereabouts or family members)

Delirium, convulsions

Reye's Syndrome should be suspected in any child or young adult who shows any of the above symptoms. Phone your physician immediately if these symptoms develop and tell him her you suspect Reye's Syndrome. If your doctor is not available, take your child to an emergency room promptly. Two liver function tests "SGOT-SGPT" can be done to determine the possibility of Reye's Syndrome. There is a 90 percent chance of recovery when the syndrome is treated in its earliest stages by physicians and nurses experienced in the treatment of Reye's.

Research has shown an association between the development of Reye's Syndrome and the use of aspirin for treating the symptoms of influenza-like illnesses, chicken pox, and colds. Even with the possible link between aspirin and aspirin containing products, the NRSF warns that studies have also shown the disease can develop without the use of these products.

Florist shop approved

ducted a survey when running for Council last fall and found 79 people for the flower shop and 21 against. "I think you can develop some sort of a cottage industry in this area," Probert said. "I like the idea of it being residential. I believe we should try to keep it as close to residential as possible."

Walt Hufford, chairman of the City Planning Commission, told Council a paragraph of the amendment which calls for "an appearance indistinguishable from that of a residential structure" was impractical. "I don't think you can tell someone to put in a business and not be able to tell it is a business," Hufford said.

That wording was removed in the motion presented by Councilman Earl Muma. Another section of the amendment calls for "a residential design character and structural appearance in conformity with the then existing residential structures on Petoskey Avenue."

The amendment also requires that the business be occupied by the owner or operator.

Beacons of Blessing

A devotional column prepared by the Charlevoix Ministerial Association

BY Fr. Gary D. Heniser
Christ Episcopal Church

Each year as we approach Lent (just days from us this year) our minds often begin to search for the Lord's will about what we "ought to give up" for the season - those 40 days (plus Sundays) between Ash Wednesday and Easter morning. The idea of "giving up" something has been abused seriously in the modern day, often becoming little more than an attempt to control one's diet in order to lose a few pounds.

The concept of fasting had another locus, that of turning one's eyes away from one's self - of looking beyond me in this moment, with the desire of bringing one's body into submission in order to more clearly catch a vision of God, and grow more nearly into the person he wants each of us to be.

A classic fast in the monastic sense often consisted of extra hours of prayer daily and a limited intake of food often bread and water throughout the period of Lent.

We often attempt to live a "modified fast" - eliminating one meal a day, or one meal on Wednesday or Friday of each week, or not eating meat products for specific times within Lent, or on particular days. This form of fasting has lost favor in recent years, and is certainly viewed as a "necessary evil" by those who have found it to be a requirement of faith, but the joy of fasting - the Joy of the Fast - has all but disappeared.

How refreshing to fall into the Holy Scriptures and discover how God views fasting. Having read Isaiah numerous times I am yet surprised by God's word when he discusses "True Fasting." It has nothing to do with depriving one's self of food, or beating one's body into submission, or of pummeling the flesh - it has to do with sharing! I refer you to Isaiah 58. This is a clear call by God upon our lives to be concerned about, and actively involved in, the meeting of the needs of those who have less than do we.

To give of ourselves to others, personally receives the promise of being blessed beyond measure, and of finding our joy in the Lord. May I call us as a Christian community to a Holy Fast during this Lent?

The first 1986 Chamber Social Mixer sponsored by Pat McKeown Ford, Inc. is Thursday, Feb. 6 at the Grey Gables. Scheduled from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m., the informal social evening is open to all Chamber members. Non-member guests may attend for a $3 charge.

A relaxed and enjoyable time is planned. President Gleason and the Board will be on hand to share your ideas. A voting rights-member vote will be necessary to change a couple of Chamber by laws, but that will not take much time. Be sure to bring your business cards along to make you eligible for a door prize drawing.

Several summer activities are already being organized. The plan is to work out the details now, when things are a little slower, so when June, July and August arrive, there is some semblence of order. The following people have stepped forward to work on behalf of the community: Ed Smalley, Charlevoix float driver for all parades; Georgia LaBlance, Venetian Street Parade; John Ochs, Venetian Boat Parade; Suzi Reis, Waterfront Art Fair; Sue Ann Wiesner, Venetian Queen's Pageant. Thank you for jumping in and getting the 1986 events off to a good start with your leadership.

Winter Sports Carnival is here. There is plenty of great snow this year, so all events are set to take place as scheduled. Registrations will be handled at the Mt. McSauba Lodge for all events, both days, beginning at noon. The Charlevoix Recreation Department works hard on this event each year.

Go to Mt. McSauba and get in on all the fun - downhill and bump jumping races will be on Saturday, the World Thunder Tube Championships will be Sunday. Don't forget, snowcat rides to the top of the hill will be made possible on Saturday. The view from up there is fantastic. Don't miss it.

Legislation would give taxing authority to public transportation

by PEG OHLE

A bill which would permit the formation of another taxing unit is now being considered in the State Senate.

Senate Bill 180, which passed the house 76-22 in the last session, is now on its way back to the Senate for discussion of House amendments. If passed, the legislation would permit the formation of Public Transportation Authorities with the power to levy property taxes upon voter's approval; issue bonds and notes for financing facilities and to cover operating costs; and make public or private loans to finance the purchase of mass transit vehicles.

The bill would create the Public Transportation Authority Act under which a local government—county, city, township, or a combination of governments could set up the tax-levying Authority.

As much as five mills for five years could be levied by local Public Transportation Authority if approved by voters in the area covered by the Authority.

The Analysis Section of the Senate explains the rationale for the legislation as follows:

"Michigan's public transit authorities depend for their revenues upon varying combinations of fees, fares, property taxes, and aid from local governments, the state, and federal government. Authorities cannot raise fees and fares high enough to cover operating expenses because to do so would make public transportation too expensive, especially for the low-income people who most depend upon it. Grants from the state and local governments have all but disappeared, and it is almost certain that federal aid will continue to decline and may possibly be terminated."

The Charlevoix County Transit System, which provides bus service throughout the County, has problems typical of other public transportation systems. It has been in operation since the summer of 1980, and while it has a small corps of regular customers, mostly senior citizens, riding the buses has never become "the thing to do".

The County Transit System has raised fares several times to the point where higher fares would probably cut ridership, and although federal and state grants have been cut, the System has received enough to keep going when county funds and fare box collections are added to its income.

For the last three years, the Transit System has been subsidized by the county in accordance with authority granted the county by a millage election. The electorate approved a one-quarter mill levy for three years, which will expire next fall.

Less than one-quarter mill was levied the first two years, but the full amount was levied in 1985. Whether or not the County, or a local Public Transportation Authority, would ever consider levying five mills for public transportation—or whether the electorate would approve such taxation—seems doubtful when the failure of recent school millage elections is remembered.

Art Saworski, manager of the Charlevoix County Transit System, told the Courier that neither he, nor the three-man Transit Committee which oversees the Transit System, has considered Senate Bill 180.

Last year's operating expenses for the Transit System were $292,461, according to Saworski. Based on the 1985 State Equalized Valuation of Charlevoix County, a five-mill tax levy would generate $369,400, not enough for the county to operate the Transit System alone, and certainly not enough to buy buses, which in the past have cost about $45,000 apiece.

An argument for supporting Senate Bill 180, according to the Senate Analysis Section, is that it would let transportation authorities go directly to the people for the power to levy property taxes, instead of depending upon declining federal aid or the state's willingness to help when economic conditions allow. "Without such authorization, there is every chance that public transportation will not survive", the analysis concludes.

An opposing argument is that the addition of a five-mill increase in the property tax is substantial. This could create a situation where many persons in a locality are forced to pay a large proportion of their income against their wishes to support transportation systems—systems that would be used by persons who would pay for services at rates that would be less than the cost of operation.

Senate Bill 180 has the support of the Michigan Public Transit Association, the Department of Transportation, the American Federation of State, County, and Municipal Employees, and the Michigan Townships Association. The latter Association gave its support to the bill after the House amended it to permit an entity of an Authority (such as a township) to withdraw from the Authority up to 30 days after the Authority is established.

The bill was introduced in the Senate last year by 14 State Senators, including Connie Binsfield of the Grand Traverse Bay area. Those interested in the legislation, pro or con, should contact their local Senator, Mitch Irwin. (He was not one of those who introduced the bill.)

School Board hears landscaping plan

Absenteeism as the result of the flu is now down to nine percent in the Charlevoix Public Schools, Supt. Gordon W. VanWieren told the Board of Education at its regular meeting Monday night (see page 1 story).

In action by the board, Ardeth Wieland was named to attend the annual budget meeting of the Char-Em Intermediate School District.

A request by the Rodney Mumma family who resides on Gennett Road in Norwood Township for a change of bus pick-up for their son, a third-grader, was granted.

Dennis VanGuilder, middle school principal, advised that the students at the school had raised $2,200 which would be used for landscaping at the school bordered by Mason, Grant and Clinton Streets. Garden Club members have volunteered to meet with members of the sixth grade to teach the technique of landscaping. He also said the school would be offering the DNR boat safety program.

The board has approved a trip for the Performing Arts Group who will be attending the regional competition at Essexville.

Richard Swenor, assistant principal, said the number of students attending the Saturday school to make up classes was down to six and that the program was operating well.

The next meeting of the board is scheduled for Feb. 17.

Youth for Christ holds brunch

The Northern Michigan Youth for Christ Intercessors will be hosting a brunch at North Central Michigan College Conference rooms 1 and 2, on Feb. 13. The time is 9:45 A.M. and cost is $4.20 and includes the 4th film in the series "Out of the Salt Shaker", entitled "Sharing the Message".

Child-care is available at the Youth For Christ office in Petoskey on the corner of Waukazoo and Grove. Reservations are necessary by calling 347-6563 by Feb. 11. Please state if you are in need of child-care during the brunch.

The group will be hosting local pastors' wives at the brunch with a special gift. When calling in your reservation, please acknowledge whether you are bringing your pastor's wife.

Rex Blanchard

Funeral services for Rex M. Blanchard, 58, of Charlevoix were held at the Community Church of God on Saturday, Feb. 1. The Rev. Bruce E. Hamilton officiated. Interment was in Brookside Cemetery.

Mr. Blanchard died Friday, Jan. 24.

Born at Phelps in Marion Township March 23, 1926, to Clinton and Lois Blanchard, Mr. Blanchard attended the Phelps District Grade School and graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1945. He enlisted in the U.S. Navy in 1950 and served during the Korean conflict.

After his military service he was in construction work for some years prior to becoming maintenance manager at the Sequanota Club, a position he had held for 15 years prior to his death. He also also served with the Charlevoix Township Volunteer Fire Department.

He is survived by his wife, the former Joan Y. Mathews, whom he married at Charlevoix on March 12, 1955; a son, Clint Rex of Charlevoix; two daughters, Kim Y. of Laramie, Wyo., and Lynn M. of Tampa, Fla.; one granddaughter, two brothers, Burr Blanchard of Charlevoix and Harold E. Miller, Sr. of East Jordan; and three sisters, Mrs. Raymond T. (Merle) Papberg, Sr., of Traverse City and Mrs. Bernhard (Marie) Ahn, Sr., and Miss Ruth Blanchard, both of Petoskey.

The Winchester Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

The family suggests memorials to the Rex Blanchard Trophy Fund, c-o Lake Charlevoix Area Trout Tournament. Charlevoix, or the East Jordan Volunteer Fire Department.

Church. The Rev. Thomas Black officiated. Interment was in Brookside Cemetery.

Mrs. Smith died Thursday, Jan. 30, at Grandview Medical Care Facility.

Born in Charlevoix August 16, 1898, the former Evva M. Barber attended the Charlevoix schools. On Aug. 15, 1919, she was married to Martin McGhan who preceded her in death May 22, 1957. On June 25, 1961, she was married to Elmer Smith who died Feb. 6, 1969. She had been employed as a domestic worker by several families in Charlevoix throughout the years. She was a member of the First Baptist Church, American Legion Auxiliary and the Charlevoix Historical Society.

Her only survivors are a sister, Mrs. Ethel Ephlin of Charlevoix and several nieces and nephews.

The family suggests memorials to the First Baptist Church, or the Charlevoix Historical Society.

Scrambled signals should not worry satellite dish buyers, Buday says

Despite a flurry of negative publicity by cable TV interests, home satellite television continues to boom, according to Ed Buday, President of Buday's N.C.E. of Charlevoix.

"There's absolutely no truth to the allegations that home satellite TV is 'piracy', or that scrambling will put an end to the variety of programs dishowners can receive," asserts Buday.

In fact, home satellite TV reception is perfectly legal, Buday adds. In October 1984, President Reagan signed the Satellite Television Viewing Rights Act which stated that anyone may receive unscrambled satellite-transmitted programming without obligation to the programmer.

The act also entitles satellite TV viewers to receive scrambled, or encrypted, satellite-transmitted programming for a reasonable fee and under competitive conditions, Buday pointed out.

"The scrambling issue hardly means that satellite TV owners will lose access to free programming. On the contrary, the vast majority of programmers have no intention of scrambling their signals. The handful who do, like Home Box Office (HBO), will become premium options for dish owners to choose from."

Ed Buday is not alone in his optimism. According to David Wilford, publisher of "Satellite Or Else" magazine, the industry's leading program guide, "Many people who already have cable would prefer the variety you get from home satellite TV. And then there's the 31 million rural Americans who live outside cable-wired areas. For them, home satellite TV is essentially their only option."

Currently, home satellite TV viewers can receive more than 100 unscrambled domestic channels, plus several dozen additional audio services.

Library hosts weekly workshops

By ANNE KELLY

To fight the winter doldrums, the Charlevoix Public Library sponsors a series of workshops for kids. The workshops, feature local artisans, craftsmen, and others who volunteer their time and talents as a community service, to enrich the experience of children in grades K-5.

This year's series has been organized by Linda Balch and has been well attended. Beginning Jan. 11 with Dawn Fletcher, who demonstrated and helped the children learn the art of german paper cutting; other programs of note have been: Gordon Neff — "Wood Carving" The Seagull," " and Candy Smith sharing her expertise in Vital Options scaled down to size see photos), Jean Giffin spoke on her travels in China on Feb. 1.

All children in grades K-5 are invited to the Saturday workshops beginning at 11 a.m. and ending at noon, every Saturday until March 1.

The schedule for the remainder of the series are as follows:

Feb. 8 Maury Cohen: Library awareness and story telling (NCMC English Instructor

Feb. 15 - Pat Drost: Making of a Clown, Clown make-up

Feb. 22 Jim Warner Introduction to Music (guitar)

Coast Guard tests new buoy system on Great Lakes waters

by FRAN MARTIN

The U.S. Coast Guard introduced a new type of navigational aid to the Great Lakes during the fall buoy season, according to Lt. Cdr. Robert E. Young, commanding officer of the USCGC Mesquite. Called an "articulated structure," the aid, in some respects, is a cross between a buoy and a light mounted on a piling, he explained.

Two such aids were installed in the Great Lakes in 1985, one by the Mesquite in the St. Mary's River and a second in the Lake St. Clair area.

From the water surface, the aid looks just like a light which has been built on a steel piling and driven into the bottom, a type of light which is common in many areas. However, below the surface the difference becomes apparent, Young explained. Instead of being driven into the bottom, the lower end of the steel pipe which is 12 inches in diameter is attached by a shackle to a large concrete sinker similar to the way a buoy is connected. In the case of the articulated light the sinker is 12 feet square and weighs 12,750 pounds.

A float section about 10 feet below the water fits around the steel pipe to keep the light from leaning over and sinking. The section which extends above the surface is topped by the platform which is reached by a ladder attached to the pipe to the floor of the platform.

The result is an aid to navigation which costs less than a fixed structure and maintains its position more accurately than a buoy. The entire unit bolts together and, by adding different lengths of pipe, can be modified for use in water depths from 24 to 53 feet.

Once on station, the aid is expected to remain in place for years with only minor maintenance to the light itself. If this plan succeeds, the articulated light would be even less expensive to maintain than a buoy. In order for the aid to remain on station, year-around, it must survive the destructive forces of winter ice.

Of course, with the normal platform that is a part of most lights, the aid would not stand a chance once a significant amount of ice had formed.

On the two prototypes being tested in the Great Lakes the platform is removed each fall and replaced with a winter top. This is a length of steel pipe with a light mounted inside and protected by a smooth plastic dome. This type of top is similar to that used on the lighted ice buoys which have survived the rigors of a Great Lakes winter.

At this time, the articulated light in the St. Mary's River has already provided some lessons to the designer. In December, early ice caused the pipe to break in one location, prompting the Coast Guard to replace it for the season with a lighted ice buoy.

After modifications are made, the light will be re-installed in the spring of 1986. Hopefully, this new aid will provide a method of decreasing the cost of maintaining the aids to navigation system over the long run and, at the same time, providing a more accurate marker for the mariner, Young said.

A section of the pipe on which the new aid to navigation is mounted is being lowered from the deck of the USCGC Mesquite and shackled to a 12,750 pound sinker already in place in the river bed of the St. Mary's River near Sault Ste. Marie.

Shoreline erosion workshops planned throughout state

LANSING — The Department of Natural Resources (DNR) has scheduled a service of Great Lakes Shoreline Erosion workshops around the state aimed at increasing public awareness of record high water levels on the Great Lakes and connecting channels.

Shoreline residents will be faced with the potential for severe property damage this spring and the workshops are intended to encourage local officials and property owners to make contingency plans and take action to mitigate flooding and erosion damage wherever possible.

The Department's Land Resource Programs division is prepared to assist residents with a low interest loan program to relocate homes in erosion hazard areas; assistance on shore protection alternatives; state and federal shore protection permit requirements and coordination of emergency dangers and be prepared before spring storms cause unnecessary losses.

Among the workshop stops are:

• February 10 — 7:30 p.m., EAST TAWAS, MICHIGAN, Banquet Room, Big Boy Restaurant, 1700 US-23.

• February 11 — 1:30 p.m., MANISTEE, MICHIGAN, Manistee Room, Best Western Carriage Inn, 300 Arthur Street (US-31).

• February 11 — 7:30 p.m., MUSKEGON, MICHIGAN, Blue and Gold Room (second level), Muskegon Community College, 221 South Quarterline Road.

• February 18 — 7:30 p.m., SAULT STE. MARIE, MICHIGAN, Lake Superior State College, Walker Cisler Center, Main Conference Room.

• February 19 — 7:30 p.m., MARQUETTE, MICHIGAN, Northern Michigan University, Don H. Bottom Center, Huron Room.

• February 26 — 7:00 p.m., ESCANABA, MICHIGAN, Bay DeNoc Community College, Practical and Fine Arts Building, Room 121.

City unveils '86-'87 budget

City Manager Michael Wiesner unveiled a $6,310,300 1986-87 proposed budget at Monday's working session of City Council.

Included in the budget, which runs from April 1, 1986 to March 31, 1987, are expenditures for the new industrial park, a public safety building and purchase of additional Ferry Beach property.

The proposed budget is 20 percent greater than last year's $5,251,465 figure when those major capital expense projects are included. Without those three items, Wiesner told Council, expenditures are projected to be up 1.3 percent.

Revenue from 14 operating mills and 3 mills for debt retirement, the same millage rate as last year will be used to finance the city operations.

The budget Wiesner summarized includes a 13 percent increase in water rates. Sewer rates will remain the same and the multiplier for sewer rates will be lowered accordingly.

The service charge for 3/4-inch or smaller lines would be $2.61 up from $2.12 and the base rate for the first 2,000 gallons would go from $1.30 to $1.47.

Ski rates at Mt. McSauba are also scheduled to rise. The family pass membership will go from $95 to $140, while the single season pass would increase from $40 to $60. Daily passes would jump from $3.50 to $5.

Recreation Director Dwight Bosa told Council that Mt. McSauba was the only ski resort in Michigan with a family pass and that the new daily rate would still be $5 cheaper than the next least expensive ski hill in the state, Hidden Hills.

Fees for the city marina are also slated to rise by $.25 to $.75 per day.

AMONG THE MAJOR expenditures planned for next year are the industrial park, $392,300; the public safety building, $250,000; a replacement of the 1973 plow truck, $45,300; a computerized meter reading device and computer terminal for the electric department, $40,000; and a tax appeal reserve, $25,000.

Other items on the city's budget include removal of the old water tower, $25,000; construction of a 12-inch water main to the Dunkle Development, $25,000; a contribution to the fire truck reserve, $15,000; street paving at the end of Burns Street, $23,000; the purchase of a new ambulance, $22,500 plus $45,000 already reserved; replacement of a police car, $12,000; and purchase of a grass mower for the golf course, $12,000 each year for three years.

Not included in the budget figures discussed by Council are the costs proposed by the Electrical System Report, which will be presented to the Council in the near future.

Mayor Hal Gill questioned the lack of funds for road repair. He said he was particularly concerned about Dixon Avenue. "People tell me people there won't be anything done to the street this year," he said. "I don't know of a street in town that is in the condition of this one."

Stanley Bidell questioned the increase in rates for sitting at Mt. McSauba, expressing concern that the new rates may exclude some citizens from the city.

Council will hold a public hearing on the budget March 3 in Council chambers at 7 p.m. The Council will also review the budget again in a working session on February 24.

The World Thunder-Tubing Championship continues to be one of the most popular events on the carnival, attracting 13 teams of five members each.

A team of Kevin Sheppard, Terry Bondar, Jim Gibbs, Darrin Batchief and Quinton Walker, the 1985 champions, successfully defended their title.

Placing second was a team composed of Carl Baleh, Nick Mellios, Steve Mellios, Shaun Bell and Derek Dutcher.

The third-place team was made up of Jean Gaertz, Colleen LaBlanc, Bryan Nourse, Bob Wren and Tim Wilson.

Olympic type medals were awarded to all first, second and third-place winners in the carnival.

Dwight Bosa, recreation director, and Ed Boss manager of the winter sports complex, expressed their appreciation and gratitude to all the volunteers who assisted especially Butch Wagner, Bob Jess, Alva Nourse, Kevin Merriam, Pam Bunting, Connie Carr, Malissa Boss, Stacey Bunting, Penny Carr, and Cahadia Kendrick.

Water's Edge to be discussed

Keep Charlevoix Beautiful will hold a special information meeting on Saturday Feb. 15 on the Water's Edge referendum.

Representatives of both sides of the upcoming issue will be present. Ed Geschlieager, president of First Centrum Corporation, will present the case for a yes vote on the referendum. Marcia Tamper of ALERT and Jerry Pohl, president of WATCH, will argue for a no vote.

Each side will have 10 minutes to present its case. A 30-minute question and answer period will follow. All questions will be submitted in writing and answers will be limited to two minutes each. Bruce MacArthur, president of KCB, will conduct the meeting.

The KCB meeting will be at 210 Bridge Street Restaurant at 9 a.m. Saturday, Feb. 15. There will be free coffee and rolls. The two sides will be introduced at 9:15 a.m. and the meeting is scheduled to adjourn at 10:15. The public is invited to attend.

Tramper has also been invited to present a rebuttal to Ed Geschlieager at the hour meeting at 8:45 a.m. at 210 Bridge Street Restaurant. The meeting will also feature a presentation by Mediator of Disputes (MOD), a group founded by attorneys Leon Berman and David Farthes. Geschlieager had previously addressed the Rotary group.

"Fiddler" wins Performing Arts group a chance to compete in state festival

by FRAN MARTIN

The Charlevoix High School Performing Arts Group with its play, "Fiddler on the Roof," qualified for state competition at the regional level Saturday.

The group will travel to Mt. Clemens for the state festival at the Macomb Community College Friday and Saturday. The Charlevoix group will appear at the college at 10:30 a.m. Friday and be prepared to present its play, director Connie Ford said.

The Charlevoix group, one of five schools appearing in the regional competition at Emmerville-Garver school, received a top 1 rating for its presentation.

Midland Dow with the highest number of points was named to represent the region, Ford said. Though several ratings were given, only the one with the highest number of points was selected to represent the region. There are four regions in the state.

Ford explained that there are a total of 32 slots filled. After four are filled with the competition group, each of the four regions, the remaining eight are filled by schools with the highest number of points.

"Charlevoix won with points plus 2 rating," she said.

"We came home not knowing what the outcome would be. I wouldn't call it until 9:30 a.m. Sunday to be notified that we had made it," Ford commented. Adding that "my phone's been ringing."

She said of their performance Saturday: "The kids were great. Parents who saw them at the district level all thought they did so much better Saturday."

"With only 32 schools going to state, it means that we're one of the 32 best in the state. I'm so proud of them," she added.

The Charlevoix players received one "acting award. It went to Kathleen Burley for her portrayal of the Rabbi. Grant Ford received the excellence award, one of only five given during the day.

The group received three technical awards, an excellence to Jennifer Bonar for stage management; a superior for set design to Brian Anderson, and a superior for costume execution to Amber Spencer. Mike Horton and Kathleen Burley.

A full length presentation of "Fiddler on the Roof" will be presented at the high school gymnasium in March.

Based on Sholom Aleichem's Stories, the play was written by Joseph Stein with music by Jerry Bock and lyrics of Sheldon Harnick.

The parents support group is raising money so the group can spend a second night in northern Michigan. Anyone wishing to support this effort can contact Mark Ford or any parent of a performing arts student.

County faces some busy election months ahead

by PEG GELE

February and March are not unlike busy election months in Charlevoix County, but 1986 is different.

Jane Brannon, Charlevoix County Clerk, has set up three special elections, on February 11, February 25, and March 18, and a regular election on March 25. The Bayne City School Board has set up a special election on March 25.

The February 11 election is a Charlevoix Township referendum on upholding the rezoning of 40 plus acres of property on the south shore of Lake Charlevoix, just outside the city limits, known as "Water's Edge". Last August, the township rezoned the property from R-1 residential to R-4, planned unit, which would permit the building of a large condominium development on the property. The decision of the rezoning was questioned by a group of citizens, who petitioned for the referendum vote.

The February 25 election is a primary for Township referendum supporters to select a clerk, treasurer, and two trustees. This special election was brought about by the resignation late last year of the holders of these offices. They cited the reasons for resignations as differences of opinion with Township Supervisor Bonnie VanDorn. Mrs. VanDorn has been running the township with the assistance of the County Clerk and County Treasurer.

Charlevoix Yesterday

The "City of Charlevoix", shown at anchor in Round Lake, was called "The Queen of the Nineties", according to Bob Miles' history of Charlevoix. It had been built to replace the ill-fated liner "Champlain", which burned and ran aground off Fisherman's Island on June 15, 1907, with a known loss of 22 lives. While the steamer is painted white in this picture, it was later painted black, which was popular with most of the later steamers in passenger service, Miles reports. In its later days, the "City of Charlevoix" became known as the "Kansas."

Charlevoix students still above state test average

by FRAN MARTIN

Charlevoix Public School students continue to score above state averages in the Michigan State Assessment Tests, results released recently by the State Board of Education reveal.

State scores are improving and, in the fourth grade, are nearing the levels of Charlevoix students in the subjects of reading and math, Condit Drury, Middle School counselor who coordinates the program, pointed out.

In the math division in the seventh and tenth grades, Charlevoix students are well above state averages with Charlevoix students scoring 86.6 to the state average of 66.2 in the seventh-grade level and 79.3 to the state's 67.8 on the tenth-grade level.

Reading scores on the state level are higher but still below those of Charlevoix students in all three grade levels (see graph).

According to a news release which accompanied the test results, the 1985 achievement tests hit an all-time high on five of the six tests.

The accompanying graphs are compiled by Drury to give a visual comparison of the averages of local students as compared to the other students at the same grade levels in the state (81,085 fourth-graders, 89,918 seventh-graders and 192,311 tenth-graders).

The assessment tests are administered to all students in the fourth, seventh and tenth grades. They are given to measure mastery of the state's objectives in math and reading. The results are then used to alert teachers and administrators to the areas where additional emphasis on the subject is needed.

"The results that Charlevoix students receive on the tests should be considered a team effort," Drury said. "Not only the students and the teachers but parents, administrators and the board of education should be very proud of the test results for they represent the combined effort of every one involved."

Charlevoix High musicians score well at districts

Seven of the soloists and three of the duet combos who participated in the annual District II Solo and Ensemble Festival at Gaylord Saturday, Feb. 1, received top I ratings and qualified for the state festival to be held at Ferris State College March 29.

Soloists who received the I ratings are Michelle North, flute and vocalist; Jackie Paul, clarinet; Sandy Brosofske, saxophone; Mike Stargardt, alto sax; Dan Staublin, marimba; Heather Dietrich, flute.

Combos receiving the I rating were Elka Thomas and Julie Brewster, clarinet duet; Ember Spencer and Michelle Louiselle, flute duet; and Amy Kelly and Tina Fershee, flute duet.

Receiving II ratings were Lara Stargardt, flute solo; Chris Cunningham, clarinet solo; John Wilden, cornet solo; Kaye Stapleham, piano solo; Scott Kelly, snare drum solo; and Jackie Paul, Kathy Washburn and Chris Cunningham, clarinet trio.

Accompanists for the contestants were Steve Stargardt, Jeannie Lignell and Ruth North.

"This is the largest number of participants we have had in the festival since I came to Charlevoix, and the greatest number to qualify for the state festival," said director Terry Isenbarger. "They did very well."

New Simon play opens here soon

The Bridge St. Theatre's January production of "I Ought To Be In Pictures" was so successful that another Neil Simon hit, "The Star Spangled Girl" is now slated for the February show instead of the previously listed "Great American Backstage Musical," according to producer David Pretzman.

"The Star Spangled Girl" is a romantic comedy that ran in 1966 and was a smash hit with Richard Benjamin, Connie Stevens and Anthony Perkins. The show will open on Valentines Day and run for three weeks only in March.

"The Star Spangled Girl" is the story of Andy Greg Etter of Louisville, KY and Norman James Allen Baker of Westland, MI who are friends that are publishing a not-so-successful underground newspaper. Into their lives walks a pretty next door neighbor from Kansas named Sophie...what happens for the rest of the show is a combination of mad-cap humor and romantic antics. The show is directed by Rebecca Zlamis of Mt. Clemens, MI.

Performances are scheduled for Friday and Saturday evenings with dinner starting at 6 p.m. and curtain at 8:30 p.m. Dinner and show tickets are $15 with a changing menu.

Charlevoix teen enters national modeling pageant

A Charlevoix Middle School student, Michelle Jacobs, has been chosen as a semi-finalist in the TEEN Magazine's 1986 Great Model Search, one of the nation's biggest annual hunts for new modeling talent. Her photo will appear in the March issue of TEEN as one of the 16 semi-finalists in perregion.

The daughter of Cheryl and Larry Jacobs of Lake Shore Drive, Clipperview, Michelle will now become eligible for selection later this year as a contest-"super" semifinalist, the next step in winning the competition. "It's so exciting to be chosen a semi-finalist and have an opportunity to go for the big prizes. I love to travel and I see this as a chance to do just that," Michelle said of becoming a regional semi-finalist. She said she entered the contest as the result of the urging of her mother and family friends.

This year's winner will appear on the cover of TEEN and win a $5,000 cash award from Maybelline and an appearance in a national Maybelline ad, a $5,000 contract with the Gillette Company, a 1986 Mazda 323 Luxury Hatchback and a wardrobe from Ups and Downs Stores.

The contest is open to teenagers 12-18 in the U.S. and Canada. Entry forms are available in the current issue of TEEN.

Something Old. Something New.

There's a new bank in town. First of America.

Yet, as new as our company is to the area, you'll get close enough, you'll notice that there are familiar faces here to serve you.

The same people who helped you with your banking in the past, when they worked under a different bank name.

The same friends and neighbors who share your love for this community.

And who share our belief that this is one of the best places in Michigan, not only to live, but to have a bank.

We're community banks, after all. That means we believe that when a community invests a lot of trust in us, it's our obligation to pay it back in full.

Editorial

Charlevoix Township should say no to rezoning

The Charlevoix area stands at an important crossroad. Faced with an unprecedented push for new waterfront growth, it must decide how it will manage new development, the environment and its future economy.

The dilemma takes tangible form February 17 in the Charlevoix Township vote on the rezoning of Water's Edge. At issue is whether the 41.6 acres should be rezoned from R-2 residential to R-4 multifamily.

The decision reached by the voters February 17 will send a powerful message to not only Charlevoix Township, but the city and Hayes Township as well.

The question is not growth or no growth. Even the most ardent opponents of the Water's Edge rezoning have stated publicly that they support some form of multifamily housing for that site.

Nor is the issue the previous actions of the Township leaders, as the advertising of the proponents of Water's Edge argues. The township is not voting on soccer fields or water systems.

The key question is simply whether or not the people of the Charlevoix area want lakefront property protected by special zoning which would control the sensitive belt along the water -- in most cases wetlands and dunes -- and prevent excessive densities.

The Charlevoix area currently has some 315 condominium units, built over a period of 18 years. There are at least 736 condominiums currently proposed or under construction and reports suggest that many more are waiting in the wings.

What makes this growth spurt especially important is that most of these proposed condominiums will be located on the most sensitive and fragile lakefront areas. The Water's Edge condos are proposed for an area that the DNR says is almost exclusively wetlands. North Point, another of the proposed developments, involves sensitive Lake Michigan dunes.

The Department of Natural Resources has recognized the importance of wetlands and dunes and has legislation to protect them. But the responsibility is not exclusively the DNR's or the federal government's. Local citizens and units of government must take the lead if they wish to control their own fate.

Unfortunately, Charlevoix Township officials have refused to seriously consider any measures to control lakefront property though local zoning.

Despite the urging of the county Planning Commission and other citizens, they have made no serious effort to examine alternatives which would protect the lake and still allow reasonable growth.

Hayes Township, on the other hand, has done so and the Circuit Court has made it very clear they have the right and responsibility to do so.

One can argue over whether Hayes has taken the right approach with controlling growth by tying it to one unit per 100 feet of frontage. We believe there is much to be said for cluster development, in theory. But Hayes is perfectly right in recognizing that unless we manage the use of the waterfront, we will eventually destroy the very resource which brought us here.

The Water's Edge developers argue that if the voters do not approve their project capital investment in Charlevoix will dry up. We disagree.

Controlling development rather than letting it run rampant will only increase the value of the development that does take place. If Water's Edge, for example, is limited to the 90 units the Township Board originally planned on, those units would obviously sell for more than if 208 units were built. The Township and the schools would not be bereft of tax dollars.

And more important, perhaps, the Charlevoix area would continue to attract tourist, visitors and second home owners because it was not overdeveloped like so many of the areas these visitors seek to escape.

Local officials, confronted by a sudden and difficult burst of activity, are going to have to start looking at the long-term health and well-being of our community.

William H. Whyte in his book "The Last Landscape" discusses one of the pitfalls of cluster development. "One is that developers will use cluster as a wedge for achieving unreasonably high densities. What appeals most to them is the cluster, not the open space; the doughnut and not the hole."

He goes on to say, "There will be efforts to abuse it (cluster development), but communities, not developers, lay down the ground rules, and it is up to them to say this many people and no more." (Italics are ours.)

That, in essence, is what the referendum is all about. Do the people want to cave in to the demands of developers or do they want to set the responsible standards by which their community will grow?

We urge Charlevoix Township voters to vote no on the referendum February 17.

Letters to the Editor:

Caution is urged

Dear Editor:

I have been reading the many viewpoints on the proposal to build condominiums on the Water's Edge site. The two sides seem to speak without hearing the other's points. People who support the project say that they wish to support commerce, that the site is ideal for condominiums, that the density of the planned units is not high, that additional housing will expand the tax base, that there will be temporary construction jobs and approximately nine permanent jobs created by the project.

Those who oppose the project say that 209 units is too high a density for the area, that we do not need more boat docks because the 517 already existing in less than a mile of shoreline are sufficient, that more condominiums are not what we need, and that the area is too sensitive for such extensive development.

So what are we to make of this difference of opinion? It seems to me that each side has valid points. We probably do not need more boat slips, for example. There are quite a few marinas in the area already, and we have to ask how much more gasoline we want in the water so close to some of our best swimming areas. On the other hand, the site is good for condominiums. The people living there would probably like it. The question we have to ask ourselves, however, is whether we want quite so many of them living there, and whether the land isn't also equally good for something else.

The two sides are in flat contradiction on this subject of the density of the housing. One side says the density is higher than anything in the area; the other side says it is not. Well, both are right. The project has more units per feet of frontage than anything in Charlevoix, but it is not the densest development on the whole lake. The question we still have to answer is whether we want the third most dense project located at Water's Edge.

It is true that the project would expand the tax base -- as would any housing built on the land, however. It would also provide temporary construction jobs, and several permanent ones. But this one project and its eight or nine permanent jobs is not going to keep local children from going elsewhere for jobs.

The question we have to ask is whether this is the sort of "commerce" we most want to support. After all, once the land is covered with condominiums, we cannot go back. If the land is not approved for condominiums right now, however, that does not close the door forever. After all, something will be built on that land. Those who have seen waterfront developments go wrong in other places suggest caution.

Many people come to Charlevoix precisely because it has not been spoiled. So let's wait. Let's not rezone the property until we see something we can agree on.

Environment is fragile

Dear Editor:

To the voters of Charlevoix Township:

Charlevoix has already lost some of its charm. We are not natives but can boast of coming to Charlevoix for 45 years (six months per year for the last 10 years). In this time, changes were gradual. Medusa finally got its way after being held at bay for 33 years. Then an architect hits Charlevoix with a Condo Concept. In town there are now over 400 units...and growing.

Now...north, south and east of Charlevoix...developers have plans for hundreds and hundreds of condo units. Oyster Bay, North Point on Lake Michigan and McGoff's "Water's Edge" on Lake Charlevoix. (Hemingway Pointe - a "felt accompli" - at Ironton Ferry rounds out the saturation.)

How have they so quickly been given a zoning change? We know first hand that the people of Charlevoix Township and Hayes Township do not want these developments. The voice of the people has been drowned out by a handful.

We have already voted our "NO" on the referendum - absentee ballots vote set for February 17, 1986 on the "Water's Edge" rezoning. We are wholeheartedly in agreement with the people of North Point and Hayes Township in their fight against condo development.

The developers can be charmers and lull us into false sense of "what harm can it do." The plans look great." Plans are drawn on flat sheets of paper. Innocent looking, but what happens when they become three dimensional on wetlands, dunes and in woods?

Environment is fragile.

Let us respect that and tread softly, reverently...and treasure what we have.

LCA opposes wetland rezoning

Dear Editor:

The Lake Charlevoix Association Board of Directors would like to voice opposition to the Water's Edge condominium project in Charlevoix Township because of its apparent violation of Michigan's wetland protection law.

In a letter dated October 2, 1985, to Garth Greenan of Water's Edge developer Archon Associates, Inc., of East Lansing, Ron Brown of the Michigan DNR stated: "With few exceptions, the entire Water's Edge parcel is a forested wetland subject to regulation under the Goemaere-Anderson Wetland Protection Act."

Because of this determination by the DNR, the Lake Charlevoix Association feels that by allowing the development of this environmentally sensitive area, we would weaken this important ruling by our state legislature and contribute to the eventual degradation of our beautiful lake.

Board of Directors
Lake Charlevoix Association

Ed Oelschlaeger, president of First Centrum Corp., developer of Water's Edge, has told the Courier it is "absolutely not true" that the Wetlands Act prohibits development on areas designated as wetlands. "The Wetlands Act means that the DNR has regulatory jurisdiction."

Oelschlaeger said, "It doesn't mean it can't be developed." DNR officials confirm his statement. The DNR has investigated the Water's Edge property and has determined that with a few exceptions it is classified as wetland.

Letters to the Editor:

Chamber Board of Directors endorses Water's Edge

Dear Editor:

At the January Board of Directors meeting, the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce listened to presentations by both the developers of a proposed condominium development and a special interest group opposed to the development.

The developers of the proposed Water's Edge condominium development were equipped with preliminary site plans, figures on economic impact, and a listing of the necessary permits required to build. The ALERT committee presented a video outlining the high density of both land and water near the proposed development. They also discussed the impact increased population would have on Lake Charlevoix.

After a short question and answer session, a motion was passed endorsing the Water's Edge project. One Board member abstained and two Board members were not present. The Chamber Board voted on the merits of the development as presented.

These Board members in attendance felt that the developer's careful consideration of environmental and economic impacts would be closely balanced by the laws that govern the federal, state, county and township.

The Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors feels that responsible commercial endeavors can be a part of the controlled growth in the area, as long as they promote and maintain the quality of life that is, in fact, the most valuable resource Charlevoix offers.

ALERT says no to condo development project

To Charlevoix Township Residents:

We have been active participants in the controversial Water's Edge condominium project from the beginning. We have watched wide-eyed and open-mouthed while the Charlevoix Township Zoning Board, and eventually the Charlevoix Township Board, ignored pleas of many to go slowly.

Most of us were certainly not against this type of project, especially one which is well planned. But we know that lake property is sensitive and that there's only so much of it.

We all cautioned the township groups to use every available bit of expertise when deciding if condominiums should be allowed on the lake shoreline. Ignored was advice from the Lake Charlevoix Association, Lake Charlevoix Management Planning Advisory Committee, the Charlevoix County Zoning Board, and Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council among others.

In addition, Hayes Township, at the time, was battling developers to a standstill protecting their habitat, with a legal decision still pending.

Meanwhile, back in Charlevoix Township, their officials yielded to development pressure and cast yea votes allowing over 200 units to be built on a property with only 1,450 feet of lakefront (1 unit per 7 feet of shoreline property). Proponents marvel at the possibilities, realtors have rallied, some local contractors and builders have become vocal. Even a couple of present condo caretakers have sprung to support the cause.

Where are the little guys? Can they muster enough support? Can democracy work or must big business perpetually call the shots?

The property could have multiple dwellings of some sort, but 208? Imagine some future July 4th weekend with just five people staying in each unit, 1,040 new people will be here enjoying the Charlevoix summer and beautiful lake from Water's Edge vacation address. And they'll be golfing, boating, swimming and driving, too. The density problem being overlooked by eager township politicians will really loom as a problem then ... though too lake.

A reasonable number of units is acceptable. But with three marinas, a boat ramp, bathing beach and a condominium development (with 68 additional boat slips) already snuggled up to Water's Edge, all within a quarter to half mile, won't it be fun? Critical is a better word: Water's Edge now, North Point tomorrow and Depot Beach area before long.

Say Whoa! Vote NO on Feb. 17. You need to make your voice heard. (Be ALERT to what's happening in your township.)

ALERT Committee

People have been robbed of view and use of shoreline

Dear Editor:

Hurray for Joyce Davenport and Jeanne Gainer, and phooey to Jim Mills! The undoubtedly fine people living in the condo units are not welcomed with open arms for mainly one reason: We lifelong residents, the general public, and tourists have been robbed of the view and use of the shorelines of our beautiful God-given lakes.

There has already been visual pollution in incredible amounts. Please tell us, Jim Mills, how any of it can be eliminated, now that it has been allowed to happen? The dwellers in the condos are not the guilty ones, necessarily; we all know where the blame really lies.

On another subject, we are praying that the precious sand dunes of Mt. McSauba can be somehow saved from development.

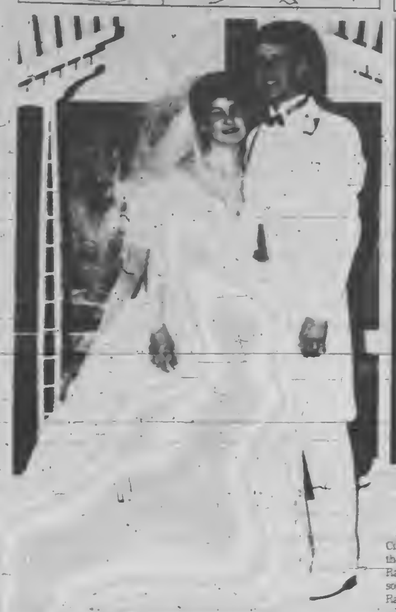
Weddings



Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Frye

Wynkoop-Frye

DeAnne Jean Wynkoop and Douglas Lee Frye exchanged marriage vows Saturday afternoon, January 25, at the Eastport Baptist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Wynkoop, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Frye, all of Charlevoix.

The Reverend John Gillette officiated at the double-ring rites, in which the bride was given in marriage by her father. Approximately 200 guests witnessed the ceremony before an altar decorated with small tree limbs covered with white lights and candelabra.

For the occasion, the bride wore a long, full white satin gown and carried a bouquet of burgundy and rose flowers.

Her sister-in-law, Candee Wynkoop, assisted as matron of honor, and her sister, Marie Wynkoop, Lori Simental, and Barbara Stowe were bridesmaids.

They wore floor-length gowns of dusty rose satin trimmed in the bandline with six rows of white lace, and carried burgundy and rose flowers arranged on a fan.

Patti Wynkoop, niece of the bride, wearing a rose satin dress trimmed with lace, served as flower girl, and Seth Wynkoop, a nephew, was ringbearer.

Wayne Sharrow assisted the bridegroom as best man, and Ed Frye, Gary Frye, and Jeff Renaud served as groomsmen. Rob Pearsall and Kelly Bales were ushers.

The bride's brother and sister, Larry and Marie, provided music for the ceremony, singing "There Is Love."

The parents of the newlyweds hosted a reception at the V.F.W. Hall in Charlevoix following the ceremony. The rehearsal dinner was held at the Fireside Inn, hosted by the bridegroom's parents.

Following a short wedding trip, the new Mr. and Mrs. Frye are at home in Charlevoix, where the bridegroom is employed by S.P.D., and the bride attends high school.

Engagements

Lisa A. Mast

Mast-Ranger

Mr. and Mrs. Earl J. Mast of Bay City announce the engagement of their daughter, Lisa, to Robert W. Ranger of Clute, Texas. He is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Arthur A. Ranger of Charlevoix.

The bride-to-be graduated from the University of Michigan School of Nursing in 1984. While there, she was admitted to Sigma Theta Tau, national honor society of nursing. Presently, she is employed as a Registered Nurse at Bay Medical Center in Bay City.

Her fiance graduated from the University of Michigan College of Engineering in 1983. He is a member of Sigma Nu fraternity, and is employed by Dow Chemical Company in Freeport, Texas as a chemical engineer in polycarbonate research.

The wedding will take place October 4 in Immanuel Lutheran Church, Bay City.

Kimberly Russell and Brian VanMeter

Russell-VanMeter

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Russell of Charlevoix announce the engagement of their daughter, Kimberley, to Brian L. VanMeter, also of Charlevoix.

He is the son of Mrs. and Mrs. David Honeycutt, Jr. of Franklin, West Virginia.

The intended bride is a graduate of Charlevoix High School and the Petoskey Beauty Academy, and attended classes at North Central Michigan College. Her fiance attended Smithfield High School in Smithfield, Virginia and North Central Michigan College. He served in the United States Coast Guard and is presently employed by Bay Area Motors in Petoskey.

The wedding will take place June 28 at Bethany Lutheran Church in Charlevoix.

Lyric Opera guild plans Sondheim musical

The Lyric Opera Guild of Charlevoix County will hold its next meeting, a Dutch Treat wine and cheese party, on Saturday afternoon, February 22, from four to five o'clock at the 218 Bridge Street Restaurant.

There will be a discussion about the forthcoming Lyric Opera production of Stevan Sondheim's "Side by Side" and some arias from the musical will be played.

"Side by Side" is a change from the previously announced Gilbert & Sullivan will be heard April 20 at the Charlevoix High School. Guild members believe it will be a real treat for music lovers to hear this elegant and delightful score sung by accomplished musicians.

Ticket information will be available at the Guild meeting and members will make plans for publicity in Charlevoix, Boyne City, and East Jordan.

All interested persons are encouraged to attend the meeting and bring their friends. Further information is available from Fran or Bob Tollas at 547-9479 and Susie and Stewart Boal at 547-2077.

Humane Society directors elected at annual meeting

Six members were elected to the board of directors of the Charlevoix County Humane Society at the Society's 23th annual meeting January 1.

Names for three-year terms were Jean Simons, Charlevoix; D'Ann Rothenberger, Charlevoix; Ted Malpass, East Jordan; Martha Mathews, East Jordan; and Patty Padgett, Walloon Lake. Named for a two-year term was Charles Robinson of Boyne City.

These six board members will bring the Society's board [illegible] members called for in the by-laws.

Board member Pat Shurm reports that last year's fund raisers (dog obedience classes, tag days in three cities, flea markets, and Glen's slips) raised a substantial sum to carry on the work of the Society, as did membership fees and donations.

The next meeting of the Charlevoix County Humane Society will be held Wednesday, February 12, at 7:30 p.m. in the Boyne City City Hall. All persons interested in the welfare of animals are invited to attend.

Charlevoix Library is a sanctuary against winter's cold

by PEG OHLE

"When it's cold outside, it's warm in here".

If the Charlevoix Public Library were to adopt a slogan, this could be the one.

Last week, with outdoor temperatures ranging below zero, the Library was a haven for school children, housewives, researchers, and many other people who use it for recreational and educational purposes. While the temperature was comfortably warm, the entire atmosphere of the modern building on Clinton Street was also warm.

The Library has 18,282 volumes which beckon the casual browser and the serious reader. The shelves are stocked and re-stocked constantly with books that the local reading public wants.

Today, with travel in the United States and foreign countries a part of life of many people, picture books about places around the world are in great demand, according to Librarian Marybeth Wallick. Readers may select volumes on the great southwest, the Colorado River, Latin America, Australia, Florence, Amsterdam, Greece, India, Israel, Manhattan, New Jersey, Virginia, Texas, Chicago, France, Dallas, Russia, and numerous other countries, states, and cities which lure the arm-chair traveler as well as the mobile traveler.

For the stay-at-homes with traditional tastes, there are many volumes of "Ideals" publications, brightly illustrated volumes pertaining to everyday life with titles such as "Grandma's Country Cooking", "Patriotism", "Family", "Friendship", "Autumn", "Heritage", "Easter", and "Sweetheart" (for Valentine's Day).

Those looking for a verse to accompany a flower or candy heart for next week's Valentine's Day could well find it in "Sweetheart". How about a rose and this verse:

"Roses speak of loving you–Their scent a glad refrain–Of all the many years we've spent–Through sunny days and rain"

Modern day book titles usually have little or nothing to do with subject matter of the book, so a curious reader could entertain himself by finding the stories in such non-fiction volumes as "Dropping Your Guard", "What Color is Your Parachute", "The Successful Face", or "The Book of Inside Information".

Fiction books with nature titles like "Lion's Run", "The Red Fox", "The Sanctuary Sparrow", and "Herbs and Apples", could stir the curiousy enough to find out what they're really about.

If all this supposing is too frivolous, a few steps away there are books on down-to-earth subjects, such as repairing dripping faucets, keeping a good lawn, raising fruits and vegetables for profit, and learning how to lay concrete.

In the line of pure reference, there are encyclopedia, dictionaries, almanacs, handbooks, atlases, and annuals in many sizes and shapes to provide information on almost any subject, including "Countries of the World and Their Leaders". On this cold winter day, one could be lost for hours in a world of trivia or useful facts. The Library chairs and tables are low and comfortable, just right for propping arms on either side of an open book.

The one separate room at the Library is called "The Michigan Room". It contains all sorts of books, pamphlets, and papers about the history of Michigan, with emphasis on northern Michigan and especially the Charlevoix area. New books in The Michigan Room include "Michigan Log Cabins and Hard Cider", "Nebel Memories" (of the lumber booth days), "The Re-Union of a Scottish Clan" (the Struthers family, once well represented in Charlevoix), "Just Like Yesterday" (a paperback romance set in the Petoskey area), and "Bridging the Straits" (a new book about the Mackinac Bridge).

The Michigan Room also contains microfilms of Charlevoix newspapers dating back to 1882, and a viewer on which to read them. A prized possession is a book of excerpts from the old Charlevoix Sentinel starting with the first edition, April 24, 1869, through the year 1906.

The Library subscribes to eight newspapers, daily and weekly, and over 75 different magazines. A special feature is a collection of old magazines at the entrance to the Library which are there "for the taking" – no checkout and no need to return. Area residents are encouraged to put their good, readable magazines in this collection for others to enjoy.

Children who use the Charlevoix Public Library may select "story books" from shelves filled with adventure for those their own age and reading ability, from easy to advanced. The children's chairs and tables are child-size but large enough to permit some squirming as the readers follow their heroes through one daring deed after another.

"Libraries have meant books ever since they were first established, but today's libraries are also something else. In Charlevoix the Library is a place to get tape cassettes and records for both children and adults, a library for the blind including records, tapes, cassettes, large print books, and the Reader's Digest in large print, a source of film and 35 mm. movie projectors and screens, a service center with a brand new copying machine (copies 10 cents each) and computer (using your own software). Enid Miller's seven volume collection of pictures of old Charlevoix, and a membership in the Northern Library Cooperative which makes available materials from other libraries – all in a room filled with works of art from the past and present.

The lower level rooms in the Charlevoix Public Library provide meeting facilities for many local organizations, including Chip Counseling Center, Girl Scouts, Cub Scouts, the Garden Club, Welcome Wagon, the Women's Club (for its annual book sale), and, presently, art lessons by Jan Glass.

Every year there is a series of Saturday Children's Hour activities. Remaining in the present series are a session of storytelling by Maury Cohen, English instructor at North Central Michigan College, on February 8 at 11 a.m.; instruction on how to make up like a clown, by Pat Dezot, on February 15 at 11 a.m.; introduction to music (guitar), by Jim Wagner, on February 22 at 11 a.m.; and a lesson in kite-making, on March 1 at 11 a.m.

While the Library is a haven on a cold day, it is a pleasant place to visit and use any time. The doors are open Monday, Wednesday, and Thursday from 1 p.m. to 8 p.m.; Tuesday from 10:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Friday from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.; and Saturday from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The Children's Story Hour is held on Tuesday at 10:30 a.m.

A new Apple computer is among the recent additions at the Charlevoix Public Library.

Boys take conference ski title, girls team is second behind Harbor

The Charlevoix Rayder boys ski team captured the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference title and the girls team placed second behind Harbor Springs in the league meet held Monday at Boyne Mountain.

Coach Erik Lundteigen said the boys team did very well and that the girls team, which finished two points behind the winner, was down 10 points at one time and came back to within two points of the champions despite a number of early errors.

Charlevoix took the boys title with 41 points, followed by Petoskey with 68; Grayling 135; Harbor Springs 156; Boyne City 193; Sault Ste. Marie 214; Gaylord 258; East Jordan 270 and Bellaire 272.

Harbor Springs took the girls meet with 41 points with Charlevoix coming in with 43 followed by Petoskey with 136; Grayling 174; Gaylord 190; Bellaire 196; Boyne City 240; East Jordan 268 and Sault Ste. Marie 273.

In the boys meet, Gary Brindel placed second in the slalom and 48th in the giant slalom; Wes Cumberland, fourth in the slalom and third in the giant slalom; Matt Lignell, fifth in the slalom and second in the giant slalom; Karl Erber, 11th in the slalom and ninth in the giant slalom; and Jim Morgridge, 16th in the slalom and seventh in the giant slalom.

In the girls meet, Lauren Pace came in first in both the slalom and giant slalom; Sue Miller placed fourth in the slalom and third in the giant slalom; Wendy Voisin, seventh in both events; Nonie Pace, 16th on the slalom and fourth in the giant slalom; Carla Hoffman, second in the slalom and 16th in the giant slalom; and Allison Hall, 19th in the giant slalom.

Charlevoix hosted the conference meet at Boyne Mountain. Lundteigen expressed his appreciation and gratitude to the parents support group headed by Don Voisin. "Their hard work and assistance made the meet a success. We, myself and Mike Bonnello, appreciate the fine support," Lundteigen added.

Skiers victorious at Shanty Creek

by FRAN MARTIN

The Charlevoix Rayder ski teams posted two more wins Wednesday in a meet hosted by Bellaire at Shanty Creek.

The Charlevoix girls with 21 points and boys team with 23 won by wide margins over Petoskey and Bellaire. The Petoskey boys team had a score of 73 and Bellaire 87 while the Petoskey girls had 77 points and Bellaire 80.

Charlevoix skiers took firsts in both the slalom and the giant slalom with Matt Lignell and Sue Miller capturing the two places.

In the boys meet, Jason Brindel was second in the slalom and seventh in the GS; Wes Cumberland, ninth in the slalom and sixth in the GS; Brian Wilmott, fourth in the slalom and second in the GS; Jim Morgridge, sixth in the slalom and third in the GS and Karl Erber, third in the slalom and eighth in the GS.

In the girls meet, Nonie Pace was third in the slalom and fifth in the GS; Lauren Pace, fourth in the slalom and third in the GS; Allison Hall, second in the slalom and sixth in the GS; Wendy Voisin, 15th in the slalom and second in the GS; and Carla Hoffman, 18th in the slalom and ninth in the GS.

Coach Erik Lundteigen said of the meet: "It was a good day for us. Both teams did well. We are getting a lot of help from the later seeds. I am very pleased."

The teams next appearances will be at the regional meet at Schuss Mountain Thursday.

Rayders place three in conference meet

The Charlevoix Rayder wrestlers placed three members in the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference meet held at Gaylord Saturday.

Bill Marquardt (heavyweight) and Dan Kelly (155) placed fourth and Shaan Bier (126) placed third in the meet which was won by a strong Petoskey team.

"The team showed much improvement," coach Greg Bryan said. "Although losing, they wrestled much better against opponents who had dominated them in earlier matches. However, they still lacked the experience and mental toughness that can be developed only by mat time," he continued.

The team was pleased with its improvement and is already looking forward to next season, he added. Kelly is the only senior on the squad.

Marquardt won two and lost two, losing to Dave Nelson of Grayling in the consolation finals. Marquardt was leading in the match by a score of 5-4 when Nelson threw an Olympic catching him and pinning him in 4:36, Bryan said.

Like Marquardt, Kelly won two and lost two, losing to Darwin Snow of Rogers City in the consolation finals. Kelly was seeded third and did not wrestle well in the match with Snow whom he had defeated earlier in the season, Bryan commented.

Bier was the only member of the team who wrestled above his record, Bryan said. A junior and a first-year wrestler, he was not seeded in a tough weight class. He finished the day 3-1 after losing to Steve Frazier 9-2 in his first match. He then won an easy match before pulling his first upset by defeating Mike Walker of Gaylord in a spectacular match which he won in the last seconds.

Trailing 6-3, he executed a beautiful high amplitude throw earning take-down points and back points to win the match 8-6. In the consolation finals, he defeated Kevin Graves of Petoskey 16-3 to capture a third place. It was an excellent finish for a first-year wrestler, Bryan said.

The results follow: Scott Novotny (102); 1-2; Jason Wiser (119), 1-2; Jason Whatley (130), 1-2; Jamie Monteith, (138), 1-2; Steve Hopkins (145), 0-2; Derek Dutcher (185), 1-2; Jim Tilton (198), 1-2.

Girl skiers win Manistee Invitational

The Charlevoix Rayder girls ski team placed first in a six team meet and the Charlevoix boys team, hit by the flu, placed second among eight teams at the Manistee Invitational meet held February 3 at Crystal Mountain near Thompsonville.

"It was a good meet. The girls did well and the boys, with a couple of regulars out of the lineup, looked good," coach Erik Lundteigen said. "It's a good experience for both teams to meet new competition such as the Clare teams offered."

The girls team took the meet with 36 points followed by Clare with 64; Benzie Central with 101; Harrison 138; Traverse City 138 and Roscommon 214.

Clare won the boys meet with 50 points with Charlevoix a close second with 64 points. Traverse City St. Francis had 113; Harrison 117; Benzie Central 136; Roscommon 207; Manistee 208 and Farwell 241.

Sue Miller placed first in the girls slalom and 22nd in the slalom; Nonie Pace second in the GS and fourth in the slalom; Allison Hall, third in both events; Lauren Pace, seventh in the GS and first in the slalom; Sheryl Miller, 15th in the GS and 34th in the slalom; and Carla Hoffman, 17th in the GS and 15th in the slalom.

In the boys division, Jason Brindel was third in the giant slalom and first in the slalom; Brian Wilmot, fifth in the GS and 36th in the slalom; Karl Erber, seventh in the GS and ninth in the slalom; Jason Fettig, 26th in the GS and 38th in the slalom; Charlie Wittboeft, 29th in the GS and 17th in the slalom and Matt Lignell, second in the slalom.

Wes Cumberland and Jim Morgridge were out because of the flu.

JV's beat Gaylord, lose at Traverse City

The Charlevoix Rayder JV team split in games played over the weekend, defeating Gaylord 55-54 and losing to the Traverse City JVs 56-49.

In the game at Gaylord, the Rayders got off to a slow start and trailed 15-10 at the quarter but scored nine baskets including four by Roger Smith plus a free throw to go ahead 29-27 at the half.

As the second half got underway, the Rayders outscored Gaylord 12-10 to gain two points for a 41-37 lead going into the last eight minutes. In the final period, Gaylord took advantage of trips to the free-throw line to trim the Rayder margin to one point, 55-54 at the buzzer.

The Rayders outscored Gaylord 23-21 from the floor and connected on nine of 18 free throws while collecting 16 personal fouls. The young Blue Devils scored on 12 of 14 free-throw attempts and had 17 personal fouls.

Smith had 17 points, Scott DeYoung 14 and Dan Drury 10 for Charlevoix. Flinn had 13, Wise 13, Hella 12 and Krajniak 10 for Gaylord.

In the game at Traverse City, the young Rayders trailed 24-10, 39-19 and 49-27 by quarters as the Trojans outscored them 30-19 from the floor. Traverse City had eight of 12 free throws and 10 personal fouls while the Rayders hit on two of four and had 15 personal fouls.

Smith had 10 points for Charlevoix. Monty Merriman had 20 and Kevin Brunner 10 for Traverse City.

Netters lose at Elk Rapids

The Charlevoix Rayder volleyball team was eliminated early in the Elk Rapids Invitational Tournament held Saturday.

Leland won the four-team tournament followed by Elk Rapids, Traverse City and Charlevoix.

Charlevoix lost their first round to Elk Rapids by scores of 15-6, 15-4 and their second to Traverse City 15-4 and 15-6.

Top servers in the tourney were Lara Stargardt and Rhonda Brown; setter, Stargardt and spiker, Amy Antaya according to coach Brenda Bryan.

Middle Schoolers split games with Cheboygan

The Charlevoix Middle School basketball teams split with Cheboygan in games played Monday night on the Chiefs' floor.

The seventh-graders lost by a score of 34-25 while the eighth-graders posted a 57-28 win.

The young Rayders played Cheboygan to a 14-14 halftime tie before Cheboygan pulled away to the nine-point victory.

Jason Parrish had eight points while Dennis Mailloux had six for Charlevoix. Dom Julliet and Fred Steward had eight points each for Cheboygan.

The eighth-graders jumped to a 22-15 halftime lead before winning by a wide margin.

James Corwin scored 15 points and Jason Corwin 29 for the Rayders as nine of the 11 players scored. Steve Wagner had six points for Cheboygan.

The teams will be at Harbor Springs Wednesday and at Cheboygan the following Monday.

Frosh edge Boyne City

The Charlevoix Rayder freshmen edged the Boyne City Ramblers 62-60 in a game played Monday night.

The young Rayders overcame a 15-14 first period deficit to edge into a two-point 37-35 lead at halftime before pulling away to a 57-37 advantage going into the final period. Boyne City outscored Charlevoix 23-6 in the final period as Coach Barry Anderson emptied the bench.

Shawn Putman with 23 points, Bob Jess with 12 and Dylan Stewart with 10 accounted for the major part of the Rayder scoring. Dave Zucchiatti had 17, Steve Snyder 16 and Keith Harvey 13 points for Boyne City.

The Rayder freshmen dropped their game to Gaylord on the Blue Devils' floor Thursday by a score of 58-47. The team presently has an 8-4 record.

The young Rayders took a slim 10-9 first period lead but lost it 28-19 at the half and 49-30 going into the final period.

Shawn Putman had 12 points for the Rayders, Scott Wilgen had 12 and Matt Madej 10 for Gaylord.

The team will host East Jordan on Feb. 20.

Depot maintains lead

Action in the A League of the Charlevoix Independent League Thursday saw the Depot of Boyne City defeat Judy's Restaurant 109-86 and Dr. Dave's Green Grinders with over Kit Carson Lumber 94-82.

Judy's Restaurant, playing with only four contestants, trailed the Depot 18-14, at the quarter and 43-42 at the half before the Boyne City team forged to an 82-64 advantage at the third quarter and 109-82 at the buzzer.

Dean Hicks had 27, Tim Hartwick 24, Tony Williams 20, Mark Gunter 14 and Tom Beyer 10 for the victors. Doug Buday had 36, Jim Malnar 20, Rob Hilton 18 and Randy Helecheck 12 for Judy's.

The Green Grinders jumped to a 27-10 first period lead but saw Carson's come back in the second period to trim their lead to 48-36 at halftime and 67-55 at the three-quarter mark.

Rayders defeat Gaylord, fall to Trojans

The Charlevoix Rayders packed up an unpopular league win at Gaylord Friday night, defeating the Blue Devils in a come-from-behind victory 66-60.

The Rayders were not so fortunate Saturday when they were overwhelmed by Class A Traverse City by a 78-43 score.

The non-league loss to Traverse City put the Rayders at 10-5 overall and 6-3 in the league.

"We were tired after the hard game on Friday and got off to a bad start," said coach Dave Smith. "Our turnovers in the first four to five minutes were devastating, but you have got to play the good competition to get better."

The Trojans jumped to a 27-10 lead in the first period and were up by 47-19 at the half and 56-31 at the end of the third quarter.

Joey Putman was the only Rayder in double figures with 20 points on the night. Sean Ferguson, Tom Salmonson, Bret Gibbs, Jim Cook and Mace Hemebaugh all had six points for the Rayders. Ferguson, who leads the team in scoring, hit on only three of 11 field goals. As a team, Charlevoix shot 25 percent from the floor against the Trojans, converting 13 of 54 field goal attempts.

Pat Beckman and Jeff Mayerle had 20 points each for Traverse City and Shannon Foley added 19.

THE RAYDERS fell behind early to Gaylord on Friday but were able to pull themselves back into the game by the end of the first quarter when they trailed 14-13.

They continued to trail the Blue Devils at the half by 36-30 and were within five points going into the final eight minutes with the score at 48-43.

But the Rayders took charge of the final period, outscoring their opponent 23-12 to take the win.

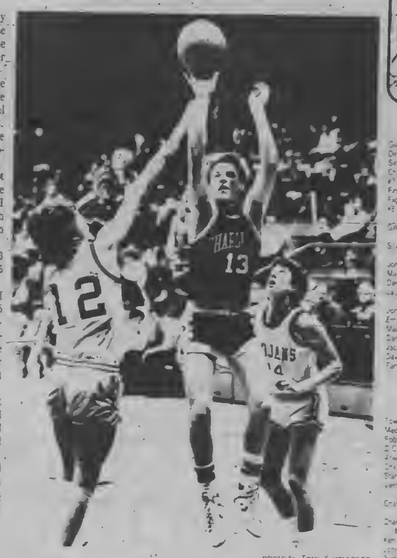
"As the game went along we got stronger and came back when we needed to," said coach Smith. "I was real pleased, especially with Putman for his intensity and with Ferguson in the second half."

Ferguson led the Rayders with 23 points while Putman and Cook hit 16 apiece.

Gaylord was hampered for most of the game by the loss of 6-foot-5 center Rick Gray who got three early fouls and sat out most of the second quarter and a good shade of the third. The team's leading scorer eventually fouled out with eight points.

"Salmonson did a nice job against Gray and rebounded well," said Smith. Salmonson and Ferguson had 12 rebounds each and Putman had 11.

Charlevoix sank 25 field goals and was 16 of 20 from the stripe with 24 fouls. Gaylord hit 26 baskets, was eight of 14 from the line and had 26 personals.



More Himebauch was 3 for 3 against the Trojans.

First State and Lindberg add league victories

Two games played in the Charlevoix Independent 'B' League Monday saw Paul Lindberg, Inc. defeat Wojan Aluminum 96-43 and First State Bank win over Nanny's 66-48.

After taking a 16-7 first period lead, Lundberg headed Wojan's 22-22 and 36-43 at the quarters before posting the unrivaled victory.

Dave Norton paced the scoring with 19 points. Stan Martin had 16, Larry Schick and Greg Wignell 15 points each and Stan Cox 10 for the victors. Bernie DeVries had 22 and Gene Wortzman 15 for Wojan.

In the second game First State Bank managed to stay ahead of their opponents, Nanny's by slim margins of 23-22, 35-34 and 48-41 before stretching the winning margin to 18 points, 66-48.

Bob Sandahl had 24 points, Bob Jess and Rod Stevens 12 points each and Jim Beers 11 for the Bankers. Ray LaHaie and Kim Markwardt had 12 each and Tim DeYoung 28 points for Nanny's.

Make-up games from December played Wednesday night saw First State Bank edge Wojan Aluminum 58-55 and Paul Lindberg, Inc. defeat the Clothing Company 77-56.

Through the First State-Wojan game was close all the way, the Bankers never relinquished their lead of 15-11, 29-21 and 43-40 at the quarter marks.

Dennis Dominat had 20 points and Bob Shur 16 for First State. Darrell VanLoo had 20, Charles Carver 15 and Bernie DeVries 11 points for Wojan.

Five members of the Lundberg team, lead by Norton with 20 points, hit in double figures as they dominated the game by leads of 35-4, 58-35 and 84-56 by periods.

Brock came through with 12 points, Martin 12 and Cram and Wignell 11 each. Dave Cole had 11 points and Rod Stevens and Gordie Block 10 each for the Clothing Company.

This week will find the Clothing Company playing Nanny's and Paul Lindberg, Inc. meeting First State Bank Wednesday, Feb. 12. Duffy's and Judy's Restaurant and Dr. Dave's Green Grinders and the Depot seeing action Thursday, Feb. 13 and Wojan's and First State and the Clothing Company and Lindberg's squaring off Monday at the middle school gymnasium at 6:30 and 7:45.

Masons' lead trimmed

With nine tables in play, the Oddfellows made a comeback and won by 194 points to trim the Masons' lead to 310 points in the annual Masons-Oddfellows cribbage tournament, Hugh Mayne, tournament secretary reports.

Richard "Big" Bergmann had 962 points for the Oddfellows and Max Novak 946 for the Masons.

The tournament will be played at the American Legion post home at 8 p.m. Thursday.

since the resignations.

Candidates for the township offices, all Republicans, are: clerk, Michelle Cartwright and Marsha L. Towne; treasurer, Judy Everett; trustee 3 years, Jane W. Bennett and Paulette M. Lentz; trustee, William R. Brooks, William A. Bedell, Gareth Hall, Bruce Bennett and Doug Shields. The names of the top vote-getters for clerk and treasurer and the two top vote-getters for trustee will appear on the ballot for the general election, to be held March 18.

The regular election scheduled for March 18 in the Village of Boyne Falls residents to elect a clerk, treasurer, assessor, and trustees. Dawn Taylor, a Democrat, is the only candidate for clerk; Gladys Upton, a Republican, is the only candidate for treasurer; and Janet Lindrud, a Republican, is the only candidate for assessor. William Lindrud and William Brinkerhoff are Democrat candidates for trustee; and Norman Arthun, Gerald E. Bell, and William E. Carson are Republican candidates for trustee.

The Boyne City School Board special election on March 18 is a referendum on the recall of two board members, John Mathers, Jr., and Larry Mannino.

The election was called for after a group of citizens, by petition, called the two board members for trying to interfere with and disband the school system's Human Growth and Development Committee.

Residents of Evangeline Township will return to the polls on March 18 in a general election to vote for the winning candidates in the February 25 primary and/or any write-in candidates.

Clockwise

TCE mystery

By Bob Clock

I hope no one on the Charlevoix Board of Education is losing any sleep over a possible order by the state Department of Natural Resources to have the school district clean up the suspected source of the chemical trichloroethylene (TCE) in the city's water supply.

Environmental sleuths have traced the pollution to the grounds of the Charlevoix Middle School, and therein lies the problem. As custodian of the property, the school district may be held responsible.

A purging of the aquifer would cost an estimated $10 million; removing the topsoil down to the aquifer would cost less, but would still be a heavy financial burden and create havoc on the lakeshore for possibly years. Monitoring the aquifer for 30 years to determine how fast the chemical is eliminating would cost about $20,000.

The federal Environmental Protection Agency, which is paying most of the cost of providing the city a new source of Lake Michigan water free of chemical contamination, believes the more drastic and costly measures are unnecessary, particularly since the city's new water system will be in operation later this year.

However the DNR and Gov. James Blanchard want to make an example of Charlevoix. They appear to be on the verge of mandating a massive cleanup, which taxpayers of the school district clearly cannot afford, unless they close the schools for the balance of the decade.

WE ADMIRE THE DNR and the governor for taking such a firm stand in favor of preserving the environment. Polluters certainly should be punished — or at least made to clean up their nest.

But insofar as the Charlevoix contamination is concerned, the DNR has an extremely weak case. In the first place, no one knows for sure who dumped the TCE on the middle school playground, if indeed that is where it was dumped. There is no smoking gun. Neither does anyone know when it was dumped nor — and here's where I go out on a limb — even if it were dumped.

I have a gnawing suspicion that TCE — which is so common in so many wells throughout the state — may be a natural product of the environment — manufactured in the crucible of Mother Earth from such common compounds as hydrocarbons and sodium chloride, better known as salt.

It hardly seems likely that careless janitors, insensitive auto mechanics, or devil-may-care dry cleaners could have dumped so much TCE in so many locations around the state. Furthermore, TCE is extremely volatile. It evaporates readily on contact with air.

I am not a geologist, but I do know that shale, a sedimentary rock heavily laden with hydrocarbons, is mined by Medusa Cement Co. less than two miles from the aquifer feeding Charlevoix's municipal well. Sodium chloride, which deposited millenniums ago when Michigan was the bed of a tropical sea, underlays most of the state. Salt is mined commercially as close as Manistee, just a hop, skip and a jump down the Lake Michigan shore.

ACCORDING TO MY source books at the Charlevoix library, hydrocarbons are the alley cats of the chemical world. They mate readily with just about anything that comes down the pike. In fact, chemists have isolated more hydrocarbon compounds than any other group.

Could such a chemical reaction as the union of hydrocarbons and chlorides be taking place in the subsoils under Charlevoix?

Again, I don't know. But one of my library sources tells me that tetrachloroethane — the parent chemical of TCE — can be converted into trichloroethylene by treating it with lime or alkalis in the presence of water.

It is no secret, of course, that Charlevoix is built on limestone.

One last thought. Michigan recently banned the use of brine from state oil wells to lay dust on gravel roads because it contains such noxious substances as benzene, toluene and xylene. If these substances appear naturally in oil wells, is it all that unusual that related chemicals should show up in groundwater?

The earth still holds more secrets than it has revealed.

If push comes to shove the the DNR finds it necessary to take the Charlevoix School District to court, it had better make God one of the co-defendants.

Obituaries

Virginia L. Rounds

A former Charlevoix resident, Virginia L. Rounds, 78, of Englewood, Fla., died Tuesday, Feb. 4, at Fawcett Hospital in Port Charlotte, Fla.

The former Virginia Lehmann was born March 14, 1907, in Petoskey, the daughter of August and Jean (Crosby) Lehmann. She grew up in East Jordan, where she graduated from high school. Later she married Archie Rounds in Detroit. They lived in Detroit and Lansing before returning to northern Michigan in the late 1940's.

For many years she was a secretary at Freedmann Aircraft and Harbor Industries, Inc. She had worked at the Estrelle Corp. in Detroit for a number of years. In 1967, Mr. and Mrs. Rounds moved to Englewood, Fla., returning to northern Michigan most summers and, in recent years, living at Walloon Lake. Mr. Rounds preceded her in death Aug. 28, 1982.

She was a member of St. David's Episcopal Church in Englewood and attended Christ Episcopal Church in Charlevoix.

She is survived by several cousins.

A graveside committal service will be held at Ecoleminde Cemetery in the spring.

Charlie Y. Cooper

Charlie Y. Cooper, a native and long time resident of the East Jordan area, died February 5 at the Alexander Nursing home in Royal Oak. He was 82.

Mr. Cooper was born March 9, 1903 in East Jordan, the son of John and Minnie Cooper. He was the brother Ernest Barlow, preceded him in death in 1982. A son, Dr. John J. Cooper, also preceded him in death.

Mr. Cooper lived in Flint for many years and upon retirement in 1963 returned to East Jordan and assumed operations of Cooper's Orchards, which had been established in 1905. He operated the orchards until late last year, when a broken hip forced him to move downstate to be near his son, Charles Y. Cooper, who lives in Pleasant Ridge. His only surviving grandchildren are the only survivors of the deceased.

Mr. Cooper's remains will be burned in East Jordan and a memorial service will be held in July at St. Joseph's Catholic Church.

State 4-H groups plan leadership conference

Charlevoix County 4-H leaders interested in enhancing their leadership and personal skills are invited to attend the "New 4-H Leadermete" Feb. 28 – March 2 at Michigan State University.

"We're taking a fresh approach to Leadermete this year," says Shirley Thoms, Charlevoix County 4-H youth agent. "The programs and workshops are designed to help 4-H leaders understand and work effectively with young people, cope with changing families, learn conflict management techniques, build self esteem and develop leadership skills."

The two keynote speakers during the three-day event are nationally recognized educator and inspirational speaker Sue Miller, of Wholemind Works, Inc., and Violet Malone, of the Illinois Cooperative Extension Service. Miller will discuss ways to prepare for the future and help participants strengthen meaningfulness in their lives and the lives of those around them. Malone will discuss leadership styles and skills.

Other highlights of the 1986 4-H Leadermete will be recognition of outstanding 4-H leaders and local programs, round-table discussions and a wide variety of 4-H project skill sessions.

Leaders can sign up for two sessions in such areas as family folklore, computers, careers, stress, environmental issues, heritage gardening, microwave cooking, photography and club development," says Thoms. "Registration books are available in the Charlevoix County Cooperative Extension Service office."

The costs is $80 per person and includes registration fee, all meals beginning with Friday dinner and ending with Sunday lunch, and lodging for two nights. Registration deadline is Feb. 12. For more information about 4-H Leadermete, contact Shirley Thoms at 582-6232.

Student studies Lake Charlevoix aesthetics

Lake Charlevoix and its surrounding area is the subject of a thesis being written by Joan Hyde, a graduate student at the University of Michigan. She is writing the thesis as a requirement for a master's degree in landscape architecture.

The purpose of the thesis/project, Ms. Hyde explains, is "To create a set of guidelines which will encourage development in a manner harmonious with the existing natural and cultural character of Lake Charlevoix."

One way to achieve a harmonious character in the landscape, which often seems to have been lost, is to impose a set of limitations for a particular area, just as they occurred naturally in other times and places, Ms. Hyde adds. Therefore, by her study, she hopes to synthesize a broad base of information, both general and specific, to create a set of design guidelines for the Lake Charlevoix area. The main questions to be answered are: What are the aesthetic qualities which are valued, and how can they be protected?

Ms. Hyde will approach her thesis project in three steps:

First, she will engage in research to study both traditional and planned examples of area architecture, types of controls, nature of the development process, landscape preference, and visual quality. More specifically, she will study the natural, cultural, and political systems of Lake Charlevoix and current issues which people are concerned about when considering development of the area.

Second, she will interpret her findings by a discussion of design guidelines and the character of Charlevoix.

Third, she will prepare a sample set of guidelines and discuss their purpose, process, and rationale.

Ms. Hyde made her second visit to Charlevoix last week, and will return several more times to do her research on the lake area.

Hollow on court improvement group

Louis J. Hollow, president of the First State Bank, has been appointed to a new statewide citizens group to recommend ways to improve Michigan courts.

The committee, to be called, Citizens to Improve Michigan Courts is made up of leading citizens from throughout Michigan. It was appointed by the Michigan Supreme Court to recommend how courts can improve their services to the people who use them. This will include ways to reduce delay in trial courts and determine how courts can better serve the people who come to them for assistance.

In commenting on the appointment to the 17-member citizens committee Hollow said "I am interested and at the same time humble. This (the committee) is a prestigious group and I am honored to be a part of it."

Hollow was in Lansing last week for the organizational meeting of the committee and was named to a working committee on The Courts Relationship to Civil and Other Community Matters. The other committees are the Community's Relationship to the Court System and its Relationship to the Criminal and Delinquency Areas.

The committee has eight months to compile the input from the public. The plan is to implement the proposed changes in the system within two years.

In discussing the organizational meeting at which Chief Justice G. Mennen Williams presided, Hollow said he thought this was a strong effort by Justice Williams and Supreme Court Justice Patricia J. Boyle. Supervising justice of the committee, to change the public perception of the courts and to bring it into the 20th century.

"The issue is the improvement of the courts to make them 'user friendly.' It is an important issue because about one-third of the state's nine million citizens have some contact with the court system every year," Hollow said. "Maybe it's a traffic ticket or serving on a jury but it is a contact with a court."

"It is also an effort to improve the public's confidence in the court system. Attention will be given to victim's rights and special problems and needs of handicapped persons, the older segment of the population, children and youths and non-English speaking persons."

More people than ever are going to the state's 240 trail courts – circuit, district and probate courts – to resolve problems or to serve as jurors or witnesses, the committee was told. The goal of the committee will be to determine how the courts can better serve the citizens who come to them for assistance.

"What they are really saying is 'Make the court system less awesome; make it more approachable by the public'," Hollow added.

A second committee composed of 22 judges, attorneys and court administrators has been named to recommend ways to speed the wheels of justice in trial courts throughout the state.

At the same time, the Supreme Court is seeking to shift funding of all trial courts from counties and local communities to the State of Michigan to achieve the goal of a unified, state-financed court system.

Dr. Wen-Chao Chen, executive director of the Stryker Center at Kalamazoo College, was named to chair the Citizens to Improve Michigan Courts committee. James Vollman, deputy director of the Wayne County Office of Public services, will serve as vice chairman.

"I want to hear from you as members of the community. Until you impart to me your concerns and feelings about the court system, I will not feel that I am fulfilling my charge," Hollow said in conclusion.

Even a duck is out of luck during a forest fire.

Township voters say no to Water's Edge

By DOUG TRUAX

Voters in Charlevoix Township's referendum on Monday overturned zoning that would have allowed a 208-unit condominium project at Water's Edge on Lake Charlevoix.

In a heavy turnout, 264 township residents voted against the rezoning for the development project, 187 voted for it and seven votes were disallowed because of errors.

The 455 votes cast is approximately 60 percent of the estimated 750 registered voters in the township. Township officials were uncertain of the exact number of valid registrations.

The Water's Edge condominium project has been hotly contested since it was first proposed in June of 1985. First Centrum Corporation of East Lansing and John McGoff, owner of the property, planned a major development on the 41.6 acres at Water's Edge. The property lies south of Irish marina and includes some 1,460 feet of shoreline.

On August 12, the Charlevoix Township Board voted 4-1 to rezone the property from R-2 residential to R-4 planned unit zone.

Voters were asked to whether the rezoning should be upheld.

Jerry Puhl, president of WATCH (Water and Air Team Charlevoix) and the only member of the township zoning board to vote against the project, was elated after the referendum vote. "It's tremendous," Puhl said. "We felt all the time that the people were supporting us."

In a prepared statement Puhl said: "The election results show that the township citizens are concerned and responded to controlled development. This is an indication of how people in northern Michigan feel about maintaining the quality of the environment. It is also an indication to the township board of how residents feel about development."

Puhl said prior to the vote his group felt they had between 275 and 300 votes.

The campaign convinced him, Puhl said, that there were also many people in the City of Charlevoix who opposed the project but could not vote.

Township Supervisor Oscar Stroud, a supporter of the project, said he was disappointed by the outcome but not surprised. "There was a big turnout, the people spoke and that's fine," Stroud said.

"I sincerely believe that the vote was just on the issue and not a reflection on the "board," Stroud said. "I'd hate to think otherwise."

He rejected the theory that the Water's Edge issue would set a precedent for other properties in Charlevoix Township. "Each parcel has to be decided on its merits," he said.

"Do you really think that I would personally care whether they built condos over there or not?" he asked. "I was doing my job. It's done. The people spoke. Things will go on as usual tomorrow."

Marcia Trumper of ALERT, a group formed to oppose the condominium project, celebrated the victory with fellow supporters. "I can't believe how much we wanted to win this," she said. "I can't tell you how I felt ... I just felt so good.

"What a wonderful feeling when you believe in what you're doing and you succeed at it," she added.

Trumper said the effect of the election will be "better zoning which will bring about low density development." The vote will not discourage developers in the Charlevoix area, Trumper added. "There are a lot of developers out there that are going to be willing to work under our standards."

Trumper said she hoped there would be no bitterness in the community because of the election. "I hope that any bad feelings would heal and we'd get on with everything that has to be done."

Cliff Biddick, a member of WATCH, was also confident of victory beforehand. "My gut reaction was that we were going to win from the start. It's nice to see that an election can't be swayed by a lot of money," he said in reference to the advertising campaign of proponents of the development.

Trumper said the opposition campaign had budgeted $5,000 to defeat the rezoning and ended up spending just over $800. The rest, she said, was spent on the victory celebration – pizza a "one bottle of cheap champagne."

Ed Oelschlaeger, president of First Centrum Corp., could not be reached for comment following the election. Sam Reis of Ski and Shore Charlevoix, who headed a drive to support the condominium project, declined to comment on the election results.

Performing Arts students celebrate with their trophy on arrival in Charlevoix.

Performing Arts troupe brings home Class C-D championship

by FRAN MARTIN

For the third straight year the Charlevoix High School Performing Arts group has captured first place in Class C-D in the state.

The group, directed by Connie Ford, accomplished the feat last weekend with their presentation of "Fiddler on the Roof".

The performance also brought them three "excellent" technical awards. Awards were given for costume execution by Ember Spencer, Mike Horton and Kathleen Buday; properties by Kristie Hand; and set design by Brian Anderson assisted by John Gray, Rusty Coolman and Gary Miller. The set was constructed by the entire group under the direction of Gary Spencer of the parent support group.

"There were very few acting awards given. Most were predominatedly technical awards and I was pleased that we received three," Ford commented.

She said the cast and support staff did a "phenomenal job. They really came through. You must remember that they were competing among the best 12 groups in the state. They all presented strong shows, shows that were versatile with some very fine performances by individuals. All I can say is 'they were great. I'm so proud'."

Ford explained that in performing arts, all schools perform on the same level. Places are then awarded on a 'complicated point system. While Charlevoix was seventh overall on the point system, it was first among Class C-D schools. First place in Class A was awarded to Ann Arbor Pioneer for its presentation of "Hello Out There" and second place to Standish Sterling for "The Diary of Ann Frank."

This marks the fourth straight year the Charlevoix Performing Arts group has qualified for state competition.

Ford expressed gratitude and appreciation to the parent support group; to Mr. and Mrs. John Coolman and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Buday for coordinating the successful trip to Mt. Clemens, and to all the individuals and local businesses. "I can't name everyone. The list is much too long. But I want you to know that your support throughout the season has been appreciated. We couldn't have done what we did without you."

As for the students on the trip, Ford said "Their behavior and conduct were outstanding. You would have been proud of them."

The Performing Arts group will present a full-length version of "Fiddler on the Roof" at the high school gymnasium on Saturday, March 1.

Meanwhile, students in the class are beginning preparation for Individual Events division of the program. These participating will be at Essexville-Garber Saturday where they will appear in district competition.

"Fiddler on the Roof" is based on Sholem Aleichem's stories. It was written by Joseph Stein with music by Jerry Bock and lyrics by Sheldon Harnick.

Council approves mall expansion

City Council approved a site plan on Monday for the Captain's Corner Shopping Center which would allow Giles's Market and Ben Franklin department store to expand without providing additional parking.

Richard Lonsberry of Ski & Shore, a manager for the shopping center, asked for the approval because of plans for Adventure Golf to build a mini amusement park and restaurant adjacent to the center. Lonsberry said Giles's and Ben Franklin had plans to expand that were shown in the original site plan for the mall. "We merely want to make sure that by implementation of Phase II of Adventure Golf we are not precluding ourselves from the full utilization of the original Captains Corner Site Plan due to the present parking requirements for shopping centers," he noted.

Lonsberry said [illegible] plans within a year and Ben Franklin within three.

Approval of the amended site plan was unanimous after representatives of the Charlevoix Planning Commission said the planners "saw the need" for additional parking in future expansion of Giles's and Ben Franklin, but said the proposed amendment met the requirements of the area.

Mary Lonsberry, [illegible] amendment [illegible] Phase II of the shoppers, would have to waive their legal rights.

[illegible] amendment [illegible] the 108-car parking for the Planning Development Authority that would be [illegible] another site walkway [illegible] the U.S. 31 access. Engineers at the [illegible] estimate were increased from $25,000 to $30,000 and income was increased from $36,000 to $41,000.

The council also awarded certificates of appreciation to Susan Elsner and Don Seidler for their outstanding contributions to the City of Charlevoix.

Several new appointments were also made. Don Magnuson was appointed as a replacement for Bob Moss on the Planning Commission for terms ending April of 1988.

Judy Ann Carroll and Eric Kerr were named to alternate on the Board of Appeals. Joan Elsner was packed to replace Dallas Wilks on the Board of Review and John Ehrts was appointed to fill the vacancy on the Housing Commission due to the death of Ann Cummings; the terms ends April of 1988.

Chilly dip in Round Lake

Leaks repaired at Big Rock

The Big Rock Point nuclear power plant was scheduled to be back on line this week after shutting down to repair leaks in the reactor depressurization system which forced a shutdown on Monday, Feb. 10.

Water leakage from the system brought the rate to 1.126 gallons per minute. The plant is not to exceed 1 gallon per minute.

Charles MacInnis, Big Rock public affairs director, said the shutdown was orderly and without incident.

The depressurization system is a safety system that releases steam from the primary system, including the reactor, allowing pumps to add cooling water to the system if needed in an emergency.

Big Rock had been operating with leaks at about .6 gallons per minute, but safety checks of the depressurization system were being conducted prior to a planned shutdown last weekend.

MacInnis said the tests involved opening up some of the piping that had been shut due to leaks. The tests increased the leak rate, resulting in the early shutdown.

MacInnis said the water was only slightly radioactive and posed no health threat. The water from the leaks ends up in a sump area in the reactor building and is pumped back into the system.

The incident was classified as an unusual event, the least severe of four classifications which include alert, site area emergency and general emergency (in ascending order).

Charles MacInnis, left, Big Rock Point public affairs director, presents a tax payment of $411,916.51 to Hayes Township treasurer, Shirlene Tripp.

Big Rock presents taxes to Hayes

Consumers Power Company paid real and personal property taxes totalling $683,889 to Charlevoix County's Hayes Township for 1985, the company announced recently. The utility is the township's largest single property taxpayer, providing almost 41 percent of the township's property tax revenues. The Big Rock Point Nuclear Plant is the principal basis for the utility's property tax liability to the township.

Consumers Power Company is one of the largest taxpayers in Charlevoix County as well, the company said, with total payments for 1985 amounting to $777,607. Emmet County received $18,973 from the utility for 1985. Taxes amounting to almost $12.8 million were paid to taxing authorities in 30 northern Michigan counties by the company.

"The chief beneficiaries of these tax payments are our local schools and governmental units which provide needed human and social services," said David P. Hoffman, Big Rock Point plant superintendent.

School plans athletic field improvements

by FRAN MARTIN

The Charlevoix Board of Education, at its regular meeting Monday night, directed the administration to plan a complete renovation of the athletic facilities at the high school. This follows the recommendations made earlier by a citizens committee and the extra-curricular committee of the Board of Education.

The proposed renovation would be financed through the Sports Boosters Club, a one-year continuation of the facility improvement millage of 1.25 mills and, if necessary from the general fund. The board also recommended the use of the building trades class in the construction of facilities and search for volunteer help and equipment.

The renovation would include a new lighting system at the football field to replace the 30-year-old system now in use which was given to the school in 1954, and a track facility to replace the existing cinder track that has been in use since the late 1920's and related facilities.

The continuation of the facility improvement millage will appear on the ballot in the June election.

In other action, the board approved a recommendation that assistant coaches be hired in track, baseball, skiing and softball when the number of students participating warrants an assistant in the sport. Richard Swenor, assistant principal was charged with establishing guidelines and a reimbursment scale for assistant coaches.

The board also:

Voted to compensate Mike Bonello, assistant ski coach during the current season. Bonello has worked with the ski teams as a volunteer for several years.

Heard Robert Waun, president of the 1986 graduating class report that 82 percent of the class is in favor of a class trip. The proposed trip would be taken prior to graduation because there are no openings in June and would include two days at the Grand Traverse Resort at Acme. Waun was advised to work with the high school principal David J. Smith regarding the proposed trip.

Accepted the bids of Ron Brown for a 1967 saw and jointer. His bids were $51.99 for the saw and $61.99 for the jointer.

Discussed transportation policy that states all students must be picked up and returned on the same route and that any other arrangements must be made prior to the opening of school in September. Requests from parents to transport their students via different routes at various time brought the action. The policy was tabled for action at a future date.

It's 'take one ... lights, camera, action' as kids prepare animated films

by ANNE KELLY

Your name doesn't have to be Disney, these days, in order to break into the film making business. And if you're a fifth-grader at Charlevoix Elementary School with special creative talents, chances are you've already taken your first crack at it.

Under the supervision of Beth McGraw, art instructor, and Carol Elliott, pilot for the program for the academically talented, 20 young students have recently completed homemade animated films, learning in the process an introduction to the nuances of the art.

"First," explained Elliot, "the kids viewed several animated films that were made available through the Char-Em film library."

In this way, they were able to get an idea of the process and production through studying the final product. Next, the group divided into four movie making teams of five students each, with each group responsible for coming up with a story line for its movie, choosing the media with which to carry the storyline out, making all the props necessary for production, and finally working together to execute the final product.

"This was done during extra-curricular hours, usually an hour before school," continued Elliot, "so the kids really should be commended for putting forth so much effort."

The film making involved using clay, paper cutouts or drawing to build sets which were photographed at intervals in which they moved the figures or cutouts just slightly - producing the effect of animation.

"About 3,000 frames were shot, to produce each three-minute or less length film," said McGraw. "I think they were amazed to see how much photography is involved in shooting such a short amount of film."

According to both teachers, it was a great experience in cooperation. Each team member had to learn to organize the project, help divide jobs to be done, and take turns using the camera and manipulating the set while shooting the film.

The fun is in the viewing, of course. Eavesdropping on the students as they critiqued their first efforts, this reporter heard comments like:

"Oooo, the lights really made that clay gooey!" "I think we should shoot it all over. (Ms. McGraw faints.)" "That's really cool how the leaves are falling from the tree." "That was neat!"

More fun will come, when with all the wrinkles ironed out and the four films spliced together for an evening of entertainment, kids will invite their parents in for the show, popcorn included. On the marquee will be:

"Pac-Man's Revenge" written, produced and directed by Marianne Pfister. Cari Fershee, Matt Smith, Paul Sheets and Danielle Lee; "The Life of a Tree" by Eric Dickinson, Jake Porath, Laura Kelly, Maria Tallberg and Megan Friendly; "Now You See Him, Now You Don't" by Nancy Dammann, Anne Schairbaum, Keith Carey, J.B. Withers and Suzie Sineway; and one tentatively entitled "Hands" by Mindy Noirot, Dorsey Sherman, John Hess, Denny Jinsky and Kirn Keller.

The general public may view these award-winning films free of charge during the spring school art show.

Driver held for manslaughter in accident

A Boyne Falls man, Robert Joe Massey, 28, charged with manslaughter in the traffic death of a 24-year old resident, is scheduled to appear for preliminary examination in District Court.

Massey, who was arrested Friday, Feb. 14, on the manslaughter charge, was released Saturday after being bonded out on a $5,000 personal recognizance bond by Magistrate Wayne L. Barnett.

Clara May Kelly, 24, of Charlevoix, was pronounced dead at the Charlevoix Area Hospital where she was taken after being struck by a vehicle allegedly driven by Massey as she walked along M-66 near Glen's Market at 10:06 p.m. Thursday, a short distance from her home. Dr. Reed Freidinger was the medical examiner.

The body was returned to Remer Funeral Home at Pickford.

Something Old. Something New.
There's a new bank in town. First of America.
Yet, as new as our company is to the area, if you look close enough, you'll notice that there are familiar faces here to serve you.
The same people who helped you with your banking in the past, when they worked under a different bank name.
The same friends and neighbors who share your love for this community.
And who share our belief that this is one of the best places in Michigan, not only to live, but to have a bank.
We're community banks, after all. That means we believe that when a community invests a lot of trust in us, it's our obligation to pay it back in full.

Letters to the Editor:

Christmas program extends thanks

An Open Letter of Thanks to the People of the Charlevoix Area:

The Community Christmas project was a great experience again this year. Because of a special effort to see that needy senior citizens were cared for, this year's total number of households served was 50 percent greater than last year: 424 people from 160 households, including 183 children.

Each household received the makings of Christmas dinner plus extra canned goods and staples, and gifts for each child and some seniors in special need of TLC.

Total income this year (including late contributions from last year and $1,004.22 provided by The Rainbow Shoppe for fowl) was $3,842.43. Total expenses were $3,723.88.

The measurable dollar expenditure was but a portion of the "cost" of the venture. A tremendous amount of food was donated by community organizations, Charlevoix Elementary and Middle Schools, St. Mary's School, the area churches and many individuals.

In addition to several personal donors, the following community organizations contributed money to the cause: Welcome Wagon, Charlevoix VFW Auxiliary, American Legion and its Auxiliary, Barnard Grange, Charlevoix Jaycee's, Knights of Columbus, TOPS NO. 440, and Lions Club.

Charlevoix Hospital Guild contributed a number of gifts for senior citizens, Charlevoix Co-op Food for Folks gave 50 pounds of popcorn, and the Eastern Stars furnished a quantity of mittens, caps and scarves, as did Charlevoix Women's Club through their mitten tree in the Charlevoix County State Bank.

Many beautifully wrapped gifts were given by individual members of one church. One person gave 156 candy canes, another in Midland man who plans to move to Charlevoix and had heard of the project) 30 hand knit caps and scarves.

Cub Scout Pack 11 was prevented by December snows from getting its collection of food to us in time for Christmas but it was gratefully received in January to help replenish the stripped Food Pantry shelves.

Last, but certainly not least, an unaccountable number of hours were put in by 88 volunteers from the churches. We are most grateful for everyone's cooperation.

So many heart-warming stories can be told by the workers that we wish we could share with you. On behalf of the recipients who told us of their gratitude for being remembered by their fellow Charlevoixans, we want to send the message out to all of you who helped in any way.

Death prompts plea for care-giving

Dear Editor

A death occurred in our community recently which went largely unnoticed "Dolly" was a loner by choice. Having experienced rejection and isolation from society for many years as a resident of Traverse City State Hospital, she was afraid to risk further hurt by associating with others but responded to friendly overtures in brusque but well-intentioned gestures.

She did lovely needlework and was generous in gifts of her handiwork including ceramics. Ironically her given name, Delores, means, "grief," which characterized most of her life. She and "Soupy," her beloved dog, were frequently taunted by unthinking youngsters and ignored by adults so she retreated into her work and home.

She took great pride in her caretaking role at CHIP Counseling Center and her little house which was spotless and tastefully decorated.

She was known to employees of local stores who took time to converse with her now and then, and she gained comfort from her church and visits to Silver Creek Lodge but she lived and died virtually alone.

There are other Dollys in town for whom it is not too late to reach out and touch in small indications of caring such as an occasional carry-in meal, an invitation to accompany you on an errand or drive, time to talk, a Valentine --- Charlevoix can be made even more beautiful when we care.

Clockwise

Home delivery

By Bob Clock

I read in one of the "metros" the other day some how milk dealers in Detroit are resuming home deliveries. It seems a lot of people -- including oldsters who no longer drive -- are willing to pay more for the convenience.

The story started me thinking the other day how many things have changed in the field of home delivery since I was a kid.

Of course, we had milk delivered -- usually by a fellow with a horse and rig. The horses clip-clopped along just fast enough to keep up with the white-suited delivery man who trotted up front steps all along the block with milk bottles clinking in a metal basket.

I can't remember any bottle larger than a quart, because that's all you wanted to keep on hand at one time. In those pre-refrigerator days, perishables were kept in ice boxes and you didn't want to keep too much milk on hand for fear it would "turn."

WE ALSO HAD icemen. They also used horse-drawn rigs, delivering ice in hot weather and coal in cold weather. The ice was more fun than the coal, because it came in huge blocks covered with sawdust. The iceman had to break them up with icepicks (Remember icepicks? And ice tongs?) and there were usually plenty of ice splinters on the bed of the wagon.

If you were polite, the delivery man usually would give you a nice big splinter of ice to eat like a popsicle -- after you had brushed away the sawdust. No matter how hard you brushed, the ice always tasted like wood -- or coal.

We didn't really mind the coal taste. On really hot days, we used to pick coal tar out of the cracks on the street and chew it like bubble gum. How did any of us survive all those germs?

Then there was the butter and egg man, who brought his wares fresh from the farm and left them on your back porch. He carried eggs in a big wicker basket and he would count them out and put them into one of my mother's mixing bowls.

The butter -- real butter -- came in thick ceramic crocks -- the same kind of decorative crocks that cost you an arm and a leg today. You could return them if you liked, but I don't think it was required. Butter crocks made fine water dishes for the dog when you were through with them.

THERE WERE OTHERS delivery men whom I suspect may have been unique to my old neighborhood in Detroit.

We had a "waffle man" who came through the streets every afternoon and evening selling fresh-baked waffles from the back of his truck. I even remember his chant: "Waffles! Waffles. Three for a nickel, six for a dime, they keep you happy all of the time. Waffles! Waffles! Nice and sweet, they tickle your feet."

There also was a "curtain man" who sold fabric door to door.

Farmers sometimes ranged up and down the block selling fresh produce. "Strawberries? Strawberries. Three quarts for a quarter. Strawberries! Strawberries!"

The price seemed awful high to a kid who seldom had more than a nickel to his name.

Read the bible, pass the ammunition

With President Reagan's endorsement, the right to life people act on voluntary abortion as an emotional issue. If they would treat it as immoral, they should require all women age 14 to 40 to be monitored on the state of their health for the benefit of the unborn. Laws would have to be made to forbid any smoking or the use of any controlled substance.

They could voluntarily improve on some of this by education and family planning. They could elect their champion Pat Robertson president and Jerry Falwall vice president. Maybe they can get enough money by charity to help the poor maintain healthy children by getting the rich to part with more of their money made by their claims of ownership and profits on inflated investments.

As of the present, they only get enough in a year to buy about one days cost of government subsidized charity. There are plenty of world overpopulation and economic conditions that need a real factual solution. Any religious action would work better if their Bible teaching would make peace between all kinds of other fabulistic theologies.

Where are the instructions in Bible reading that say we should fund the Nicaragan Contras? We could save a lot of money by sending, Khadafy some old war movies in place of our billion dollar battle parade in front of Libya - dangerous condition where any idolistic religious faction could use guided missiles to start a nuclear war.

We should forbid the use of nuclear power to get rid of nuclear waste which nobody wants and stop ocean dumping by some countries. We could get rid of more than half of our nuclear bombs and still have enough to kill the world five times over. How much is enough to keep the profit by war industry busy creating mountains of pollution and distruction of natural resources.

Beacons of Blessing

A devotional column prepared by the Charlevoix Ministerial Association

by Rev. Thomas Black
First Baptist Church

It has been said (and rightfully so) that if you want a job done, ask a busy person to do it. It seems that only the very busy know where to find the time to do more.

A sense of stewardship tells us we must take time to do God's work. What we do with the 24 hours a day God has given us is as widely divergent as people themselves are. The excuses we give for not using more time for God's work may sound legitimate, BUT it is time to re-evaluate them.

Where are our priorities? Does the family come first? Have we already done our share? There is no time to do it! We have no talent! Our treasury is already too low!

Beloved, do not compare it all to what your neighbor or fellow-parishioner has done. Compare what you have done to what God has done for you. This alone must be the standard of your comparison. As God's stewards we must ask the questions, "Why don't we do this? or Why don't we do that?" Beloved in Christ, it is our church, our town, our country - God has given us time, talent and treasure to use it.

God has a plan for each of our lives - He asks us to follow Him and trust Him to know what He's doing, through us, to us and for us. We must give God some of our time because that is the commodity He uses to work through us.

Perhaps we have overlooked the aspect of "giving" when, in reality, stewardship is a question of "being" - we are God's stewards every hour of the day. We cannot regulate stewardship. We therefore are good stewards or unjust stewards. Let's put it this way: Stewardship is taking God for a partner in all areas of life and thus requires a complete surrender to Him.

What is God's will in the use of your time, your talent and your treasure? Let us together exercise the kind of faith that will move mountains. Let us see the unlikely, believe the incredible and accomplish the impossible.

Since God is our partner we need not be afraid to make big plans. Let's take the time to be good stewards. We can do all things through Christ. Remember a giving church is a living church.

Chamber Chatter

By Claudia Kenifeck
Executive Director

Many of you were contacted last fall and invited to join the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce. The results of that membership drive were very positive. Over thirty businesses responded by becoming Chamber members!

With 1986 already well underway, the Membership Directory for this coming season is in the works. It is very important that 1986 dues are paid on or before March 1, 1986. At that time, the published list of Chamber members will go to press. This list will appear both in the Charlevoix Guest Guide and the Charlevoix Courier.

The existing Chamber, under the presidency of Gary Gleason and the Board of Directors, has created a strong foundation and framework from which we can continue to grow, but we need all of you to support the climb to success.

Contact the Chamber office for information regarding the dues structure. We are counting on you for support.

The first business meeting of the year was very successful. The Chamber would like to thank Pat McKeown of Pat McKeown Ford, Inc., who sponsored the event and Dong Shaw of Bridge Street Inn for soliciting the donated prizes.

Hospice appreciates aid

Dear Editor:

On behalf of the Charlevoix County Hospice Board of Directors, volunteers and members, I want to personally thank the Northwestern State Bank for having the most terrific Silent Doll Auction for the hospice!

This very successful project could not have been carried off if it hadn't had the bank's complete support and the very hard work of Joan Lemerand, Vicky Olson, Ruth Handy and Harriett Urman. Everyone worked so hard, and gave so much of themselves - and the final outcome was marvelous. Christmas is a time for giving, sharing and caring, and all of you at the bank certainly displayed these wonderful traits in abundance.

We also must include in our thanks all the wonderful people who dressed dolls for this fund-raiser. Without them, there would have been no fund-raiser. People do care and share. Special are the merchants who supported with their gifts of prizes. In 1986 there has to be a great many people with special glows in their hearts.

Thanks to caring people like you, hospice is alive and well in Charlevoix County.

VFW plans potluck dinner

Plans for a potluck dinner for members of the Charlevoix Post No. 1153 and its Auxiliary, their respective families, friends and prospective members, were made at a recent meeting of the VFW Auxiliary.

The event will be held at the VFW post home at 1 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 23.

At the same meeting, plans were made for a "bakeless bake sale" to raise funds for the Auxiliary's kitchen remodeling project. Two new electric stoves have already been installed, it was announced. Serving on the remodeling committee are Mrs. Melvin Plum, Mrs. Larry Finck, Mrs. Kenneth Staley and Mrs. Clarence Goldstick.

Mrs. Donald White, membership chairman, advised that only 58 members had renewed their memberships. She asked that others do so as soon as possible in order to continue as members and to renew the accompanying cancer insurance.

Several members of the Auxiliary have benefited from the insurance. Mrs. Staley, cancer chairman, reported that 100 robin pins have been sold with the proceeds supporting the cancer project. The Auxiliary continues to collect Glen's green slips for this program.

As part of the Auxiliary's Americanism program, 500 Americanism cards were donated to the Charlevoix Middle School. The cards have the Pledge of Allegiance on one side and the American Creed on the reverse side. Dennis VanGuilder, middle school principal, accepted the cards for the school. Mrs. Staley and Mrs. Goldstick made the presentation.

As part of its community service, Auxiliary members contributed approximately 50 hours per month as volunteers at the monthly food distribution program for low income families.

Members of the post and Auxiliary who attended the recent district meeting in Emmet County were Mr. and Mrs. Staley, Mr. and Mrs. White, CDR. Robert Rajewski, Mrs. Finck and Mrs. Goldstick.

The next regular meeting of the Auxiliary is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Thursday, March 6 at the post home.

The More Things Change, The More They Remain The Same.

Some of you may have noticed a change at your bank. It's now First of America.

And, even though our name's new to the area, not much else has changed.

The same people who helped you with your banking in the past are still here.

They're the same friends and neighbors who share your love for this community.

And who feel the same way we do about this community's promise. Now. And in the future.

You see, we're community banks.

So to us, that means that it's as important to lend a hand as it is to lend money.

And, in that respect, we'll never change.

FIRST of AMERICA.

Rayder skiers win regionals

The Charlevoix Rayder ski teams both placed first in District IV competition for the first time in the history of the program at the Charlevoix High School.

Both the boys and girls teams now qualify for the state meet to be held at Nub's Nob on Monday, Feb. 24.

The boys team topped a field of 19 schools while the girls team was first among 18 teams.

"The entire team contributed to the victories," coach Erik Lundteigen said. "We had a lot of help from our latter seeds among both the boys and girls.

"When the pressure was on, it was Wendy Voisin and Allison Hall who came through on the girls team and Jim Morgridge and Karl Erber on the boys. The victories are a great tribute to our depth," Lundteigen added.

This marks the first time both teams have qualified for state competition in the same year. The boys team qualified in 1975 and 1977 and the girls team in 1985.

Area teams captured the first three places in both events. The Charlevoix boys were first with 82 points followed by Petoskey with 84 and Harbor Springs with 107.

The Charlevoix girls were first with 45 points; Harbor Springs had 52 and Petoskey 162. The top two teams in each category qualify for state competition.

In the boys meet the results were as follows: Matt Lignell, fourth in the slalom and seventh in the giant slalom; Jason Brindel, ninth in the slalom and third in the GS; Wes Cumberland, second in the GS; Karl Erber, 12th in the slalom and 26th in the GS; Jim Morgridge, 21st in the slalom and 23rd in the GS and Brian Wilmot, 36th in the slalom.

In the girls meet, Nonie Pace was fifth in the slalom and second in the giant slalom; Sue Miller, fourth in the slalom and third in the GS; Lauren Pace, first in the slalom; Wendy Voisin, 13th in the slalom and seventh in the GS; Allison Hall, 10th in the GS and Carla Hoffman, 40th in the slalom and 34th in the GS.

-Lundteigen again expressed his appreciation and gratitude for the assistance he has received from Mike Bonello, to the teams for their dedication to the program and to the parents' support group.

Junior skiers win meet

The Charlevoix junior varsity ski teams placed first among three teams competing in a meet at Nub's Nob Wednesday.

The boys team placed first with 18 points followed by Harbor Springs with 44 and Petoskey with 49. The girls team had a score of 18, Harbor Springs second with 31 and Petoskey with 32.

"This is an important group of skiers. They serve as feeder groups for varsity teams," coach Erik Lundteigen said of the program. "They play an important role for they are needed to keep the program going. This year we have had an enthusiastic group that has improved greatly since the season opened. They will give us a good supply of new talent for next winter's teams."

In the boys meet Matt Dixon placed second; Charlie Witthoeft, third; Curt McCandless, fourth; Matt Miller, ninth; Brian Phillips, 11th; Jim Mabee, 13th; John Terry 18th; Dave Warth, 19th; Dan Bickerstieth was disqualified.

In the girls' division, Kristie Coolman was third; Monica Havens fourth, Jill Raecke, fifth; Julie Zeitler, eighth; Kristen Joy, ninth; Maria Dirlanga, 10th; Leigh Huff, 11th; Pam Hostmann, disqualified.

Netters lose two matches

The Charlevoix Rayder volleyball teams dropped games to Grayling Monday in a meet held on the Vikings floor.

Grayling won 15-5, 15-3 and 15-4. Rhonda Brown was the top server and spiker and Lara Stargardt the top setter in the series, according to Coach Brenda Bryan.

In the JV game, the scores were 15-1, 15-7 and 15-8.

The top server was Michelle Seibert; setter, Carla Henry; and spiker, Shelly Crain.

The varsity dropped all three matches to the visiting Rogers City squad at Parents Night last Wednesday. The scores were 15-1, 15-2 and 15-9.

Lara Stargardt was named the top server, Stacy Way the setter and Rhonda Brown the spiker.

In the JV game, Charlevoix lost by scores of 15-5, 15-2 and 15-12.

Tanya Gruenewald was the top server, Billie Jo Habel the setter and Shelly Crain and Linda Hoeksma the spikers.

The teams will be at St. Ignace on Wednesday and will play their final scheduled games at East Jordan Thursday night before going into the district tournament at Elk Rapids Saturday, March 1.

Two Rayder matmen qualify for regionals

Two members of the Charlevoix Rayder mat team, Dan Kelly (154) and Bill Marquardt (wt), placed third in district competition Saturday and qualified for the regionals at Sutherland Montebello Saturday.

The Rayders had entries in eight of the 13 weight classes, coach Greg Bryan said.

"Districts are difficult to place in because a wrestler who lose the first of the first two bouts is eliminated. In a 16-team bracket, this means 22 of the wrestlers are eliminated by the third round," he explained.

"Again, at the conference meet, the boys wrestled well showing much improvement, but they still have some distance to go to become superior and experienced wrestlers," Bryan said. "We are now looking forward as a team to next season."

Kelly, one of two seniors on the team, pinned Andy McGinn of Onaway in 1:46 lost to Darwin Snow of Rogers City in 3:14 and pinned Todd Seitz of Kalkaska in 5:36 to place third.

Marquardt, a junior, won his first round by defeating 269-pound Sean Taylor of Pine River in a 7-2 overtime decision. He then lost to Angelo Pazzo of Traverse City St. Francis by a pin in 1:36 (Pazzo was the eventual champion). In the third round, he pinned Mike Rousseau of Boyne City in :49 to claim third place.

Shawn Eber (126) defeated Jim Blanc of Montebello by a 15-7 decision before losing to Tony Friday of Onaway by a 15-7 decision.

Others who wrestled and lost their first rounds were: Scott Novotny (98), Jason Whitley (132), Jamie Monteith (138), Derek Dutcher (185) and Jim Tilton (196). Matt Hall (145), the second senior on the team, and Chad Kemp (105) did not wrestle because of injuries.

A meeting for prospective wrestlers at the Middle School is scheduled for Thursday, Feb 20, with practices to begin Tuesday, Feb. 25, coach Bryan said.

Thunder-tubes return

The third Thunder-tube competition will be staged at the Mt. McSauba ski run at 3 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 23, Dwight Boss of the Charlevoix Recreation Department has announced.

"We're staging this by popular request primarily for those who missed all the fun during the Winter Carnival," Boss said of the upcoming event.

Registration will be at the Ski Lodge prior to the 3 p.m. starting time. Tubes will be furnished. Each will require a team of five participants. There will be a $1 fee for each entry. Prizes and medals will be awarded.

Basketball squad stays in race with pair of victories

The Charlevoix Rayders kept themselves in the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference race last week with victories over Harbor Springs and Rogers City.

Entering Tuesday night's game, the Rayders (9-3 in league play) trailed Cheboygan (11-1) by two games. The Rayders' only hope of sharing the league title now is for Gaylord to beat Cheboygan on Friday, setting up a season-ending game between Charlevoix and Cheboygan the following week.

"Cheboygan has to lose two in a row," Rayder coach Dave Smith said.

The Charlevoix team almost got some of the help they needed last Friday when Petoskey took Cheboygan to two overtimes before the Chiefs triumphed 63-60.

The Rayders waltzed past Harbor Springs team on Tuesday for a 75-55 victory and then stumbled to a Friday victory against Rogers City.

Coach Smith gave the crowd at Parent's Night a good look at the Charlevoix bench against Harbor, as he played the entire roster extensively throughout the game.

Charlevoix took control of the boards, pulling in 70 percent of the rebounds. They were also hot from the floor with a 54 percent shooting night. "It was a well played game all around," Smith said. Tim Salmonson led the Rayder scoring with 16 points, followed by 15 for Sean Ferguson and 12 for Jun Ciuk. Six other Rayders contributed to the scoring. Ferguson pulled down 12 rebounds.

Charlevoix jumped out to a 16-10 first quarter lead and was up 35-27 at the half. Salmonson, with 12 third-quarter points, spearheaded a Rayder charge after the intermission which had them up 57-41 going into the final eight minutes.

THE RAYDERS LACKED spark on Friday when they visited Rogers City. "Mentally we didn't play very sharp," Smith said. A decent night of shooting and rebounding was offset by constant turnovers and numerous traveling infractions.

Charlevoix eventually managed a 56-48 victory.

The best Smith could say of the night was "we did a good enough job to win." He gave credit to Rogers City, as well, for the tough game. "They came to play. It was their homecoming and they were fired up. They showed it."

The Hurons took a 10-8 first quarter lead before Charlevoix battled back on the shooting of Jody Putman for a 26-21 Rayder lead at halftime.

The game seesawed back and forth throughout the third and fourth periods and the Rayders were unable to assert control until Putman, with the score tied and some two minutes to play, scored a three-point play.

Ciuk stole the ball on the next possession and broke down court for the score and a five-point Rayder lead with 1:58 remaining.

In the final minutes of the game, Charlevoix switched from their zone defense – set up to protect several players in foul trouble – to a man-to-man. The strategy worked as Rogers City failed to score a field goal in the final 3 minutes and 40 seconds.

Putman was high-point man for the Rayders with 18. Ferguson was the only other Rayder in double figures with 16 points and 13 rebounds. Salmonson came up with 10 rebounds and Putman six assists.

For Rogers, Harry Guenterberg had 19 points and Jim Bauer 11.

Charlevoix hit 22 buckets, 12 of 27 from the line with 19 fouls while Rogers had 20 field goals, eight of 20 from the line and 21 personals.

The Rayders host Grayling on Friday, Feb. 21 and Cheboygan a week later. District play will begin on March 4 with Charlevoix playing at home against either East Jordan or Boyne City. District pairings will be drawn on Feb. 24.

Rayder JV's defeat Rogers City

The Charlevoix Rayder JVs stretched their record to 14-3 for the season after defeating Rogers City 55-46 on the Hurons floor Friday night.

The Rayders outscored their hosts 22 to 20 from the floor and were successful on 11 of 24 free throws while the Hurons made six of 11 charity shots. Charlevoix had 15 personal fouls and Rogers City 11.

The Rayders jumped to an 11-89 first-quarter lead and never lost it as they went ahead 27-21 at halftime and 42-36 going into the final eight minutes.

Scott DeYoung and Roger Smith contributed 14 points each and Chad DeVries 10 to the winning cause. Brent Muckle had 14 points and Jim Meyers and Joel Idalski 10 points each for the Hurons.

On Tuesday, Feb. 11, the JVs defeated the Harbor Springs Rams 51-38 in a game played here.

The Rayders took a 16-6 first period lead, increased it to 29-12 at halftime and 42-18 going into the final eight minutes when Coach Dick Swenor emptied the bench.

Charlevoix had 21 field goals to 13 for the Rams and nine of 13 charity shots. The team had 15 personal fouls. Harbor had 12 of 14 free throws and 13 personal fouls.

Scott DeYoung had 15 points as eight of the 12 team members scored. C. Beaudoin had 20 points and J. Cupps 10 points for the Rams.

Freshmen trounce Harbor Springs

The Charlevoix Rayder freshmen ran their record to 9-4 with a 68-47 win over Harbor Springs on the latter's floor Monday.

The team will not play again until Feb. 20 when they host East Jordan in a game scheduled for 6 p.m.

In the game at Harbor, the Rayders took over 12-6 at the quarter; went ahead 34-22 at halftime and 57-32 going into the final eight minutes.

Shawn Putman led the scoring with 24 points. Dylan Stewart added 11. Mark Claire had 14 for Harbor Springs.

Depot uproots Grinders

The Depot of Boyne City continued its winning streak Thursday night by defeating Dr. Dave's Green Grinders 68-82. In a second game, Duffy's defeated Judy's Restaurant 79-59.

The Depot was in charge all the way as they headed the Green Grinders 20-17, 44-39, and 65-61 by quarters.

Tim Hartwick had 28 points, Dean Hicks 24 and Tom Beyer 21 for the Depot. Dennis Fewings had 22, Dick Swenor 21 and Dan McKenzie 17 for the Grinders.

Judy's Restaurant took a slim 17-14 first period lead over Duffy's who came back strong in the second period to take over 40-29 at halftime and 62-41 going into the final period.

Kim Thomson paced the scoring with 33 points followed by Steve Martinus with 14, Scott Olmstead with 12 and Woody Pearson with 12 for the victors. Tex Drenth had 17 and Randy Holecheck 16 for Judy's.

Carson Lumber will take on the Depot at 6:30 p.m. and Duffy's will meet the Green Grinders at 7:45 p.m. Thursday.

Clothing Co. stops Nanny's

The Clothing Company defeated Nanny's 56-51 and Paul Lindberg, Inc., dumped First State Bank 81-52 in the only games played in the B division of the Charlevoix Independent Basketball League last week.

The Clothing Company managed to stay ahead of Nanny's by no more than two points at the quarters 9-8, 20-18, and 40-39 before pulling away for the five point win.

Tom Morrison with 17 points, Dave Cole with 15 and Rob Robertson with 12 point were the top scorers for the victors. Ray LaVoie had 19 points, Jim Hamilton 15 and Steve Voorheis 11 for Nanny's.

Dave Norton with 29 points, Stan Martin with 20 and Larry Brock, with 17 led Paul Lindberg, Inc., to a lopsided win over First State Bank after the Bankers had overcome a 22-10 first period deficit to knot the score 31-all at halftime.

As the second half got underway, Lindberg outscored First State 21-8 to take over 52-39 going into the final period when they poured in 29 points to the Bankers' 13 for the win.

Bob Sandahl had 15 points and Ike Boss and Dennis Dominic 10 points each for First State.

On Wednesday, Feb. 26, Nanny's will meet Paul Lindberg and Wojan Aluminum will take on the Clothing Company in the B League.

Young Rayders drop Harbor

The Charlevoix Middle School boys basketball teams closed out their regular schedules Wednesday with victories over Harbor Springs. The eighth-graders won 48-43 in an overtime and the seventh-graders crushed their opponents 46-13.

The victories gave the seventh-graders a 6-1 record for the season and the eighth-graders a 5-2 record.

In Wednesday's action, the eighth-graders took a 23-18 lead only to have the young Rams knot the score 42-all at the buzzer of the regulation game. Charlevoix out scored Harbor 6-1 in the overtime for the 48-43 win.

James Corwin had 16 points and Scott Miller 11 for Charlevoix.

In the seventh-grade game, Charlevoix took a 14-4 halftime advantage before rolling to a 46-13 victory.

Parrish had 16 points and Dennis Maillioux 10 for the Rayders.

The middle school boys teams split with Petoskey in games played here Monday with the seventh-graders winning 40-20 and the eighth-graders losing by a 49-40 margin.

In the seventh-grade game, Charlevoix trailed 16-14 at halftime before outscoring their hosts 27-4 in the second half for the 40-20 win.

Corey Ostrum had nine points and Jason Parrish eight for Charlevoix.

In the eighth-grade game, the young Rayders trailed 22-18 at halftime and never managed to overcome the deficit.

Chad DeYoung had 14 points and Corwin 11 points for Charlevoix.

The middle school teams were scheduled to go into the annual junior high tournament hosted by Cheboygan Monday.

The teams were to meet the Cheboygan seventh and eighth-grade teams early Monday evening.

If the Charlevoix teams win they will go into the finals on Wednesday, Feb. 26. If they lose they will go into the consolation bracket on Monday, Feb. 24 when they would meet the loser of the Soo-Petoskey-St. Ignace game.

The finals in both brackets will be played Wednesday Feb. 26.

Scholarship pageant planned

All eligible young women of Antrim, Charlevoix and Emmet Counties are invited to participate in the 1986 Miss Chain of Lakes Scholarship Pageant, slated for April 19, 1986.

This scholarship pageant is open to any single female in this tri-county area who will be from 17-26 years old on Labor Day of 1986.

The Miss Chain of Lakes competition is a preliminary of the Miss Michigan and Miss America Scholarship Pageants. On a local, state and national level, this is the largest single scholarship foundation for women in the world.

The titlewinner will receive, among many other gifts, an all expense paid trip to the Miss Michigan Pageant, and an $800 scholarship award, to be used for personal development courses, trade school or the college of her choice.

First and second runners up will also receive cash and prizes. Prizes will be given to all contestants, as well as special awards to winners of individual categories of competition.

Applications for contestants are being accepted during the month of February. If you are interested in being a contestant, or if you are interested in working on a committee or sponsoring a contestant, contact Debbie Breece, entries committee chairman at 264-9253 (Elk Rapids) or Jacqueline Smith at 264-8038 (all collect evenings or weekends).

Habitat program

Linda and Walter Lamirand, of Fort Wayne, Indiana, haven't mowed part of their backyard for 15 years, and they are proud of it, reports National Wildlife magazine. They're among homeowners across the country participating in the National Wildlife Federation's Backyard Wildlife Habitat Program. Naturally, landscaped yards not only attract wildlife, they also conserve energy and water and don't require the use of pesticides.

Chestnut plantings

If you've planted a chestnut seedling in the past 10 years, or, ever want to, you probably have 85-year-old James Comp or Ward Taylor, 77, to thank. For the past decade, they and their army of senior citizens, Boy Scouts, conservationists, and prison laborers have salvaged a quarter of a million chestnuts from one of America's last stand of chestnut trees along Michigan's eastern shore. From the early 1900s to the 1950s a lethal fungus imported from Japan nearly wiped out this American tradition.

Dentists help school kids during Children's Dental Health Month

February is National Children's Dental Health Month, and a good time to report what local dentists are doing to help children start and keep good tooth care habits.

Since good habits are best when learned early, Charlevoix kindergarten students last October took part in a program on tooth care and visited the offices of Dr. Robert Tollas and Dr. Jeffrey Porter to see and touch and talk about dentists' equipment.

This month students at all the nursery schools in town are participating in similar educational programs and visits to the offices of Dr. John Merill and Dr. David Strawbridge as well as those of Dr Tollas and Dr. Porter.

Also this month, students at the Charlevoix Elementary School and St. Mary's School are being given dental screenings. All dentists in Charlevoix are participating in this program.

Reaching two targeted groups of children, Charlevoix dentists have set up dental education programs for all third and sixth-graders.

Elementary school children are being given new tooth brushes, donated by the Charlevoix Lions Club, on the day of their dental screenings.

Children in the fourth and fifth grades of the elementary school are competing in a Dental Health Month poster contest. Judging of the posters will take place February 28.

High school students are being given special help by Charlevoix dentists. Every August, those participating in sports programs are equipped with mouth guards to protect their teeth, lips, cheeks and tongue from injury in game activity. The importance of mouth guards is emphasized also with the knowledge that they help prevent injuries to the head and neck by cushioning blows that otherwise might cause jaw fractures or concussions.

Charlevoix dentists are doing their best to help students from nursery school through high school take care of their teeth so they will have "winning smiles."

Dr. David Strawbridge examines teeth at the Charlevoix Elementary School.

King and queen crowned on Friday

The coronation of the 1986 Winter Homecoming king and queen will be "a feature of the halftime festivities of the Friday night's Charlevoix-Grayling game, according to Kathleen Bobay, president of Student Council, which sponsors the event.

The student body will cast ballots this week and the results will be announced at the time of the coronation. Members of the senior class had nominated the candidates for the honor.

Queen candidates are Kristen Austin, Tara McLelland, Jami Staley, Shannon Titsworth and Stacy Way.

Joe Hayes, Patrick LaBlance, John Loder, Jim Morgridge and Tim Plagge are king candidates.

The reigning royalty will receive their crowns from the 1985 king and queen, Jim Kengey and Jennifer Joy.

A homecoming dance will follow the game.

Band to play in music festival

The 73-piece Charlevoix High School Symphonic Band directed by Terry Isenbarger will be among the 32 bands participating in the District 6 Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association Festival at Petoskey Saturday, Feb. 22.

The Charlevoix band is scheduled to play before three judges at the Petoskey High School auditorium at 2:40 p.m.

Other bands will be appearing for adjudication throughout the day beginning at 8 a.m. and continuing until 5 p.m.

Bands receiving I ratings will qualify for state competition later in the spring at a site to be named.

Director Isenbarger said the Charlevoix band will play a warm-up march, "Glory Concert March" by John Caravas, "Majestia" by John Sweeaingen, and "Great Lakes Overture" by Jerry Nowak.

The festival is open to the public without charge.

Kyvik named Sailor of Quarter

Eric Kyvik, BM1, has been named Sailor of the Quarter aboard the U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Mesquite for the first quarter of the current fiscal year.

The selection of Sailor of the Quarter is based on the crewman's military bearing, etiquette, uniform appearance, work habits, professionalism and leadership. Nominations for the recognition come from the ship's department heads and chief petty officers. The final selection is made by the Commanding Officer.

Kyvik joined the U.S. Coast Guard in July 1977. He received his basic training at Alameda, Calif. He served at several other Coast Guard units before coming to the Mesquite including Station Holland, USCGC Acacia at Grand Haven and Group Muskegon. He currently resides in Charlevoix with his wife, Brenda and their two children.

January permits down

January was a slow month for the Charlevoix County Department of Building Inspection, with only 22 permits issued.

Four of the permits were for construction projects in the City of Charlevoix. Two for residential remodeling, one for a new commercial building, and one for commercial remodeling.

Altogether, permits were issued for only two new homes. They will be built in Eveline and Marion Townships. The largest number of permits, 14, was issued for residential remodeling.

Assembly of God to show 'Joni'

The Charlevoix Assembly of God Church will show the film "Joni" Wednesday Feb. 19 at 7 p.m.

"Joni" is the dramatic story of a young woman's struggle to find a useful life in the wake of a tragic accident which left her handicapped. According to her yearbook, the graduating class at Woodlawn Senior High School in Maryland voted Joni Eareckson the "Most Athletic" girl in the senior class.

A month after graduation, diving from a raft in the shallow waters of the Chesapeake Bay, she found her world had changed. Her head struck something solid and, in a fraction of a second, she had suffered a broken neck.

The film follows Joni's progress from the moment she became a quadriplegic. And the impact of its message is made even more outstanding by the performance of the star of the film: Joni Eareckson portraying herself.

Mission school planned in Petoskey

Petoskey Cluster Mission School, a workshop covering several phases of Christian mission, will be held at the Petoskey United Methodist Church on Sunday, March 16 from 2-7:30 p.m.

Teachers, preachers, missionaries and local workers in the field of human relations will show and tell students of all ages about the many kinds of mission work.

Interested individuals and families of the "Petoskey Cluster" area which includes northwest lower Michigan, are welcome to participate.

Subjects offered begin close to home and reach out around the world. Qualified teachers range from a Native American storyteller to a couple known to have organized work camps throughout the U.S.; to a recently returned "Peace Advocate" to Nicaragua.

"Missions in Action" a special learning center for elementary students, grades 2-6, is being prepared by Rev. David Yingling of Charlevoix and Paulette Cheyne of Alden.

Nursery care will be provided for infants through first-grade with competent attendants in charge.

A brochure containing program details and information on costs and registration is available at local United Methodist Churches or by contacting the host church at Petoskey in person or by phone, 347-2733.

Menu set for '$5 million' gourmet meal

To celebrate its fifth anniversary, the McCune Arts Center is planning a fund-raising drawing to select five couples to dine in a gourmet six-course meal prepared by some of the area's finest chefs.

Billed as the "$5 million dinner," the meal will be served at the Charlevoix hill-top estate of Ken and Joan MacGillivray. Winners of the drawing, to be held on May 1, will be chauffeured to and from the dinner by limousine. There will be music, dancing, entertainment and a celebrity couple.

The evening's feast will begin with liver pate and a variety of cheeses prepared as hors d'oeuvres by Lynne Symons of Symons General Store. That will be followed by an appetizer of pecan stuffed morels created by chef Jim Milliman of the Rowe Inn. A chilled, strawberry-rhubarb soup by Kit Simmons, chef of the Arboretum, will also be served.

Peter Peterson, proprietor and chef of Tapawing, will prepare Whitefish Tapawingo. The entree will be medallion of lamb and venison stuffed with swiss chard, the creation of Robert Stark, corporate chef of Stafford's Hospitality. Dave Phillips of 212 Bridge Street restaurant will prepare a medley of lettuce with light vinaigrette dressing. The dessert will be Torte Walloon made by Dave Beier, proprietor of the Walloon Lake Inn.

Tickets for the drawing are $10 each and can be purchased in Charlevoix at the Apple Tree or from members of several organizations participating in the fund-raiser.

For more information contact the Crooked Tree Arts Council at 347-4237.

Choir workshop planned

Anyone with an interest in church music or just plain singing should take note the eighth annual Church Music Workshop will be held at the Charlevoix First Congregational Church on Saturday, March 15.

The workshop will provide practical advice on choir music including directing techniques, choosing music to fit various abilities and music for children.

The program will feature Howard Slenk, chairman of the music department at Calvin College in Grand Rapids.

Also featured will be sessions with Pat Knapp and Carol Spalding on bringing out creativity in children and with Fran Tollas, vocalist and teacher of voice and piano, on ideas for children's choirs and singing congregations.

Wayne Wyrembelski, organist and music director at St. Mary's Cathedral of the Gaylord diocese, will present an special program of organ instruction.

Barbara Hoag, a vocal soloist who has performed in the Charlevoix, Petoskey and Traverse City areas, will also assist with the program.

The choir music instruction will concentrate on simple music that can be performed by adult or family choirs led by children, Tollas says. Similarly, there will be sessions on solo performance that concentrate on music that can be used by anyone.

The workshop will also include a music display from the Rainbow Bookstore of Traverse City.

Further information on registration for the workshop can be obtained from Fran Tollas, 346 Dixon Ave., Charlevoix, 547-9479. Registrations will be accepted until March 4.

Band Boosters dinner set

The Charlevoix Band Boosters will host an all-you-can-eat spaghetti dinner on Friday, Feb. 28 from 5-7 p.m.

The dinner will be held in the Charlevoix High School cafeteria prior to the Rayder's final home basketball game. Tickets are $2.50 for students, $3.50 for adults and $12 for the entire family.

Money from the event will be used to for general support of the Charlevoix band program, as well as the possible purchase of new summer marching uniforms, camp scholarships, and music band trips.

The band boosters hope to raise $1,500 this year for these programs.

Tickets for the spaghetti dinner can purchased at the high school or from any band student.

American Dental Association recognizes

America's WinningSmiles!

Big, healthy, winning smiles ...

the symbol of the drive and enthusiasm which have made this country great.

This February, in conjunction with National Children's Dental Health Month, the ADA is honoring five Americans for their outstanding achievements and their winning smiles.

Recognition of these five is our way of celebrating all of America's winning smiles, for they exemplify not only our heritage of achievement but also the fact that Americans have the healthiest smiles in the world.

Funding for city projects is in question

by DOUG TRUAX

Uncertainty has shrouded Charlevoix's plans to buy additional frontage at Ferry Beach and to improve parking and develop amenities in the downtown area through tax increment financing plans.

Charlevoix has recently established districts using the tax increment financing method to capture property taxes for use upgrading and improving these areas.

The legality of certain uses of tax increment financing has come under attack from several quarters and bonding authorities are warning against issuing government bonds based on TIFA funding.

The state Attorney General issued an opinion on Jan. 16 stating that "a municipality is without authority to create a tax increment finance authority in a geographical area where property values are not declining."

Further challenges to the state's tax increment financing statute have come in the courts. The Royal Oak Public Schools has a case pending challenging the legality of TIFA districts where property values are not "declining." The Birmingham School District is suing the Village of Beverly Hills which is using tax increment financing as part of a downtown development authority project (DDA). The Birmingham schools content the DDA statute is unconstitutional because it "infringes on the right of voters who elected that the property tax be used for schools and school operating purposes, not to back development authority bonds."

The Michigan Out-of-Formula School District Association, which represents school districts that rely solely on local tax revenues, is lobbying for amendments to the tax abatement and tax increment financing statutes.

Officials in Charlevoix are concerned about the future of the planned projects. "My reaction is one of shock," said Claudia Kenifeck, executive director of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce. "I'm a little apprehensive about the future of the DDA project."

"Bonding would be questionable now," City Manager Michael Wiesner said. "It is my recommendation that we continue on a cash basis.

"I can't imagine that with all the TIFA districts in the state and all the bonds out that the ruling will go against it. I think there will be some modification of the law. I'm optimistic. I think the ultimate outcome will be that our TIFA will be okay," Wiesner added.

Under tax increment financing plans, taxes going to schools, the county, and such are frozen at a certain level and any increase in property taxes generated by an increase in property values – through inflation, new construction, or appreciating land values – is "captured" and used for public im-

Heroic rescue earns Coast Guard medals

by FRAN MARTIN

Two members of the crew of the U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Mesquite have been awarded Coast Guard medals for their heroism and bravery in the rescue of a drowning man from the Manitowoc River in Wisconsin on June 30, 1985.

Recipients of the medal, the highest honor the Coast Guard can bestow on its personnel in peace time, were Eric Kyvik, Boatswain's Mate, First Class, and Grant Waldron, Health Services Technician (Paramedic), third class.

Lt. Cmdr. Robert E. Young, commanding officer of the Mesquite, made the presentation in behalf of Adm. James S. Gracey, commandant of the U.S. Coast Guard, at a special ceremony aboard the Mesquite on Friday.

According to the citations received by the pair, Petty Officer Kyvik was returning to the ship from liberty at approximately 10 p.m. the night of June 30 when he noticed a man floundering in the water as he approached the Eighth Street bridge.

Without regard for his own safety, he dived from the bridge 25 feet to the water below, swam to the man and held him on the surface to prevent him from drowning. He then began to pull the man toward shore when Waldron, who was leaving the ship moored at the municipal dock, saw what was happening and dived into the water, swimming approximately 100 yards to assist with the rescue.

As they swam toward shore, they were picked up by a passing boater. The two men then administered artificial respiration and treated the victim for shock in the boat and on the dock while waiting for the arrival of the ambulance and paramedics. As the result of their actions, the man recovered.

In the citations, Kyvik and Waldron were commended for "demonstrating remarkable initiative, exceptional fortitude and extreme daring in spite of eminent personal danger in the saving of a man's life. Their courage and devotion to duty are in keeping with the highest traditions of the United States Coast Guard."

Kyvik, a veteran of nine years in the U.S. Coast Guard, has served aboard the Mesquite since May 1983, coming to the ship from the Coast Guard Station in Holland. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kyvik of Boulder, Colo.

Waldron had reported aboard the Mesquite only a week before the incident in Manitowoc. He is a veteran of three years in the Coast Guard, coming to the ship from the U.S. Coast Guard Academy Hospital at Groton, Conn. Prior to entering the Coast Guard, he served as a U.S. Army Airborne Medic with the 82nd Airborne Division at Fort Bragg, N.C. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. John Waldron of Sheboygan, Wisc.

Council opposes ski rate increase

by DOUG TRUAX

City Council reviewed the 1985-86 budget for a second time at a working session Monday night prior to a public hearing on the budget scheduled for next Monday.

Council members had little to say about most of the $6.3 million budget, but did raise questions about proposed increases in the rates for skiing at Mt. McSauba. The budget proposed by City Manager Michael Wiesner called for increases in the daily and season passes at the city operated ski hill.

The suggested raise for family passes was from $95 per season to $140, for a single season pass from $40 to $60, and for daily rates from $3.50 to $5.

Wiesner had previously told the council the rate increases would help to put the ski operation on a break-even basis.

City resident John Sharrow was among those objecting to the rate hikes. He suggested a special rate for kids in school. "Is that going to be a rich man's place or a place for everyone?" Sharrow asked the council.

He said there was little for kids to do after school and the price increases would make skiing prohibitive for people receiving social assistance. "There's another thing the kids can't do. This is supposed to be a winter playground," Sharrow said.

Council member Shirley Roloff agreed, adding that the rate increases would make it difficult for even middle class people to afford to ski at Mt. McSauba.

Council discussed several options including leaving the rates at their present levels for residents of the school district and increasing the rates for out-of-district visitors.

Wiesner suggested the old rates be used in the budget and the issue of rate increases discussed later after some study of the issue.

IN DISCUSSING SALARIES for city workers, Roloff suggested a cap for department heads. She questioned whether they needed an annual 5 percent raise every year. "Sometimes you keep increasing (salaries) and pretty soon you can't afford people," she said.

Councilman Earl Muma also inquired about the need to charge less for water rates above 51,000 gallons usage. The rates decrease from $1.11 per gallon for 3,000 to 50,000 gallons to $.90 for 51,000 gallons and above. Muma said the rate structure does not encourage conservation.

Wiesner responded by noting that it was impossible to predict what costs will be when the new water system is on line and any change in the rate structure should wait until the city has a year's experience with the system.

IN OTHER ACTION, council reviewed a proposal from the auditing firm of Hill, Woodcock and Schroderus of Petoskey to audit the 1985-86 fiscal year books for $14,900.

Auditing in the last two fiscal years has cost the city $16,000 and $12,000, Wiesner said. This year's figure is higher, he noted, because of the growing complexity of the city's finances and the fact that last year the auditors performed work that would have exceeded the $12,000 bid figure if it had been charged at hourly rates.

The audit proposal will be brought before council at next Monday's regular meeting.

Fiddlers tune up for annual Jamboree

Rosin up the bow and get out your best pair of dancin' shoes. The old-time fiddlers are getting ready for the annual Fiddlers' Jamboree and Old-Fashioned Square Dance in East Jordan this Saturday, March 1.

The jamboree runs from 1-5 p.m. Fiddlers take a short break and the music begins again at 7 p.m. with square and round dancing that runs until 11 p.m. The events take place at the East Jordan Civic Center.

The Fiddlers' Jamboree got started in East Jordan in 1946 and has been going strong ever since under the sponsorship of the Original Michigan Fiddlers' Association (OMFA).

The rules are simple enough. Any fiddler who shows up, pro or not, is given a chance to play his or her three best or favorite tunes. Back-up musicians are welcome as well. There is no competition and no judging. Just a chance to hear and play good old-time fiddle music.

The same easy-going approach applies to the evening dances. Callers are welcome and everyone gets a chance to call a set or two.

The only place the fiddlers draw the line is with electric instruments. Only acoustic instruments are allowed.

There's even an "open mike" session for performers to "fit their tune" from 3-4 p.m. before the dancing starts.

The musicians at the jamboree range in age from those in diapers to 92-year-old Frank Matson, and a good many more in their eighties.

Fiddlers' jamborees are held throughout the state and draw big crowds at every stop. East Jordan, the organizers say, is the most popular of them all. Last year's event drew some 1,000 spectators and 20 fiddlers.

Norm Empey of Charlevoix credits the jamborees with giving new life to many old-time fiddlers. "It has brought a lot of fiddlers out of the closet and brought them out where people could hear them," he says.

He is among an enthusiastic contingent of musician$ from Charlevoix that includes Bill Stevens and his sons Dudley and Rod, Jasper and Mary Warner, and caller Lloyd Cummings.

Empey says the emphasis is on having a good time and not on competition. "There is no such thing as a bad fiddler," he says. "There's just some that plays a little better than others."

Like many fiddlers and guitar strummers, Norm picked his skills up at a young age, seated next to his father. He learned first on the ukulele and switched to the guitar

Symphonic Band takes top honors

The Charlevoix High School Symphonic Band, under the direction of Terry Isenbarger, won a straight I rating among the 18 bands entered in the District II Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association festival at Petoskey Saturday.

The band received a I rating from each of three concert judges and one sight reading judge. The band received "A"s in all nine categories from each of the four judges.

"I was pleased," Isenbarger, a man of few words, said of the band's performance.

He was also pleased by one of the comments from one of the judges who wrote "It is great to see so many parents and friends supporting your (Isenbarger's) musical efforts."

Isenbarger said the Charlevoix band was the only Class C band to receive a straight I rating. The band will now participate in the State Class C Festival scheduled for April 26 at a site to be ratified.

Judges were Kent Krive of Muskegon, Bruce Galbraith, and Byron Hanson of Interlochen, Don Dreath of Grand Rapids and Henry Nelson of East Lansing.

Band Boosters plan spaghetti dinner

The Charlevoix Band Boosters are making it easy for those who want to get to the Charlevoix-Cheboygan game early enough to be assured of a seat on Friday, Don Voisin, Band Booster president has announced.

They're sponsoring an all-you-can-eat spaghetti dinner at the Charlevoix High School cafeteria a short distance from the Ryder gym.

The dinner will be served from 5-7 p.m. giving everyone an opportunity to eat and still be in plenty of time for this all-important game, the last scheduled game of the season.

For the price of your ticket you'll receive a spaghetti dinner, garlic bread, a choice of salads, brownies for dessert and a choice of beverage...all you can eat.

Advanced tickets are $2.50 for students, $3.50 for adults and $12 for a family ticket.

This event is sponsored by the Band Boosters for the continuous support of the band program in the Charlevoix schools. Presently there is the possibility of summer marching band uniforms plus camp scholarships and music band trips, Voisin explained.

The spaghetti dinner is replacing the soup dinners held in the past for the benefit of the band program. "The soup dinners raised, $700, $850, $925 and $822 respectively for the past four dinners. I hope the people of the community will support this new venture, so we can meet the benchmark we have set for ourselves," Voisin said in soliciting the support of not only basketball fans but everyone in the community.

Tickets are available from all band students, Voisin added.

Students to perform "Fiddler on the Roof"

by FRAN MARTIN

"Fiddler on the Roof," a musical which portrays a full range of emotions, will be seen in public performance this Saturday and the following Sunday. The musical will be presented at the Charlevoix High School gymnasium Saturday March 1 at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday, March 9 at 3 p.m. by the Performing Arts Group which recently won state Class C-D honors with their interpretation of the popular show.

"Fiddler on the Roof" has been described as a play that will tug at all your emotions... It will make you laugh, it will make you cry, it romances you, it breaks your heart and long after the curtain comes down it will haunt you.

Directed by Connie Ford, players will see the full version of the musical which features such popular sons as "Tradition," "Sunrise, Sunset," "If I Were A Rich Man," and a host of others.

Area residents will have an opportunity to see Rusty Coolman as Tevye, the father; Kathleen Buday as his wife, Golde; Jeff Grooters as Motel, the tailor; Laurie Moore, Tara McLelland, Ember Spencer, Kristen McLelland and Betsy Haggard, as the lovely daughters, and Trina Wiser as Yente, the matchmaker.

Others in supporting roles will be Becca Wallace, Nick Swanson, John Gray, Marvin Witthoeft, Brian Anderson, F.L. Dammann, Bob Sell, Chuck Hastings, Mike Horton, David Salmonson, Eric Moore and Kristen Terry as the fiddler.

Jill Taylor is the pianist.

Twenty others who play the roles of the villagers are in the cast.

Members of the technical staff who have won plaudits for their roles as the support staff are the execution of costumes by Spencer, Horton and Buday; properties by Kristie Hand; set design by Anderson, Gray, Coolman and Gary Miller, lighting by Lori Gleason, Val Barnes and Jennifer Sell, and the stage crew of Shelly Swegles, Angel Foster Miller and Kari Erber.

Tickets for Saturday evenings performance and the Sunday matinee will be $2.50 for students and senior citizens and $3.50 for adults. Preschoolers are free.

Water levels stay at record levels

The Lake Michigan water level was at a record high again in January, according to the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

The January monthly mean level was 6 inches above the previous January record high which was set in 1973. January's level was 37 inches above the long-term average and about 61 inches above the all-time low January monthly mean set in 1965.

For mariners, the end of January level was 42 inches above chart datum.

The six-month forecast calls for Lakes Michigan-Huron to be above the long-term average level during the next six months. The forecast shows that at the end of February, Lakes Michigan-Huron will be about the same as what they were at the end of January. The lakes are expected to complete their seasonal decline in February.

At the end of July 1986, the lakes are expected to be 30 inches above what they were at the same time in 1965. The July mean would be above the long-term average for that month and 65 inches above the all-time high mean for July, which was set in 1974.

Clients of the Bergman Center recently presented a quilt they made to Jean and Stan Fiedorek, owners of the Paul Bunyan Lanes of Charlevoix. The quilt project, organized by staff member Carol Beal, third from right, took three weeks and the design featured Jean and Stan's names, the name of the bowling alley and a bowling ball and ten pins. The Bergmann Center clients made the gift in appreciation for their twice-a-month trips to the lanes. Jean and Stan are shown at right.

Dance Slimnastics offers new course

Spring and warmer weather are just around the corner and now is an excellent time to shape up for the seasons ahead, notes Dance Slimnastics Ltd. The nationally recognized aerobic fitness club will offer area residents the opportunity to get in shape with a new seven-week series of aerobic dance and toning exercise classes beginning soon.

The new spring session will give fitness-minded individuals the chance to work out aerobically as many times per week as desired. Each class begins with a series of calisthenic floorwork routines set to upbeat music and designed to give a concentrated workout to the waist, hips and thighs. This floorwork is followed by easy dance routines that elevate the heart rate to improve overall fitness.

An exercise band will be distributed free to each student. The bands are used to increase the toning and firming benefits of exercises.

Classes are one hour in length and feature steps that are easy to learn in a non-competitive atmosphere. Instructors are fully-trained and certified.

For additional information call evenings 547-4559 or 547-4748 in Charlevoix. In Boyne City, call 582-2529 evenings or 582-6321 mornings.

Class times and locations are:

Beginning the week of Feb. 24 at the Charlevoix Hospital Mon. and Wed. at 5 p.m. and Tues. and Thurs. at 6 p.m. Tues. and Thurs. at 4 p.m. at the Charlevoix High School.

Beginning the week of March 3 at Total Health Center, Boyne City, Mon. and Wed. at 10 a.m. (babysitting available); Mon., Wed., Fri. at 5 p.m. and Tues. and Thurs. at 4:45 p.m.

Opinion

Chamber Chatter

By Claudia Kenifeck
Executive Director

As the dust settles from the Charlevoix Township referendum vote, which left the Water's Edge land zoned R-2, residential, we all need to Stop, Look, Listen and Learn.

Doug Truax, Courier editor, explained in his editorial that the issue was not growth vs. no growth. Nor was the issue centered around support of township officials. As Truax clearly stated, the issue was whether or not Charlevoix people want to prevent excessive density and protect lakefront property with special zoning.

It was obvious by the referendum vote that the people of Charlevoix Township want to see more thought given to zoning policy. As people come to Charlevoix to escape overdeveloped areas, it is important to prevent improper management of lakefront property which will destroy the very resource which brought us here."

No Growth was never the issue. Long-Term Planning was, and continues to be, the issue.

The Charlevoix business community cannot afford to be fragmented. "Battle lines" were drawn during this controversial referendum vote. Both sides ran good campaigns, but that is now behind us. It is important for both sides to accept the results and get back to business. We all need to be working together and planning for our future.

Long-term planning is essential. As the Chamber Director, I urge you to take your ideas to the Lake Charlevoix Management Planning Advisory Committee.

Fiddlers prepare for jamboree

when his hands were big enough to cover the strings.

Jasper Warner, too, has been playing the guitar, banjo and fiddle for a good many years. He started playing commercially when he was 14 years old and he figures he hasn't missed but a few dances at the Grange in the last 50 some years.

Bill Stevens, organizer of the East Jordan jamboree, could put together a pretty fair country band with just his immediate kinfolk. His brother Clair is president of the OFMA and an avid fiddler who attends jamborees throughout the state. Son Dudley plays the fiddle and son Rod plays the fiddle, guitar, banjo and piano in addition to calling square dances.

Bill learned his music out in Phelps, south of Charlevoix, from his father Charlie who played the mouth organ and called at dances. "It's a disease," says Bill, and his wife, Donna, shouts her agreement from the next room.

But the virus is one nobody seems to mind carrying, and there will be plenty to share the affliction with Saturday when the fiddlers and pickers and toe-tappers converge on East Jordan.

And when the Saturday music is done there'll be fine more chance for the diehard fans on Sunday morning as many of the musicians gather for the breakfast at the American Legion hall in Charlevoix.

It's a sure bet that the instruments will come out of their cases and there'll be a little more music played to go along with the pancakes and coffee.

City projects threatened

provements in the district.

The Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority is scheduled to present its plan for the Bridge Street business district within the near future. The plan was originally estimated to cost $700,000 which would be spread over 20 years with the option to extend the repayment to 30 years. No debt estimates are yet available on the revised downtown plan.

The development plan will focus on expanded parking for the business district. Other improvements are likely to include a new dockmaster's facility and restrooms, improvements to East Park, sidewalk improvements and curb realignments to get better parking.

A Tax Increment Financing Authority has been set up in the Ferry Avenue area to provide the city's share of the purchase of the Ferry Beach annex, the construction and possible realignment of Ferry Avenue along the old railroad grade, parking for beach users, recreational facilities, a fish cleaning station, and water line improvements.

Wurster said the city is still gathering facts on the status of the DDA and TIFA statutes. A delegation of city councilmen, including Robert Timms, Ray Wood, and Earl Munns, attended the Michigan Municipal League legislative conference in Lansing Tuesday and planned to discuss the future of the development laws with state lawmakers. TIFA financing was also on the agenda for the Municipal League.

Letters to the Editor:

Township leaders are out of touch

First of all, congratulations to the editor for having the courage to take a stand on the recent referendum on Water's Edge. Such displays of objective journalism have been few and far between in the past history of the Courier.

Concerning the vote, I, for one, have maintained for many years that, unfortunately, most of the Charlevoix Township Board and its leadership have been out of touch with or have not represented the true majority of its residents. Time and again, too much credibility has been given outside sources interested in short-term financial gain, rather than long-term controlled planning and effective utilization and preservation of our natural resources.

That is what this referendum was really about ... immediate gratification vs. future guarantees of rights to equal environment and life styles. My regret is that so many sided for the former rather than the latter.

I hope the message to the Board will be loud and clear, otherwise the lesson to be learned will be many more referendums since obviously the township citizens cannot depend on their elected officials to represent their majority interests. And, while the monied interests from below vow to appeal, fortunately there are also those who will aid in defense of the true desires of the electorate.

Let it not be said that Charlevoix Township voters are unresponsive or ignorant to the economic need and development to stabilize and foster residential or industrial growth. This area has long suffered from lack of that base. Indeed, thankfully previous enlightened administrations have carefully planned and provided for such development. As a result, many parcels are available for such industrial and multi-family development. Arbitrarily rezoning land to fit the whims of individuals is the rub.

The Charlevoix Township Board, this is a plea to listen, not necessarily to the loudest or the oldest, but also to those whose opinion may differ, for they in fact may represent the real majority.

Obligation to speak out

Dear Editor:

I wish to commend your newspaper, and you, as editor, for the fine job you have done in reporting on the recent referendum issue in Charlevoix Township.

In the aftermath of the voting, I have heard two comments from the pro position which perhaps frightens me more than the magnitude of the proposed project.

One was to the effect that the opposition should have bought the newspaper in order to control the written comment.

The other was that your paper only published the letters supporting the "no" vote. I know through previous conversation with you that the letters were running four to one against the development. I also know that the Courier published every letter it received relative to this project.

It is human nature to be critical of that which has gone against us and it is perhaps in that frame of mind that these comments were made. It is however our birthright and obligation to speak out in matters which affect our lives and that of future generations.

The voters of Charlevoix Township have recognized that the long-term detrimental effects of overdevelopment are not worth the short-term gains to developers. It is now up to us to work with our elected officials in establishing strong uniform lakefront zoning to protect the quality of our environment for today as well as for future generations.

Sincerely,
Clifford D. Biddick

McRae Fund prospers

Dear Editor:

Dorothy McRae, longtime Charlevoix resident, passed away in December 1985. Mrs. McRae was a member of the Charlevoix United Methodist Church and was very active in its programs.

Before her death, she and her husband Ralph set up a trust fund and among the recipients of the Trust was the Charlevoix United Methodist Church. With this trust fund she was able to be sure that her dedication and work with children would continue. In November, 1985, the Church received $3,432.14 in cash and real estate valued at $29,500.

It is indeed encouraging to know that people such as Dorothy want to further the work of Christ and His Church in such a significant way.

Clockwise

The Siljan Ring

By Bob Clock

This is the time of year when a certain group of Charlevoixans have only one thing in mind: Next summer's garden.

Statistics aren't available, but I'm willing to bet that seed catalogs would be on somebody's "best seller" list for February and March — if they sold them rather than handing them out free.

Actually, a green thumb can be very painful when snow still lies deep in the fields and nighttime temperatures plunge to zero or below.

Two weeks ago I went to the fruit cellar to get some potatoes for dinner. One little fellow was too small to peel, but had already started to sprout. Furthermore, I thought I heard him crying.

So I took him upstairs and stuck him in a flower pot. The first leaves are already starting to form and I should have a little summer greenery long before the ground is ready to work.

I know, I'm rushing the season, but I'm beyond help.

DESPITE THE PRESENT oil glut, respected scientists still insist the world's known petroleum reserves will last only 80 years — at the very outside. They also claim that the cost of discovering new oil will soon outstrip the value of the product itself and exploration will halt.

However, a maverick but highly respected scientist named Thomas Gold of Cornell University believes that speculation about the eventual depletion of Earth's oil reserves is a lot of hogwash. Based on presence of hydrocarbons in meteorites, an alien environment for plant and animal life, Gold believes hydrocarbons in the form of oil or gas (methane) are part of the Earth's original materials and that their supply is virtually inexhaustible.

Gold's theory, which is discussed in detail in the February issue of The Atlantic, would not only would doom the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Nations (OPEC), but would eliminate the necessity of building additional nuclear power plants and coal gasification plants.

"The air would become clearer," writes author David Osborne, "since methane is our cleanest fuel. Acid rain would abate. And the greenhouse effect — a buildup of carbon dioxide thought to be warming the planet to dangerous levels — would be slowed, for methane, when burned, releases much less carbon than oil or coal does. In short, Gold's theory promises a modern miracle."

Osborne says drilling through three miles of granite in northern Sweden will begin this summer to test Gold's theory. Known as the Siljan Ring, the area was the site of a giant meteorite crash 360 million years ago. The granite shield-is solid that no sediments — believed for years to be the source of hydrocarbons — could be beneath it.

If Sweden finds oil or gas under the Siljan Ring, it could mean the world's energy problems are nearing an end, because deep drilling in other areas of the world probably would tap the same reserves.

Keep tuned. You'll probably be hearing a lot about the Siljan Ring in the months ahead.

Beacons of Blessing

A devotional column prepared by the Charlevoix Ministerial Association

By Rev. Bruce Hamilton
Community Church of God

In speaking of the bravery of the space shuttle Challenger's crew, President Reagan spoke of the frontiers of space and said exploring it would continue. But frontiers are really nothing new to us. We have been faced with the challenges of new places, goals and ideas for generations and lived up to them, even thrived on them.

There is a frontier very close to you that I would urge you to explore. It does not require a college degree or specialized knowledge to set out on the journey that it offers. All that is needed is an open heart and a trusting spirit. The frontier I'm speaking of is the frontier of faith. Paul offers some powerful incentives in Romans 8:35-39 for each of us to follow the challenges of the life of faith.

"I consider that our present sufferings are not worth comparing with the glory that will be revealed in us." No one has ever suggested that life was easy. We can't avoid the trials that come our way. Our hope and confidence lays not in the immediate circumstances that surround us but in the future we have with God. Paul says the key to breaking with discouragements we face is having faith, in really trusting in God to see us through.

"And we know that in all things God works for the good of those who love him, who have been called according to his purpose." This is not a justification of why it seems like bad things sometimes overtake good people. It is a reminder that steel must be tempered before it is strong. Gold must be refined by fire before it is pure. Being Christian does not free us from the ups and downs of life. Having faith in God assures us we can overcome them.

"If God is for us, who can be against us?" Never forget that God in your heart, you are the majority. God did not stop at giving us his son to take away our sins. He continues to open the doors of opportunity for deeper commitment and greater growth. Paul is saying that the battles you face have already been won. Have faith!

My challenge to you, dear reader, is to take God at his word and explore the frontier of faith because "in all these things we are more than conquerors through him that loved us."

Engagements

Cynthia Murphy and Brian Farrell

Murphy-Farrell

The engagement of Cynthia Grace Murphy of East Jordan to Brian Lyle Farrell of Charlevoix has been announced by the bride-elect's parents, Mrs. Betty Lou Murphy and Ervin Murphy, of East Jordan.

Parents of the prospective bridegroom are Chester and Shirley Farrell of Charlevoix.

The bride-elect is employed at Alfred Bentley Counties Inc. of Boyne City and the Jordan Inn Restaurant in East Jordan. Her fiance is a graduate of Kirtland Community College and is self-employed with Brian Farrell Painting and Drywall.

The wedding will be an event of June 14 at the Eastport Baptist Church.

Kelly Healey and Robert Jones

Healey-Jones

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Healey Sr. of East Jordan, announce the engagement of their daughter Kelly Marie Healey to Robert Ford Jones. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Jones of Charlevoix. A July 19 wedding is planned.

The bride-elect is a 1984 graduate of East Jordan High School and is a receptionist at East Jordan Iron Works.

Couple celebrates 50th with sleigh ride

When John and Mary Tjapkes of Charlevoix celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary, they wanted no part of a fancy, formal celebration. No open house with tuxedos, champagne and caviar...no golden candelabras.

Some years ago, the Tjapkes say, they left the busy life to rejoin nature in rural Charlevoix. And, that's where they wanted the celebration to be.

Forced by ill health to an early retirement from a successful grocery business in Muskegon, John hoped to return to the area of his childhood. The Ellsworth native eventually found a small parcel of land on Grand Traverse Bay near Norwood, where, he built a rustic summer home called Gullcrest. No nicer spot for retirement could be found for those who love rural northern Michigan," Tjapkes remarked.

When February 1, 1986, approached, John and Mary invited immediate family and friends to northern Michigan for an old fashioned sleigh ride. Local farmer Archie Potter, of Phelps Road, was chosen to handle the arrangements on that cold, winter Saturday afternoon. Potter's fine team of Belgians pulled the sleigh on a special trail through the farm. The scene picture was taken on the scenic trail.

"It was a day to remember for all," the Tjapkes said.

DNR seeks nominations for land trust purchases

The Michigan Natural Resources Trust Fund Board has begun its annual search for recreational lands to purchase with funds earmarked from the sale of oil, gas and mineral leases and royalties on gas and oil wells located on state-owned property.

"We are looking for land suitable for management by the state or local units of government that would provide additional recreation for Michigan citizens," says Rodney Stokes, Department of Natural Resources Executive Secretary to Natural Resources Trust Fund Board. "We're also interested in acquiring land to protect because of its environmental importance or scenic beauty."

Also, 1986 marks the first time the Board will be considering proposals for the development of public outdoor recreation facilities. Up to 25 percent of the available Trust Fund dollars can be used for development of outdoor recreation facilities.

Anyone can nominate lands for acquisition consideration. However, development proposals may only be nominated by units of government. Individuals or communities interested in nominating lands for acquisition and/or development purposes may obtain guidelines and necessary forms from the Recreation Services Division in the Department of Natural Resources. April 1 is the deadline for submitting nominations.

Acquisition and development of lands nominated this spring should begin during the fall of 1987. The board will evaluate all public proposals and submit a recommended priority list to the Legislature next January.

Contact the Recreation Services Division, 517-373-1660, Department of Natural Resources, P.O. Box 30028, Lansing, Michigan 48909, for further information.

Tourism good in 1985

Michigan's tourism revenues increased 7 percent to a record $12.6 billion in 1985 due to the state's economy's continued upswing, stronger travel promotion and more out-of-state visitors, according to AAA Michigan.

"This is the third straight year tourism revenues rose in the state," stated AAA Travel Services Director Peter R. Erickson. "There was a 7.1 percent rise in tourism revenues over the 1984 total of $11.4 billion, but when inflation is factored in, the actual growth was 4 percent."

Total state tax revenues resulting from tourism last year also hit a record $582 million, surpassing the $525 million collected in 1984 and $488 million in 1983.

"Last year's revenue increase occurred despite greatly reduced air fares, especially to other U.S. cities, bargains in charter trips and the strength of the U. S. dollar overseas," Erickson said. "While many Michiganians took advantage of long-distance vacation bargains, they also traveled more within the state."

The Michigan Department of Transportation reports a record 58.4 billion miles were traveled in the state in 1985 compared to the previous high of 57.4 billion in 1978.

Erickson said a major reason for the increased tourism was the Michigan Travel Bureau's strengthened advertising budget, which increased from $2.6 million in 1983 to $3.6 million last year. The additional promotion helped encourage more travelers to vacation in Michigan, especially those from other states, he pointed out.

West Michigan Tourist Association said business was about 4 percent ahead of 1984.

The average trip in Michigan lasted 4½ days, according to the National Travel Data Center. The average expenditure was $351 per person, per trip, up 4.5 percent over 1984.

Rayders set for title showdown with Chiefs

The Charlevoix Rayders crushed two opponents this week and then got the help they needed from Gaylord to set up a confrontation with Cheboygan Friday to determine the league championship.

The Rayders rolled past East Jordan on Tuesday and came away with a decisive 72-49 victory. They were equally impressive Friday as they took apart Grayling by an 89-46 score.

But the real excitement came from Gaylord where the Blue Devils handed league-leading Cheboygan a 63-61 defeat, giving Charlevoix a chance to share the league championship if it beats Cheboygan Friday on the Rayder's home court. Charlevoix has won or shared the league title for the past four years.

"We are in an excellent position and in the mood to go into Friday's game," said coach Dave Smith of the pending clash with Cheboygan. The Rayders are now 14-5 on the year, 10-3 in the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference.

Against Grayling, the Rayders had 10 players in the scoring act and led the Vikings (2-16) at the quarters 18-10, 39-24 and 61-35. The winners hit 29 field goals, 22 of 37 free throws and picked up 19 fouls while Grayling had 19 field goals, eight of 23 from the line and 25 personals.

Jody Putman led the Rayders with 19 points Sean Ferguson had 18 and Jim Gibbs 11. Todd Klingler hit 12 to lead Grayling in scoring.

"The kids played a good game," Smith said. "Putman played extremely well. Ferguson and Packy LaBlance did a nice job."

A STRONG third quarter got Charlevoix over the hump Tuesday night in a neighborhood battle with East Jordan.

The Rayders used a 21-7 scoring spree in the quarter to break open a fairly tight game and go on to a 72-49 decision.

"We played very well, said coach Smith. "It seems the more patience we have the better we play."

Charlevoix broke to a strong 17-9 lead in the first period, but the Red Devils, playing their best ball of the night, cut the deficit to 35-29 at the half.

"We played good defense but let down a little in the second quarter," Smith said.

Then came the big third period and from there on the Rayders were in command. Ferguson led the Rayders with 18 points, Putman finished with 17 and Ciuk had 16. For East Jordan, Mike Goebel had 18 and Greg Kitson chipped in 15.

Girls take third in state ski finals, boys finish fifth

The Charlevoix Rayder girls ski team finished third and the boys team fifth in the state high school ski meet held Monday at Nubs Nob at Harbor Springs.

Medals were awarded to the top 20 skiers in both the slalom and the giant slalom. Both Lauren Pace and Noni Pace were dual winners with Lauren taking a fifth in the slalom and a tenth in the giant slalom and Noni a ninth in each of the events. Sue Miller was the third medal winner for the girls, taking an eighth in the slalom.

Wes Cumberland, a freshman, captured a sixth place in the giant slalom for the boys.

Traverse City swept the meet with boys team taking the title with 71 points and the girls with 62.

Kingsford was second with 95 followed by Houghton with 156, Petoskey 186 and Charlevoix 195 among the 10 teams in the meet.

In the girls' meet, Cadillac was second, with 95 points nosing out Charlevoix which finished third with 97 followed by Harbor Springs with 144 and Brighton with 211.

The results of the boys' meet follow: Cumberland, 18th in the slalom and sixth in the giant slalom; Jason Brindel, 36th in the slalom and 12th in the GS; Matt Lignell, 25th in both events; Marvin Witthoeft, 42nd in the slalom; Karl Erber, 31st and Brian Wilmot, 33rd in the GS.

In the girls' meet, Lauren Pace was fifth in the slalom and 10th in the GS; Noni Pace, ninth in both events; Miller, eighth in the slalom and 18th in the GS; Allison Hall, 19th in the slalom and 20th in the GS; Wendy Voisin, 19th in the slalom and 22nd in the GS; and Carla Hoffman, 58th in the GS.

"We had an excellent season. Monday, however, was not our day though the kids tried," Coach Erik Lundteigen said. There was a lot of good competition. It was a great experience for them. It was the first time both teams qualified for state."

Lundteigen said he and the teams appreciated all the fine support they received from everyone.

Both the boys and girls team finished first in the regionals and the boys came in first to claim the Michigan-Huron Shores title and the girls team placed second behind Harbor Springs.

Seniors on the boys team are Lignell, Brindel, Wilmot and Jim Morgridge; on the girls team they are Noni Pace and Sue Miller.

Wrestlers compete in regional

The Charlevoix Rayder wrestlers finished their season in the 20 teams entered in the Class C Regional meet in Bloomfield Saturday. Hart took the title.

The Rayders had qualified two members, Dan Kelly, a senior entered in the 155-pound weight class, and Bill Marquardt, a junior heavyweight for for regional competition.

Both failed to qualify for state competition.

Kelly, who finished his career with a 35-20 record, is a three-year letter winner. He has always been a good wrestler, Coach Greg Bryan said.

He wrestled well at the regional, losing two and winning one, Bryan said. He lost to Kevin Outman of Lakeview on a pin in 4:36 leading by a point at the time. Outman was a finalist.

He then defeated Andy Stout of Tri-County on a pin in 3:56. He then lost to Burt Larson of Mason County Central on a 3:50 pin.

Bryan said Kelly wrestled well enough to win all his matches but a couple of errors cost him the chance to qualify for state. The competition downstate is so superior, Bryan said, that Kelly would have had to wrestle perfectly in order to win. Kelly was a team captain.

Marquardt wrestled the best he has all season but not quite good enough to qualify Bryan said. He finished the season with an 18-15 record and has shown much improvement.

His first loss was to Bob Taylor of Hart, a finalist. In a close match and trailing by only one point, he attempted a risky takedown that failed and he lost by a pin in 5:44. He then lost in a similar way to Brian Wollger of Scottville in a pin in 3:40.

Frosh beat Red Devils

The Charlevoix Rayder freshmen brought their record for the season to 10-4 Thursday with a 54-39 win over East Jordan on the Rayder floor.

The young Rayders led the visitors 14-12 at the quarter, 29-23 at the half and 43-33 going into the final period when East Jordan outscored the Rayders 16-11 to trim the winning margin to five points.

Shawn Putman came through the 23 points and Bob Jess 13 for the Rayders. Matt Bishop had 17 and Dan Pepin 16 for the Red Devils.

The young Rayders closed out their season Monday when they hosted Cheboygan.

District tournament pairings announced

The Charlevoix Rayders will meet East Jordan in the opening game of the Class C district tournament scheduled to open at the Charlevoix gymnasium at 7 p.m. Tuesday.

Boyne City drew a first round bye and will meet the winner of the Charlevoix-East Jordan game at 7 p.m. Thursday, March 6.

The winner of the Thursday game will travel to Gaylord for the district finals at 1:30 p.m. Saturday, March 8. The opponent will be the winner of the Lincoln-Alcona division of the tourney - Rogers City, Onaway or Lincoln Alcona.

Tickets for the opening game on Tuesday will go on sale Monday in the lobby of the high school gymnasium at the May St. entrance.

The following schedule for ticket sales will remain in effect as long as Charlevoix is in the tournament:

From 7:30-9:30 a.m. season ticket holders may purchase one ticket per person.

From 10 a.m. until 12:30 p.m. there will be general student ticket sales (non-season ticket holders and school personnel at one ticket per person.

From 1-3 p.m. tickets will be sold to Charlevoix school district residents - two tickets per person maximum (this will include senior citizens and complimentary ticket holders).

From 3-4 p.m. the remaining tickets will be sold to "out of district" residents at two tickets per person.

Tickets for season ticket holders will be held until 3 p.m. the day of the sale and if not picked up by that time, will be released to general public sales.

All tickets, students and adults alike, will be $2.

Class C regional tournament will be held at Gaylord the week of March 10-15.

Plagge and Way reign at homecoming

The coronation of Tim Plagge and Stacy Way as 1986 winter homecoming king and queen climaxed the homecoming activities at the Charlevoix High School Friday night.

The pair received their crowns from Jim Kenney and Jennifer Joy, 1985 king and queen.

Tim is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Merle O. Plagge and Stacy the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chrwsin Way. Both are seniors.

Members of their court were Tara Mollenhaur, Jenni Scalley, Kris Hintz, Shannon Thiewetz, Patrick LaBlanc, John Linder, Joe Hayes and Jim Morgridge.

Netters win three

The Charlevoix Rayder volleyball team posted dual victories last week, including a 3-2 win over St. Ignace which gave the team a tie for third place with a 3-3 record in the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference. They also beat East Jordan 3-1 in non-league play.

In the games at St. Ignace, Charlevoix dropped the first round 11-15, won the second 15-9, lost the third 12-15 before fighting back to take the last two 15-8 and 15-11.

Lara Stargardt was the top server and setter and Rhonda Brown the spiker.

Coach Brenda Bryan was pleased with the outcome. "They really played their hearts out. It was the best they've played all season."

The JVs also played a good game, Bryan said, though they lost 2-1 by scores of 15-11, 10-15 and 6-15.

Shelly Crain was top server, setter and spiker for the game.

In the game at East Jordan the following night, the Rayderettes won three of four games by scores of 15-8, 7-15, 15-4 and 15-3.

Jennifer Sell was the top server and setter and Brown the spiker.

East Jordan took the JV series, winning two of three matches 15-2, 11-13 and 15-7.

Marci Wynkoop was the top server and setter and Crain the spiker.

The Varsity will go into the Class C district tournament at Elk Rapids on Saturday.

The Charlevoix Rayder volleyball team defeated Central Lake 3-0 in a non-league meet held here Monday.

The varsity won by scores of 15-12, 15-3 and 15-1. Lara Stargardt was the top server, Stargardt and Stacy Way the top setters and Rhonda Brown, the leading spiker, coach Brenda Bryan reported.

In the JV game, Charlevoix won by scores of 15-12 and 15-4. Michelle Seibert and Trina Wiser were the servers, Carla Henry the setter and Barb McClanaghan the spiker.

After completing its regular schedule this week, the varsity team will go into the Class C district tournament at Elk Rapids Saturday, March 1.

JVs win with ease

The Charlevoix Rayder JVs romped to an 84-50 win over the young Grayling Vikings in a game played here Friday night.

The Rayders were in control all the way as they led 15-11, 40-30, and 66-34 at the quarters behind the scoring of Roger Smith with 23 points, Chad DeVries with 20 and Scott DeYoung with 16.

John Kinnee had 10 for Grayling.

The Rayders scored 36 field goals and 12 of 22 from the line while attracting 16 personal fouls. Grayling had 20 from the floor, 10 of 18 free throws and 17 personal fouls.

The JVs posted a 70-40 win over the visiting East Jordan quintet Tuesday night.

The outcome was never in doubt as the young Rayders forged to a 21-6 first period lead, made it 35-21 at halftime and 54-31 going into the final period as all 12 players saw action.

Charlevoix had 29 field goals to the Red Devils' 21 and had 12 of 15 from the free throw line. They had 11 personal fouls. The Jordanites had 12 personal fouls and 10 of 14 from the line.

Jeff Skeel had 10 points as all 12 players scored. M. Moore had 14 points and Keith Harchis 10 for the visitors.

The Charlevoix JVs will close out their season against Chegoygan Friday.

Lindberg builds league lead

In B league action in the Charlevoix Independent Basketball League last week, Paul Lindberg, Inc., continued to pace the league with a 75-56 win over The Clothing Company and First State Bank won over Wojan Aluminum 60-41.

Dave Norton scored 22 points, Larry Brock 19, Mike Crain 12 and Stan Martin 11 for the Lindberg quintet as they led the Clothiers 22-8, 36-20 and 56-37 by quarters.

Gordon Block had 18 points, Rod Robertson 16 and Dave Cole 12 for the Clothing Company.

First State Bank held a 10-6 first period lead over Wojan Aluminum which they increased to 29-14 at the half and 46-27 going into the final period.

Bob Sandahl had 18 points and Rod Stevens and Dennis Dominic 14 points each for the victors. Darrell VanLoo had 16 and Charles Carver 10 points for Wojan.

Ot Wednesday Nanny's will meet Lindberg and Wojan will take on the Clothing Company in games scheduled for 6:30 and 7:45 p.m., respectively.

Boy Scout Troop 11 banquet observes 76th year of Scouting

by FRAN MARTIN

Charlevoix Boy Scout Troop 11 observed the 76th anniversary of scouting in America at the 21st annual Boy Scout banquet hosted by the sponsoring organization, the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club, at the Charlevoix High School Cafeteria, Wednesday.

The troop is headed by Louis Edwards who is in his 28th year as scoutmaster of the troop. James Smith is assistant scoutmaster.

The highlight of the program which followed the dinner was the Court of Honor at which advancements were awarded. Tim Salmonson was awarded the Life Rank by Gerald Chase. Harold Chase was given the Life Rank by Brian Granger, northern district executive. The Star Rank was awarded to Jason Wiser by John Rathjens; to David Salmonson by his father, Terry; and to William Burns by Dr. Beverly Zelt of the Northern District Committee.

Other awards were First Class Rank presented to Mike Ochs, James Gaskin and Gehry Wiesner by Rathjens; Second Class Rank to Matt Seamon, Steve Kniat and Gregg Seaman by Chase; Tenderfoot to Matt Seaman and Steve Kniat by John Ochs; and Scout Rank to Paul Sheets, Jason Borths, Gary Arnold and Eddie Reeser by Edwards and Smith.

At the dinner special recognition was given to the Oleson Food Store for its continued support of Scouting and Troop 11 for the 20 years the store has operated in the community. A plaque in recognition of this support was presented by Scoutmaster Edwards to Debbie Jess of the Oleson sales staff who represented the company at the banquet.

The fourth annual Pete Burns Award, given to the Scout who personifies the ideals of Scouting, was presented to Steve Kniat, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kniat by Bill Burns, grandson of veteran Scouter in his memory the award was established.

Scoutmaster Edwards and Smith presented year awards to Jason Wiser for one year; Brian Phillips, two years; Steve Hopkins, three years; Tim Salmonson, four years; and Smith, five and six years. The scoutmaster also presented perfect attendance pins and Edwards and Smith presented badges of office.

The Honor Unit Award was presented to Scoutmaster Edwards who accepted it from Granger on behalf of the troop.

Merit badges were presented to members of the troop by David Phillips, Chase and Smith; Polar Bear awards were presented by John Ochs and Skill Awards by Bill Burns.

As part of the program, Harold Chase and James Gaskin, who had attended the National Scout Jamboree last summer, related their experiences.

Brian Phillips spoke briefly on the Scouting program and what it means. Terry Salmonson of the Scout Committee welcomed the guests; Chase, senior patrol leader, gave the invocation and benediction and the color guard of John Rathjens, Jerry Thayer, Matt Seaman, Steve Kniat and Gregg Seaman lead by David Salmonson, advanced the colors and led the Pledge of Allegiance.

The Scout committee members are: David Novotny, Gunnar Lundteigen, Melvin Thayer, Chase, Salmonson, Charles Bergmann, Robert Rajewski, Ochs, Scoutmaster Edwards and James Smith, assistant scoutmaster.

The banquet was made possible through the efforts of the Oleson Food Store and the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club.

A Court of Honor at which Scouts were presented with Life and Star Ranks was a feature of the Boy Scout banquet.

Water's Edge developer resubmits condo plan

by DOUG TRUAX

Less than a week after voters in a Charlevoix Township referendum rejected R-4 zoning for condominiums at Water's Edge, the property's owners and developer have resubmitted a request for the township to rezone the property to R-4.

If that request is turned down, they have asked that the property be rezoned to Planned Unit Development (PUD).

The 41.6 acres at Water's Edge were rezoned from single family (R-2) to multifamily (R-4) by the Charlevoix Township Board on August 12, 1985. The rezoning was overturned in a referendum on Feb. 17 by a 261-187 vote.

Opponents of the condominium rezoning were upset by the news that the developer was resubmitting the plan. "People are madder than hell," said Marcia Trimper, a leader of ALERT, the group which spearheaded the referendum vote.

"The voters are telling the township board that they want lakefront zoning. I think they want some changes made. We talked about reduced zoning through lakefront zoning and I don't mean 168," Trimper said.

"If they (the developers) had won the vote, they would have said it was a vote of confidence," Trimper added. "Ed Oelschlaeger (president of First Centrum Corp., proposed developer of the property) also said he was going to abide by a vote of the people. Obviously they had no intention of abiding by a vote of the people."

The recent request for the rezoning was submitted by Ferguson and Chamberlain Associates, Inc., a Charlevoix land surveying firm. Sherman Chamberlain Jr., a partner in the firm, said the new plan would be similar to the previous site plan for Water's Edge. Under PUD zoning, he added, there would be a maximum of four units per acre or 162 units for the entire parcel. They (Water's Edge) would prefer it R-4 because of the fact it's going to be residential in nature," Chamberlain said. The heaviest commercial use of the property might be the addition of a boat shop, he added.

Planned Unit Development zoning allows for a mix of condominiums, single family residences, and commercial enterprises. Unlike R-4 zoning, PUDs require an environmental impact statement and a detailed site plan at the time of application for the zoning.

Chamberlain said the developer analyzed the township's no vote on the referendum issue. "The main reason for the defeat," he said, "is that a lot of people on the north side of the township believed that if this passed, North Point would be rezoned to Planned Residential (R-4).

"We also had people voting no because they didn't like what was happening in downtown Charlevoix," Chamberlain said. "It was not necessarily a vote of yes or no on Water's Edge but on condos generally."

He said that up to a week before the election the pro-Water's Edge forces held a 25-30 vote lead. "Then they the opposition) went to emotionalism, including that disgusting ad from WATCH."

The only way to combat the emotionalism, Chamberlain said, was to "get down on the gutter, and I don't need to do that."

He said the proposal offered by Jerry Publ of the Township Zoning Board for one unit per 25 feet of lake frontage was "totally Council wants another look at next year's city budget

by DOUG TRUAX

Concerned with some of the costs in the $6.3 million 1986-87 city budget, City Council voted Monday to return the budget discussion to a work session next week for further review.

"We are going to have to decide what is the limit people can goin this town. We have to establish priorities," council member Shirley Roloff said.

Roloff and several other councilmen raised questions about expenses for the Downtown Development Authority. The issue was raised in part because of a proposed DDA grant application for improvements in East Park was also on the evening's agenda.

The grant application was for $365,625 from the federal Land and Water Conservation Fund for boaters' restrooms, harbormaster's quarters, a roof for the bandshell and other improvements in the area. Matching money would be provided by the DDA through tax increment financing if the grant were accepted.

Councilman Norm Probert said he objected to spending matching funds on the East Park area. Parking, he said, should be the primary concern of the DDA.

Councilman Earl Mumu concurred. "I'm for putting the DDA back on parking," Mumu said. "I'm willing to make a resolution on it tonight. I think they (DDA) are getting a little up in the air too high."

The total budget proposed by City Manager Michael Wiesner is $6,318,206 compared to last year's $5,250,445 figure. Most of the increase in the budget, Wiesner has said, is due to three major new projects: the Industrial Park, the public safety building, and the Ferry Beach acquisition.

Without those three items, the budget is 1.3 percent over the current year's total.

Wiesner said the grant application was included because of an impending deadline, although he had reservations about, including it because council had not yet seen or approved the DDA plan for downtown Charlevoix.

Council was under no obligation to accept the money and if it were granted would have five years to spend it, Wiesner added.

Also included on the agenda was a resolution to apply for $418,750 grant for park improvements at Ferry Beach.

Claudia Kenfield, executive director of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, urged the council to apply for the East Park grant. "It makes good sense to apply for the grant. If you don't get it, you don't get it," she said. "It doesn't seem as though the DDA has done a good job of communicating with you as a council," she added.

Council agreed unanimously to return the budget discussion to a work session. They then split 3-3 on whether to approve the East Park grant application – defeating the proposal.

Roloff, Probert and Mumu voted against the grant; Robert Timms, William Bellows and Pat Wood voted for it.

Council then unanimously approved the resolution to apply to the Land and Water Conservation Fund for the money to make improvements at Ferry Beach including a possible relocation of the road, a fish cleaning station and parking lot expansion.

Council also approved the issuance of $850,000 in general obligation bonds to finance the public safety building, expansion of the water treatment plant and partial construction of the Industrial Park.

Wiesner said the sale of the bonds was expected in four to six weeks.

Final plans for the public safety building were reviewed by council. Probert raised objections to the width of the fire truck bays, noting that the space between the doors could be cut down saving eight feet in the overall width of the building.

Fire Chief John Martin said various fire departments had been studied and the 13-foot bays were standard. Sixteen-foot bays would not allow enough room to work on the trucks, he said.

"That doesn't hold water," Timms replied. "I think 16 feet is plenty. I think this thing is overblown tremendously." He said a smaller building would give more parking at the end of the building and would cost less to heat.

Several volunteer firemen argued for the wider bays. "Building eight feet now is going to cost a lot less now than a few years down the line," one said.

Timms also listed a variety of other concerns with the design. He

School Board sets election date

by FRAN MARTIN

The Charlevoix Board of Education approved an election in the Charlevoix School District for Monday, June 9, to elect two trustees to the board and to vote on any other issue that might be on the ballot at that time.

A salary scale for assistant coaches was also adopted. Based on the current bachelor's degree track, an assistant ski coach would receive compensation amounting to 4.6 percent of the base scale, an assistant track coach 5.5 percent and assistant baseball and softball coaches 5.3 percent. Assistant coaches will be engaged only when the number of candidates for a given sport warrant one.

A resolution relating to routing and scheduling of the school's buses was adopted by a 6-1 vote with Ron Moore casting the no vote. Under the policy, students will be picked up and returned to the same addressor, if they are to be taken to a sitter, the student must travel on his regular route. Any arrangements for students to be taken places other than their homes must be made prior to the opening of school in September.

Supt. Gordon W. VanWieren presented enrollment projections, noting that enrollment in the K-5 and middle school was leveling off but that the next four to five years will see steady decline at the high school level. He advised that teachers prepare themselves for this change.

A resolution was passed proclaiming March 4 as Teacher Appreciation and School Family Day. Another resolution proclaiming the month of March as "Reading Month" and a third commending the teachers for their efforts to improve the reading program in the school was also adopted.

The board heard from a delegation of some 40 parents and interested persons who addressed the problem of alcohol in the community and especially at school-related events. For the most part these present agreed that it was a community problem as compared to a school problem and offered their assistance in an effort to solve the problem. It was agreed that a committee of parents, interested persons, school personnel and students would be organized to seek a solution.

In other action:

- The board granted tenure to Dorothy Miller, kindergarten teacher.

- Granted permission to Terry Isenberger to take the 73-piece symphonic band to the MSBOA festival April 26 and 27.

- Heard plans for the annual third-grade trip to Beaver Island in May presented by Jan Raecke. Other third grade teachers made a slide presentation of past trips.

The next meeting of the board is scheduled for March 17.

World Day of Prayer planned Friday

The Community Reformed Church will host the annual World Day of Prayer on Friday, March 7.

The service, in which 18 local churches will be represented, is scheduled for 1 p.m. at the church located at Meech Street and Petoskey Avenue on the city's north side. Piano scholarship auditions scheduled

It was 10 years ago that Charlotte Ross Lee began a piano scholarship program in honor of her musician husband, the late Carroll Lee who died in 1976. This year, Charlotte Ross Lee is planning a special celebration honoring all past scholarship winners.

The scholarship program allows an eligible student from the Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet, Otsego, Presque Isle, Cheboygan, Chippewa and Mackinac counties, to study piano with a faculty member at the Bay View Conservatory of Music during the summer months.

Auditions will be held 7 p.m. Monday, June 16, in the Ruth Crist Hall on the Bay View campus, and the special reception for past winners will be held immediately after.

Piano students are encouraged to enter the contest, which is judged by professional keyboard instructors each year.

Applicants must be between the ages of 12 and 15 and must not have reached their 16th birthday by June 16, 1986. Deadline for submitting applications is May 22. Applications forms are available by writing Dr. Will Nichols, P.O. Box 122, Alma, Mi. 48801. For further information, please Charlotte Ross Lee, 1-616-347-9686. Leave your name and phone number.

Paper workshop at McCune

Handmade paper will be the subject of a lecture, demonstration, and hands-on workshop at the Virginia McCune Community Arts Center in Petoskey at 11 a.m. Saturday, March 8.

The workshop is the third in a series of "Lunch With Art" programs, offering the culinary artistry of Chef Richard Kent of Nutta's Place and the opportunity to explore a variety of fine art and craft media.

Reservations are required for "Lunch With Art," and may be phoned in to the McCune Arts Center at 347-4337, no later than Thursday, March 6.

Oil drilling is opposed

In a Washington, D.C. ceremony, Gov. Blanchard recently signed a "Statement of Principle Against Oil Drilling in the Great Lakes" with the Governors of the seven other Great Lakes states. This Statement pledges each of the Chief Executives to keep oil drilling off the Great Lakes. Gov. Blanchard's efforts to obtain the agreement with the other Governors followed seismic work which gathered information on oil deposits under the Great Lakes this summer.

Growth Alliance seeks $50M Small Cities Grant for area

Charlevoix County, named as the applicant agency at the organizational meeting of the Antrim-Charlevoix Growth Alliance, has applied for a $50,000 Small Cities Start-up Grant in behalf of the governmental units participating in the alliance. The action was taken at the recent meeting of the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners.

The notice of the organization's intent to apply for the grant has already been forwarded to State Department of Commerce. Richard Beagle heads the Antrim-Charlevoix Growth Alliance. The action taken by the board followed a public hearing on the proposal.

In other action, the board established a special fund for the Lake Charlevoix Management Advisory Committee. The account was established at the request of the committee to take care of any contributions and to allow a proper accounting of funds. A contribution of $2,000 from WATCH, Inc., to the lake management advisory group prompted the request.

Douglas Doherty was retained by the board at an hourly rate of $10 to update and complete the mapping project now underway in the County. The Charlevoix Abstract and Engineering Co. was the second bidder on the project.

The board also:

- approved a request by the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department to apply for a Criminal Justice training fund in the amount of $1,000.

- Approved the transfer of $18,096 from the Grandvue capital account to the operating account to underwrite the cost of a pick-up truck and snowplow and the renovation of the linen and medicine rooms at Grandvue Medical Care Facility.

- Approved $140 for the purchase of a special telephone for use in the Veterans Affairs office at the county building. The purchase was made from Electronic Services of Petoskey.

- Heard Fred Welch, manager-engineer of the Charlevoix County Road Commission, discuss a request to upgrade Sequanota and a section of Ferry Road to primary and all-season status, respectively. He also discussed proposed changes in other roads in the county. No action was taken on the proposals.

The next meeting of the board is scheduled for 9:30 a.m. Wednesday, March 12 at the county building annex.

"The Star-Spangled Girl," a Neil Simon comedy which has been running for the last three weeks at the Bridge St. Theatre is being held over this weekend. The play involves two underground newspapers and their "All-American" next-door neighbor.

Courier given Blue Ribbon award

The Charlevoix Courier has been designated a National Blue Ribbon Newspaper for 1986 and 1987, the National Newspaper Foundation of Washington D.C. announced last week.

The National Blue Ribbon Evaluation is an assessment, by a panel of professionals, of your newspaper based on the high standards of community journalism," the National Newspaper Foundation said in making the award. "You have been awarded the Blue Ribbon designation in recognition of the alert, progressive, and community-minded newspaper you publish."

The NNF gave the Charlevoix Courier its highest rating, "superlative," for all 11 categories evaluated including: news coverage, writing, editing, features, editorials, sports, news photography, feature photography, layout, advertising and presswork.

The national awards are given by circulation category. The Courier was picked among papers with circulations between 3,001 and 6,000.

Junior band gets perfect marks

The Charlevoix Middle School band of 27 pieces, under the direction of Terry Isenbarger, received straight I's in the District II Michigan School Band and Orchestra Festival held at Harbor Springs Saturday.

"I was very pleased with the band's performance. I was especially happy because we were entered in the Class C division for the first time where we were competing with such schools as Cheboygan, Rogers City and Petoskey and we were the only band to receive straight I's" Isenbarger said.

The band played three numbers in concert competition and one in sight reading. The selections in concert were "New Frontier" march by John O'Reilly, "Brookpark Overture" by James Swearingen and "White River Canyon" by John Higgins.

Judges were Paul Schmitt, Nel Kerstetn, Joe Scott and James Kisel.

Junior high bands do not advance past district competition.

'Attitude in life is everything' reading teachers are told

by ANNE KELLY

"The power of positive thinking" was the theme of the 10th Annual Northern Michigan Reading Teacher's in-service program hosted at Petoskey High School, Thursday, Feb. 27.

The program featured motivational speaker Dr. Thomas Bleet and followed dinner as well as an opportunity for teachers in the area to visit materail displays.

"Studies show that in the world of business, advancement depends only fifteen percent upon your technical expertise and 85 percent on your attitude and ability to relate to others," contends Bleet.

Carrying his message to educators, Bleet went one step further and said despite the adverse publicity, schools often receive, "...that one of the most positive, motivated groups are not in business, but in public education... greatness in the classroom is loving kids."

Bleet would advocate abolishing the practice of categorizing students into pre-determined ability groups. "It's not I.Q. or who their parents are, but what we can bring out in the kids that counts," he said.

Bleet, former teacher, assistant principal, principal, and superintendent, preaches positive thinking, attaining goals and building self-esteem as preambles to his creed.

"There's nothing wrong with swinging the bat and missing, but there's a lot wrong with not taking the bat off your shoulder," Bleet told the crowd.

He outlined several practical principles to achieve positive goals: 1) remembering names and improving your memory, 2) looking for the good in people, 3) showing appreciation and 4) communicating and listening effectively.

"Attitude in life is everything," Bleet reminded the audience of some 350 area educators in attendance as he led them through a series of exercises in personal dynamics.

Bleet ended his presentation with his sports jacket thrown aside, and his sleeves rolled up as he demonstrated the effort that must be expended in pumping water from an old, deep well.

"It's better when it comes hard," he puffed as he pumped on a model of a typically antique pump. "The good, clean, pure, cold water comes from deep in the bottom of the well, and you can't give up, or the water will go back down and you'll have to start all over again."

Bleet concluded by suggesting that all educators should be required to earn a degree in enthusiasm.

Masons increase cribbage lead

The Masons increased their lead by 230 points last week with 81½ tables in play as the 56th annual Masons-Oddfellow cribbage tournament nears the end of its schedule. The team now leads by 493 points, according to Hugh Mayne, tournament secretary.

Last Thursday also marked the first perfect scores of the tournament with Ted Pennell Sr., and Mayne posting scores of 968 each. Bob Wise Jr. had a score of 967 for the night for the Masons.

Only one night of play remains in the 10-week tournament to be held at 8 p.m. Thursday at the Masonic Temple.

On Thursday, March 13, the winning team will be the guests of the losers at a site to be determined by the outcome of the tournament. The dinner is scheduled for 6:30 p.m.

Time to appreciate teachers

WANTED: employees for very hard work. Pay lower than most other professions. BA required, additional schooling necessary to remain on job. Long hours. Little or no privacy. Will supervise 25-35 persons some of whom are likely to be ill-mannered, disrespectful and in need of much help.

An honest wantad for a teacher could read like the above. In some of our school systems – particularly in big cities – one might add that the job can be dangerous, even life threatening.

While there are many imperfect things about the American educational system, it still remains one of civilization's finest accomplishments. Universal public education has brought this country an unparalleled level of achievement.

And the teacher is, and always has been, the heart and soul of that educational system.

This Tuesday was Teacher Appreciation Day, and we would like to add our thanks for the wonderful work performed day in and day out by America's educators.

In Charlevoix there is ample proof of the accomplishments of some of our teachers. The recent performance of the Performing Arts troupe with its award winning version of "Fiddler on the Roof" was dramatic evidence of the work of one exceptional teacher, Connie Ford.

So, too, did the Symphonic Band's top ratings at the districts underscore the fine efforts of band director Terry Isenbarger.

These teachers are but two of many who devote themselves to their job and community in ways we as parents and citizens can never adequately compensate. The work of most teachers goes on behind classroom doors, and their sacrifices and efforts seldom attract our attention.

Yet they deserve our continual appreciation.

We hope all of Charlevoix will make an effort to see that our teachers hear your words of encouragement and praise. There are few jobs more thankless yet few as essential to the health of our society.

Technical illiterates

By Bob Clock

Are you a "technical illiterate?"

That's a phrase that has been bandied about quite a bit lately ever since the Public Opinion Laboratory at Northern Illinois University released the results of a poll showing that most Americans are dumb bunnies who don't know how a telephone works or what goes on under the hood of an automobile.

I hate to admit it, but I'm about as technically illiterate as you can get. I have no idea how a telephone works; but I do know how to punch buttons and turn dials, and that's all the counts — until the line goes dead. Then you get two tin cans and a piece of string.

Internal combustion engines also are something of a mystery. About all I know is that you turn the key; step on the gas pedal and the engine goes—cha-putta—cha-putta. If it doesn't, cha-putta, cha-putta you call the garage. If the phone's working.

I would feel terrible about being a "technical illiterate" if I weren't in such good company. Very few of us, in fact, know a great deal about the internal workings of the gimcracks that are part and parcel of life in the 20th Century — including microwave ovens, video casette recorders and personal computers, to name a few of the newest.

I SOMETIMES WORRY that if I survived a nuclear explosion — one that obliterated everyone else on Earth and every man-made artifact — I actually wouldn't have a great deal to pass along to the next form of life to take over. I would be zapped back to the Stone Age and would have to start from scratch.

I'm not even sure I could start a fire without a book of matches.

Oh, I suppose I could jot down a few geographical and historical facts on the wall of a cave:

"In Fourteen Hundred and Ninety-Two, Columbus sailed the ocean blue."

I might even be able to come up with an abbreviated list of Shakespeare's plays, the titles of a few novels by Ernest Hemingway and the Bronte sisters, and snatches of verse by A. E. Housman, Robert Frost and Thomas Gray.

I almost forgot music. I know the lyrics to virtually every scrap of popular music written during World War II.

"All the day long whether rain or shine, she is a part of the assembly line; there's something true about, red, white and blue about — Rosie (Brrrr) the Riveter."

Pretty valuable stuff, if you have to build a new civilization from the ground up.

Fortunately, not all of us are "technical illiterates." Enough of us have our own little niches of expertise to keep the wheels turning while the rest of us go along for the ride.

What's a "riveter" anyway?

Letters to the Editor:

Crisis intervention team needed

Dear Editor:

Another child in our community has died for lack of adequate mental health services: specifically, a trained crisis intervention team.

I believe that the Sheriff's Department did what it could in a difficult situation. I also believe that the Sheriff's Department alone should not have been expected to handle that situation.

We need a crisis intervention team. We also need the dollars from the Department of Mental Health to develop one. In July of 1985, an additional $1,250,000 was appropriated to the Department of Mental Health specifically for community-based program funding for emotionally disturbed children. Now, the Department of Mental Health has chosen to delay distributing those funds.

I do not know why the Department of Mental Health can not afford to give the communities the funds that were designated for them. I do know our communities can not afford to continue to lose it's children for lack of programs and personnel those funds could provide.

For our children, I would ask the people in our communities to do two things: write to our legislators, the governor, and C. Patrick Babcock (Director of the Department of Mental Health, Lewis Cass Building, Lansing, MI 48909) and urge them to release those funds to the Community Mental Health Boards; and write or call on your representative to the Northern Michigan Community Mental Health Services Board to urge a swift development of adequate crisis intervention teams for the communities it serves.

Rainbow Shoppe donations explained

Dear Editor:

Contrary to public belief, the Rainbow Shoppe is not sharing their revenue with the local churches. Just to set the record straight, our goal has been to reach out to non-profit organizations.

Our first and foremost priority has been to have good merchandise available to the needy for modest prices. Business from these people, and others who are more fortunate financially, enables the Rainbow Shoppe to serve the nonlucrative associations.

In 1983, the ten local churches advanced us $150 each as seed money. We sincerely thank them for having faith in us. Our first responsibility was to reimburse those churches, which we did the same year.

Our next project was to donate bibles to the Charlevoix County Jail.

In 1984 CHIP Counseling received $500 and the Dept. of Social Services was advanced $1,200 for food vouchers while waiting for their grant.

In 1985, the Community Food Pantry was the recipient of $1,000 for fowl at Christmas to go in the food baskets. A donation of $620 has been given to the Womens Resource Center Safe Home. The Charlevoix Senior Center received $600 toward their move to the VFW Hall, and we have pledged $100 a month for the next 10 months to help defray their expenses.

Another $1,300 was distributed to individual emergencies, such as traveling, rent, sickness, deaths, etc.

There you have it. Yes, we have reached out to nonprofit organizations and will continue to do so as long as we have the support of the people of Charlevoix. Their support of donations, of volunteers, and of their patronage to the Rainbow Shoppe.

Applaud editorial

Dear Editor:

I applaud the courage and foresight shown by your editorial comments preceding the Charlevoix Township Water's Edge referendum. Despite the strong campaign to encourage township residents to support the rezoning proposal, the editorial position of this newspaper was found to be common with the majority of the voters.

Sincerely,
F. James Stewart, M.D.

Thank you voters

Dear Editor:

It's time for a thank you to the Charlevoix Township voters. It showed without a doubt the feelings of the people toward the building of condos in the area.

I recently received a letter from a friend who lives on Marco Is. Fla. A real estate man, he said it's good to see people care enough to protect their environment and to speak up and be heard before it is too late.

It is now too late for the island; it looks like a mini-Miami. We have water problems and shore erosion and overpopulation. There are wall-to-wall people from Dec. through March and then nothing for nine months.

The businesses hang by their fingernails the rest of the year, but they have no other choice, they have made it strictly resort and have made no provisions for the residents who live there year around. The condos make zero money for the island for nine months just as they make zero money for our business people from eight to nine months.

Let's all work to gether to encourage year-round business, giving our people a livelihood all year. Summer business we will always have as long as we continue to Keep Charlevoix Beautiful. We still have choices.

Thanks again township voters.

Chamber Chatter

By Claudia Kenfield
Executive Director

Spring is not far away! Only three more weeks and it's official. For many, the spring season is a time of renewal, getting back in shape, setting new goals or spring cleaning.

Local business is starting to prepare for the busy summer season ahead. Jim Mabee's Clothing Company has just expanded its men's division downstairs. Mike Holmes is celebrating his 10th year in Charlevoix at the Applecree. The all new Villager Candles is scheduled to open May 1, according to owner Paul Bandrowski.

The Chamber Board Meetings, which are open to all Chamber members, have been rescheduled to meet the 3rd Wednesday of each month at noon. Applications for the 18th Annual Hobby Craft Show will be going out soon, and the Chamber Dance is set for May 10th.

Beacons of Blessing

A devotional column prepared by the Charlevoix Ministerial Association

Duane Nelson, Pastor
Church of the Nazarene

When I first came to Michigan, a little over four months ago, I had the privilege to walk along the beautiful shoreline of Lake Michigan. It was very relaxing for me especially as the sun was setting. While seemly sauntering off into the sunset, I would unknowingly pick up a flat stone and try to skip it across the lake. Sometimes the stone wouldn't stop, and other times I couldn't count the number of bounces off the placid lake of blue. It was almost a game for me.

For most of us, skipping stones is a game - not life. But have you ever felt that your life was one of a flat stone and the water circumstances of your life were throwers? Have you ever felt that circumstances here threw you across the lake only to find yourself sinking to the bottom? Well inevitably we find ourselves in such a situation. We feel lost. We feel hopeless. We feel desperate. Then we ask ourselves if we will ever get back to shore.

But there is good news today. Jesus said in John 14:6, "I am the way, and the truth and the life." To get back to shore, we must let the water take full control, because as a stone we cannot do it ourselves. The same goes with Jesus Christ. When the circumstances of life have thrown us across the water, we need to let Jesus take full control of our lives so that we can make it back to shore. Jesus is our guidance (the way), our reliable source (the truth), and our essence for living the life. Let's give Jesus full control.

Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Warner

Warners celebrate 50th anniversary

An open house honoring Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Warner on their 50th wedding anniversary will be hosted by their children Saturday, March 15, at the Barnard Grange Hall.

The couple will greet relatives and friends between 2 and 5 p.m.

Jasper Warner and the former Mary Smith were married March 13, 1936 in Charlevoix. They have lived in the Barnard area all their lives.

The Warners have four children: Mrs. William (Marian) Pasche of Mount Pleasant, Mrs. Donald (Judy) Arnold of Traverse City, Larry Warner and James Warner, both of Petoskey. The couple has 11 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Garden Club to see petunia film

The next meeting of the Charlevoix Area Garden Club will be held at the 218 Bridge St. Theatre at 1 p.m. Tuesday, March 11. Members are asked to note the change in location.

The film "Keep Charlevoix Beautiful... Operation Petunia" will be featured on the program. Jolyn Hall and Nancy Murray will be co-hostesses at the meeting to which members are invited to bring a guest.

Dessert may be ordered at the member's option.

It has also been announced that the 1986 project of the Federation of Michigan Garden Clubs, known as "Wild and Wonderful," will be to furnish hundreds of pounds of wildflower seeds to be planted and maintained by the Department of Road Development, along Interstate highways particularly at bridge abutments and entrance and exit exchanges. This project is in celebration of the 150th birthday of the state in 1987.

As a fund-raising project, a series of "one pound" auctions will be held in all Garden Clubs throughout the state to finance the seed-planting effort. Each member will contribute one pound of something that has sales appeal such as seeds, nuts, fudge, cheese... anything that can be beautifully wrapped and sold. Bidding will begin at $1 over the stated cost of the item and, hopefully, escalate.

The Charlevoix Club will conduct its "One Pound Auction" at its April 8 meeting.

Obituaries

John E. Norton

Funeral services for John E. Norton, 72, were held Thursday Feb. 27, at the Winchester Funeral Home. The Rev. Philip G. Schaarbaum of the First Congregational Church and the Rev. Raymond Giffin, retired pastor of the church, officiated. Interment was in Brookside Cemetery.

Mr. Norton died Monday, Feb. 24, at Little Traverse Hospital. He was born at Sturgeon Bay, Wisc., Oct. 11, 1913, and was raised in the area. On Aug. 7, 1941, he married the former Helen C. Ikens at Charlevoix where they always made their home. He operated Norton's Standard Service Station at State and Antrim Streets from 1948 until he retired in 1979. Mrs. Norton preceded him in death Aug. 20, 1968.

Mr. Norton was a veteran of service in the U.S. Lighthouse Service which was taken over by the U.S. Coast Guard in 1938. He continued to serve in the U.S. Coast Guard during World War II and after the armistice in the Philippines.

He was a member of Charlevoix Lodge No. 282, F. & A.M. and Charlevoix Post No. 1153, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

He is survived by two sons, John E., Jr., of Grand Ledge and Dr. David F. of Charlevoix; six grandchildren and a sister, Mrs. Lola Wechler of Sturgeon Bay, Wisc.

The family suggests memorials to the American Lung Association. Envelopes for this purpose are available at the Winchester Funeral Home.

Booster dinner a hit

The Charlevoix Band Boosters raised over $1,200 at their all-you-can-eat spaghetti dinner prior to last Friday's basketball game.

"Switching from the annual soup dinner to spaghetti wasn't a bad idea," commented Don Voisin, president of the Band Boosters. "However, the credit goes to the chairpersons, Don and Nancy Agnew. They had worked on other spaghetti dinners and used their experience on this one," Voisin said. He also expressed thanks to all the parents who participated and especially to Mike and Donna Bonar.

Voisin said with the success of this year's dinner he hopes it will become an annual event.

The money raised will be used for the purchase of lightweight marching uniforms and the continuing support of the band program.

Northwood concert series explored

Don Th. Jaeger

Don Th. Jaeger, founding conductor of the Northwood Orchestra, was in Charlevoix recently eager to relate his plans for an expanded summer concert season.

The peripitetic Jaeger, who calls Palm Springs, Calif. home, will return to northern Michigan for the Northwood Orchestra's eighth season which runs from Tuesday, July 22 through Friday, Aug. 8.

There will be six different programs offered in all and this year three of them will be Friday pops concerts under the tent at Black Forest Hall. Jaeger said the pops concerts will be informal with the audience encouraged to picnic on the lawn. The first pops concert will be called "Summer American Bandstand" and will feature classic marches and the like. The second program will be called "A Night at the Prom" and a third will feature exclusively the music of Tchaikovsky.

There will also be three Tuesday night concerts with a smaller chamber orchestra – 26 pieces – at the McCune Arts Center.

The first chamber concert will include a performance by guest artist Philippe Bianconi, silver medal winner of the Van Cliburn competition. Soprano Paulina Stark will be the guest of Northwood for the second chamber performance and soloists form the orchestra will perform the third week.

Musicians in the Northwood Orchestra come from throughout the country. Each year the orchestra also does a spring tour which in the past has included performances with Leontyne Price in Carnegie Hall and a New York appearance with the Canadian Brass.

'Think Spring' revival on Wednesday

The Community Church of God will be the site of a "Think Spring!" revival meeting beginning Wednesday night, March 5 at 7:30 p.m. and continuing each night through that Sunday. Dr. James Curtis of Albuquerque, New Mexico is to serve as evangelist for the services.

Dr. Curtis' ministry of evangelism comes from more than 40 years of experience as a pastor, police chaplain, and youth advisor.

Highlights of the week include a get-acquainted potluck dinner at 6:30 p.m. prior to Wednesday's opening service. Dr. Curtis will address the Charlevoix-Rotary Club at its Thursday noon meeting. Host pastor, Bruce Hamilton, will present a program of special music as a part of Friday evening's service. The Charlevoix Area Campus Life Singers offer a concert to climax the revival at the Sunday 6 p.m. closing service.

The public is invited to any and all of these meetings. For more information, call the church office at 547-2875.

unacceptable."

"When you start equating one unit per x number of feet," he said, "people develop a strip of land along the lake and then develop the rest of the property under different zoning. You end up with the same number of people."

Chamberlain said he saw "nothing wrong with rear lot development so long as the area that is reserved for lake frontage is large enough to meet the demand of the people in back."

Puhl, also president of WATCH and a member of ALERT, said the action to to reintroduce the rezoning meant the developers "are not listening to what the people want. People are against high density zoning. The township board needs to take some time to review the ordinance," he said. "People will not object to development if it is away from the lake.

Puhl said he was "not going to vote no without hearing the facts. But I still feel there should be special lakefront zoning with setbacks, greenbelts, and such."

Trumper said the township should spend some time studying various zoning options. "I don't think they should do anything now. They should keep it R-2. Let's get our act cleaned up first." She suggested the township consult with the county planner, the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council, and various planning agencies.

"I think in this situation we need to get some expert advice," she said.

In a letter, to the Charlevoix Township Zoning Board, Ferguson and Chamberlain Associates, Inc. cited several reasons for the PUD rezoning. "The theme of the project will be reminiscent of the Bay View Association, Chicago Club and Belvedere Club," they said.

They noted that the site was served by public sewer and public water was planned for the near future. The project, they said, was compatible with zoning districts surrounding the site. Land usage for buildings and roads, the letter noted, would be less in a PUD zone than a R-2 zone.

A public hearing on the rezoning of Water's Edge will be held by the Charlevoix Township Zoning Board on Wednesday, March 19 in Stroud Hall on Waller Road at 7:30 p.m.

Council to review budget objected to the output of the outside lights and questioned whether several 10-foot windows on the north side were necessary.

Probert noted that the 14 400-watt lights on the interior would be as bright as the Middle School gymnasium.

Council approved submission of the plans for competitive bids by a 5-1 vote, with Probert casting the dissenting vote. The approval was conditional on examination of the lighting and windows.

Council also awarded the 1985-86 city audit contract to Hill, Woodcock and Schroderus of Petoskey for $14,900.

M and M Excavating, Inc. of Gaylord was approved as vendor on the Industrial Park improvements at a cost of $352,644.75. Total cost of the project is $428,800 with the city's share being $121,900 and the balance being paid by a Small Cities Grant from the Michigan Department of Commerce.

County to receive emergency grant

Charlevoix County will receive $12,953 from the Emergency Food and Shelter Program administered by the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA).

FEMA has allocated funds nationwide since 1983 to supplement and extend emergency food and shelter services in high needs areas. Once a month, food is distributed to needy county residents from stations in Charlevoix, Boyne City, and East Jordan. Since cheese is usually one of the surplus foods, distribution day has become known as "cheese day."

There are certain income restrictions to determine eligibility for the food programs. These restrictions have been formulated by a national committee consisting of representatives from the United Way of America, the Salvation Army, the National Council of Churches, the National Council of Catholic Charities, the Council of Jewish Federations, Inc., the American Red Cross, and FEMA.

Statewide, 69 counties will share $4.5 million worth of surplus foods. In addition, $450,000 will be set aside for target pockets of poverty in non-qualifying areas, such as those that do not meet the minimum level of 1,000 unemployed persons.

The Performing Arts students presented "Fiddler on the Roof" to a capacity crowd at the Charlevoix High School gym Saturday. There will be another performance next Sunday at 3 p.m.

Consumers offers damage reward

Medusa Cement Corporation lost electric service for three hours Thursday, February 20.

The cause? Gunshot damage to insulators on a 138,000 volt transmission line.

"Gunshot damage to insulators is a year-around problem for Consumers Power Company and its customers. Although deer season seems to make the situation even worse, this recent incident points up the seriousness of the problem of firing at electric equipment," said Richard Gary, energy services manager for the utility's northern region.

Since 1975, Consumers Power has spent over $700,000 replacing thousands of insulators damaged by gunfire. "This incident cost Medusa Cement an estimated $5,500 in unproductive time," said Plant Manager Elbert Kaiser.

The damage, which was located about halfway between Central Lake and East Jordan, is in an area not easily accessible by vehicle. This is the second time since December 12, 1985 that such vandalism has occurred in this area. In this most recent incident, nine ceramic insulators each ten inches in diameter were destroyed.

When insulators are damaged and there is a short circuit, the protective equipment goes into action to "lock out" one line. The line has circuit breakers like those in your home to shut it down when there is an electrical problem, – but they are large pieces of equipment.

Consumers Power offers a cash reward of varying amounts for information leading to the arrest and arraignment of those who cause power outages. Information can be given to local Consumers Power Company offices or local police. The cash reward in this case is $5,000.

Art Center workshop

A workshop in paper-making is planned for the Crooked Tree Arts Council "Lunch With Art" program at 11 a.m. Saturday, March 8, in the McCune Arts Center, Petoskey. Artist Linda Sanderson will lecture and lead the demonstration-workshop, and chef Richard Kent of Nonta's Place will cater lunch. Reservations are required, please call the McCune Arts Center at 347-4337 no later than March 6.

All aspiring actors and stagehands are invited to open tryouts for the Agatha Christie mystery-drama, "Mousetrap," produced by the Little Traverse Civic Theatre. Tryouts will be held at the McCune Arts Center in Petoskey on Wednesday and Thursday, March 5 and 6, at 7:30 p.m. "Mousetrap" will be staged in the Ross Stookes Theatre beginning May 1.

Rayders edge by East Jordan in first tourney game

by DOUG TRUAX

Like a smart race car driver, Charlevoix shifted gears at the critical moment Tuesday night and pulled away from visiting East Jordan for the Rayders' first victory of the post-season tournament.

With just over two minutes left and trailing by one point, the Rayders abandoned the man-to-man defense they had been using for much of the night and confronted the Red Devils with a zone press.

The stategy worked to perfection and Charlevoix climbed from a 53-54 deficit to a 63-56 victory over the last two minutes.

The zone forced two quick turnovers and the Rayders capitalized with baskets by Packy LaBlance from the outside and Jim Ciuk driving the lane to gain a 57-54 advantage with two minutes to play.

East Jordan was forced into fouling to get the ball back and Jody Putman, Ciuk and LaBlance dropped the needed free throws to assure Charlevoix of the victory.

The Rayders face Boyne City on Thursday at the Charlevoix gymnasium.

"Our kids responded real well to the adjustments out there tonight," coach Dave Smith said afterwards. "I thought our rebounding got stronger as the game went on. (Mike) Goebel was rebounding very well for them in the first half," Smith explained. "We attacked Goebel's side of the zone to bring him out in the second half."

Smith's stategy worked as the Rayders outrebounded the Red Devils 34-22.

Ferguson led Charlevoix with 22 points and 10 rebounds. Tim Salmonson had 14 points (eight boards), Putman 12 points (eight rebounds) and Ciuk 10 points in the balanced scoring attack.

Greg Kitson and Goebel each had 21 for East Jordan.

Sean Ferguson lays up two of his team high 16 points.

Cheboygan beats Rayders for title

The Cheboygan Chiefs shut the door on Charlevoix's hopes of winning or sharing the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference title for the fifth year in a row Friday with an impressive 78-52 victory over the Rayders.

The Chiefs' 6-foot-five center, Dan LaHaie, ruled the floor for most of the evening, putting in a game-high 24 points and consistently pulling down critical rebounds.

The Chiefs finished the regular season 12-2 in the league and 16-4 overall. Charlevoix was 10-4 in league play and 14-6 overall.

The Rayders jumped to an early 11-8 lead and looked for several minutes as though they were going to play with the same style that earned them a come-from-behind victory on the Chiefs' court earlier this year.

The Rayder shotmakers suddenly went cold, however, and the Chiefs edged into a 13-11 lead at the end of the first quarter. The Rayders tied the game at the start of the next period and from that point on it was all Cheboygan.

"LaHaie played an outstanding ballgame," Rayder coach Dave Smith said. "He got stronger as the game went on.

"We didn't play very good defense," Smith added. He pointed out that the Rayders were outrebounded 37-32 – unusual for them this season – and the advantage early in the game was even greater in Cheboygan's favor.

The other critical statistics told the same story. Cheboygan shot 53 percent from the field to 36 percent for Charlevoix. The Rayders committed 18 turnovers to 15 for the Chiefs and, again, most of the critical Rayder errors occurred early in the game.

Cheboygan took control of the game in the second quarter, outscoring the Rayders 16-5 at one point. Steve Skiera, a 6-foot junior, poured in eight points in the quarter while LaHaie continued to dominate the offensive boards and draw critical fouls.

"We were frustrated on our shots and not aggressive on the offensive boards," Smith said of the second quarter performance.

The Rayders scored the last two buckets of the first half to stay within reach as Cheboygan led 34-26.

The Chiefs came out smoking in the second half, outmuscling the Rayders underneath and picking up key steals. With Stu Hancock and LaHaie providing the firepower, the Chiefs built a 51-30 lead.

Charlevoix not only was cold from the floor but found two of its leading scorers in foul trouble. Jody Putman picked up his third personal with 5:50 left in the third quarter and Sean Ferguson was charged with two quick fouls with just over a minute remaining in the period.

The third quarter ended with Cheboygan holding a commanding 57-37 advantage. During the final eight minutes, the Chiefs continued to foil everything the Rayders tried. Putman fouled out with 6:36 left in the game and Ferguson got his fifth with 4:35.

Coach Smith began to substitute freely as the half wore on and the Chiefs' assault continued.

Ferguson led the Rayder attack with 16 points on the night. He was the only Charlevoix scorer in double figures. Putman contributed nine and Jim Ciuk 8 in the losing cause.

Joining LaHaie in double figures for Cheboygan were Hancock with 14 and Skiera with 13.

Charlevoix was six of 10 from the free-throw line. Cheboygan sank 16 of 26 charity shots.

"Our kids were on a real emotional high going into the game," Smith reflected. "These kids just don't play well when they are that high."

Junior varsity wins conference

The Charlevoix Rayder JV basketball team topped off a successful season Friday night by defeating the young Cheboygan Chiefs 72-63.

The team's 17-3 season record was the best in the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference.

In last week's game, the Rayders came from behind to defeat the Chiefs after trailing 12-10 at the quarter, 30-29 at halftime and 51-50 going into the final eight minutes. A surge by the Rayders which saw them outscore Cheboygan 22-12 turned the tide and gave the team its 17th win.

The Rayders used the free throw line to claim the game, connecting on 14 of 19 attempts while being outscored 30-27 from the floor. Cheboygan scored on three of three attempts while committing 20 personal fouls. Charlevoix had eight personal fouls.

Chad DeVries and Roger Smith shared scoring honors with 14 points each. Scott DeYoung contributed 13 points and Dan Drury 12 points. Woodgate had 23, Lindenon 16 and Harden 14 for Cheboygan.

Netters fall to district champ

The Charlevoix Rayder volleyball team clashed with Rogers City early in the Class C District tournament at Elk Rapids Saturday and was shut out by the team that went on to take the title.

"We had the misfortune to run into the strongest team in the tournament the first thing. The girls played very well but when you meet the best in the tournament you don't have much of a chance," coach Brenda Bryan said of the meet.

Charlevoix lost 15-3 and 15-0 in a best two-of-three series.

Kalkaska came out of the top bracket and lost to the champions 15-0, 15-0. Eight teams were in the tournament.

Seniors on the team who played their final prep games were Lara Stargardt, Carol Holm, Stacy Way, Shannon Titsworth, Dawn Benoit and Chaya Moore.

Earlier in the week the varsity and JV teams played their final games at Elk Rapids. The varsity lost 2-1 and the JVs came through with a 2-1 victory.

Playing the best two of three matches, the varsity lost 15-12 and 15-5 with Rhonda Brown the top server, Lara Stargardt the setter and Jennifer Sell the spiker.

In the JV games, Charlevoix won 15-4, 10-15 and 15-11. Michelle Seibert and Becky Melke were the servers, Billie Jean Habel the setter and Shelly Crain the spiker.

Freshmen close with victory

The Charlevoix Rayder freshman basketball team, coached by Barry Anderson, closed out its season last Monday by defeating Cheboygan 74-48. The team had an 11-4 record for the season.

In the game on Monday, Charlevoix jumped to a 16-2 lead at the end of the first period, 34-17 at the half and 54-41 going into the final period when they increased their win to 26 points.

Bob Jess came through with 16 points, Mike Himebaugh 14, Shawn Putman 12 and Dylan Stewart 11. Ron Bur had 16 points for the visitors.

Lindberg continues unbeaten string in B play

Action in the Charlevoix Independent Basketball B League last week saw First State Bank edge the Clothing Company 48-47; Nanny's squeak past Wojan Aluminum 55-54; Paul Lindberg, Inc., keep its record clean by defeating Nanny's 70-47; and Clothing Company defeating Wojan 68-54.

After trailing 12-10, First State Bank took a 22-19 halftime lead and held on 34-31 going into the final period before winning by a one-point margin.

Dennis Dominic had 21 points and Bob Sandahl 11 for the Bankers. Gary Verdon and Bill Hoaglund had 10 points each for the Clothiers.

Nanny's overcame deficits of 14-9 at the quarter, 24-21 at halftime and 44-39 at the three-quarter mark by outscoring Wojan 16-10 in the final period for the one-point win. Don Ward with 15 points, Jim Hamilton with 12 and Steve Voorhees with 10 led the way for the victors. VanLoo had 21, Garver 19 and Bernie DeVries 12 for Wojan.

On Wednesday, Paul Lundberg came back strong to top Wojan 54-12, 30-23 and 48-31 before winning by a wide margin.

Hoaglund with 18 points, Dave Cole with 14, Tom Morrison 11 and Gary Verdon with 10 led the scoring. Charles Garver had 17 and Darrell VanLoo 15 for Wojan.

After getting off to a slow 11-9 first period lead, Lindberg jumped to a 31-23 halftime and 53-38 leads before chalking up a 23-point win.

Setting the pace for the win were Stan Martin with 26 points, Gale Sheldon with 12 and Doug Winnell and Larry Brock with 10 points each. Jim Hamilton had 15 for Nanny's.

On Monday, March 10, First State Bank will meet the Clothing Company and Nanny's will play Wojan.

Josh White Jr. in concert

The Women's Resource Center of Petoskey presents Josh White, Jr. in concert on Friday, March 7, 1986 at 8 p.m. in the Petoskey High School Auditorium.

Accompanying himself on guitar, Josh White Jr.'s musical repertoire spans all generations and tastes. He sings for everyone because he believes that "everyone can be touched if we just find the right song."

White began singing professionally at the age of 4, his chin resting on the knee of his illustrious father, the black social leader and pioneer of folk-blues music and guitar. Josh Sr. led 60 blind street singers across America, inheriting their songs and guitar techniques.

In 1983, Josh Jr. completed a one-man premiere performance of "Josh – The Man and His Music – a historical tribute to his fathers' life and contributions to American music and history. Josh White Jr. has produced nine albums.

Appearing with Josh is northern Michigan's own Dr. Goodhart's Home Remedy. Whether it's "sawing off the potatoes" for a good old fashioned square dance tune or singing the lyrics of an Irish ballad, Dr. Goodhart provides a little home remedy from around the world that reaches every heart.

Tickets are $5 in advance; $6 at the door. Advance tickets are available at the Grain Train and Gold Mine Resale, Petoskey and Wharfside Market, Charlevoix.

Allard named bank manager

G.R. Wellman, president of Charlevoix County State Bank, has announced the appointment of Sandra Allard to branch manager of the M-66 Branch, Charlevoix.

She will be replacing Barbara Swanson who has decided to stay home and be with her husband and children. Barb will still be a familiary face around the bank as she will be working part time, Wellman said.

"Sandy" has been employed at the bank since 1978, working as a teller in Ellsworth and then transferring to the main office in the MasterCard and IRA Department. She is a graduate of Farmington High School, attended North Central Michigan College and is a graduate of Northern Michigan School of Banking.

There's a lot about gasoline that you might not want to know, says National Wildlife magazine. Gasoline is composed of nearly 300 different chemicals, some of which can cause anemia, kidney disase or cancer, and it is quietly seeping into our drinking water supplies. The contaminating sources: thousands of leaking, undergroond gasoline storage tanks at gas stations, factories, schools, farms and private homes all across the country.

Gibbons assumes Hawaii command

Colonel Gerald G. Gibbons, a former Charlevoix resident, assumed command of the U.S. Army Support Command, Hawaii, at a ceremony held recently at Fort Shafter, Hawaii, where he had served in the dual role of Provost Marshall, U. S. Army Western Command and U.S. Army Support Command, Hawaii, since September, 1981.

The U.S. Army Support Command, Hawaii, operated all Army installations in Hawaii providing installations management and logistic support to Army personnel in Hawaii, Guam, Johnston Island and American Samoa.

This support encompasses more than 66,000 military and civilian personnel, 14 permanent installations and 21 other facilities such as training and maneuver areas and live fire ranges. In addition it provides host support to 67 tenant activities located at Army installations.

Col. Gibbons, a 1960 graduate of Charlevoix High School, was commissioned from Senior ROTC, Michigan State University, in 1954 and entered active duty in 1958.

After completing the Military Police Officer Basic Course at Fort Gordon, Ga., he was assigned as a Platoon Leader, 502nd Military Police Company, 2nd Armored Division, Fort Hood, Tex. In 1960, he was assigned to the 1st Cavalry Division, Korea.

Upon his return to CONUS in 1962, he attended the Military Police Officer Career Course at the U.S. Army Military School, Fort Gordon, and later served as an instructor at the school. In 1965, he graduated from the Royal Canadian Mounted Police College at Regina, Saskatchewan.

Col. Gibbons was then assigned to Germany as the Commanding Officer, B Company 385th Military Police Battalion in 1965 and, later, served as the Plans Officer, Plans and Administration Division, Office of the Provost Marshall, 7th U.S. Army and U.S. Army, Europe.

He returned to CONUS and graduated from the Command and General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, Kas., in 1969, and was subsequently assigned overseas to the Republic of Vietnam where he served as the Executive Officer, 504th Military Police Battalion. He later served as the Chief, Physical Security Division, Headquarters, U.S. Army Vietnam.

In 1970, he returned to CONUS to serve on the staff of the Provost Marshall in Washington D.C., and was then assigned to Fort Hood, Tex., in 1972 where he served as the Commanding Officer, 720th Military Police Battalion. He was reassigned to the 2nd Armored Division as the Provost Marshall in 1974.

In 1975, he was assigned overseas to the U.S. Army Element, Joint U.S. Military Advisory Group, Republic of the Philippines, where he served as the Force Structure Analyst. After returning to the CONUS in 1977, he graduated from the Army War College at Carlisle Barracks and also received his Master of Science Degree in Police Administration from Shippensburg College, Pa., He then served as Provost Marshall at Fort Dix, N.J., until January 1980 when he was assigned to Fort Hood, Tex., as Commander, 89th Military Police Brigade, and Provost Marshall, III Corps.

In September 1981, his next assignment took him to Hawaii.

His military decorations include the Bronze Star Medal, Meritorious Service Medal with Oak Leaf Cluster, Army Commendation Medal with Oak Leaf Cluster, Meritorious Unit Commendation and the Vietnam Cross of Gallantry with Palm.

Col. Gibbons and his wife, Carol, have four children. He is the son of the late Dr. and Mrs. Gerald Gibbons.

St. Mary's School first-grade students got a glimpse of the workings of a factory and the wonders of magnetics when they were hosted by Industrial Magnetics Inc., of Boyne City. The children saw how metals are magnetized end de-magnetized, experienced the pull of the magnetic field, saw various uses of magnets in industry end even saw a magnetic broom at work (above).

City's budget intact, DDA explains expenses

City Council completed its month-long review of the 1986-87 city budget at a working session Monday but failed to come up with any major cuts or alternations.

"We feel we presented a fairly bare-bones budget," City Manager Michael Wiesner told the council at the end of their deliberations.

The $6,318,200 budget allows for construction of the new industrial park, construction of a public safety building, and purchase of additional beachfront at Ferry Beach and improvements to the area.

Expenditures in the proposed budget are 29 percent above last year.

Jim Mabee, owner of The Clothing Company and a member of the Downtown Development Authority, addressed council concerning recent criticisms from several councilmen of the DDA portion of the budget.

The objective of the DDA is to keep property values going up," Mabee told the council. "Our number one priority is parking. It will be and it always has been."

Responding to criticisms that the DDA should not be spending grant money in East Park, Mabee noted that the grants stipulated that some of the money must be spent on park or waterfront improvements. "We don't want to redo the park," he said.

The DDA portion of the city budget is $80,300 for 1986-87. This is offset by revenues from a federal and a state grant ($31,000), a two-mill tax on downtown businesses ($13,900), and taxes captured through a tax increment financing district ($27,000) as well as a reserve from previous taxes appropriated for the DDA.

Most of the DDA expenses for the coming year are for design, engineering and planning services for the downtown improvements.

Mabee assured the council that the project would not get out of their control. "No matter what we recommend, you have to approve it," he said.

Mabee also noted that the downtown was in need of improvements. "Since this district has been formed, not a cent has been spent downtown. It is going downhill fast. The sidewalks are terrible," he added.

Mabee also asked when the city planned to tear down the old Erber garage to provide room for parking and was told by Wiesner that it was scheduled for demolition in the spring of 1987.

Alyce Lesser, also a member of the DDA, advised council that the downtown needed an overall plan. "I think parking obviously is one of our major concerns. One way to attack parking is with a good plan in mind. Otherwise we'll have good parking and nothing to bring people to."

Council also discussed next summer's parking for the Star of Charlevoix. Jacquie Merta presented with council with a revised parking plan that showed 35 parking spaces along the U.S. 31 side of the Edgewater Inn property. She said the Star Line had permission from Jon Hisey, owner of Edgewater Inn, to use the area for parking and an existing building would be torn down.

Additional parking would be available west of Ricciardi's restaurant, she said. Council agreed to consider the parking site plan at its next meeting.

Kids and booze: a growing crisis

Part I: How big is the problem?

This week the Charlevoix Courier begins a five-part series on the growing problem of alcohol abuse among this city's teenagers. In today's segment, we assess the problem through the eyes of young people, school officials, teachers and counselors. Future articles will deal with a detailed examination of national trends in alcohol and drug use by teens; the views of young people about the situation; how police, church and community leaders are addressing the problem; and suggestions and solutions for the community, school and parents.

by DOUG TRUAX
Editor

As a group, Charlevoix teenagers are generally recognized as bright, talented, and exceptional achievers.

And on weekends, at least, many of them are also drunkards.

Parents, teachers, community leaders and students themselves all point to a high rate of alcohol use by school age kids, many of them as young as 14 and 15 years old, and most people who are aware of the phenomenon are concerned.

Alcohol, they say, is playing an increasingly important role in the lives of young people in Charlevoix.

Many say that teenagers are drinking younger and to greater excess. It is a matter of time, some worry privately, before the mix of alcohol and youth results in a tragedy.

Administrators at Charlevoix High School were recently confronted with the problem when they handed out suspensions for drinking at an overnight class trip and at the homecoming dance.

The first of those incidences led a group of parents to appear at the last meeting of the Board of Education – some to point the finger at the school, others to seek answers for a community solution to the problem.

Charlevoix, it appears, is awakening to the problem of booze and its kids.

Most students, teachers and administrators agree that drinking is widespread and cuts across all groups and socioeconomic classes.

"It's a very large problem," says senior honors student Danielle Johnson. "At least 50 percent of the seniors go out and drink every weekend," she says. "Most of them usually end up getting drunk."

A recent survey by the "Flash," the school newspaper, confirms her estimates. The student survey found that 45 percent of the seniors drink every weekend during the winter, 10 percent said they drink every night and 21 percent admit to drinking occasionally. Thirty-five percent of the juniors said they drink every weekend during the winter, 5 percent every night and 36 percent occasionally.

Drinking during the summer is less frequent, the poll found.

The problem is certainly not peculiar to Charlevoix. National statistics show that drinking among high school students is at alarmingly high levels. The 1985 Survey of Drug Use Among High School Seniors in the United States was conducted by the University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research, which has been conducting such surveys since 1975.

The ISR survey revealed that drinking among high schools seniors declined slightly in 1985 over the previous year but was still at high levels.

Thirty-seven percent of the national sample reported occasions of heavy drinking (five or more drinks in a row during the prior two weeks).

"These figures are disturbing to many people," commented study director Lloyd Johnston, "since nearly half (45 percent) of the boys and over one-fourth (28 percent) of the girls report drinking this heavily at least once in the prior two weeks."

School administrators, too, recognize the problem. "There is definitely an alcohol problem," comments Dave Smith, principal of the Charlevoix High School. "There are very few social events that take place that don't involve alcohol."

Elementary troupe revives sound of the big band era

"The Big Band and All That Jazz" will be beard at the Charlevoix High School gymnasium Thursday, April 3, when the Charlevoix Elementary School presents its annual musical under the direction of Marina LaBlance.

This popular event, featuring the more than 400 students in the first through the fifth grades, will be devoted to the big band sounds so popular in the '20s, '30s and '40s.

The evening performance will be presented at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, April 3 with a matinee at 9:30 a.m. the same date.

"The program is going to be a tribute to jazz and the big band sound. There'll be a big old-fashioned juke box in which a coin will be deposited prior to each segment of the program which will open with an announcer presenting a brief history of the jazz era. It will have a bit of everything with every youngster playing a role," Mrs. LaBlance said of the musical.

The show will open with representatives of the five grades in the school setting up the props for the performance. An announcer will give a slide presentation of the big bands and a synopsis of the era before the fifth-graders present a dance the "Glove," a jazz chant, "I've Got Rhythm" by the Lost Chords, a vocal group of fourth and fifth graders will follow.

The first graders will then go into their dance "Chattanooga" followed by a song featuring Amy Phillips and Ellie Frey entitled "Boy from New York City;" a dance, the Charleston, by the third-graders; "Puttin' on the Ritz" by the entire school; the jitterbug by the fourth-graders; the tango by the second-graders climaxed by Adrian Russell singing Cab Calloway's "Minnie the Moocher" with audience participation.

The Charlevoix High School Pep Band directed by Terry Isenbarger will provide the music for the program.

The residents of the Charlevoix School District are invited to attend the musical which has become one of the highlights of the spring season.

In 1985, the Elementary school students presented "Our Lady" in honor of the Statue of Liberty. The students raised more than $600 which was forwarded to the committee headed by Lee Iacocca which raised funds for the renovation of the statue which will be unveiled July 4, 1986.

Obituaries

Pauline L. Culter

A memorial service for Mrs. Pauline L. Culter, 75, of St. James, Beaver Island, will be held at a later date. Interment will be in Holy Cross Cemetery at St. James, Beaver Island.

Mrs. Culter died Sunday, March 9 at her Pealine Township home on Beaver Island.

Born in Ohio, Jan 11, 1911, the former Pauline L. Schwagel was married to M. Lee Culter on July 12, 1927, at Cincinnati, Ohio, where they lived until 1930 when they moved to Detroit. In 1942 they moved to Walled Lake. Since 1970 they have made their home on Beaver Island.

She is survived by her husband, M. Lee Culter; one daughter, Mrs. Bill (Betty J.) Welke of St. James; a son, Richard L. Culter of Wheaton, Ill.; seven grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

The family suggests memorials to Holy Cross Church or the Beaver Island Christian Church, St. James.

Mothers March raises more than $2,000

The 1986 Charlevoix's Mothers March helped raise more than $2,000 in contributions to continue the March of Dimes efforts to prevent birth defects. In Beaver Island, $557 was collected by volunteers.

Responsible for the outstanding success of this year's campaign are Ann Hanna, Pam Crain, Barbara MacArthur and Mary Browe of Charlevoix and Connie Wojan of Beaver Island who recruited 86 volunteers who called on their neighbors in this annual door-to-door event.

"March of Dimes is grateful to all those who contributed to make the Mothers March successful. The continued support of this community is indicative of its caring and concern for others," said Marion Parker, coordinator of chapter services for the area.

March of Dimes funds are used locally to support a nutrition aide at the Alternative School for Teenage Parents; a Health Career Award at NCMC; field genetics clinics; prenatal classes; as well as professional and public educational materials to those requesting them.

Beacons of Blessing

A devotional column prepared by the Charlevoix Ministerial Association

by Rev. Philip G. Schairbaum
First Congregational Church

There is an old adage about how religion is supposed to comfort the afflicted and afflict the comfortable. However, in the balance of things, it seems to me that we usually error on the side of comfort rather than affliction. For many, religion is seen as something that offers security, stability and serenity of life. That's fine and good, except there is that other equally important side of religion that we must acknowledge, the side that draws us into the risky, restive and rigorous life which confronts the difficult problems of our day.

Recently a parishioner asked me to explain Jesus' saying "Think not that I have come to bring peace, but a sword." After some stewing and studying about it, I've come to what I think is a sensible answer. As we look at Jesus' own life, it is clear that he never espoused passivity - that is, just sitting around and waiting for the peace of God to come on earth. No, he was actively engaged with the world in meaningful ways so that through Him God's peace might be realized.

As far as Jesus was concerned, peace is not merely the absence of conflict. It is that harmonious relationship with God which expresses itself in right attitudes and actions with other human beings and the whole of creation. It is that way of life which is always looking for what is needed and then going and doing something about it.

Jesus' difficult saying could be rephrased, "I have come not to bring the absence of conflict, but to bring active engagement with the evils of the world so that in the end good might triumph." Jesus' word to us is that we are to be aggressors in the pursuit of peace. In the way of looking at it, those who call for us to "wage peace, not war" are on to something. We can't assume that peace will just happen without some real efforts on our part.

Let us, therefore, not turn away from the opportunities for "waging peace" that are everywhere before us. Let us not give in to the temptation to withdraw from the hard work of making peace...in our homes, in our community, and in our world. Rather, let us actively engage ourselves in the pursuit of peace, trusting that God will uphold, strengthen, and secure us even in the thick of the battle. Shalom!

Chamber Chatter

By Claudia Kenifeck
Executive Director

Welcome aboard Elbert Kaiser, from Medusa. Mr. Kaiser is filling the Chamber Board of Directors vacancy left by the resignation of Jack Schmidt. Having served on the Chamber Board in the past, Mr. Kaiser's industrial representation and expertise are welcomed by the Board.

Anyone interested in helping Board member Tom Warth bring Live Theatre to Charlevoix is encouraged to contact him at 218 Bridge St.

Some changes are being made in planning the 19th Annual Hobby Craft Show set for July 12, 1986. To keep the show more manageable and still remain within the Chamber budget, only 175 booths will be allowed and the entry fee will be increased. Applications will be mailed within the next 10 days.

As the planning begins for the busy summer season, member groups will begin meeting: Merchants, Innkeepers, Festival Chairmen, etc. Anyone interested in helping out by volunteering time, please contact the Chamber.

Day of Prayer postponed

The World Day of Prayer, postponed because of inclement weather, has been rescheduled to Friday, March 14 at the Community Reformed Church.

The program, to be held at 1 p.m., has as its theme "Choose life."

The same ten churches will participate in the service.

Graduates evaluate teen pregnancy program

by PEG OHLE

Twelve years ago, the Char-Em Intermediate School District undertook a program that has touched the lives of hundreds of teenagers and helped them turn a sad mistake into a positive experience.

The Alternative Program for School-Age Parents was begun as a home study class for pregnant school girls who otherwise may have terminated their education and foregone all chances of bettering their lot in life.

At first, the program was a joint effort of Char-Em and District Health Department No. 3, with Char-Em furnishing the academic education and the Health Department offering prenatal-postnatal education.

For the last eight years, pregnant teenagers have received comprehensive services consisting of an academic education, prenatal and postnatal counseling, nutrition education, and group and individual counseling.

In 1984, at the end of its first 10 years of operation, Mary Biagini, coordinator of the Alternative Program, sent a questionnaire to 280 former students (those who could be located of the 363 students who had participated in the program).

169 responded to the questionnaire, and what they had to report is the basis of a Ten Year Follow-Up Survey Report prepared by the Intermediate School District.

Biagini said two statistics please her the most: 63.3 percent of the girls received at least a high school diploma, and the median birth weight of babies born to these teenage mothers was 7.375 pounds. The good birth weight indicates that the comprehensive prenatal education they receive is having a healthful impact on the children they are bearing, Biagini pointed out.

The 169 girls surveyed ranged in age from 14 to 20-plus; the median age was 16- 10.8 months. Recent figures indicate an increase in pregnancies of girls 14 and under.

When starting the program, the girls ranged from grades eight through 12. The greatest percentage of them were 11th and 12th graders and most of them remained in school long enough to receive a diploma. However, with the increase of pregnancies in the younger girls, this goal is becoming more difficult to achieve, Biagini said.

Only 37.9 percent of them were employed at the time of filling out the questionnaire. Of these, 25 percent were factory workers, 17.2 percent waitresses, 10.9 percent clerks, 9.4 percent aides, and 7.3 percent maids. The one girl who had received a bachelor of arts degree had been unable to find employment.

The report shows that even though the pregnant adolescent may qualify for partial ADC benefits while still living at home, the main financial support comes from the extended family.

During their pregnancy, 54.4 percent of the teenagers lived with their parents, 12.4 percent lived with the father of their baby, 2.4 percent were in foster homes, 3.6 percent lived alone and 2.4 percent lived with relatives. Almost half of the parents homes in which the teenagers resided were single parent homes but 66.3 percent of the young mothers felt their parents were supportive during their pregnancy.

The most helpful persons during their pregnancy, according to 69.3 percent of the former Alternative Program students, were their parents (mostly mothers). Another 20.1 percent felt a program staff member was the most helpful person, pointing out the importance of the program to the young parents.

In the follow-up question on the type of birth control method being used by the girls following their high school pregnancy, 35.5 percent indicated they were using the pill. 17.2 percent were using no method, 11.2 percent had had tubal ligations, and 3 percent indicated their partners had had vasectomies. According to Biagini, that sterilization statistic (14.2 percent) is higher than the U.S. average for the age group 15-25 (10.1 percent).

By far the largest percentage (60.4) of the girls entering the Alternative Program were referred by their school; 10.3 percent were referred by a friend; 4.7 percent by the Health Department; 4.1 percent by a physician; 4.1 percent by a family member and others by miscellaneous sources.

Biagini explained that not all teenage girls who become pregnant enter the Alternative Program. Some of them have abortions and others have miscarriages. Other simply drop out of school and disappear. "I get 15 to 20 referrals a year of girls whom we don't see later," she says.

Former students said the most helpful aspect of the program was its supportive atmosphere. Other helpful aspects reported were group counseling, prenatal education, child care, the program staff and academic education. Least helpful aspects were the assignment of specific tasks and responsibilities, the limited academic course offerings, inadequate space for child day care, long rides to classes and prenatal exercises.

Another bright spot in the survey, according to Biagini, is that the students learned to avail themselves of community resources such as Social Services, the Health Department, Child & Family Services, Community Mental Health, and others.

Biagini reports that the Alternative Program also works with teenage fathers, enrolling them in prenatal classes and group counseling to assist them with career development, getting a high school diploma, and job interviews. "We want them to be part of the responsibility, even if they are not living with the baby's mother," Biagini explains. "If they are going to get married, we set up premarital counseling for them."

Twenty-four girls are presently enrolled in the Alternative Program. They are picked up and driven home in Char-Em vehicles, some traveling as long as two hours with their babies. The program is funded by the State Department of Education, the March of Dimes and other similar organizations, private donations, and, at the end of the year, by local school systems which make up the difference between these sources of income and actual expenses.

"We can change people's lives for the better," Biagini insists. "We keep these girls in school; they become more self-sufficient and know they can survive on their own. They are setting goals, looking to the future."

15-year-old mother found program a help

by DOUG TRUAX

She was a punk-cheeked 15 year-old in the sophomore year in high school. And she was pregnant, part of a growing national trend of children having babies.

Her mother suggested the Alternative Program for School-Age Parents and she enrolled, a little reluctantly.

Now over a year later, Pam (not her real name) is one of the nearly 400 graduates of the program and she looks back on it favorably. "Everybody in the program is so supportive. It reinforces positive thoughts," she says.

She is especially enthusiastic about the support she received from program coordinator Mary Biagini. "Mary has to put up with a lot. She gives her all, and a lot of credit should be given to her."

Pam is one of the many successful graduates of the program. She is also articularly something of an exception. Not only did she re-enroll in high school after her baby was born – in a healthy 7 pounds, 7 ounces – but she will complete her school work one year early and expects to have a year of college credits by the time she graduates from high school.

Pam attended the alternative program for one semester during her pregnancy. She thought about enrolling again, after her child was born, but decided at the last minute to return to the public school. She has found the experience a comfortable one. "I don't have a problem with my friends," she says. "Everyone is very accepting of me."

The one sacrifice of returning to the public school, she says, was not being able to have her daughter, who was six months old when she went back to public school, with her during the day.

"I thought I'd feel guilty, but everything worked out fine," she says. Her child is cared for during the day by a licensed baby sitter who is paid, in part, by the state.

Like all girls in the Alternative Program, Pam was counseled on her options for keeping the baby or giving it up for adoption. The girls talked with people who had been adopted and people who had given their child up for adoption. They were also exposed to workers from adoption agencies and even the grandparents of adopted children.

"They tell you and show you the options. They don't push either way. Whatever you do decide, they'll support you," she says.

The decision to keep her baby was easy for Pam. "I hate the whole idea of adoption," she comments.

Nor did she give much thought to getting married. "Some of these people who get married, I don't understand it. It makes it harder to finish school and they tend to have another kid soon after," Pam observes.

She says her pregnancy was not the result of ignorance. "I was a well-informed person. You just don't think it is going to happen to you."

Information on birth control and sex education is lacking, she believes, and although there are sex education classes in the seventh and eighth grades, "they are no big deal. They don't tell you a lot."

Birth control for teenagers is difficult to obtain locally, she adds, and even then young people are not likely to use it. "If they (kids) get birth control, it is like they are planning sex."

Overall Pam looks back on the program as being helpful to her. Unlike many teenage mothers, she feels she has her life in control, a bright future ahead of her. "It has not been negative at all. I always planned on going to college, and I still plan on it. I'm happy having my child in my life."

"They tell you and show you the options. They don't push either way."

Letters to the Editor:

Charlevoix needs an auditorium for Performing Arts

Dear Editor:

On Sunday, March 9, I had the pleasure to attend the Charlevoix High School Performing Arts troupe's production of "Fiddler On The Roof." This fine production of a wonderful piece of theatrical literature was gallantly performed under what I consider to be atrocious conditions. A gym was not designed for dramatic performance. Despite numerous comments like, "I think I'll remember to bring a cushion next time," and "Ooh, my aching back", the students' talents captured the audience. Many of us were moved to tears by the sensitive and tragic ending of "Fiddler." A wave of sniffles went through the audience followed by a quiet rustling as people reached into their pockets and purses for kleenex.

I think that the three-time Class C-D State Champions deserve better than this. Connie Ford deserves better than this. The hundreds of students who will learn and grow through her program deserve better than this. The community deserves better than this. I call on the school board and the community to build an auditorium for the high school.

An auditorium would have improved CHS Performing Arts troupe's performance in many ways. First of all, Mrs. Ford could get rid of stand-up microphones because her troupe would be in a facility with the proper acoustics for speaking and singing. A gym is designed for bowling, running, bouncing balls, and "blowing off steam." It is not designed for the intense, emotional, and personal scene of a daughter saying goodby to her father - perhaps forever. If the troupe had an auditorium, Mrs. Ford would not have had to stage the scene so that the two characters never left the range of the stand-up mike.

Secondly, an auditorium would have handled a matinee with ease. A group of twenty dedicated parents would not have had to work hours to black out the gym windows with visqueen. Kit Carson Lumber, who so generously donated over 3,000 square feet of visqueen, could have donated something of more permanent and artistic value to the program. I do not mean to belittle either of these efforts. The students are lucky to have such a support group in the parents and in the businesses in the community. But how nice if these energies could be channeled into sets, lights, costumes, publicity rather than into blacking out the windows of the gym.

Finally, an auditorium would be of great value to the community and could probably pay for itself in the long run. At the very least, the maintenance costs could be recovered through rental. During the summer, the school could rent the facility to outside professional and community groups for concerts and plays. I am sure that Charlevoix's summer population would happily support a performing arts program in their own backyard.

Performing Arts are an extremely valuable part of the Charlevoix Public Schools' curriculum. Through performing arts, students gain skills and experience and self-confidence that they can use throughout their lives no matter what occupation or profession they choose to pursue. Certainly Connie Ford, her present and future students, deserve a reward for their hard work. For three years running they have earned the Class C-D state championship in dramatic competition. The football team had a place to perform; the basketball teams, have a place to perform. Let's give the performing arts students and the band a proper facility.

No voters did not know all the facts

Dear Editor:

I do not usually write "letters to the editor", but felt compelled to answer the letter letter from Richard J. Auli, condemning the Charlevoix Township Board for "being out of touch" with what the Charlevoix Township residents wanted.

I have lived in Charlevoix all my life with exception of a short time recently when I was compelled to leave for business reasons. I have just remarried and will be moving back to Charlevoix and to the process of the present. I cannot believe he would write such a letter unless he had a special personal vendetta against the Township Board. If he does they did not agree with him some years ago when he tried to close Mathias. Where was Mr. Auli – never showed at the township meetings when positive events were happening.

The township officials have accomplished some fine projects endorsed by all the residents, such as the fine recreation complex, tennis, soccer, BMX, etc., enjoyed by the city and township residents alike. How fire dept. which has assisted the city fire dept. in several fires the water dept. which also supplied water for the north side and to Mr. McGarahs drinking mule when the city water lines were cut under the channel. It seems they have been very active in performing many fine projects for the residents, and should be complimented, not condemned.

Mr. Auli and Mr. Biddick of Irish Boat Shop were the two most vocal against the Water's Edge project – Mr. Biddick stated "we don't need their business - we have too much now." Surely the other merchants in this city do not agree with him on this and were all in favor of the project.

Mrs. Kemferle, Chamber of Commerce executive director and the Irish Boat Co. were the two board members who voted against Water's Edge. All the other merchants supported it - and yet she wrote "We all need to be working together" – maybe she should step in line with the others then. She also stated that Mr. Truax said the "issue was whether or not Charlevoix people want to prevent excessive density on the lakefront." Where was Mr. Truax – was where were members of WATCH, ALERT, and ever busy Charlevoix Beautiful, when the city council allowed Mr. Busey to build 60 units 30 units per acre – not Water's Edge 5 per acre – right on the lakefront, and even gave a height variance to allow it started. Not one word of opposition, despite the many condos in the city and all around Round Lake.

Yet the Water's Edge townhouses would be Victorian style and not seen from the highway or the lake. No objections. Mrs. Kemferle advised allowing Lake Charlevoix Management Advisory Board to study this – where were they to allow a new marina at Ironton. Ruck Smith to build 45 more condos at Boyne City, Stafford Smith to build more at Boyne City, East Jordan also is being allowed condos?

But the very people who do not want Water's Edge would not even see it. Many who voted against it did not even know where the project would be. Many did not even know where the township hall was. Many city people who did not want it per Mr. Auli were not informed enough to know it was a township election, and many of those coming to vote said they had been harassed by WATCH and ALERT on the phone until they felt they had to vote "No".

Two women said they had been called seven or eight times and some were not interested in voting at all, but were called so many times. I was visiting at the township that evening prior to moving back, and heard this. I felt strongly also against people writing letters to the Courier against this project when they are only in Charlevoix two or three weeks a summer – yet the others living here will be the ones to suffer.

Yes, it is too bad that so many people voted against a project when they did not know all the facts. Hopefully next time they vote on anything, they will. It will be good to live in Charlevoix again - all year, not just visit here. This is lengthy, but I feel has many good facts.

Small town with class

The following letter was recently received by the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce.

Dear Friends,

We find occasion to be in your fair city on February 25. We, unfortunately, hit a deer on U.S. 31 just north of town. We were not injured; however, the deer and car didn't fare as well.

A passerby kindly notified your police department of our problem. Shortly a deputy sheriff arrived to assist us. Unfortunately, we did not get his name. He did everything possible to ease our predicament. We were greatly impressed with the deputy, the wrecker driver, the Lodge Motel, and Village Car Care. We felt that everyone was especially nice and helpful.

At times like these, travelers might expect to be over-charged since they have no choice. This was not the case in your city.

While riding in the sheriff's car he remarked that he like living in Charlevoix because it is "a small town with class." My friends and I think that statement says it all.

Coffee Days appreciation

Dear Editor:

On behalf of March of Dimes, may I express my sincere appreciation to the nine restaurants and businesses who took part in the annual March of Dimes Coffee Days in Charlevoix on Feb. 6 and 7.

Duffy's, Hallevest, Fireside Inn, Jill's Deli, Juilliene's, Stonecroft's Inn, 106 Bridge Street, Dockside Pharmacy and Nanny's Old Place raised $354 for March of Dimes from coffee sales on those days.

The willingness and generosity of each of the proprietors was heartwarming, and shows a caring and concern for the future mothers and babies.

The goal of March of Dimes is to see that healthy babies are born to healthy mothers through education, research and genetic counseling.

Clockwise

Impertinent question

By Bob Clock

A good friend – a man-of-the-cloth for 30 years – stopped at the office the other day to say goodbye. He was to retire in a few days and would be spending the balance of the winter in Florida.

After taking his picture and asking all the pertinent questions relative to his ministry and his future, I decided to ask an impertinent one.

"After three decades in the ministry, do you think the world is a better place to live than when you started?"

"Absolutely not," he answered without hesitation.

I was surprised by his response and pressed for an explanation.

"The disintegration of the family worries me," he said. "Thirty years ago, the family was the most important of our social institutions. But it is losing ground every year."

He blamed the lessening importance of the family on the fact that so many wives and mothers have joined the workforce and are absent from the home a good portion of every day. However, he was quick to acknowledge that many women have no other choice; the cost of maintaining a home being what it is.

MY FRIEND CLEARLY preferred the world into which he was born, one in which papa worked and mama stayed home to fix hearty meals for her lord and master, make the beds, wash the dishes, do the laundry, scrub the floors, polish the silver and perform a thousand and one little chores that made a house a home.

Every two years she got a few days off to have another baby – and catch up on her darning.

When the kids reached schoolage, mama was expected to meet them at the door after school with a plate of freshly baked cookies and frosty tumblers of milk or mugs of hot chocolate.

I can sympathize with my friend, because that is the kind of world I, too, was born into. And I loved it.

BUT IN RECENT years have I begun to realize how inhumane such an existence must have been for women who were not exactly born home-makers, women with smart, inquiring minds who were condemned by a chromosomal accident to lead lives of menial drudgery with little or no financial reward. Their frustrations must have been monumental.

Although a husband's love and the satisfaction of maternal instincts may have offered some consolation, it is little wonder that so many women suffered persecution complexes. Nor is it surprising that they unconsciously inflicted heavy burdens of guilt on their mates and offspring in retaliation for their enslavement.

I cannot help but feel that as the importance of the family diminishes, the stature of the individual is growing by quantum jumps. An ever-increasing number of today's wives and mothers play vital and rewarding roles in business, industry, education and government. Freed at any early age from stifling familial constraints, their children are confident, assertive and self-assured.

And everyone, I believe, is basically happier – including papa, once he accepts the fact that his macho ego-trip as family's chief provider is over.

With all due respect to my minister friend, I have a hunch that many of the mental ills that afflict Americans today, will be far less common in generations to come – a direct result of those changes in the family structure that he deplores.

Township needs patience

Dear Editor:

In response to last week's article concerning Waters Edge several things come to mind.

Why should the property be rezoned from R-1? For the developers financial gain? For the year-round residents loss? Any development does bring in additional tax dollars but it also brings, as several nationwide studies have shown, higher costs of law enforcement, road maintenance, utilities, etc., and besides even higher taxes for all.

Why should it be rezoned immediately? To save the developer time? Money? What is the rush? This is a very substantial portion of Lake Charlevoix frontage and what we as voters choose to allow there will affect all future inhabitants in our area.

The "new" plan is regrettably similar to previous presentations - why are scare tactics - such as "commercial use to be employed". A boat yard, I can assure you, would be even less feasible on that site, physically, as well as economically.

Contrary to Mr. Chamberlain, I feel the voters were saying "we are tired of being walled in by condominiums, particularly high density condominiums." The proposed North Point is just one more brick in the wall.

If Mr. Oelschlaeger finds one unit per 100 feet unacceptable then it is time for him to step back - not step on - the township board. The voters have spoken. He should sit back and allow the board adequate time to review the facts related to lakefront development and then make his proposal.

We are "The people in the back" Mr. Chamberlain referred to and there are many of us. We will do all we can to support strong lakefront zoning. No amount of pressure, financially or verbally, should force the township board to do anything immediately. Be patient. Allow time for those advisors more knowledgeable than ourselves to confer and work together. The end result will be a Charlevoix area which is infinately more desirable than Marco Island, Florida, Walled Lake, Michigan, or Lake Tahoe, Nevada, and it will remain desirable for both residents and developers for years to come.

Slow and reliable conscientious decisions are in order. Haste is not in the communities best interest.

Sports coverage unbalanced

Dear Editor:

After reading the February 26 issue of the Charlevoix Courier I was thoroughly disappointed by the gross imbalance of sports coverage. The Charlevoix girls and boys ski teams recently competed in the state competition after winning the regional title. Qualifying for state competition is a GREAT accomplishment and those who excel should be recognized and supported appropriately.

My intention is to emphasize the importance of acknowledging the excellence and accomplishments of all individuals and teams whether it be in academics, sports, forensics, band, debate, industrial arts or any other competition that is representing the City of Charlevoix. Perhaps in the future the Charlevoix Courier will be able to recognize the superior achievements of the students in the Charlevoix Public Schools.

Sincerely,
Sandy Miller

Antrim County celebrates St. Patrick's Day

The Green Coats are coming... and the Orange Coats too!

On Sunday, March 16 at 2 p.m., the fifth annual St. Patrick's Day Dinner will be held at Kresge Lodge, Camp Hayo-Went-Ha on East Torch Lake Drive.

This annual celebration is sponsored by the Antrim County Historical Society as a "kick-off" for the activities during the summer and fall. New and renewal memberships will be accepted at the meeting, but it is also a time of fun, food and fellowship with an historical flavor.

The dance team called "Dance All Night" will perform Irish, English and American traditional dances.

Space and food allowing, last minute arrivals will be fed, but to be sure, reservations should be made by calling 344-3616 before 4 p.m. on Friday, March 14. The menu includes old fashioned Irish Stew and all the trimmings served family style. Tickets at the door, $5 per adult.

Proceeds from the meal will be shared by Camp Hayo-Went-Ha and the Historical Society for their various projects.

St. Mary's plans traditional dinner for St. Patrick's Day

St. Mary's parish will host its annual St. Patrick's dinner at the school hall on Sunday, March 16, Julie Supernaw, general chairperson, has announced.

The dinner, to be served from noon until 3 p.m., will feature two popular entrees, corned beef and cabbage or baked ham with cherry sauce. There will also be mashed potatoes, green beans, a wide choice of salads, home baked rolls and breads a selection of desserts and a choice of beverages.

All the foods will be home-prepared.

Tickets for the dinner will be $4 for adults, $3.50 for senior citizens, $2.50 for children six to 12 years of age and children under six free. A family ticket will be $20.

Fritz Allard will again be in charge of the kitchen; Arlene Blissett, the dining room; Josephine Bindi, the coffee; Katie Curtis, desserts; Karen Campbell, the decorations; and Kathy Paterka, publicity. Other chairpersons will be named this week.

St. Patrick's Day dinners at St. Mary's Church have become a tradition that date back more than 60 years.

Rayders take district crown

By JIM HEIL

GAYLORD — The Charlevoix Rayders rarely initiated the fast break in the fourth quarter of Saturday's Class C district finals. Their quick guards were too preoccupied inside the paint.

Coach Dave Smith instructed all five players to crash the boards as the Rayders protected a three-point lead against Lincoln-Alcona. While apparently foul-conscious, they responded with a late rebounding surge that defeated the Tigers, 71-60.

While forward Sean Ferguson nailed down a school record 18 rebounds, guard Packy LaBlance untypically had three defensive caroms in the last five minutes to aid the champions.

The added muscle underneath — allowed Charlevoix to take an overall rebounding edge, 45-38.

They Alcona did well on the boards," Smith said. "I don't know why we stood around so much. I don't know if we were foul-conscious or what. We had some real dead spots."

But Charlevoix's perimeter shooting, virtually lifeless against Boyne City in the semifinals, and man-to-man defense that held down Alcona's field-goal proficiency — 25 percent in the first half — provided the winning edge.

Charlevoix, 17-6, advances to face Bennie Central, 10-12, Wednesday, March 12, in the regional semifinals at Gaylord, at 7:30 p.m. The finals will be played Friday at Gaylord also at 7:30 p.m.

The Rayders will likely revert back to their familiar zone press on Wednesday. Smith implemented man-to-man Saturday because the Tigers, 18-5, had played mostly against zones, and he wanted Ferguson defensing John Budreau.

The Rayders held forwards Budreau and Matt Carroll below their 15-point averages. "A man-to-man defense wears the offense down, so their shooting should get worse," Smith said.

Alcona coach Chuch Miknis felt his team excelled in every aspect except finding the basket. Yet he admitted Charlevoix's defenses are baffling.

"The one thing they do really well is run multiple defenses ... and they disguise them a little bit," Miknis said. "I guess you want teams to run man-to-man on you. I just thought we missed a lot of shots we could have had."

Miknis expressed no surprise over Charlevoix's shooting resurgence. "They were so tight against Boyne City, you could have cut it with a knife," he said. "They didn't mislead me at all. I knew Ferguson was a good shooter."

On Saturday, Smith didn't have to reposition Ferguson to the interior. The 6-foot-3 senior had brief lapses from the 15- to 20-foot range, but he finished with a game-high 30 points. Charlevoix also had sharp outside shooting from Jim Cluk with 17 points and Jody Putman with 12.

Perhaps the afternoon game allowed the Rayders to feel looser than usual. "We don't have all day to think about it," Smith noted.

But Charlevoix tightened up shortly before halftime when Alcona, after repeatedly missing inside, started to reduce a 13-point lead. A rebounded basket by Budreau and an inside feed to Mark McClorey cut the deficit to 11, and Budreau's turnaround jumper with three seconds left made it 32-22.

Alcona capitalized on the absence of Tim Salmonson, benched late in the second quarter with four fouls. Officials erred in calling Salmonson's third foul — a call that should have been charged to Putman.

Early in the third quarter, Charlevoix botched a two-shot foul situation and follow-up shots as Alcona's revived shooting didn't falter. Budreau sank an open 15-footer, Carroll sank a driving jumper and Klirk Franklin stole and scored and made it 32-29. Smith promptly called timeout at 6:01.

"We probably should have come out with man-to-man rather than zone," Smith said. "We came out a little too tentative."

Putman then stole an inside feed and fed to Cluk for a lay-up. The Rayders asserted tough inside pressure, but Franklin sagk a 12-foot jumper. Alcona traded baskets with Charlevoix and trailed by three at the quarter's end.

But Charlevoix started breaking away one minute into the final period when Putman sank a 15-footer. After rejecting a shot, Ferguson sank two free throws to which Jim Ritchie countered with one. But Cluk then scored the quarter's only fast-break bucket on a long pass from Ferguson at 5:46, 36-42.

Putman sat down at 5:32 with his fourth foul, and Franklin sank two free throws. But LaBlance was then fouled on a defensive rebound and sank the front end of a one-and-one. But inside baskets by Carroll put the lead to five.

Salmonson fouled out at 2:32, but his sidekicks continued to bang the boards. Ferguson put one of his seven fourth-quarter rebounds back up for two. LaBlance grabbed two more defensive rebounds and Putman rebounded a missed free throw and scored at 2:08 to make it 62-52.

Alcona was soon forced to foul. Cluk wisely dribbled away three fouls; he sank five free throws in the final two minutes. Drury fouled out in attempting to stop a rebounded shot at 1:16, but it was only academic.

Victory over Boyne City paved the road to finals

By JIM HEIL

CHARLEVOIX — His 6-foot-5 center hadn't fully recovered from a sprained knee while his point guard sat out with the flu. But Boyne City coach Rick Fowler had no premeditated alibis Thursday.

Instead, Fowler contended mental lapses led to his Ramblers' 57-45 downfall to Charlevoix in the Class C district semifinals.

As East Jordan did two nights earlier, Boyne City played closely with the defending district champions for nearly an entire game. But Charlevoix's pressure prompted a rash of break-away buckets in the last three minutes.

Charlevoix implemented an effective scheme of starting with man-to-man to shackle forward Nick Redman. Three minutes into the game, the Rayders switched to a full-court zone press which caused repeated turnovers.

"He (Redman) never got into the game offensively," Charlevoix coach Dave Smith said. "He's the kind of guy who can come down and hit four in a row in the first few minutes, and you're down 10-0 before you blink an eye."

Smith credited Tim Salmonson for fine coverage of the agile Redman.

But while Redman had trouble inside, Charlevoix's Sean Ferguson couldn't find the hoop from the perimeter in the first half. Ferguson initially shot over Boyne's packed-in 2-3 zone and consistently missed, forcing Smith to bring the forward inside for the second half.

"I thought we did a fine job on him (Ferguson)," said Fowler. "Our defense didn't lose the ball game. Our kids played good defense. I don't think Charlevoix made us get out of our defense ... in the first three quarters."

But defense didn't explain an all-around first-quarter dull — both coaches admitted their teams were a little tight. The array of goose eggs on the scoreboard wasn't altered until Redman rebounded the score for a 2-0 lead at 4:44.

The comedy of errors continued until Jody Putman sank two free throws for a tie at 3:22. Charlevoix didn't record its first field goal until Packy LaBlance sank an outside shot at 2:50. The Rayders held the lead for most of the half.

"Once we got in the scoring column, it kind of breaks the ice," Smith said. "They saw us play East Jordan when we got the ball inside, so they just backed people in there, and they're big enough to do that and keep you out of the middle."

Charlevoix's press came on strong early in the second quarter. The Rayders built a 15-7 lead after a half-court steal by Ferguson led to a lay-up by guard Jim Cluk (a game-high 20 points). But the Ramblers then toughened up under the boards and started fast breaking.

A rebounded basket by Penny and a fast-break Redman-to-DeSchryver lay-up at 2:12 before halftime tied the game, 17-17. A free throw by Ferguson gave Charlevoix the lead, but Boyne went ahead when Penny hit a baseline jumper on a feed from Marc Archambault at 1:12.

But the Rayders regained the lead on a 15-footer by Cluk. Ferguson sank a baseline jumper two seconds before halftime, 22-19.

Dan Drury came in there for about three or four minutes and really gave us a lift in terms of moving the ball," Smith said of the sophomore. Packy just wasn't real sharp tonight on some of his passes."

Charlevoix capitalized on the absence of Penny, whistled for his fourth foul at 6:26 of the third quarter. Ferguson avoided being fronted by Redman and scored on inside feeds by Cluk and Putman to extended the Rayders' lead.

Fowler made the gutsy move of inserting Penny with four fouls late in the third quarter. The move paid off as Boyne wiped out an eight-point deficit and took a 33-32 lead on a three-point play by Mike DeSchryver.

But Penny started the fourth quarter, and when he fouled out with 4:18 remaining, it signalled the beginning of the end of Boyne.

"He's only had one day of practice (since the injury a week ago)," Fowler said. "He's only playing 90 percent. But there are no excuses for the way we played, because we just blew it psychologically. We had 'em."

Penny's fifth fowl sent Putman to the line with Charlevoix leading, 42-37. A free throw by Putman commenced a 9-2 spurt that all but buried the Ramblers.

A rebounded basket by Redman made it 45-39 at 3:47. But Ferguson then scored on an inside feed from Putman, and a turnover at the other end prompted an uncontested lay-up by Cluk, built the lead to 51-39 at 2:33.

Work program for handicappers planned

GTP Industries of Traverse City has announced it has been awarded a $25,000 grant from Michigan Rehabilitation Services to develop a Community Work Training Program for handicappers in Charlevoix and Emmet Counties.

The program, set to get underway in late winter, is exploring community contacts and possible work sites. To begin the program, GTP will hire a program director to develop work and begin training clients.

Michigan Rehabilitation Services, Char-Em Intermediate School District, and the Northern Region Community Mental Health Board all were a part of the early planning for the new program and will serve as the referral sources to GTP Industries for the client-workers.

To a large degree, the program will be a replication of GTP's Community Work Training Program in the Traverse City area, in which numerous businesses provide contract work sites in which GTP places and trains handicapped workers. GTP Industries says it wants the program to be totally self-supporting with 18 to 24 months through a combination of fees for service and production revenues.

While there are two Work Activity Center Programs in Charlevoix and Emmet Counties training more severely disabled adults, Dan O'Neill, District Office Manager for Michigan Rehabilitation Services, states that GTP Industries was chosen because the two existing Work Activity Programs showed no interest, and GTP had a solid track record of Community Job Training with handicapped adults.

Big Rock generated $21 million during 1985

The Big Rock Point Nuclear Plant generated more than $21 million worth of electricity during 1985, plant superintendent David P. Hoffman announced recently.

In summing up the plant's performance for the year, Hoffman noted that the plant's power production amounted to about three times the combined electric needs of the cities of Charlevoix, Petoskey and Harbor Springs. "For a plant that was an experimental 'alternative' energy source two decades ago, it's doing rather well," he said. Completed in 1962, Big Rock Point was Michigan's first commercial nuclear power plant.

Big Rock Point's generation of more than 361,000 megawatt-hours of electricity during 1985 helped Consumers Power Company meet record-breaking sales to its customers. In 1985, the company's electric customers required a record 27.5 million megawatt-hours of electricity. Customer demand for power has grown almost 12 percent over the past three years, the company said. "Already this winter, the company's customers have set three new seasonal records for hourly demand.

"Although there is plenty of interest in conservation and new alternative energy sources such as windmills and solar panels, the fact remains today that customer demand for power is very strong in Michigan and this demand will be serviced by our fossil-fueled and nuclear power plants," said Hoffman.

Retreat planned

A weekend retreat for women will be held at the Sacramentine Monastery at Conway on March 14, 15, and 16.

The Rev. Gerald Rohrer, S.J. will be the retreat-master.

Those planning to attend are asked to call 347-3657 for reservations.

Poison Prevention Week: March 16-22

Childhood poisonings reduced greatly

March 16-22, 1986 marks the 25th anniversary of National Poison Prevention Week. During the past 25 years the number of childhood poisonings has decreased from 450 in 1961 to 65 in 1983 (the most current year for complete statistics). This represents a remarkable 88 percent reduction in the number of poisoning accidents to children.

This dramatic reduction in the number of poisoning fatalities can be attributed in part to the use of child-resistant packaging provided by the manufacturer's of drugs and hazardous household products. However, increased public awareness of the need to keep medicines and household chemicals out of the reach of children has played an important role in reducing the incidence of poisoning deaths.

To observe National Poison Prevention Week, the Northern Michigan Pharmacists Association is presenting a film, "Sniffy Escapes Poisoning," to the second and third grade students of Petoskey, Charlevoix and Boyne City school districts. Also the local pharmacies will be distributing pamphlets and other literature regarding poison prevention.

District Health Department No. 3 recommends the following guidelines to protect your children from poisoning hazards in the home:

1. Keep chemicals out of reach on high shelves or cabinets. Never store toxic household products under the sink or in other low cupboards.

2. Lock cabinets and or drawers containing medicines and chemicals.

3. Use original containers for all drugs and cleaning products. Never store poisonous substances in glass jars, pop bottles, etc.

4. Select containers with child resistant caps and close tightly after each use.

5. Be careful with medicines. Never give medicine in the dark or call medicine "candy."

6. Check your home frequently for hazards. Be especially diligent in the kitchen, bathroom, and the garage, utility, or storage areas.

In the event of a poisoning accident, get medical help by calling the Poison Control Center 800-462-6911), a physician or hospital.

Dilute the poison, if directed, by giving child a glass of milk or water to drink. Induce vomiting (only on the advice of a poison control center, physician or hospital) by giving syrup of ipecac or tickling back of the throat. Get to the hospital fast and bring the poison container with you.

Remember, poisoning can be prevented. The basic theme of the 1986 Poison Prevention Week is "Children Act Fast ... So Do Poisons." This means that parents must not only childproof their home but must always be watchful when household chemical or drugs are being used. Many accidents happen when an adult is using a product and he or she is distracted by the telephone or doorbell.

It takes only a few moments for a child to act. Remember, growing children are naturally curious about pills, bottles, and containers of all kinds.

Prevent this natural curiosity from becoming tragedy by careful handling and storage of all toxic substances.

Kids and booze:

Community recognizes growing alcohol problem

tant principal at the high school, also estimates that some 50 percent of the high school students drink socially and that three out of four will drink on occasion. "I don't know if it's different now than four or five years ago," he says, "but it is much more severe than 15 or 20 years ago."

Van Guilder says that drinking among the very young is difficult to assess. "But I don't think it's a problem at the middle school, although there are always isolated instances."

Not all would agree. Danielle Johnson says she thinks drinking is starting earlier. She reports that after a recent middle school dance she waited on at least four or five seventh and eighth graders who had obviously been drinking.

In the school survey, 48 percent of the freshmen said they drink occasionally, while only 8 percent said they drink every weekend.

"There are kids in the middle school that are using drugs (including alcohol)," Ann Rose, a substance abuse counselor at the CHIP Counseling Center says.

School Superintendent Gordon Van Wieren agrees that generally teenage drinking is a significant problem in the community. "In my opinion, there has been an increase in alcohol abuse in the past few years," he notes. But Van Wieren says that drinking by the younger age groups was worse when the state allowed drinking among 18 year-olds.

In her 11 years as counselor at the high school, Gayle Gennett came in direct contact with the drinking problem. "It's a community problem," she adds. "Just drive down the street and look. The bars are all crowded.

"When I started 11 years ago fewer kids were drinking to excess. Now it is like 'How many can you chug?'," she adds.

While drinking is a growing problem, most local observers feel other illegal drugs are not as prevalent as they once were. Most school administrators feel illegal drugs are a minor problem. Not all authorities agree.

Where drugs are used, marijuana seems to be the drug of choice. "Pot is a problem," Rose says. "I have seen a lot of kids who have used and stopped or are using and want to stop."

Most local authorities feel the use of hard drugs is a rare thing. If they are right, in that respect Charlevoix is doing better than the national averages. The ISR study indicates that after a five-year decline, drug use is again on the rise. Tranquilizers and barbiturates are holding steady, while the use of cocaine, PCP, and opiates increased in 1985.

Cocaine had been tried by 17 percent of the seniors in the 1985 national ISR study – the highest rate observed so far in the continuing study.

Some students questioned in Charlevoix say that cocaine and other hard drugs are seldom used by the high school crowd. "If you do drugs people look down on you," says Bob Wann, president of the senior class and editor of the school newspaper.

Bryan Noirot, a senior and editor of the yearbook, concurs that alcohol, not other illegal drugs, is the main focus of high school students in Charlevoix. "Kids may pass around a joint at a party, but there are not a lot of people who buy it and use it regularly," he says.

Most of the drinking, he says, occurs during the weekend. "Some say our class is the worst, but it's been going on for so long. I think it was wilder when I was a freshman," Noirot says. "It is not a new problem."

Noirot and Wann disagree as to whether alcohol's effects on today's teenagers. "A lot of kids have a problem with it," Wann says.

Noirot feels that by the time they are upperclassmen, most young people have learned to deal with alcohol. "I don't see the drinking as a major problem," he adds. "People are trying to make too big a thing of it. It has been going on for so long."

Why has alcohol come to play such a major role in the lives of Charlevoix's youth? Are things any different now than they were in years past? Most people questioned by the Courier point to peer pressure as one of the main culprits.

"The only reason that freshmen are drinking is because they want to be like upperclassmen," says Bessie Spencer, a freshman at Charlevoix High School.

"The largest percentage of drinking is because of peer pressure and the media," Gennett comments. "It's cool to have a drink in your hand."

Vane Smith, principal of the elementary school and former high school principal, prefers to call it "peer influence." No one is forced to drink, he says, but kids are likely to do what others in their group do.

Some also credit boredom as a small town, especially during the winter. "A lot of kids drink every weekend just to fit in because there is nothing else to do," Wann says. "They are bored as heck during the winter," Noirot adds.

Dave Smith thinks young people have plenty of things to do. Maybe too many things, he wonders aloud. Smith suspects the causes of so much teenage drinking may lie deeper, in our high expectations for children these days. "Everybody is pushing for kids to achieve. Everything is geared to achievement. It puts some pressures on the kid who can't achieve or who has some doubts about whether he can," Smith says.

"It's nice to have high expectations and goals," he adds, "but somewhere there is a reality there. If kids don't achieve right away – live up to others expectations – they are discouraged."

He points out that the pressure to succeed and achieved means long hours for many young people. "It's not uncommon for some of our kids to be here from 7:30 a.m. to 8 or 9 p.m. every night of the week."

He looks with a little irony at his own situation as a highly successful basketball coach whose kids are expected to win every year. "I'm part of that. I've created this monster. When is enough enough?" he asks.

There are also those who say the community sets the standards for youth and alcohol, at times even promoting drinking.

"I think a resort community creates an atmosphere that makes it more conducive to alcohol," Vane Smith points out. "In the summers, everyone the kids see is drinking. They observe it. They work around it."

One hears the theme often: Charlevoix is a party town. It always has been, always will be, they say.

Van Guilder is disturbed by the influence of the local rock concerts. "Tolerating this massive consumption of alcohol at Castle Farms is totally unacceptable to me ... as an administrator and as a taxpayer."

He also subscribes to the theory that Charlevoix is more permissive because it is a resort town. "There a feeling that this is Charlevoix ... this is acceptable," he adds.

Van Guilder and others also point to the influence of one-parent families. Children in such families may feel more stress as they grow up and they may have less supervision.

Other theories abound. The problem remains. But few are suggesting that Charlevoix, or the nation for that matter, is confronted by a lost generation. The mystery of the alcohol problem is that so many of today's teenagers have so much going for them.

Superintendent Van Wieren puts it clearly. "I'm impressed with the kids in school right now. They are a pretty stable group – as stable a group as I have ever seen."

Members of the GM Ski Club of Detroit proudly display their first place trophies from the Midwest Grand Marnier Regional Championship at Boyne Mt., Michigan March 1. The six member slalom squad bested 46 other teams in winning the regional competition and an all expenses paid trip to the Grand Marnier National Ski Club Championship at Alpine Meadows, Calif., April 8-12. Team members are (back row, left to right) Marcia Veldman, Grand Rapids; Leslie Marsac, Royal Oak; J.J. Gemmell, Orchard Lake; (front, left to right) Jon Daukas, Rockford; Erik Lundtelgen, Charlevoix; and Ward Veldman, Grand Rapids.

Charlevoix skier heads west to competition

For the second time in three years, Charlevoix's Erik Lundtergen will be headed west for the Grand Marnier Ski Club Challenge.

Lundtergen and his General Motors-sponsored team earned an all-expense paid trip to Alpine Meadows in North Lake Tahoe, Calif., on April 7-13 by winning the Grand Marnier Midwest nationals in Keystone, Colo., and was honored as the meet's fastest racer.

Some 55 teams consisting of 350 skiers competed at the Mountain. There are six individuals on each team with various ages represented. The winner was determined by combining the five fastest times of each team. Lundtelgen, the youngest male on his team at 25, said all six racers had to ski well on the modified slalom course.

Clothing Co. upsets Bankers

The Clothing Company upset the First State Bank by a score of 52-48 and Nanny's edged Wojan Aluminum 53-50 in games played in the Charlevoix Independent Basketball B League.

A 26-point surge in the final period by the First State Bank trutumed the Clothing Company's lead to four points after the Bankers had trailed by as much as 15 points durnne the game. After breaking a 14-all first-period tie, the Clothing Company had led 38-32 at the half and 34-42 going into the final period when the Bankers outscored the Clothiers 28-18 to trim the latter's win to four points.

Gary Vernon came through with 22 points. Dave Cole 16 and Bill Hoaglund 12 for the victors. Dennis Duranic had 29 and Bob Sandahl 19 for First State.

It was a seesaw battle before Nanny's defeated Wojan's by three points at the buzzer. After breaking a 12-12 first period tie, Wojan's grabbed a two-point halftime lead of 24-22 only to lose it 35-33 going into the final period when Nanny's outscored Wojan's 18-17 for the win.

Tim DeYoung had 14 and Steve Voorhees 13 for the winners. Charles Carver with 20 and Darrel VanLoo with 18 were top scorers for Wojan.

On Wednesday, March 12, The Clothing Company will meet Nanny's and Paul Lindberg, Inc., will meet First State Bank.

The B League will close out its schedule Monday, March 17, when Wojan meets First State Bank and The Clothing Company plays Lindberg, Inc.

Alcohol Abuse subject of panel discussion

The public is invited to attend an informative discussion on the topic "Alcohol and Drug Abuse" at the Charlevoix United Methodist Church, 104 State Street, March 19 at 7:15 p.m.

A panel of community people having involvement and expertise on the topic will speak:

Panel members include: George Lasater, Sheriff of Charlevoix County; JoAnn Lutze, Chip Counseling Center prevention educator; Dr. Dennis Joy, Charlevoix physician; Laurie L. Howell, 90th District Court probation officer; and Linda Mansfield, juvenile court in home care worker.

The purpose of this program is to inform the audience in order to effect the prevention of drug and alcohol abuse, and to begin to intervene into the lives of families where alcoholic and drug abuse are a problem.

Auxiliary plans luncheon

Plans for a casserole-salad luncheon on April 16 were made at the regular meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary held recently at the post home.

Katie Curtis, auxiliary president, will serve as chairperson of the event to be served from 11 a.m. until 1:30 p.m.

Proceeds from the event will be used toward the purchase of new drapes for the post home.

All post and auxiliary members will be contacted to support the luncheon.

At the same meeting, it was decided to discontinue the monthly potluck dinners for legion and auxiliary members that preceded the first Tuesday meetings. Auxiliary meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. and post meetings will be held at 8 p.m.

Readers see Red

RED or Read Every Day, is the slogan for the third and final Reading is Fundamental (RIF) distribution to be held on Tuesday, March 18. All Charlevoix Elementary School first graders and students in the HIP program will have their choice of a free paperback book. Children are encouraged to wear red clothing to school that day.

Board to meet

The next regular meeting of the Northern Michigan Community Mental Health Services Board will be held on Thursday, March 20, 1986 at 4 p.m. in the administrative offices located at 8746 Moeller Drive, Harbor Springs. The public is invited to attend.

Vital Options holds March Madness benefit

If cold winds, snow and ice have slowed you down ... if tournament tension has you on edge ... if the walls are closing in ... and your whole body is out-of-style ... you may need a day of "March Madness."

"March Madness," this year's Vital Options benefit for the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday, March 22 at the Charlevoix High School gymnasium. The all-day program includes informative and motivating lectures, spring fashions, a nutritious lunch, exercise, door prizes and more.

Mary M. Framie, ACSW, a family counselor who has taught at North Central Michigan College and conducted seminars on stress management for several local companies, will provide a program called "Body and Mind Connection."

Duane Taylor, counselor at Petoskey High School will speak on "Happiness is ... Mental Fitness."

A discussion of "Osteoporosis and Exercise" will be lead by Bob Gerkewicz, physical therapist at Charlevoix Area Hospital. This discussion will provide insight into a subject of growing concern among older women and suggestions for preventing this disabling condition.

Participants will also learn more about good nutrition from Julie Dalrymple, Charlevoix Area Hospital dietician. Julie's presentation will go beyond the basics and provide special tips for active and health-conscious people.

Mary Peterson of The Centre in Petoskey will be on hand to demonstrate her program "Hair and Skin Makeovers," using volunteers.

Spring fashions will be presented by clothing stores from Charlevoix, Petoskey, Boyne City and Harbor Springs.

Vital Options will offer a preview of its new Spring Workout Program. It's called "Celebration" in honor of Vital Options' 10th anniversary and has all of the energy, enthusiasm and health building activity in it that have gained Vital Options such wide recognition.

After all of the activity a nutritious and tasty lunch will be served.

A $5 donation to Cystic Fibrosis is the price of admission to this day of fun, fashion and energetic participation. Tickets will be available at the door. For reservations or more information please call Candy Smith, Vital Options Area Coordinator at 547-5358.

Several Charlevoix Elementary students were winners in a poster contest recently sponsored by the Vacationland Dental Society of Charlevoix. Awards for contest winners were awarded by school nurse, Gerry Brady. First prize of $10 was awarded to Cari Fershee; Suzi Sineway won $5 for placing second, and third prize winner was Erik Kurchinski, $2.50. Earning Honorable Mentions were: Marianne Pfister, Michelle Keem, Wendy Engler, and Kimberly Keeler.

Nursing scholarship applications available

Applications are now available for two annual nursing scholarships administered by Charlevoix Area Hospital.

The Peggy Carey Northway Scholarship is awarded each year to a graduating high school senior who plans to attend an approved school of nursing in the State of Michigan. The scholarship totals up to $1,200 and is awarded in increments of $300 per year.

The Charlevoix Area Hospital Nursing Scholarship is awarded annually to either a high school senior or high school graduate who also wishes to attend an approved nursing school within the state. The $700 scholarship is awarded in increments of $350 a year.

For both scholarships, applicants must reside in the area served by Charlevoix Area Hospital and must have applied for admittance to an accredited school of nursing before applying for the scholarship. Scholarships are not awarded until applicants are informed of acceptance by the schools at which they have applied.

Application forms are available from high school guidance offices and from Charlevoix Area Hospital. They are to be submitted by April 1.

Lyric Opera features Sondheim musical

Stephen Sondheim will be the featured composer when the Lyric Opera of Northern Michigan, Inc. unveils its April production. Sondheim is known for many musical creations yet one of the most popular continues to be "Side By Side by Sondheim." The show, called 'A Musical Entertainment,' displays music and lyrics not only by Stephen Sondheim but also those of other notable composers such as Mary Rodgers, Richard Rodgers and Jule Styne.

Song by song, Stephen Sondheim has dazzled Broadway with his audacious music and lyrics to some of America's most creative contemporary musicals.

This delightful musical revue contains numbers from many musicals for which he wrote music and lyrics: "An Evening Primrose," "Anyone Can Whistle," "A Funny Thing Happened On the Way To the Forum," "Company," "Follies," "A Little Night Music" and "Pacific Overtures."

"Side By Side by Sondheim" is scheduled to open in Traverse City on Friday, April 18 in Lars Hockstad Auditorium at 8 p.m. The show will follow with performances in Petoskey at the Senior High School Auditorium on Saturday, April 19 at 8 p.m.; in Charlevoix at the High School Gymnasium on Sunday, April 20 at 4 p.m.

Tickets for these performances are available beginning March 1 at Kurtz Music and Sound, 227 E. Front Street in Traverse City for the Traverse City performances; the Virginia McCune Arts Center for the Petoskey performance; Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce for the Charlevoix performance.

Ticket prices for this production are adults $7, senior citizens $6, children and students 18 years and younger $5. Tickets will also be available at the door one hour before curtain time for each performance. Advance ticket sales may be made in writing directly to the Lyric Opera of Northern Michigan, Inc., P.O. Box 56, Interlochen, MI 49643.

High water could mean disaster for county

by PEG OHLE

The Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners wants to be ready for the emergency.

Last week, the Board passed a resolution asking that Charlevoix County be declared a disaster area because of shoreline erosion and damage to shoreline properties.

Particularly noted in the resolution were the problems the County Road Commission is having with the Shore Drive from Boyne City to Whiting Park and Lake Shore Drive south of the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

"Charlevoix County has spent over $50,000 on shoreline protection along some of our major roads and additional such required expenditures will ne required as the result of spring thaws," the resolution states.

In Peaine Township on Beaver Island, things are really bad, according to Joe Martin, Township clerk.

"The East side Road is almost gone, and we're going to get erosion on the west side, too," Martin said. "In fact, it's already starting."

County Road Engineer Fred Welch confirmed all the above mentioned road problems and added that at the south end of Peaine Township, the road was bad "from Cable Creek to the lighthouse".

The March issue of "Great Lakes Levels", put out by the United States Army Corps of Engineers, notes that Lake Michigan in February was six inches above the all-time monthly mean high, which was set in 1952, and about 59 inches above the all-time February low set in 1964.

Lakes Michigan and Huron are expected to be above the long-term average level during the next six months. The forecast shows that at the end of March the lakes will be about two inches above the February level. The lakes are expected to continue their seasonal rise into July and by the end of August are forecast to be 11 inches above the 1985 level.

If Charlevoix County is declared a disaster area by Governor Blanchard as requested by the County Board, the issuance of permits from the Department of Natural Resources and the Corps of Engineers would be expedited. Such permits are needed before any repair work can be done along the lake shores.

The Corps of Engineers has authority under Public Law 84-99 to carry out preventive work prior to a flood threat to life and improved property. This program, known as Advance Measures, was initiated on the Great Lakes early in 1965 at the request of the governors of Michigan and Ohio to counter the threat presented by the high Great Lakes water levels. The program is now underway at a number of sites in Michigan, mostly on Lake Erie south of Detroit.

Jelly Bean Contest

How many jelly beans fit into a Mason jar? If you think you know, here's your chance to win big prizes in the new contest being sponsored by the Courier and several local merchants.

Participating businesses in Charlevoix will each have on display a jar filled with jelly beans and candy. Guess how many jelly beans and pieces of candy are in the jar and you win the jar, a valuable prize from the merchant and a chance to win a delicious Easter ham from the Courier.

See page 14 for where to find the jelly bean jars and how to enter the contest.

Kids and booze: a growing crisis

Part II: The National Perspective

The Charlevoix Courier is publishing a five-part series on the growing problem of alcohol abuse among this city's teenagers. In today's segment, we present a detailed examination of national trends in alcohol and drug use by teens. Future articles will examine the views of young people about the situation; how police, church and community leaders are addressing the problem; and suggestions and solutions for the community, school and parents. Editor

by DOUG TEUAX

Charlevoix's youth have no corner on the problem of teenage drinking, although some observers feel the problem is worse in this resort town than elsewhere. Nor have Charlevoix's young people been spared from the use of other abusable substances including marijuana, amphetamines, barbiturates and cocaine.

Determining the extent of the problem in Charlevoix is difficult since local statistics are few and spotty. But national studies, using carefully drawn representative samples, give an insight into trends of youthful use of drugs – legal and illegal – which provide important benchmarks for understanding usage rates at the local level.

Among the most noteworthy trends in 1985, say researchers at the University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research (ISR), was an increase in use of cocaine among high school seniors.

Seventeen percent of the 1985 graduating class reported having tried cocaine at least once, the highest rate in the 11 years ISR has been conducting the study.

COCAINE USE was up in 1985 for virtually all of the subgroups studied – males and females, college-bound and non college-bound, rural and urban areas, and all regions of the country except the South.

The ISR researchers also report that 1985 witnessed a change in the trends for several drugs, including alcohol. "Beginning around 1980, after nearly two decades of continuous increases in use, there was an important turnaround in young people's attitudes about abusable substances," says Lloyd Johnston, social psychologist and co-director of the ISR studies.

"For the next four years the use of many drugs declined steadily. In 1985, however, only three showed continued decline – amphetamines, methaqualone, and to a lesser extent LSD. The decline stalled for marijuana, tranquilizers, barbiturates and alcohol."

The ISR study, known as Monitoring the Futures: A continuing Study of the Lifestyles and Values of Youth, is funded primarily by the National Institute on Drug Abuse. Each year since 1975, ISR researchers have surveyed young people in about 140 public and private schools across the country. In 1985 the survey questioned 16,000 students. The results provide an accurate cross section of all the nation's high school seniors. A panel of students from each graduating class in also followed by mail questionnaires for 10 years after high school.

The study is directed by Johnston and his ISR colleagues, Jerald

This Olympic competition challenges mind, not body

by ANNE KELLY

It's called OM these days – not "Olympics of the Mind" as it once was – but make no mistake about it, Olympic competition is exactly what it is all about.

This Olympics, however, is not a match of athletic prowess. It is a competition of young, creative minds which involves many months of training and discipline.

Rather than just another extra-curricular activity," OM is a commitment. This is becoming increasingly clear to first-time participants at Charlevoix Elementary School. Since last fall, teams of students, grades K through 5 (there is one sixth-grade participant) have been tackling a problem chosen for the March 22 extravaganza in Traverse City.

(The name was changed because the U.S. Olympic Committee has a monopoly on the name "Olympics" except for a provision for the "Special Olympics."

The competition will be two-fold – a long-term problem and a spontaneous problem. Both presented within rigid guidelines and time limits, before judges, of the OM Committee.

Long-term problems were chosen from the following categories:

Treasure Hunters: the team is to prepare a computer program that produces computer output for guiding team members in successfully recovering and moving several items in a 48 square inch land-out on the floor.

Technology: the problem is to design, develop and manufacture a creative product. The design and production planning will be completed in advance, but the manufacturing will occur during competition. This future will be based on the consumable chemical items, packaging them and place them on a shipping dock.

Classics (Great Art Lives): the team is to paint three-to-six scenes (or works by one of a given list of art masters) copying the original as accurately as possible. One work will serve as a benchmark. A second will be the subject of a live team performance in which the participants will begin or end in the position of the subjects of the work of art chosen. A third and original work will be created by the team in the style of the master.

Designing The Cure: the problem is to design and build a pair of structures using , and straps of balsa wood glued to support the greatest weight. The structures will include a beam 20 to 36 inches in length and a load-bearing element not more than 3 inches in length when sits atop the beam.

History...The Way It Was: the team must present a humorous depiction of an old-time problem or how they imagine some historical event might have taken place.

Happy Birthday: is a non-competitive category for students K-2 in which team members plan a birthday party for a famous person.

Spontaneous problems involve on-the-spot solutions to short-term problems. They may be non-verbal, involve drawing, require costume creation, ask for dramatization, or creative writing, or be of a hands-on nature.

Sound challenging enough?

"Sometimes I wonder how I got myself into this," one coach was heard to sigh as March 22 loomed nearer. "But I know it's all going to be worth the time and effort when the kids get to competition. They're wicked hard to beat."

Since January, teams have met at least weekly for one to two hours. As

Man kills self in Charlevoix

A Boyne City man, Hiram Lee Freiburger, 57, died Saturday at Northern Michigan Hospitals in Petoskey after he shot himself while seated in his vehicle at Gleaner's Shopping Center parking lot at Bridge and Antrim streets.

He had been treated at the Charlevoix Area Hospital before being transported to the hospital in Petoskey where he died soon after admittance.

According to Boyne City police, Freiburger family members had alerted them at 6:45 p.m. Saturday that Freiburger had left home with a gun. Law enforcement agencies in the county were notified to look for him.

"We never made contact with him," said Boyne City Police Chief John Talbert. "We checked out a bunch of possibilities where he might have gone, but he wasn't in any of them."

At approximately 8 p.m., a Charlevoix police officer discovered a car answering the description of Freiburger's parked in the northeast corner of the parking lot. As the officer approached the car, Freiburger shot himself.

The Charlevoix officer never had an opportunity to speak to the man.

The body was taken to the Stackus Funeral Home where services were conducted Tuesday, March 18.

Grandvue plans spring games party

Plans for the annual spring games party and bake sale were made at the recent meeting of the Grandvue Medical Care Facility Auxiliary held at the facility. Eleven members were present for the first meeting of 1986.

Members are asked to bring items for the bake sale, cookies for refreshments, to fill a table for the games party and bring a door prize for the games party. Betty Boswell was named chairman of the event.

The annual county-wide Tag Day sponsored by the auxiliary in July was discussed.

Mrs. Phyllis Malpass, treasurer, reported that the Auxiliary had purchased three wheel-walkers and a comptometer for the SRC department with monies from the Fuschia Taft Memorial Fund. Other equipment purchased by the Auxiliary was a tilt-top table at a cost of $1,400 and a small two-shelf stand for the Therapy Department.

Other equipment, including parallel bars, a wall-mount bed and a cart, have also arrived.

A letter asking for a contribution to help underwrite the operation of the nutritional dinner project now being conducted at the VFW in Charlevoix was read. The dinners and other activities for seniors have been held at the site since December. No action was taken on the request.

The Auxiliary membership now stands at 103 including 30 life members Mary Geiken, membership chairperson reported.

Mrs. Boswell and Leva Cole were hostesses at the March meeting.

WATCH gives $2,500 for area scholarships

Scholarships for up to eight high school seniors worth $2,500 are being offered this spring by WATCH, Inc. (Water and Air Team for Charlevoix), a local environmental group.

Michelle Biddick, scholarship program director, says the program is open to all senior high school students in the Charlevoix County area.

The scholarship awards will be based on essays submitted on the topic "Lake Charlevoix: How to allow healthy growth while maintaining lake viability." Essays must be 1,000 words or less and typewritten.

"Entry essays may treat ideas on pollution, future use and abuse, land development, recreation, wetlands preservation, greebelts, as well as other factors affecting lake quality," Biddick says.

The 1986 scholarship awards will include one $1,000 award, two $500 scholarships, and five $100 scholarships. Any senior planning on attending a college, university or vocational school is eligible for one of the awards.

Biddick has contacted schools in Boyne City, Boyne Falls, Charlevoix, East Jordan and Beaver Island and explained the program to students, teachers and administrators at the schools.

She says students are asked to fill out an application as soon as possible and are then sent information on the format and guidelines for the essay contest. English composition will be one criterion by which the essays are judged, Biddick says, but judges will also be looking for students with a sincere interest in the topic, good ideas, and environmental awareness.

WATCH is also giving $100 to each participating school for the purchase of books and periodicals on environmental subjects.

Students interested in participating should contact their counselor, science teacher or english teacher for details on the scholarship program. Applications are due May 2 and essays must be postmarked no later than May 16.

Those wishing further information, or willing to serve as contest judges, may also contact Michelle Biddick, P.O. Box 223, Charlevoix, MI 49720, 547-4369.

Michelle Biddick displays some of the posters which will appear in area schools announcing the scholarship contest.

Free food scheduled

Free cheese, rice and butter will be distributed in Charlevoix County on Wednesday, March 26 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. or until the food is gone. Distribution sites in Charlevoix County are: Charlevoix – VFW hall; East Jordan – Civic Center; Beaver Island – Holy Cross Church.

Distribution in the Ellsworth Community Hall and other Antrim County sites will be on Tuesday, March 25, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. or until the food is gone.

The federal income guidelines for free food eligibility was changed as of March 1, 1986. The changes are as follows: non-senior household – family of one, $6,700, family of two $9,050, $2,350 for each additional member. Senior households (at least one family member 60 years old or more) – family of one, $8,576, for each additional member add $3,008.

Building permits still down

Only 11 persons were motivated enough in February to apply for building permits from the County Department of Building Inspection.

Two of the permits were for new houses, one in Hayes Township and one in Peaine Township. Two more permits were for remodeling or adding to existing houses, one was for a new commercial building, two were for remodeling or adding to existing commercial buildings, and three were for residential outbuildings.

Total cost of these building projects is estimated at $177,859.

Two millage renewals slated for June election

Two millage issues that will appear on the ballot for renewal in the June school election were approved by the Charlevoix Board of Education at its regular meeting Monday night.

Voters will be asked to renew 15.25 mills for one year for operational purposes and 1.25 for one year to renovate the athletic facilities at the high school. The action was approved by a 6-0 vote with one member absent.

In other action Eileen Nunemaker, representing the Sports Boosters, presented $661.28 the group had raised toward a new mat for use by the wrestling team. Max Novak, board president, accepted the check and expressed the board's gratitude.

—Named Ken Plude a member of the faculty, as an assistant track coach for both boys and girls during the upcoming track season.

—Approved on overnight trip to Chicago for the students in the program for the academically talented and the honors program in May. A total of 15 students accompanied by three chaperones will make the trip.

—Voted to pay Mike Bonello for his services as assistant ski coach during the recent season.

—Were advised by David J. Smith, high school principal, that there would be a meeting at the high school gymnasium at 7 p.m. Tuesday, March 25, for the parents, administration and school board members to discuss the alcohol problem prevalent in the community.

Smith advised that report cards will be distributed Wednesday.

Smith also reports that the high school student council had conducted a successful Red Cross blood drive and obtained 47 pints.

Community choir plans annual spring festival

Plans for the second annual Spring Festival have been announced by the director, Ellen Addington.

The event is scheduled for 4 p.m. Sunday, May 4, at St. Mary's Church.

Participating in the festival, which will feature a variety of sacred and secular music, will be the Charlevoix Community Choir and Orchestra.

For anyone interested in singing with the choir or playing an instrument with the orchestra, the first rehearsals are scheduled for the Monday and Tuesday after Easter, March 31 and April 1. Both rehearsals will be held in the Fellowship Hall of the First Congregational Church at 101 State St. The orchestra will rehearse at 7 p.m. Monday, March 31 and the choral group at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, April 1. Anyone who would like to participate is invited to attend the rehearsals.

Opinion

Letters to the Editor:

Voters have issued mandate

Dear Editor:

On Feb. 17, Charlevoix Township voters resoundingly overturned, by referendum, a zoning variance which would have allowed the First Centrum Corp, the developer, to build 208 condo units on the Water's Edge property. One week later, the same developer has again requested a zoning variance from R-2 to either R-4 or PUD (planned unit development).

On this, his second try, the developer is proposing 162 condo units rather than 208 as originally proposed. Despite the very slight reduction in units, this new density is still way too high (by approximately 100 units) for this extremely sensitive lakeshore property, already overcrowded with boat traffic and in close proximity to a public beach.

Mr. Oelschlaeger, First Centrums president, with his very slightly reduced condo request, seems to think that his repeated veiled threats of legal action will intimidate township voters and their elected officials into acceding to his demands. These same arrogant tactics were attempted in Hayes Township and failed. They will also fail in Charlevoix Township.

What Mr. Oelschlaeger and certain real estate interests fail to comprehend, or refuse to accept, is that the consciousness and awareness of the entire Lake Charlevoix community has been alerted as to the future dangers to the lake if unrestricted and unplanned growth is not checked, and otherwise closely scrutinized.

Mr. Dale Glass, a township trustee, has already proposed a moratorium regarding the granting of zoning variances, particularly on lakeshore property, as well as in other sensitive natural areas, such as the North Point sand dunes site. This would allow time for special zoning ordinances to be prepared, with consideration for public input. WATCH, Inc. applauds and endorses Mr. Glass's excellent proposal.

Mr. Oelschlaegers response to Mr. Glass's proposal and a similar proposal made by Jerry Puhl, president of WATCH was "What WATCH wants is not the law." WATCH, Inc. agrees with that principle wholeheartedly and this is the main reason why we don't go around threatening legal action against those who may not agree with our opinions or policies.

The essence of a democratic society is to allow the people, through their elected and appointed officials to make and enforce the laws. It also allows the people through petition, referendum and due process to reverse or overturn unjust laws and unpopular and/or imprudent decisions made by their elected and appointed officials. We submit that the Charlevoix Township electorate exercised that lawful option in the recent referendum, not WATCH, Inc.

By that same "referendum, the voters issued a "mandate" to their trustees to protect the natural resources of the area; to respect the property rights of adjacent riparian owners and to protect the public trust. This can only be effectively accomplished by implementing "special zoning ordinances" where needed; strengthening existing ordinances and eliminating the granting of "frivolous" variances every time a "special interest" group requests one. WATCH, Inc. expects that mandate to be implemented, not compromised, simply because a developer reduces his density by a few units.

There is absolutely no doubt that township governments are empowered by the Township Rural Zoning Act and the Michigan Constitution, which permits zoning, by including language construed to authorize a township to: 1) regulate the use of land, 2) meet the needs of state citizens for natural resources and recreation, 3) insure that the use of land shall be situated in appropriate locations and relationship, 4) limit the inappropriate overcrowding of land and congestion of population, 5) facilitate adequate and efficient provisions for recreation, and 6) promote public health, safety and welfare.

The recent five-page decision by Judge Livo of the 33rd Circuit Court in Hayes Township vs. Fox Associates, Sections 3 through 20 clearly spells out "the law" and includes the above mentioned stipulations. WATCH, Inc. intends to see that all officials of Charlevoix Township receive copies of Judge Livo's decision so that they will have a clear understanding of their zoning responsibilities and powers.

In closing, the real issue involved is to intelligently ascertain and fairly determine that point where prudent profitable, constructive and healthy real estate development stops and exploitation of our natural resources and public interest begins. If, in that determination the sole criteria is based on intensifying the profit for the developer, it is the public who suffers and continues to suffer long after the developer has left the scene.

The concerned and thoughtful Charlevoix voters are very much aware of this being the central issue. They have spoken emphatically, just recently, and they will speak again, if need be, and their elected officials fail to heed what the people have already told them.

Must not sacrifice gifts of nature

Dear Editor:

"Charlevoix the Beautiful"... colorful petunias lining your city from end to end. Thank you to the people who nurture them. However, even before the flowers, Charlevoix was beautiful with its waterfront, forest, sand dunes and beaches. Your area surely has been blessed by the hand of God.

If developers must build, they should not be allowed to destroy what Charlevoix has only so much of... the precious North Point lakefront and sand dunes, which should be zoned SR (Scenic Reserve) and kept in trust for the people and their children.

I have paid Charlevoix taxes on our property for over 35 years. I have lived for 20 years in the Southwest, and was a resident of Phoenix, Arizona for ten years. The trend toward this area of the country is the result of a warm year-round climate and the availability of non-union labor. Building is permitted where there is plenty of flat, treeless desert land, such as in the Fountain Hills and Scottsdale areas outside of Phoenix. There are very tight restrictions of "developing" the scenic mountains. Developers are prohibited from building above a certain level on the mountainsides - thereby preserving their beauty as a public trust. The rugged natural beauty and majesty of the mountains is strictly protected. In this way, the mountains are enjoyed and admired by all the people.

Charlevoix should follow the progressive example of the southwestern states, and protect its wonderful lakes, forests, beaches, fragile dune area, and the small creatures that live therein. We must not sacrifice these irreplaceable gifts of nature for a few more summer resorters in still more condominiums. Each summer it becomes more obivous that the condominiums you already have are not all occupied. Why build more? Are condominiums what attracts people to Charlevoix, or is it your remaining areas of natural beauty, such as North Point?

What is the real business of Charlevoix? Certainly not building more condominiums... that is not what made "Charlevoix the Beautiful" a vacation paradise in the first place.

We all very much want Charlevoix to prosper, and so we respectfully suggest that you continue to encourage light industry to settle in your area, and that affordable year-round homes and apartments be built - so that you can benefit from the tax monies and commerce which will stay in Charlevoix all year round.

Preserve and protect your remaining assets of beaches, dunes and forests by working for SR zoning for hauntingly beautiful North Point!

Don't disburb nature

Dear Editor:

Although we spend time at North Point in Charlevoix durin the summer, we have owned the property along McSauba Ave. at Maple St. for over 30 years.

We do not want condos at our back door as we enjoy the peace and quiet of the wooded area surrounding our property.

Just because a few money and developers are smooth talkers, why should we succumb to the raping of the shoreline?

Build the condos, if you must, up in the hills overlooking the shoreline. That make sense. Don't disturb nature by tearing up the tranquil area along the shore!

North Point at stake

Dear Editor:

I want to take this opportunity to personally thank you for the courageous editorial regarding the Water's Edge condo project.

As director of Camp McSauba, which is right next door to the propsed North Point Club, I feel your insight into the referendum adequately assessed the opinion of the overwhelming people in both city and township. That is is directly related to the development of the North Point dunes.

Many children, I know would also applaud you, if they knew the gravity of the situation. Thanks!

Clockwise

Love not amunition

By Bob Clock

I have always dreaded the thought that I might die on the eve of a presidential election and not know how it turned out.

That's why I'm wearing my seat belt this week.

I have the same feeling about Thursday's congressional vote on $100 million in aid to the rebel Contra forces in Nicaragua as proposed by President Reagan.

I cannot conceive of a more wanton, reckless, inhumane or high-handed expenditure of American tax dollars.

For a while, it looked as though the opponents of Contra aid in Congress had the upper hand. But after Reagan's emotional appeal Sunday night, opposing sides reportedly are drawing closer together and the vote at this point is a toss-up — which is ridiculous considering the merits of the aid package.

Contra aid deserves to be defeated hands-down.

THE QUESTION shouldn't be over-simplified because it has so many ramifications. But the fact remains that many of the leaders of the Contra movement are former supporters of the late dictator Anastasio Somoza. I am terribly afraid if they are returned to power, the poor people of Nicaragua will be shoved right back to the intolerable economic and social conditions that obtained under Somoza.

And I wouldn't wish that upon anyone.

Reagan says the present ruling party — the Sandinistas — are communists, bankrolled by Cuba and the Soviet Union.

Does that frighten you? It shouldn't. In fact, some form of interim comimunal government might be just the ticket to allow the Nicaraguan people to recover from the deep wounds inflicted by Somoza and bring the country into the 20th Century.

It worked in China, and it could work just as well in Nicaragua.

If Nicaraguans need anything, it is our love and support — not ammunition for their enemies.

Poor Reagan is still laboring under the influence of the late Sen. Joe McCarthy — an hysterical blatherskite whose insane gibberish about the communist menace created one of the darkest and most doleful eras in American history.

Can you imagine a time when university professors were afraid to utter the word communism, mention Russian authors and statesmen, or even discuss experimental communes in the early days of their own country — at the risk of losing their jobs?

It happened, my friends, at Michigan State University in the mid 1940's when the shadow of Joe McCarthy darkened the land.

Paranoia is not supposed to be contagious. But Vice President George Bush and some members of Congress already have caught it from the president. Let us hope the disease doesn't reach epidemic proportions before Thursday's crucial vote on Contra aid.

You had better buckle up, too, if you want to be around for the results.

Water's Edge condos good thing for area

Dear Editor:

We have been coming to Charlevoix for summers for years and years, and now come for skiing, and love it. We cannot understand the bitterness over the election for Water's Edge project, inasmuch as the land is set aside form the highway and lake so that it is not even seen. It has always been private land.

We feel far too many voted in the recent election because they were simply against the condos that the City of Charlevoix has allowed to be built around Lake Michigan and Round Lake - they did not learn the facts about this project prior to voting, but were pushed into voting against it just on the condo theory.

WATCH and ALERT members say they are protecting the lakefront land, and yet members of ALERT who have cottages on the lake have allowed their sewage to seep into the lake for many years, prior to their recent hookup to township sewer system. All units for the Water's Edge project would have to be hooked to the sewer system and therefore there would be no polluting. It is odd, too, that Mr. Howard Neilson, who has promoted the "no condo" theory, lives in one himself, both here and Florida. Also, the MacArthurs who have been so vocal about this - his mother also lives in a condo. O.K. for them, but no new ones!

Mrs. Trimper and Mrs. Kenifeck have advocated letting Lake Charlevoix Management Advisory Committee advise on the saving of Lake Charlevoix from the new influx of building too many units on the lakefront — and yet this very committee has allowed condos to be built, and more coming at Boyne City (Rick Smith and Stafford Smith are both building additional ones), a new marina at East Jordan and at Ironton, and yet they do not think Charlevoix Township should have any. Could this be because Mr. Neilson and his WATCH committee just donated $2,000 to this Lake Advisory Committee?

I read of this in the Courier with amazement - it is hard to believe this could be a non-partial committee with donations such as that. We definitely feel that these people are not against the high land density (of only four or five per acre) but do not want any more boats using the lake (they all have them - but don't want others to use the lake). This is also true of Irish Marina, who has more than taken more than their fair share of the lake with the over amount of sail boats they anchor at the slips and the overflow into the lake itself so that others cannot use the space. And now, they do no want othere there.

We continue to love Charlevoix, and feel that the Township officials have done some very fine things for the residents in the past years, and urge residents to support them. We are looking forward to retiring in Charlevoix within a few years, and wish good luck to the township on having this Water's Edge built by them. The school tax monies will certainly be a tremendous help from these units, and may help keep the school taxes from having to be raised all the time. I think we would all appreciate that large amount of tax help from Water's Edge.

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hagen

Olmstead - Hagen

In a candlelight wedding ceremony at Community Reformed Church of Charlevoix on March 8, Marie Olmstead of Traverse City and Joseph Anthony Hagen of Boyne City exchanged marriage vows.

Parents of the bride are Joe and Karen Olmstead of Charlevoix. The groom is the son of Betty Hagen and Francesco Bianci of Superior, Wis.

The Rev. Larry Grooters performed the double ring ceremony before 150 wedding guests.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of ivory crepe de chine with sheer accordian pleated sleeves. Pearls and flowers adorned her fingertip veil and she carried a bouquet of ivory roses and baby's breath.

Wedding music was played by organist Frances Boss and soloist was Mary Brundage of Traverse City.

Leanna Masserati attended the bride as maid of honor. She wore a burgundy satin gown with puffed sleeves and carried a bouquet of ivory carnations and burgundy rosebuds.

Dale Hardesty of Duluth, Minn., attended the groom as best man. Ushers were Tracy Olmstead, brother of the bride and Jay Mosoryak.

A reception, given by the bride and groom and their families, was held at the VFW Hall in Charlevoix. The wedding cake was served by Mary Brundage and Cindy Hagen.

The rehearsal dinner was held at the home of the bride's parents, hosted by Betty Hagen.

The newlyweds are residing in Boyne City. The groom is a 1984 graduate of Great Lakes Maritime Academy and is employed at Big Rock. The bride is a 1979 graduate of Central Michigan University and is working as a social worker at Provincial House of Gaylord.

Obituaries

Jack D. Goldman

A memorial service for Jack D. Goldman, 71, longtime summer resident of Charlevoix, was held Friday, March 7, at Temple Emanuel, St. Louis, MO.

Mr. Goldman died Monday, March 3, at his Imperial, Mo., home.

Born in St. Louis to Alvin D. and Blanche (Lesser) Goldman, Mr. Goldman had been a summer resident here since childhood. A 1937 graduate of Bowdoin College, Brunswick, Me., he had served as an officer in the U.S. Navy in the Pacific theatre during World War II. He was the recipient of the U.S. Navy and Marine Corps medals. He had been a member of the Naval Reserve; a founding member of Temple Emanuel in St. Louis, and a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon.

He had been affiliated with the family business, Lesser-Goldman Coton Co. of St. Louis and managed the company's holdings after the cotton warehouse was closed. He founded Recreational Facilities, Inc., in Imperial in 1960. He was a leader in the Missouri Parks and Recreation Association and was also active in numerous civic organizations. An ardent fisherman while in Charlevoix, he had also supported various local projects.

He is survived by his wife, Lois Williams Goldman; a daughter, Lenore "Nonie" Gilbert of Farmington, Utah; one son, Alvin Dee Goldman of Midvale, Utah; two step-sons, Bruce W. Williams of O'Fallon, Mo., and Steven D. Williams of Kansas City and five grandchildren.

The family suggests that those persons who may wish to make a donation in the memory of Mr. Goldman are encouraged to contribute to the charity of their choice.

Johanna M. Earegood

Funeral services for a former Charlevoix resident, Johanna M. Earegood, 73, of St. Louis, Mo., were held at St. Joseph's Church in St. Louis Saturday, March 8. The Rev. Paul Bala officiated. Interment was in Oak Grove Cemetery at St. Louis.

Mrs. Earegood died March 5 at the Fulton Medical Care Center.

Born in Chicago July 11, 1912, the former Johanna (Jenny) Bronersky came to Charlevoix with her parents, John and Mary Bronersky, as a child. She was married to Nelson Baker at Charlevoix in 1931. They later moved to southern Michigan. On Feb. 26, 1954, she was married to Harmon Earegood who preceded her in death Aug. 8, 1965. She was a member of St. Joseph Church and the CSA in St. Louis where she had lived for many years.

Surviving are two sons, Gilbert Baker of St. Johns and Thomas J. Baker of Tampa, Fla.; a daughter, Mrs. John J. (Nelle) LaLonde of Apache Place, Fla.; 12 grandchildren; 14 great-grandchildren; two brothers, John Bronersky of Troy and Ed Bronersky of Rochester and three sisters, Mrs. Mary Mollet of Wisconsin, Mrs. Vera Nelson of Naperville, Ill. and Sister John Marie Bronersky, O.P. of Grand Rapids.

Edward E. Bradford

Funeral services for Edward E. Bradford, 87, of Ellsworth, were held Saturday, March 15, at the Ellsworth Wesleyan Church. The Rev. William Lyons officiated. Interment was in Ellsworth Cemetery.

Mr. Bradford died Thursday, March 13.

Born at Central Lake Dec. 4, 1898, Mr. Bradford was married to the former Thelma Kirby at Detroit Nov. 25, 1922. They made their home in Detroit, Flint, Royal Oak and the Barnard area of Charlevoix County before moving to their present home in Banks Township in 1947. Mr. Bradford was a retired farmer. He was a member of the Ellsworth Wesleyan Church.

Surviving are his wife, Thelma; two daughters, Mrs. Willard (Shirley) Drost of Charlevoix and Mrs. Donald (Emily) Abel of Owosso; a son, Burton of Coeur d'Alene, Idaho; ten grandchildren; two brothers, George of Durand and Gearld of Royal Oak and a sister, Myrl Bradford of Williamston.

The family suggests memorials to the Michigan Heart Association or the Ellsworth Wesleyan Church. Envelopes for this purpose are available at the Hastings Funeral Home which was in charge of arrangements.

Bernard W. Best

Funeral services for Bernard W. (Bud) Best, 64, of Banks Township, Antrim County, were held Thursday at the Evangelical Lutheran Church in East Jordan. The Rev. Robert Herbon officiated. Interment was in Ellsworth Cemetery.

Mr. Best died Monday, March 10, at his Banks Township home.

Born in Banks Township Jan. 7, 1922, Mr. Best attended Ellsworth High School. He was a veteran of World War II and the Korean conflict. On April 29, 1950, he was married to the former Fern Staudenmeyer at East Jordan. They always made their home on a farm in Banks Township. He was employed at Gulf & Western in East Jordan from 1961 until 1965 and was an agent for the Lutheran Brotherhood Insurance Co. from 1965 until 1975 when he became a part-time rural mail carrier. He was a full-time carrier from 1978 until he retired in 1984.

Mr. Best was a member of the Evangelical Church in East Jordan and past president of the church council; a member and past secretary-treasurer of the Ellsworth Lions Club and a member of the Jensen-Richardson Post No. 488, American Legion.

Surviving are his wife, Fern; a son, Marvin of Ellsworth; two daughters, Mrs. John (Diane) Vick of Ridgwood, Pa., and Mrs. James (Tammy) Byard of Ellsworth; four grandchildren; one step-grandson; four brothers, Robert of Land O' Lakes, Fla., John of Albuquerque, N.M., and William and Howard of Ellsworth and a step-sister, Mrs. Virginia Somerville of Central Lake.

The Hastings Funeral Home of Ellswortb was in charge of arrangements.

Culter memorial mass held

A memorial Mass for Mrs. Pauline L. Culter, 75, of Peaine Township, was held at Holy Cross Church at St. James, Beaver Island, at noon Wednesday. The Rev. Castimir Zawacki fo St. Mary's Church at Charlevoix officiated.

Mrs. Culter died Sunday, March 9, at her Peaine Township home.

Otto S. Kane

Funeral services for Otto S. Kane, 86, Hayes Township resident, were held Tuesday at St. Mary's Church. The Rev. Castimir Zawacki officiated. Interment was in St. Mary's Cemetery. The rosary was recited at the Winchester Funeral Home Monday evening.

Mr. Kane died Friday, March 14 at Grandview Medical Care Facility.

Born in Hayes Township May 19, 1899, Mr. Kane was graduated from the Charlevoix High School. In 1926 he was married to the former Clara B. Winnick at Boyne City. A mechanic by trade, he was employed for many years by the Northern Auto Co. of Petoskey. He was also associated with Mrs Kane in operating the Chatterbon Cafe in Charlevoix until 1963. He was later employed as a carpenter until his retirement. Mrs. Kane preceded him in death May 19, 1964. He was a member of St. Mary's Church.

Surviving are three grandchildren, Michael W. Kane of Cheboygan, Mrs. Rod (Susan) Johnson of Syracuse, N.Y. and Penny A. Kane of Petoskey and to great-graodchildren, Courtney and Ryan Kane of Cheboygan.

Kids and booze:

National trend toward decreased drug use halted in 1985

Bachman and Patrick O'Malley.

DESPITE THE INCREASE in cocaine use nationwide, most students, school officials and youth workers contacted by the Courier report that its use is rare in Charlevoix among the high school age group. Johnston finds those reports plausible.

"Cocaine shows more variability with the size of community than any other drug," he says. "And its use is much higher on the East and West coasts."

What cocaine use there is in Charlevoix appears to be centered among young adults beyond the high school years. The national statistics show a similar trend. The 17 percent of the class of 1985 who have already tried cocaine probably represent only a fraction of the young people from that class who will try the drug eventually, the ISR researchers report.

For example, when members of the class of 1976 were interviewed during their senior year, only 10 percent reported ever having used cocaine. But a follow-up survey nine years later – when those students were about 27 years old – revealed that by that time nearly 40 percent had tried it.

The ISR researchers have found that experimentation with cocaine continues to rise through age 27. Active use reaches a peak at around age 22.

THERE WAS LITTLE change in overall use of alcohol from 1984 to 1985, with the important exception being that daily drinking increased slightly, while occasion of heavy drinking (five or more drinks in a row during the past two weeks) continued a decline begun in 1984.

Thirty-seven percent of the class of 1985 reported heavy drinking in the past year, compared to 39 percent in 1984 and 41 percent in 1983. Such binge drinking had been consistently reported at the 41 percent level from 1978 through 1983.

In 1985 this heavy drinking was reported by 45 percent of the boys and 28 percent of the girls in the study.

Drinking was higher among non-college bound students than it is among those planning on attending college.

The number of seniors reporting at least some drinking was considerably higher: 93 percent said they had at least one drink in their lives; 86 percent had a drink in the last year; and 66 percent had a drink in the last month.

THE NATIONAL STUDY does not confirm the reports by school officials, students and youth workers that drinking is on the rise. "We hear those reports, too," says Johnston, "but we are not seeing it in the data."

He adds that there does not appear to be a "displacement effect" – that as illegal drugs decrease, alcohol goes up. "If anything, the opposite is true," he says. "Illegal drugs and alcohol seem to move in parallel."

Johnston notes that drinking does vary more from one school to another more than any other drug studied.

"It may be that drinking is more noticeable now because illicit drug use is less," Johnston says. Or, he offers, young people may be drinking more openly now, the result of the drug era of the 1970s.

Whether the trend is level or downward, Johnston says, the absolute levels are pretty high. "We are still coming down from a high mountain," he observes.

MOST LOCAL OBSERVERS agree that drinking among Charlevoix's high school students is at least as high as the national averages. Some say it is greater or that the trend is toward kids drinking younger.

"There is a lot of it drinking," says a high school junior. "It's really bad." She estimates that over half of the students participate in binge drinking on weekends. "I've noticed that the seniors are doing more drugs, the juniors doing more alcohol," she adds. Drugs used are mainly pot or amphetamines, speed," she says. "Those who do heavy drugs are considered 'burners' or 'stoners.'"

"Those who drink a lot of booze are considered cool, especially if they talk about it," a senior schoolmate adds. "It's more accepted for boys to drink a lot and make fools of themselves."

One student reports that it was not uncommon in recent years for football players to drink prior to practice or before games.

Drugs, several students noted, are either marijuana or speed. "A lot of girls take speed pills," the senior notes. One student reports a group of students snorting No-Doz during a government class.

In the national ISR study, 36 percent of the 1985 seniors reported having used amphetamines or "uppers" recreationally at some time in their lives. Seven percent reported having used them during the 12 months prior to the survey – down from 11 percent in 1982.

Overall, about 42 percent of the class of 1985 admitted having tried an illicit drug at some time in their lives, and of those, 40 percent said they had used a drug other than marijuana.

ACTIVE USE of an illicit drug in the month prior to the survey was reported by 20 percent of the seniors, with half of them having used a drug other than marijuana and half having used marijuana only.

These figures for active use are from one-fourth to one-third lower than the figures for peak years, but no lower than 1984.

"We do not want to understate the substantial improvement that has been made," Johnston says. "Daily marijuana use now is less than half of what it was in 1978-79 percent versus 12 percent) and the usage rates for a number of other drugs – including tranquilizers, barbiturates, LSD, PCP, and heroin – are significantly lower than they were at peak levels.

But the rates of illicit drug use that exist among American young people today are disturbingly high – and they certainly remain higher than in any other industrialized nation in the world.

"Clearly, the lesson to be drawn from these findings is that we cannot take the improvement of recent years for granted," Johnston says. "The reduction of drug use from these exceptionally high levels is going to take a sustained, long-term effort on the part of all sectors of society – parents, educators, the entertainment industry, professional athletes, government leaders, and young people themselves."

JOHNSTON, who has testified before U.S. Senate and House subcommittees investigating proposals to prohibit beer and wine advertising on the electronic media, notes that television plays a significant role in how young people perceive alcohol.

"I don't see how youngsters can grow up being exposed to literally thousands of TV ads where there is a lot of alcohol drunk without it setting expectations for them." Television ads, he notes, strongly link good comraderie with drinking.

Johnston says society as a whole is responsible as well. "It is clearly a form of behavior accepted in larger society and modeled by adults."

This story is based in part on research reported in an article contained in a forthcoming issue of the "ISR Newsletter," a quarterly published by the Institute for Social Research. The article was written by Joanne E. Lehman.

Elementary musical on March 20

The Charlevoix Elementary School musical, "Big Band and All That Jazz" previously announced for Thursday, April 3, will be presented at the high school gymnasium at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, March 20.

The entire student body, with the exception of the kindergarten, will appear in the annual musical which, this year, will pay tribute to the big band era with its songs, dances and music. Every student will appear in some part of the musical with the audience participating in the final number.

A matinee will be presented at 9:30 a.m. Thursday, March 20, with the evening performance scheduled for 7:30 p.m.

The entire show is planned and executed under the direction of Marina LaBlanc.

Benzie Central stops Rayders in rugged Regional game

by DOUG TRUAX

Pressure.

In basketball it can mean either the emotional strain of an important game or a defense that covers the floor from one end to the other.

Wednesday night the Charlevoix Rayders experienced the full force of both meanings of pressure as they fell to the Benzie Central Huskies, 87-72, in a Class C regional semifinal at Gaylord.

Benzie Central's defense attacked the Rayder offense with a full-court press from the opening tipoff and the pressure paid off handsomely for the Huskies as Charlevoix committed numerous turnovers and watched helplessly as Benzie turned the miscues into easy baskets.

While the Huskies were adept at handing out pressure Wednesday, they were not feeling much themselves. Coach Will Lynch said his team had little to lose. "With an 8-12 record I grew up in the districts[1] who the heck's going to be here? There's no pressure on us, really. This is the first time I've come into a regional where there wasn't pressure, where we didn't have an outstanding record."

"Their aggressiveness and press were the big difference," Rayder coach Dave Smith said. "And they shot very well from the floor."

Benzie made 58 percent of their field goal attempts compared to 48 percent for the Rayders.

The Huskies' junior forward Todd Kulawiak took advantage of many of the turnovers created by the full court press as he scored 30 points for the game, 14 coming in a critical third quarter burst when Benzie outpointed Charlevoix 26-13 to open up a 62-48 lead.

Charlevoix held an early advantage in the game following a three-point play by Sean Ferguson who finished in another impressive game with 20 points and 10 rebounds on the night. Benzie evened the score at 8-all and then took the lead for good.

At the end of the first quarter the Huskies were in front 22-18. They started to pull away in the second quarter capitalizing on Rayder fouls and their full-court press to take an 11-point lead mid-way through the quarter.

Charlevoix applied some pressure of its own at that point with a half-court trap which forced several turnovers and sparked a Rayder rally. Jim Ciuk scored a quick pair of baskets and converted one of two foul shots to narrow the margin to seven points.

Salmonson scored off the offensive boards. Ciuk added another charity shot and Ferguson scored on a fast break. With four seconds left in the half, Joey Putnam canned a field goal to arm the Rayders within two, 36-34.

The third quarter was Charlevoix's undoing. Benzie scored first in the second half and then Ciuk came up with a steam and drove the length of the court for an easy layup to make it 38-36 at 6:26.

Benzie responded with a basket by Kyle Inglishian and a jump shot by Stan VanEsbroeck. Putnam made a free throw and then turned a Benzie turnover into a layup to make the score 43-38. Kulawiak countered with two short jumpers.

Smith called time out with 3:40 left in play, with Benzie leading 48-40.

Kulawiak then went on a tear that left the Rayders in a deep hole. He scored first on a turnaround jumper, then added two more buckets within seconds of each other off steals of inbound passes. Benzie was up 54-42 at that point and maintained the commanding lead throughout the period.

Charlevoix made one more run at Benzie in the middle of the final quarter. Ferguson scored from the corner with just under six minutes left in the game to make it 68-57. Kulawiak sank a free throw and Ferguson responded with a jumper from the corner. Dan Drury popped in two and Jim Gibbs hit a 25-foot shot to bring the Rayders within six, 65-63, at 4:18.

Benzie pulled away again, this time with the aid of foul shots, outscoring the Red Rayders 10-1 over the next two minutes to put the game out of reach.

Joining Ferguson in double figures for Charlevoix were Jim Ciuk with 12 points and Tim Salmonson with 11.

Benzie dominated the rebounding by a 37-28 margin, with 18 of those coming on the offensive boards. Kulawiak accounted for 12 and Ingleston eight.

Other scores for Benzie were VanDusen with 15 points, Chris Lathwell 12 and Mike Montalvo 11. Montalvo made 9-of-11 free throws, including 6-of-8 in the fourth quarter.

The Rayders finished the year with a 17-7 record. "I thought we had a real good season," Smith said. "We hit some dead spots, but in general we progressed and made progress throughout the year. I am real pleased with the season."

Benzie Central won the regional title at Gaylord on Friday with a last-second 63-64 victory over Beaverton.

Young matmen get taste of competition in Charlevoix meet

The Charlevoix Middle School wrestling team hosted a junior high mat tournament here Saturday that attracted six other teams.

The teams represented were Sault Ste. Marie, St. Ignace, Petoskey, Onaway, Grayling, Roscommon and Charlevoix who had a total of 106 young wrestlers participating in 25 weight classes. During the day there were 206 bouts.

"It was a good tournament which showed some of the potential talent that will be coming up in the next few years," Coach Greg Bryan said. "It was by far the best middle school tournament I have seen in the past four years both in numbers and skill levels." He went on to say that the 10 participants represented the largest and most experienced turnout of the middle school talent in Charlevoix he had ever seen. "I don't want to put my hopes too high, but at least in terms of numbers we should have some good teams in the next few years," Bryan added.

On Saturday, March 22, the Charlevoix wrestlers will compete in a team tournament at Grayling at 10 a.m. This event will conclude the season for Charlevoix matmen.

In the 86-pound class, Dave Hunter, a sixth-grader, placed second among eight wrestlers, losing in the finals to Eric Kenroy of Onaway by an 8-4 decision.

In the 86-pound class, Chris McCallum placed third over Joe Ehrke 8-4. Both are sixth graders from Charlevoix.

Seventh-graders who placed were: Gary Haines (85 pounds), fourth; Tony Mervyn (105) placed second after losing a tough match to Frank Wildfong of Grayling 13-4; Brian Czarnik (130), took third after losing a close final match 6-5 to Mike Pavlichkowski of Petoskey, the eventual champion. Andrew Kyrkanos (145) third place; and Jim Marquardt (heavyweight), fourth place.

Others who won one of three matches were: B.J. VanLoo (88), Jacob Smith (110), Chris Pemble (116) and Eddie Penford (136).

Those who wrestled twice and lost were: Tracey Meadows and Henry Kulhawick (90); Mike Ochs and Brad Zoet (100); Jeff Alden (106); Herbie Pines and Jasen Miller (110); Chuck Mathers (120) and Scott Keherer (136).

Bryan expressed his appreciation to the Sports Boosters who conducted a fund-raising project to help pay for a new mat that arrived Friday in time for Saturday's tournament. The new mat replaces one that has been in use for 15 years. He thanked all those who helped organize and assisted with the tournament and the Sports Boosters for operating the concession.

Skiers qualify for Junior Olympic meet

For the first time in the history of skiing at the Charlevoix High School, two members of the Rayder teams qualified for a Junior Olympics meet in which the elite of North American's 14 and 15 year olds will compete Monday through Saturday, March 17-23.

They are freshman Wes Cumberland and sophomore, Lauren Pace, both 15, who advanced to the Killington, Vermont meet, the showcase of talent among young skiers after placing high in divisional championships sanctioned by CUSSA, the Central Division of the U.S. Ski Association.

They are among the 12 boys and eight girls who were selected as J-2 (age 14-15) Junior Olympians recently at the CUSSA meet held at Boyne Mountain. They were among 115 boys and 54 girls who competed in the divisional meet from six Midwest states.

The competition included two days of giant slalom racing followed by two days of slalom.

Cumberland, in order, placed 15th, 13th, fifth and fifth in a field of 28 J-2 boys (He fell on the first two days). Pace also improved finishing 15th, 14th, fifth and fourth.

They will be competing among 70 J-2 boys and girls from throughout the United States and Canada this week at Killington where the courses, unlike those in northern Michigan, will include a 1½ mile downhill run along with slalom and giant slalom.

The pair qualified for the divisionals through weekend series of racing at Boyne Mountain, Crystal Mountain and Caberfae during the ski season. Both competed with Rayder teams in the state meet held at Nub's Nob where they earned medals.

Three other members of Rayder teams competed in the J-1 (age 16-18) divisional Junior Olympians meet at Boyne Mountain but did not qualify for national competition. They were Jason Brindel, Matt Lignell and Soe Miller, all seniors.

Depot defeated for first time in A league

The Depot of Boyne City suffered its first loss of the season, a 78-73 win by Judy's Restaurant, in action in the Charlevoix Independent A league Thursday night.

In the second game, Dr. Dave's Green Grinders dumped Kit Carson Lumber 102-86.

In the Depot-Judy's game, Judy's had to come from behind to take the league leaders after trailing 24-10 at the quarter, 42-36 at halftime and 56-54 going into the final period when Judy's outscored the Depot 24-17 for the win.

Tex Drenth with 21, Randy Holecheck with 20 and Brian Farrell with 15 led the way to the upset. Dean Hicks had 23, Tom Beyer 20 and Jeff Belford 10 for Depot.

Dr. Dave's Green Grinders trailed 21-18 early in their game with Kit Carson Lumber but took over 43-26 at halftime before increasing the advantage to 79-62 going into the final period and taking the game by a 16-point margin.

Dick Spencer poured in 22 points for the victors, with Dave Storm pitching 20 and Dan McKenzie 18 points. Roger Crane had 26, Tom Carey 22, Vince Left 20 and Barney Way 14 for Carson.

The league will close out its season this week when the Depot takes on Duffy's and Judy's Restaurant and Kit Carson Lumber met Wednesday in a make-up game. Duffy's and Judy's play at 7:30 p.m. and the Green Grinders and the Depot clash at 8:45 p.m. Thursday in the final game of the season.

Lindberg beats Wojun, maintains B league lead

Paul Lindberg, Inc., continued to lead the B league in Charlevoix Independent Basketball after defeating Wojan Aluminum 85-57 in action Monday night. In a second game, First State Bank won over Nanny's 67-51.

In the Lindberg-Wojan game, Dave Norton had 24 points, Stan Martin 22 and Larry Brock 17 as Lindberg led all the way 12-10, 44-31 and 65-41 by quarters. Darren VanLoo had 23 points, Charles Carver 15 and Gene Morrison 13 for Wojan's.

First State Bank was in control all the way as they led Nanny's 18-14, 35-21 and 51-42 by quarters. Dennis Domanic set the pace with 31 points and Joe Sandoni added 15 for the Bankers. Don Ward had 20 for Nanny's.

Nanny's came through with a 67-36 win over the Clothing Company and Lindberg scored yet another victory to its long season by defeating First State Bank 102-64 in action Wednesday night.

Nanny's and the Clothing Co. played to 12-12, 19-19 ties at the quarter and half before Nanny's pulled ahead 32-26 going into the final period when they outscored the Clothiers 15-9 for the win.

Ray LaWare with 14 points and Jim Hamilton with 11 led the way for Nanny's. Tom Morrison had 11 points and Steve Cole 10 for the Clothing Company.

Paul Lindberg jumped to a 25-4 first period lead at the quarter and increased it to 50-24 at the half and 78-45 going into the final period before pushing the score to 102-64 at the buzzer.

Norton with 31 points, Brock and Doug Wimmell with 20 each, Gale Sheldon with 15 and Don Smith with 10 were all in double figures for Lindberg. Sandoni had 16, Domanic 10, Tom Beer 14 and Tim Bosk 12 for the Bankers.

This league was to have played its last scheduled game Monday.

Plans made for May trout tournament, benefit dinner to be held in April

The ice is breaking up and local fishermen are turning their attention toward the second annual Lake Charlevoix Area Trout Tournament.

This year's tournament, scheduled for May 16, 17, and 18, is expected to attract some 600 participants, according to tournament organizer Jim Withers. Last year over 400 persons signed up for the fishing tournament.

Withers says there will be $26,000 in cash and prizes this year awarded to over 50 places.

The popular kid's fishing pond run by the Jaycees will be in operation again at East Park. The Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club will also again sponsor its famous fish boil.

Activities in East Park will be conducted under one large tent this year, Withers notes. Tabulations for the fishing contest will be compiled on a computer with a program prepared by Jerry Rakocy of the DNR's Great Lakes Fisheries Station.

This year's tournament is sponsored by Yamaha Outboard Motors and Irish Boat Shop who will be giving away 25 h.p. and 15 h.p. outboard motors.

Other sponsors and their contributions include: Big Jon, electric downriggers; Wallstrum Marine, a 15-foot Hobie power skiff; Fairport Marine Electronics, VHF marine radio; Si-Tex fishing graph; Raytheon fishing graph; Si-Tex Loran C, and SRD Loran C; and Stinger lures.

A BENEFIT DINNER is planned for April 12 at the American Legion hall. "Last year's dinner was a big success and sold out early," Withers says.

The dinner this year will feature a beef and chicken all-you-can-eat buffet with cash bar. The doors open at 5:30 p.m. and dinner will be served at 7:30 p.m. Entertainment will be provided.

A 2 h.p. Yamaha outboard motor will be given away as the grand door prize. Many other prizes are planned. Proceeds from the benefit dinner will be used to run the 1986 fishing tournament.

A 16-foot Weldcraft boat and trailer – the grand prize at a special tournament raffle – will be on display the night of the dinner. Tickets for the raffle – $100 each and limited to 200 tickets – will also be available.

Tickets for the benefit dinner and the boat raffle are available from Dave Jouillerat of Jouillerat's restaurant, Sherry Withers at Village Inn Pizza, and Ron Westfall at Glen's Market.

Masons win tournament

The Odd Fellows downed the Masons as winners of the fifty-sixth annual Mason-Oddfellow cribbage tournament at a roast beef dinner at the American Legion post home Thursday night to climax the annual event.

It marked the 26th time the Masons have won the tournament compared to the Oddfellows 30 wins.

Ted Pennell, Sr., was named captain of the Masons team and Ken Jones the Oddfellows' captain for the 1987 series which will open at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 8, 1987. Richard Seibert won honors for having the low score for the series.

Thirty-three cribbage players attended the dinner.

Easter musical in Petoskey

"Here Comes the Sun," an Easter musical, will be presented by the Bethel Light Chapel Choir Friday, March 28, at the Petoskey High School auditorium, beginning at 7 p.m.

More than just a concert, "Here Comes the Sun" is a multi-media event featuring choreographed dancing, special effects and lighting, as well as solos by some of the area's most talented singers. For this third annual performance theme, new original music has been added.

"Here Comes the Sun" is directed by Karen Mandel. Admission is free and the public is urged not to miss this beautiful telling of the Easter story. A free will offering will be taken.

Nutrition, exercise featured for seniors

Charlevoix Area Hospital will present a program entitled Healthy Old Age at 7:30 p.m.; Thursday, March 20 at the Pine River Place senior housing complex in Charlevoix.

Sponsored by the Community Education Committee of the hospital, the program is part of the Third Thursday monthly health talk series.

The two main topics to be covered in this month's health talk, nutrition and exercise, will focus on how senior citizens can take a more active role in staying active and healthy.

Dietitian Julie Dalrymple will cover the nutrition portion of the talk. She will provide some hints for grocery shopping, cooking and enjoying meals. According to Dalrymple, eating should provide pleasure as well as nourishment. While eating well each day helps people stay active and healthy, mealtimes can also provide an opportunity to relax and talk with others.

In her presentation, she will offer some suggestions and answer questions on how eating right can be easier and more enjoyable.

Physical therapist Robert Gorkiewicz will address the subject of exercise, primarily as it relates to osteoporosis in elderly people. Osteoporosis, which weakens the bone structure, affects millions of older Americans causing malformation and vulnerability to fractures.

Gorkiewicz will explain the beginnings of bone structure, how change occurs and how the change can be treated. He will then provide information on how much and what types of exercise senior citizens can participate in to improve bone strength and be more active.

All area senior citizens and others interested in senior citizen health are invited to attend this free health talk.

CPR classes scheduled at hospital

People wishing to learn cardio pulmonary resuscitation (CPR) are invited to enroll in a class to be offered by Charlevoix Area Hospital on Tuesday and Thursday evenings, March 25 and 27.

Sessions will last from 6 to 10 p.m. each night and will be held in the hospital classroom. Participants who successfully complete the course will receive Basic Cardia Life Support certification (BCLS), good for one year.

The cost is $10 which includes a $2 instruction manual. Pre-registration is required. Those interested are asked to sign up at the admissions desk of the hospital and purchase the instruction manual at the time. The $8 balance will be collected the first night of the course.

The CPR course is available to people of all ages. It will cover one-man and two-man CPR methods using both adult and infant sized dummies.

For those interested in updating the BCLS certification, a recertification class will be held Wednesday, March 26 from 6 to 10 p.m. in the hospital classrooms. There is no charge for this session however pre-registration at the admissions desk is required.

Registration will be limited for both the beginning CPR and recertification classes.

OM challenges young minds

competition draws closer they have doubled or tripled their efforts. Parent coaches have volunteered to be there to suggest, encourage, assist and guide" materials created. But parent assistance to the solution of the problem is strictly prohibited under OM guidelines.

"It's hard keeping your mouth shut," commented another enthusiastic coach. "It would be so easy to tell them how to do something. But not being able to say much is good. You'd be surprised what creative ideas they come up with on their own. Probably better than anything we might have offered."

OM is an internationally recognized creative problem solving competition. The OM program began in 1978 with 28 high schools and middle schools from New Jersey participating. It has expanded greatly, largely due to favorable publicity from the media, with over 3,000 schools and programs across the U.S., Canada, Mexico and several other countries participating.

Nationally acclaimed as an impetus to quality education in America, OM was given the spotlight on the second show in the Emmy Award winning series, "Creativity with Bill Moyers." OM has also been featured in newspapers and magazines across the country.

OM emphasized participation, teamwork and creativity in competition. On March 22, six teams, representing 38 students and 14 adults from Charlevoix, will head down to Traverse City Middle School. There, the stage will be set for one of the most exciting local competitions offered this season. One hundred sixty-six teams as far north as Houghton in the Upper Peninsula and as far south as Frankfort, will match wits and present the polished "product" of months of work.

Winners in each category will continue to compete on the state level on April 26 at Central Michigan University, and from there? Well, why not? The national OM competition will be held at the University of Northern Arizona in Flagstaff, Arizona, May 29-30.

3,000 plus crimes during year:

Sheriff Lasater issues 1985 Annual Report to County

by PEG OHLE

In 1985, Charlevoix County law enforcement agencies received 3,101 complaints of criminal offenses, and 2,208, or 71 percent of them, were handled by the County Sheriff's Department.

Local police departments took care of 706 complaints, or 22 percent, and the Michigan State Police were responsible for the other 187, or seven percent.

With these figures as a background, Sheriff George T. Lasater's annual report details the work of the 19 men and women employed by his Department – the Undersheriff, Deputy Sheriffs; Communication-Security Officers, the Cook, the Maintenance Man, and the Sheriff himself.

Slightly more than 3,000 crimes reported in a county of 19,507 does not represent a serious crime situation, especially when the most often reported (612 times) crime is invasion of privacy, and the next four most often reported are also not offenses against people: liquor law violations (442), public peace (404), larceny (302), and damage to property (243).

The Sheriff's Department year's work did not consist solely of handling these criminal cases, however. In all, they investigated 11,585 complaints and patrolled 241,768 miles in 1985.

The jail staff of four Security-Communication Officers booked 667 offenders into the jail facility – 524 men, 82 women, and one juvenile.

While the Sheriff's headquarters are in Charlevoix, there are three sub-stations, one in East Jordan, headed by Deputy David Hague; one in Boyne Falls, headed by Sergeant Bill Cousineau; and one on Beaver Island, headed by Deputy Kenn J. Capman. Personnel of these sub-stations handled 2,870 of the reported activities of the Sheriff's Department last year, including 126 arrests.

While the regular police activities of the Sheriff's Department are well known, the Department serves the community in many other ways, the annual report indicates.

Sergeant Michael Wheat is in charge of the Volunteer Mounted Division, which spent 408 hours patrolling the eight Castle Farms concerts. At these concerts, 2,263 warning tickets were issued and assistance offered to Castle Farms security and patrons.

The Sheriff's Marine Safety Division is under the jurisdiction of Sergeant Don Sprowl and Senior Marine Officer Ron Moore. By stated mandate, the Division is responsible for marine law enforcement, water safety education, boat livery inspections, search and rescue operations, and recovering drowned bodies.

During 1985, this Division spent 867 hours on water patrol and 286 hours on non-water assignments (maintenance, administration, livery inspections, meetings, court hearings, training, investigations, and safety classes). The Division was responsible for recovering 53 persons and 24 vessels in search and rescue operations.

The Canine Program of the Sheriff's Department is a pilot program financed by donations and under the direction of Sergeant David Kurchinski. The canine, Jupp Vom Sysenfelsön "Blitz", was used in eight tracking cases last year, working 19 hours and 43 minutes.

Deputy Carron Bennett is in charge of the Sheriff's Junior Deputy Program, which was set up to create better leadership and citizenship and to educate young people considering a future in law enforcement.

Junior Deputies attended six training sessions during the year, on: boating safety, cardio-pulmonary resuscitation, Officer Friendly, tracking dog program, hunter's safety, and fingerprinting. They also participated in a picnic and softball game with their parents.

Charlevoix County received a grant from the State of Michigan to aggressively enforce drunk driving laws. Deputy Hague is in charge of this program, which last year resulted in the arrest of 155 persons for operating motor vehicles while under the influence of alcohol. Of these, 122 were men and 27 were women.

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department handles radio communication for the Charlevoix and East Jordan Police Departments and full communication for the Charlevoix Township and East Jordan Fire Departments, the County Emergency Services Department, the East Jordan Ambulance Service, and the Boyne Falls Village Marshall, thus making for an efficient means of communication throughout the county at all hours of the day and night.

Many business establishments and private individuals have burglar- and-or fire alarm systems hooked up to the Sheriff's Department. Last year, 150 alarms were sounded.

The Sheriff's Auxiliary is a volunteer group under the direction of Deputy Don Schneider. It helps deputies and other Department personnel in all phases of office work, road patrol, and emergency situations. Last year, volunteers provided about 6,000 hours of volunteer assistance which saved the Sheriff's Department some $58,800. Members of the Auxiliary are listed as:

Rick Baker, Commander; Earl Muma, Roger Knutson, John Gasco, Richard Gallant, Sherry Martin, Fred Moore, Edith Godin, Jerry Sulak, Rex Behling, Casey Curis, and Allen Muma.

Officer Carron Bennett spends about half her time on Animal Control duties as head of that division. Her duties consist of handling complaints (733 last year) about bites and cruelty, kennel inspections, lost and found animal cases, citations for failing to keep animals under control, and disposing of unwanted animals.

In the field of services for children, the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department will make a V.C.R. tape of a child to file away in case the child disappears. The fingerprinting program has been in operation for some time, with the assistance of local police departments. Most of the children in nursery schools and elementary schools in the county have now been fingerprinted.

The Sheriff's Department operates a Boy Scout Explorer Cadet Program, in which cadets work in communications at the Department. Last year, they worked 256 hours under Officer Patrick Avery.

There is also a Juvenile Alcohol Parental Advisement Program, which deals with problems of teenagers drinking and driving. The Sheriff sends letters to parents notifying them of their son's or daughter's involvement.

The Officer Friendly Program, headed by Deputy Gerard Doan, gives young children a chance to meet and speak with a certified police officer. They are told about the potential dangerous situations that may come into their lives and how to prevent them. They are also taught how to ride their bikes and walk in safety, how to contact police, fire, and ambulance services, and to memorize their own telephone numbers, addresses, and parents' full names.

Even infants have a place in the Charlevoix County Sheriff's line of services. The Infant Seat Loan Program was started in 1981, and last year, 52 infants used car seats provided through the program. The car seats were donated to the Sheriff's Department by Erber-McKeown Ford, Village Car Care, Charlevoix Lions Club, and the American Automobile Association.

Residents who leave their homes for varying periods of time may ask the Sheriff's Department to check their dwellings periodically during their absence. In 1985, about 400 residents took advantage of this service.

Elementary school students experience life of handicapped

Fifth-graders at the Charlevoix Elementary School have been getting a first-hand experience in what it is like to be handicapped.

The program has been organized by school counselor Gayle Gennett and Pat Miller, teacher of the Highly Individualized Program (HIP).

To give children the experience of being handicapped, the teachers put some kids in wheelchairs, others were blindfolded or had sandwich bags taped over their eyes to simulate impaired vision.

Still others tried to maneuver through the halls on crutches. Several faced the ultimate challenge of not speaking.

Mrs. Tallberg's fifth-grade class was given "disabilities" for a whole morning. Because of snow days, the remainder of the experiement was limited to one-hour classes.

Children also saw a movie called "A Matter of Inconvenience" about skiers who were blind or had only one leg.

What was it like being handicapped for a morning? Many of the kids in Mrs. Tallberg's class found there were many who wanted to help. "By the end of the day everyone wanted to help," Anne Schairbaum recalled.

Marianne Pfister said kids wanted to help so much "it felt like we were totally disabled."

"It was nice of them to think of us," said Megan Friedly whose eyes were covered by a sandwich bag during the experiment. "But really we like to do things ourselves. I wanted to show people what I could do. Even though I couldn't read, didn't mean I couldn't walk."

Did the experience change their view of things?

"I used to stare at handicapped people when I was little," Marianne, who was blindfolded during the experiment, recalled. "I could sense people staring at me...It felt as if I let go of the yardstick (used as a cane) I'd be trapped in that spot forever."

Eddie Reeser, who was mute, said the experience made him "realize how many words you talk in a day."

The experience of being mute, he said, "was really no fun at all."

Council oks budget

by DOUG TRUAX

City Council passed the proposed $6,318,200 1986-87 city budget Monday without alteration.

The budget was approved 4-0 with councilmen Shirley Roloff and Ray Wood absent.

In a related action, council voted to increase water rates beginning with the April billing period. Rates will increase 13 percent with the average monthly bill going up by $1.10 for 7,000 gallons, City Manager Michael Wiesner said.

Council also voted to change the sewer rate multiplier from 2.67 times the water rate to 2.36. This will allow sewer rates to remain the same for the coming fiscal year.

Council has discussed the budget for five weeks, in which time several councilmen suggested cuts or worried aloud that the budget was too high. Mayor Hal Hill noted Monday that "there's got to be a limit to some of this stuff." Unlike other council members, Hill said he had heard complaints about the size of the budget. "People are saying it's high," he noted. "I have a feeling there's quite a little unrest."

Items mentioned in previous council meetings – including a reduction in the size of the public safety building, elimination of the purchase of a new police car, and the Downtown Development Authority expenditures – were not discussed Monday.

The 1986-87 budget includes 10.6 operational mills and 3 mills for debt retirement, the same millage as the current budget.

Major items in the coming year's fiscal budget include construction of the industrial park ($392,200), construction of a new public safety building ($390,000), purchase of a new snow plow ($45,300), electric meter reading and computing equipment ($40,000), a new ambulance ($12,900 plus $49,000 in reserve), a new police car ($11,000), and a new green's mower ($11,000).

The budget also calls for the removal of the old water tower ($21,000) and construction of a 12-inch water main to the Techlin development on U.S. 31 ($20,000).

Some 22 percent of the budgeted expenses will go toward salaries and benefits for city employees. Twenty-four percent is allocated for capital outlay and 25 percent for purchased electrical power. Operating expenses make up just over 18 percent of the total.

The general fund is budgeted for $1,344,200 in fiscal 1986-87.

Of the general fund expenses, 35 percent goes to pay for public safety, including ambulance service, police, parking enforcement and fire protection. Thirty percent of the budget will be spent on community services, including highways and streets, spring cleanup, brush pickup, the airport, recreation programs, parks, the city golf course, and the city marina.

General governmental expenses, including the cost of salaries in city hall, will account for 24 percent of the general fund budget.

The general fund is supported largely by taxes (52 percent of the revenue). Other sources of revenue include charges for services (17 percent), state shared revenue (15 percent), and rents and royalties (7 percent).

IN OTHER ACTION, council approved a parking plan for the dinner-cruise boat, the Star of Charlevoix, contingent on the construction being completed when the Star opens for business on June 13.

Jacquie Merta, assistant sales manager for the Star, presented council with a plan which shows 41 parking spaces in an area now occupied by a wood frame building north of the old Finn Lumber building. Merta said the building would be removed, but the outer wall along the sidewalk paralleling U.S. 31 will be retained to shield the parking from the street.

Council approved the plan unanimously.

City Attorney Jeffrey VanTreese told council the U.S. Court of Appeals in Cincinnati had upheld the lower court in the Pat Martin case.

VanTreese also noted that an appraisal of the Ferry Beach annex set a value of $313,000 for the 360 feet of frontage, over twice the purchase price of $132,000.

Horseriding program seeks volunteers

Children and horses are a great combination especially if they have been brought together so that handicapped children can have a chance to learn horseback riding. The thrill of accomplishment and the new found independence for a special child cannot be surpassed.

Lake Charlevoix Farms Exceptional Riders Inc. is sponsoring an eight-week course in theraputic horseback riding for the handicapped, beginning Tuesday April 1. Sessions will include one hour of riding and one hour of classroom instruction. Classes are open to mentally and physically impaired people.

"To make this program a reality we need people, people who care and are willing to donate time. Volunteers may be teenagers or adults including senior citizens," Barbara Lane, program coordinator says.

Plane crash kills area developers

by FRAN MARTIN

BOYNE FALLS – The wreckage of a plane carrying Petoskey developer Jeff DeGayner and Southfield auto dealer Richard Turner was found late Tuesday morning in a rolling, swampy area just east of Boyne Falls. DeGayner and Turner were killed in the accident.

A search for the missing plane had been conducted since it was reported missing late Sunday after it failed to land at the Boyne Mountain airport at 4:30 p.m. Sunday. The last communication with the plane was as it was making its final approach to the landing area.

Charlevoix County Sheriff George Lasater confirmed Tuesday that the plane had been located in an area off Cherry Hill Road and Old Mackinaw Trail shortly after 11 a.m. It was located by Melrose Township fire and rescue volunteers on snowmobiles, according to the Civil Air Patrol.

National Transportation Safety Board officials were expected to investigate the scene Tuesday afternoon.

Turner, part owner of Avis Ford in Southfield and Turner Fleetgen Leasing of Troy, was reportedly flying north to complete a real estate deal. He was flying a single engine Piper Malibu plane that he had owned for only four or five weeks. Turner was an experienced pilot who had flown for over 15 years, a business associate said.

Turner and DeGayner were partners in several business ventures. Turner owned 30 acres at North Point in Charlevoix which he and DeGayner planned to develop into a 120-unit condominium project. DeGayner had proposed the project to Charlevoix Township for rezoning in December, but in January asked for more time to prepare plans for the tract. The township was scheduled to review plans for the project in May.

He was also involved with selling property on Petoskey's waterfront to Triad Development of Ann Arbor which later developed Sunset Shores condominiums. DeGayner had an option on the Wayside Motel and Stroud's Cabins property in Charlevoix and had purchased railroad frontage along Lake Charlevoix. He was working on plans to develop a resort hotel at that site.

DeGayner also had tried to develop Turner's former car dealership in Petoskey into the 200 Centre. He proposed a six-story building with commercial and residential units. In 1983, DeGayner came forward with an ambitious, $18 million plan for the dealership property at the corner of Mitchell Street and Sunset Boulevard.

He had an option on the property with Turner and William Fisher, the partners in Turner-Fisher Associates Inc. In August 1983, 200 Centre filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy as it attempted to reorganize financially. Turner then bought out Fisher in December of 1984.

THE SEARCH for the missing plane was initiated late Sunday when the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) sent out an alert to all airports in the area after Turner failed to call the FAA control station at Minneapolis which clears a pilot's flight plan when he lands.

Stuck!

The Star of Charlevoix, left, is show stuck in the ice off the Charlevoix pierheads on Wednesday. The U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Mesquite, right, was unable to free the dinner-cruise ship and called in the icebreaker Mackinaw which was able to clear a path through the ice.

Star of Chicago rescued from lake ice

by FRAN MARTIN

The U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Mesquite, with Lt. Cdr. Robert E. Young in command, departed its homeport Friday enroute to spring aids to navigation work in southern Lake Michigan.

The ship has been deployed to the Chicago-Milwaukee area to ready the aids in preparation of the 1986 navigation season and is expected to return no later than Saturday.

The departure on Friday marked the ship's second attempt to begin its spring buoy season.

On Wednesday, the ship left at 7 a.m. and had cleared the ice field that extended approximately a mile into Lake Michigan. The dinner ship, Star of Chicago, owned by the Star Line Corp., which had been berthed here for the winter months followed the path through the ice made by the Mesquite, but became stuck in the ice after losing one of its engines and having rudder difficulties.

In the interim, northwest winds up to 40 miles an hour brought more drift ice into the bay off Charlevoix.

The Mesquite, unable to take the stricken vessel in tow and break a path through the drift ice in seas up to seven feet, stood by the Star of Chicago until the icebreaker, Mackinaw, dispatched to the area by Coast Guard Group Soo, could come to the assistance of the two vessels.

Arriving shortly after 8 p.m., the icebreaker cleared the ice from around the Star of Chicago, allowing the Mesquite to take the dinner boat in tow. The Mesquite, following in a path cleared by the Mackinaw, made its way into the harbor shortly after midnight. Once in Round Lake, the Star of Chicago was able to make its way to its mooring at the Coast Guard Lifeboat Station.

After a day in port while the storm subsided, the Mesquite left Charlevoix Friday to take over the buoy duties of the tender Acacia out of Grand Haven which remains at its birth with a broken shaft.

An underwater examination of the Star of Chicago by a diver Thursday revealed that the ship had received no visible damage from the ice. It is expected to remain in port until later in the spring.

Kids and booze: a growing crisis

Part III: Young people speak out

The Charlevoix Courier is publishing a five-part series on the growing problem of alcohol abuse among this city's teenagers. In today's segment, we present the views about the situation of some young people who do drink and some not. Future articles will look at how police, church and community leaders are addressing the problem, and suggestions and solutions for the community, school and parents. – Editor.

by DOUG TRUAX

Jill likes to start the school day right – so three to five days a week she drinks a 40-ounce jumbo of beer before her first class at Charlevoix High School.

Jill (not her real name) doesn't think of herself as that unusual. She is a junior with good grades and has been getting drunk regularly on the weekends since the seventh grade.

"I'd rather drink before school. I like it in the morning," the attractive student says, although she admits her morning drinking has been curbed since her mother started driving her to school.

Asked why she drinks in the morning, Jill replies simply, "It feels good. It's better than being normal."

Jill and a dozen other students who drink alcohol and party regularly sat down recently to talk with this reporter concerning the issue of kids and booze.

DRINKING IN high school, they all agreed, is widespread. But they are unanimous in their belief that it is not a problem for them. "They've got the problem, not us," one of the students said regarding adults who are trying to limit teenage drinking.

"I would say it's getting better – there's not half the percentage that drink once or twice a week," one said. "My parents said there was just as much drinking when they were in school," another added.

How many juniors and seniors drink on a typical weekend?, they were asked. From 85-90 percent, they shot back in unison. "Girls don't drink as much as boys," a student added. How many of the girls who drink would have at least four or five beers, wine coolers, or mixed drinks on a weekend night? Seventy-five percent of them, they agreed. And how many boys would drink that much? "Ninety to 95 percent," one senior estimated. Another put the figure at 50 percent, which was quickly challenged. "I drink a six-pack at lunch time," someone responded.

Several questioned the assertion in a previous article in this series that kids were drinking at a younger age. "There, not drinking a lot

Developer sues township on Water's Edge referendum

The developer seeking to build a condominium project at Water's Edge on Lake Charlevoix filed suit against Charlevoix Township on March 18, seeking to overturn the results of a recent referendum and collect unspecified monetary damages.

The suit was filed by Water's Edge, Inc. owned by John McGoff, and Water's Edge Limited Partnership, which includes First Centrum Corporation of East Lansing.

The suit seeks to have the referendum, in which Charlevoix Township voters reversed a decision of the Township Board to rezone the property from residential (R-2) to multifamily (R-4) by a 261-187 vote, declared illegal and to reinstate the R-4 zoning.

The Water's Edge property was rezoned by the township board on August 12, 1985.

The lawsuit was filed by the law offices of Miller, Canfield, Paddock and Stone, attorneys for the development partnership.

"To allow the referendum to determine land uses seriously undermines the authority and administration of the township form of government," Edward Oelschlaeger, president of First Centrum Corp., said. "Should the referendum be upheld, it will be a most unfortunate blow to the ability of local government to make comprehensive land use decisions which are the basis of land use planning and control of orderely growth."

New Water's Edge plan approved by Charlevoix Township Zoning Board

by DOUG TRUAX

The battle over rezoning of 41 acres at Water's Edge continued last week on several fronts. On Wednesday, March 19, the Charlevoix Township Zoning Board voted 2-1 to rezone the property from residential (R-2) to planned unit development (PUD), accepting a revised plan for the property that allows 162 condominium units to be built.

Board members Clarence Goldstick and Larry Campbell voted for the proposal which would restrict the project to residential units only. Jerry Puhl voted against. Board member Hal Fortbig was absent.

One day prior to the zoning board hearing, Water's Edge Limited Partnership filed suit against Charlevoix Township in Charlevoix County's 33rd Circuit Court, challenging the legality of the Feb. 17 referendum in which voters overturned a multifamily (R-4) zoning for the property by a 261-187 vote. (See accompanying story.)

The revised site plan submitted to the township on Wednesday calls for 46 fewer units than the plan defeated in the referendum. Other features, similar to the previous plan, call for 68 boat slips, access roads off M-66 and Ironton roads, and a pond constructed in the central section of the property.

Condominium clusters would consist of four or eight units, Robert Leighton of William J. Johnson Associates of Ann Arbor told the board and some 40 persons in the audience. The plan calls for two-story townhouses constructed nearer the lake and "stacked" one-story terrace units at the back of the property, he said.

The buildings would be constructed on treated wood foundations and pilings, Leighton added, and would be designed with a Victorian flavor.

He said the PUD zoning classification calls for the developer to stick with the plan as presented. "If it is approved, we will be required to do exactly what you see here tonight," Leighton said.

The site plan calls for 365 parking spaces arranged in courtyards around each building cluster.

The 162 units represents four units per acre, the maximum allowed under the township's PUD zoning. The R-4 zoning rejected by the township voters allowed a maximum of five units per acre.

The zoning plan must now be reviewed by the Charlevoix County Planning Commission on Thursday, April 3, before the Charlevoix Township Board takes up the request on April 19. The votes of the

The above picture of an ice cave was taken along the shore of Lake Michigan near the Charlevoix pier heads and lighthouse. The man on the extreme right is Roy Ranger, grandfather of Alvin Ranger, and the boy in the center is Art Ranger, father of Alvin Ranger. The picture was taken about 1910. Alvin Ranger, who furnished us with the picture, says he thought it would be interesting for readers to see the size of the ice caves that form along the shoreline in some years.

Public asked to help in survey

Michigan landowners are being asked to take part in a special field study of Michigan's declining purple martin population beginning this spring, when these cavity-nesting birds return from South America to nest in Michigan.

The five-year project, sponsored by Michigan's Nongame Wildlife Fund, will require approximately 500 volunteer record keepers, five or more persons from each of Michigan's 83 counties, to record the birds' arrival (mid to late April)-departure (August-September) dates and 'occupancy' numbers. This data will be used by wildlife biologists to better determine future habitat and nesting management of Michigan's dwindling purple martin populations.

The largest member of North America's swallow family, these insect-eating birds, statewide have experienced a 50 percent decline in numbers over the last 25 years and a 75 percent drop in southwestern Michigan, according to project leader Richard Walinski. Increased competition by the European starling and sparrows for nesting areas punctuated by severe cold weather conditions in the spring, limiting their insect food supply, has contributed to their decline, remarked Walinski.

"In the spring of 1982 particularly, purple martin populations in Michigan and 16 other states plummeted," added Bob Hess, head of DNR's Nongame Wildlife Section, "when harsh cold weather conditions prevailed in these areas. It created the most severe and widespread loss known to this one single species of bird," he added.

In Michigan, remaining purple martin populations are found mostly near water, along open edges of inland lakes and the Great Lakes. They will readily nest in boxes or colony houses placed on poles in open agricultural or semi-open grassy areas. Male martins normally return to Michigan in early April to search for nesting and roosting sites, while female birds arrive on the scene later that month.

For survey forms and additional information on the project, interested persons should contact, within the next few weeks: Richard Walinski, Purple Martin Survey, 3450 Baker Rd., Dexter, MI 48130. Persons interested in construction plans for building purple martin houses may write to the Nongame Wildlife Program, DNR Wildlife Division, P.O. Box 30028, Lansing, MI 48909.

Council finalizes purchase of Ferry Beach property

by DOUG TRUAX

City Council agreed at Monday's working session to finalize the purchase of 300 feet of additional Lake Charlevoix frontage at Ferry Beach.

The city plans to borrow $207,500 from the city electric fund at 7 percent interest to complete the purchase on April 1. Total cost of the land (including holding fees and interest) is $232,990.

The city will contribute $25,490 in cash on hand toward the purchase.

The electric fund loan will be paid back with the aid of a $132,000 grant from the state's DNR Recreation Land Acquisition Trust Fund. Additional revenues will come from future taxes captured in the Ferry Avenue Tax Increment Financing Authority district ($75,500).

City Attorney Jeffery VanTreese told council the state grant requires that 50 percent of the oil and gas rights to the property be deeded to the state and that the use of the property be limited to recreational purposes.

IN OTHER ACTION John Friedly reported to council on the status of the Lake Charlevoix Management Planning Advisory Committee. Friedly said the committee expects to develop the general outline of a management plan within the next 30 days.

The final committee report is likely to include a master plan for the lake, a policy statement on issues requiring immediate action and guidelines for lake zoning, Friendly said.

"We have had a lot of support at the state level," he added. "A lot of people are watching this committee hoping something significant will come out of it."

Friedly said the analysis of last fall's attitudes survey of property owners will form much of the basis for the final report.

Rev. Philip Schairbaum of the First Congregational Church approached council on behalf of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association which wants to present Charlevoix with a "Peace Pole" and possibly have it placed in East Park.

The Peace Pole project is some 30 years old, Schairbaum said, and there are over 50,000 of them placed throughout the world. He showed council an example of the pole, a eight-foot wooden post which is embedded in the ground. Signs on each side say, "May Peace Prevail" in four languages.

He said the ministerial association was seeking the council's advice on how best to handle the project and where to place the pole.

Schairbaum noted the Chamber of Commerce has already voted to purhase a pole and other organizations including the Garden Club, Kiwanis, Lions, Rotary and various churches have expressed interest.

Most council members were receptive to the idea. Several sites were suggested including Memorial Park.

Mayor Hal Hill noted that several mayoral appointments will be necessary to fill openings on several commissions. Terms scheduled to expire in April include those of: Bob Lieberman, Gene Steele and Jeff Porter on the Downtown Development Authority; John Kurtz on the Housing Commission; and David Novotny and Gordon Block on the Planning Commission.

VanTreese advised council that the civil case against the Lindy-Heck Co. regarding pilings placed in what the city claims is its right-of-way at the end of Eaton Street is still pending in Circuit Court. VanTreese said he had talked with Edwin Gregory, lawyer for the owner of the boat slip adjacent to the pilings, and was expecting an offer of settlement in the near future.

City Manager Michael Wiesner told council that the water plant work was one week ahead of schedule. Wiesner expects to have a proposal for plant expansion to accomodate the city's future needs by next week. The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers would be willing to oversee the expansion project this summer for a fee, he added.

New budget calls for 5 percent increase for many city worker

Salaries for city employees not covered by bargaining agreements are scheduled to rise by 5 percent in the 1986-87 budget approved by council on Monday, March 17. Slightly larger increases have been approved for the city manager's secretary and the street department superintendent.

Negotiations with the police and fire employees are in progress.

The city's contract with the Communications Workers also calls for a 5 percent wage increase.

The new fiscal year budget calls for a salary of $31,500 annually for the city manager. The city treasurer will receive $27,783; the police chief $25,750; and the fire chief $21,011.

Salaries for other supervisors include: wastewater treatment plant supervisor, $25,272; water and electric superintendent, $25,750; streets, park, cemetery and ice rink superintendent, $24,212.

The city clerk will receive $6,000 annually, plus $9 per hour for election work. Part-time employees include the assessor, $12,035; planner, $8,992; and recreation director, $9,118.

Hourly employees include the secretary to the city manager and planner, $8.94 per hour; deputy clerk, $8.59; deputy treasurer, $8.36; accounting clerk, $8.74; assistant assessor and secretary to police department, $8.45; A lineman, $10.61; B lineman, $10.04; wastewater treatment B operator, $10.61; wastewater C operator, $10.04.

Power agency bond sales announced

The Michigan Public Power Agency (MPPA) announced Thursday, March 6, the sale of $369,365,000 of advanced refunding revenue bonds. According to Tim Morawski, General Manager of the Board of Public Works at Holland, Mihigan and Chairman of MPPA, "the bonds were issued for the purpose of defeasing a major portion of MPPA's 1983 Belle River bonds and because of the low interest rates available at this time MPPA and its participating municipalities will receive substantial savings."

Charlevoix is one of the participating members of this MPPA project, with an entitlement of 4,000 KW. City Manager, Michael Wiesner, states, "that the saving to Charlevoix will amount to approximately $5,750,000 for the 22 year period."

MPPA is comprised of 17 other municipalities in lower Michigan, all of whom operate their own electric systems. These municipalities are: Bay City, Chelsea, Croswell, Grand Haven, Harber Springs, Hart, Holland, Lansing, Lowell, Niles, Paw Paw, Petoskey, Portland, St. Louis, Sebewaing, Traverse City and Zeeland.

In 1983, on behalf of eleven of its members MPPA issued $500,000,000 of Belle River Revenue Bonds at an interest rate of 10.8 percent to purchase 242.650 KW of capacity in the Belle River Power Plant 1,300,000 KW total (capacity) being constructed by the Detroit Edison Company at St. Clair, Michigan.

The refunding revenue bonds sold Thursday have an average interest rate of 7.42 percent. These bonds will replace a portion of the higher priced bonds of 1983 and will lower the overall debt service of MPPA and its eleven participating members in the Belle River Project.

"The overall reduction in debt service over the next 22 years will be approximately $350,000,000," states Morawski, "and should provide the participating members of MPPA with a very economical source of energy for the future.

New managers at Greenleaf Gardens

Doug and Mary Perrault have taken over management of Greenleaf Gardens and Greenhouse, just in time for the Easter flower season.

Doug and Mary and their two-year-old daughter, Emily, moved north from Traverse City, where they had previously operated a floral shop. Doug studied floriculture at Northwestern Michigan College for thee years, and both he and Mary have taken correspondence courses in that field.

They are enthusiastic about their new venture and have many plans for changes and remodeling and expanding, especially for wedding services.

"We are also going to start growing some of our own nursery plants," Doug explained, "and put in more rare and exotic plants."

The new managers plan to carry a supply of dried and silk flowers and create custom arrangements of these long-lasting decorative materials.

Doug pointed out that the owners of Greenleaf Gardens, Edward and Pete Douma of Grand Rapids, own a wholesale flower business, which makes it possible for him to fill customers' orders in a hurry.

Doug and Mary plan to become involved in community affairs.

Mary's brother, David Priest, is a nurse at the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

The Easter Bunny will be at Greenleaf Gardens this coming Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. to pass out treats to children and greet their mothers and fathers.

Greenleaf Gardens is located on Barnard Road just west of Highway US-31.

Letters to the Editor:

Reagan's Nicaraguan policies have backfired

Dear Editor:

The U.S. Treasury is already engulfed in a "sea of red" ink, caused in large part by our efforts to solve world economic and political problems by military means. What has been overlooked is that poverty and unrest cannot be ended by bombs and bullets which kill, not cure.

When there is no legal way for poor people to rid themselves of tyrants and exploitation by landlords and foreign investors, they will eventually turn to revolution as did the American colonists who were unable to get redress for their grievances from King George III. And when our ancestors heeded help, they accepted aid from France which was glad to oblige since it was at odds with England at the time. Likewise, the Sandinista government of Nicaragua, under attack by the CIA-backed Contras and fearing invasion by the U.S. troops engaging in "war games" on its borders, has turned for help to Cuba and the U.S.S.R. which are at odds with the U.S.A.

The current policies of the Reagan administration toward Nicaragua have backfired, serving only to drive that impoverished country of less than five million people to look to communist countries for help, especially after its harbors were mined under the covert direction of our CIA. These policies have reawakened memories of their incursions by our Marines and our support of Marcos-like dictators such as Batista, Somoza and Pinochet. No wonder that the Sandinista government feels threatened and is seeking help from whatever source is available.

The $70,000,000 in military aid which the Regan administration (although not all Republicans) wants to send to the Contras will not topple the Sandinsita government; it will only escalate the killing and lay waste some of the country; and is will whet the appetite of the Contras for more of our tax dollars. And when infusions of money and weapons are not enough to do the job, will the U.S. again send in our boys and attempt to install another Samoza-tyupe string man? If so, the "sea of red" ink in Washington will grow even larger and there will also be a "sea of red" blood, that of the Nicaraguan people and that of our sons and grandsons.

Capitalist economy promises something for nothing

Dear Editor:

In the beginning there was a system of exchange by trade or barter. Then someone invented you owe me by the use of sea shells or beads. Then later someone discovered gold and silver as a portable exchange of values called money. This created great opportunities for organized industries by the use of money for labor.

But then someone developed ways to exchange land and materials for a profit without adding anything of value. This is an attitude that competition for a living standard by monetary accumulation is a mainstay of free enterprise.

There are millions of people working for wages yet some people say it would be against their kind of civil liberties, human rights and free enterprise if they had to earn money in place of making money by speculative manipulation. Mr. Reagan said in one of his political speeches that monetary competition should stabilize the value of money.

Some wellwisbers, wishful thinkers and lottery buyers might believe in this kind of glorified self-regulating economy. In the meantime government continues to pay high interest rates on trillions of dollars borrowed from the profiteers to protect them by subsidizing the victims of unemployment and lost opportunities. They present government is supposed to print I owe you money as a representative of values by the power of taxation. But there is no control over the profiteers.

We have industrial stagnation because of over inflated private investments for bigger profits. Add to this international exploitation of labor by international ownership, where money is shifted from one action to another for a bigger profit. There is a continuous monetary manipulation to create a profit in the exchange of values in world money markets.

The result we have is a super abundance of wealth by money for about 3 percent of the people and about 38 million people on a poverty level. People should read the Constitution that makes government a representation of all the people. How can the present administration dictate a democratic solution to a Marxist economic revolution anywhere if it will not control its own social money problems created by a fraudulant capitalist economy of something for nothing.

Young people give time and effort

Dear Editor:

Wanted: a couple of young men to put on a referee shirt and put in seven straight hours of fast moving, verbal abuse just so he will give recognition to a middle school grappler. Give the boys ten minutes of rest so they can gulp down the food and keep right at the grueling task at hand.

The only pay for such devoted community service that Steve Mellios and Matt Hull received for their recent efforts as referees at the Middle School Wrestling Tournament was a thank you and handshake. Behind these two young mere were others like Scott Novotny, Jim Herriman, Shawn Putman, Bill Marquardt, Jason Wiser, along with the Whitley family of Greg, Dennis and the Tilton family of Jim and Stacey. Plus a small group from the Onaway wrestling team.

Many of them put in over a dozen hours setting up and taking down wrestling equipment so 236 bouts could be planned.

There were also some parents who worked like cafetera along with the Charlevoix Sports Boosters. But the seven schools and over one hundred and fifty middle school boys benefited mainly from the effort of a couple of teachers and Coach Bryan and his wife Brenda.

There is a moral to this story in that not all of Charlevoix High Schools students participate only in weekend drinking and drug use as stated in last week's Courier. Some young men donate their time and energy to benefit youngsters in the 11-14 age group. I pay respect to the above mentioned boys for their performance last weekend. Especially Matt and Steve.

Enough condominiums

Dear Editor:

I am against the development of the 30 acres of North Point for the building of condos. This area is some of the last natural beatuy of the area.

There are enough high-rise condominiums now around the Charlevoix area. We need to save land for the people in the years ahead.

Everyone should have been assessed fair share of sewer

Dear Editor:

In your March 19 issue of the Charlevoix Courier, Mrs. T. Wolf said in her letter to you, regarding the Water's Edge project, that "the land is set aside from the highway and lake so that it is not even seen. It has always been private land."

In your Mach 12 issue Shirley Thompson said "the Water's Edge townhouses would be Victorian style and not even seen from the highway or the lake."

What were they going to do? Build them underground? Can anybody imagine a developer, wanting to build 308 condos on over 1,000 feet of lakefront property, would build them so they would not have a view of the lake or could not be seen from it? Both of these persons accused the township voters on the referendum of ignorance of the facts. It appears that both of them were ignorant of the facts, because the site plan for the Water's Edge project, shown at many of the township meetings, and also shown on the front page of your paper some time ago, clearly shows buildings at both the north and south edges of the property close to the lake.

Also the condos on the west side of the proposed lagoon, to have been dredged from the existing stream on the property, would also be clearly seen from the lake. Where were Mrs. Wolf and Shirley Thompson when this site plan was shown?

Mrs. Wolf brought up the subject of the new township sewer system to which the Water's Edge project would have to be hooked. This is true. It is my understanding the Water's Edge was one of the primary promoters of getting the sewer in, because without it they could do no building whatsoever on their property. All units in the Water's Edge project would no doubt have to pay a hook-up fee like the rest of the property owners affected will, when they hook up to the system. Why didn't Water's Edge, when they were promoting approval of the sewer system, indicate that they wanted to build over 300 units on their property? It would seem that they were not assessed for their fair share of the cost.

The figures used below were estimated from costs and quantities mentioned in various township meetings prior to the referendum vote. The estimated amount for the sewer project was $600,000. We were assessed $3,636 and if all affected property owners were assessed the same amount, there would have been a total of 165 units. If Water's Edge were assessed for 32 units, as we were told, their portion of the total amount would be 19.4 percent or $116,364. The rest of the property and the Irish Marina, made up the other 133 units, who were assessed for 80.6 percent of $483,636.

When Water's Edge finally presented their site plan, they wanted to build 308 units or 176 more than the 32 units for which they were assessed for the sewer cost. Even one of the township board members said he was "flabbergasted" at the quantity they wanted to build. This meant that their unit cost would have been $559, if 308 condos were permitted to be built, not $3,636 per unit which all of the other had to pay.

If the estimated $600,000 were to be proportioned fairly with 308 units at Water's Edge, there would have been a total of 341 units in the project. 61 percent at Water's Edge and 39 percent for the others. Sixty-one percent of the cost would be $366,982 or $249,618 more than the $116,364 mentioned above. This is a difference of almost a quarter of a million dollars. It means that Water's Edge would have been assessed 19.4 percent of the cost for 61 percent of the usage and the others 80.6 percent of the cost for only 39 percent of the usage. Is this fair? Is this one of the benefits we can expect to get from the Water's Edge development?

Mrs. Wolf and Shirley Thompson cannot understand the "bitterness over the election for the Water's Edge project." But what did it cost them? Did they have their property all chewed up, trees knocked down, land left unfinished and desolate looking because of the sewer installation? I'm not saying that the sewer wasn't needed. It was. But everybody should have been assessed their fair share.

The latest proposal by the developer at Water's Edge is for only 162 condos. If this eventually is permitted to go through, Mrs. Wolf and Shirley Thompson won't have to worry about not being able to see the building from Ferry Road (the highway). They'll be able to see right down to the lake, because all of the trees, the woods, the wetlands will be all gone. What is now a beautiful piece of property will also have been chewed up by bulldozers and caterpillars, building equipment, etc.

It's hard to understand how recommendations to protect the lakefront from high density projects from representatives from the Tip of the Mitt, the Belvedere Association, Dr. Humphries, an authority on the subject from Michigan State University, and many others, can continue to be ignored by the township boards. Mr. Strogd prior to the referendum vote said that the boards' vote was seven to two for the zoning change; however, he forgets to mention that the Charlevoix County zoning board voted six to three against rezoning. Another recommendation that was completely ignored.

We believe that, as Clifford Bidick said in your March 12 issue, that "patience is needed" and that any rezoning of lakefront property be postponed until all "the facts related to lakefront development" are reviewed and what effect a high-density project, such as Water's Edge requests, has on the fragility of the area.

Adult education

By Bob Clock

Did you know that there used to be an upholsterer in Harbor Springs by the name of "Davenport"? Fran Martin will swear that was his name, because he used to do work for her.

In any event, the existence of Mr. Davenport was one of the little bits of upholstery trivia I picked when I announced last winter that I was going to take an upholstery course through Charlevoix High School's adult education program.

The course is now over and, looking back, I am convinced that learning something about the innards of furniture kept me from going completely bonkers during one of the longest, coldest winters on record.

The course was taught by Charlevoix upholsterer Vince Brewster. The first session was held in a classroom at Charlevoix High School. However Brewster said he would prefer to teach the class in the little shop behind his Bridge Street home, and the class agreed.

He also said he would prefer meeting two nights a week for five weeks, rather than one night a week for 10 weeks. We also concurred. Actually, we met for six weeks, and when I stopped at the shop last Saturday to pick up additional upholstery supplies (I've got the bug), several of my former classmates were still on hand, putting the finishing touches on their projects.

So far I have finished two arm chairs and the third is almost completed. Of course, just about every piece of upholstered furniture in the house needs help, so it looks as though I have my work cut out for me.

I THINK MOST of Brewster's students were surprised to discover what lies under the damask, velvet and brocade of stylish furniture. To be frank, an armchair or sofa in the process of being upholstered is not a pretty sight: Low-grade, unfinished hardwood; strips of coarse webbing, springs painfully tied in place with hemp, yards of burlap, mats of rubberized horse hair (yes, they still use horse hair); strips of metal with ugly little teeth, cardboard, yards of fluffy cotton padding and tacks — thousands of tacks (or staples, if you live in the 20th Century).

However, after the fabric is applied, you'd never guess what lies beneath.

Part of the fun was watching Brewster demonstrate various upholstering techniques, from making welt on his heavy-duty sewing machine, assembling sofa cushions — complete with zipper — in a matter of minutes, or attaching metal ply-grip to the back of an armchair with an air-powered staple gun.

After years in the business, Brewster is fast and accurate. It is always fun to watch a master at his trade.

During the chaos of the final session, I asked Brewster if he was going to teach the course again next year. He was tempted to say no, but relented.

The answer is yes, if he can limit the types of projects. No davenports or other complicated projects, please.

If you haven't yet taken an adult education course through the high school, I suggest you give it a try. You'll meet a lot of nice people, pick up a little knowledge or a few skills and have fun in the process.

It beats television hands down.

"It is finished!" (John 19:30)

After we have completed a project such as redecorating our family room or even more ambitious, building an addition on our home, we breathe a sigh of relief and say, "It is finished!" We examine our work and are satisfied that we did a good job.

We can do the same thing again on Friday - Good Friday - the day our Lord cried out, "It is finished!" Jesus cried out from the Cross victoriously. The prophecies written in the Scriptures had been fulfilled. God came down from heaven to become Man. Our Messiah fulfilled the Laws of God in our behalf, then bore the punishment for our sins on the Cross of Calvary. He opened the gates of heaven again, which had been closed since the Fall.

Our Savior also declared that His great work of our redemption was completed. Our just and righteous God is now reconciled to all sinners.

As St. Paul writes, "For as by one man's disobedience many were made sinners, so also by one Man's obedience many will be made righteous." (Romans 5:19). We can breathe a sigh of relief and say, "It is finished!" We can rejoice - not in any of our deeds - but in the free gift given to us through the merit of the Son of God. "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believes in Him should not perish but have everlasting life." (John 3:16)

We cannot earn it. It is a free gift received through faith in Christ Jesus. Believe and it is yours. Our redemption is completed. We cannot add to it. Receive it and rejoice. "It is finished!"

Out of the Blue

We flew out Marcos ...
And his cronies, to boot—
But why did we fly out
Two planeloads of loot?

Area Christians celebrate Easter and the Resurrection of Christ

by PEG OHLE

Most Charlevoix area residents will celebrate Easter Sunday in some way.

Members of Christian churches will attend special services to celebrate the resurrection of Jesus Christ; others will partake of a traditional Easter feast of ham or lamb; some will go visiting to show off their new Easter finery; some will color eggs and hide them for their children to find; and others will remember friends and relatives with gifts of flowers or cards.

No matter how some people observe Easter Sunday, it is primarily a Christian feast day. It occurs the first Sunday after the full moon following the vernal equinox, March 21. Thus, Easter may fall within a 35-day period between March 22 and April 25. This year it will be observed next Sunday, March 30, and will not be celebrated on that date again until 1997. Dates of Easter Sunday for the next five years are April 19, April 3, March 26, April 15, and March 30.

The theological significance of Easter, is the celebration of the death, resurrection, and ascension of Jesus, and because of its religious richness of celebration, the weeks preceding and following Easter have also been made times of special devotion.

The week before Easter is known as Holy Week and begins with Palm Sunday. Palm Sunday celebrates Jesus' entry into Jerusalem, when people spread palm branches before Him. Thursday is known as Maundy Thursday, to commemorate the Last Supper, and Friday is Good Friday, commemorating the crucifixion.

The customs and symbols of Easter have evolved through the years with no historical basis of reason. Even the origin of the word "Easter" is not really known. One theory is that it is derived from the old High German word "ostarun," meaning "dawn," and "Easter", the goddess of dawn. One explanation of coloring eggs at Easter time is that eggs were once forbidden in the Lenten fast and could again be eaten on Easter. Thus, decorated eggs signalled the end of fasting and the beginning of a joyful celebration. Symbols of Easter are also blended with the symbols of spring - flowers, especially lilies, rabbits, chickens, and lambs.

While similar, Easter customs vary from country to country. In some parts of the world, children roll eggs against each other, with the egg staying uncracked the longest being the winner. Since 1878, children in Washington have been invited to roll eggs on the White House lawn.

The Easter Parade on Fifth Avenue in New York provides an opportunity for the ostentatious to show off their glamorous new fashions and for others to stand and watch them stroll by.

In Bethlehem, Pennsylvania, a trombone choir of the Moravian Church plays throughout the city to call church members to sunrise services in the old Moravian Cemetery. There, the trombones play a joyful chorus as the sun appears on the horizon.

In northern Michigan most Easters, it is not a matter of whether one's clothes are new but they are warm enough, and outdoor church services are often cancelled because of snow and cold. But there are always joyful church services to celebrate the resurrection.

Cross to be carried here to remember Mount Calvary

The moving and sorrowful events at Mount Calvary will be portrayed in the annual Good Friday service at the First Congregational Church when members of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association present "Persons Around the Passion."

The service will begin at 12:30 p.m. with a procession from Antrim Street at Bridge Street to the church at State Street and Park Avenue with members carrying the cross.

In a dramatic scene, the cross will then be placed in the church and the formal service will begin at 1 p.m. It will be presented in 30-minute segments to allow worshippers to enter and leave at their convenience. The Rev. Phillip G. Schaerbaum, host pastor, said:

With each presenting a first-person monologue, the Rev. Lowell Anderson of the Assembly of God Church will portray the role of one of the Sanhedrins, the Rev. Gary Bleuiser of Christ Episcopal Church, Pontious Pilot, the Rev. Duane Neilson of the Church of the Nazarene, one of the thieves; the Rev. Larry Geveters of the Community Reformed Church, a Roman soldier; Valerie Schrock, Mary, mother of Jesus and the Rev. David W. Vingling of the United Methodist Church, John the Disciple.

Other participating in the service will be the Rev. Robert Bellaire of the Barnard Methodist Church, the Rev. Bruce Hamilton of the Community Church of God, the Rev. Raymond Giffin, retired, the Rev. Cecil Drost and the Rev. Jeb Brinsherd, both of the Assembly of God Church.

The host pastor, the Rev. Philip Schaerbaum, will welcome the worshippers.

Special vocal numbers for the service will be solos by the Rev. Schaerbaum and Vincent Chew and duets by Cindy Mansen and Nancy Kaufmann and Sarah and Steve Sargent.

Elizabeth Humphrey will be the organist for the service to which worshippers of all denominations are invited.

Alcohol servers meet

Grand Traverse Resort Village and Wicksall Distributors, Inc., will conduct a training program on alcohol abuse prevention and social skills for servers of alcohol. The program is designed to help reduce alcohol abuse by consumers and will take place Tuesday, April 1 and Tuesday, May 20 at Grand Traverse Resort Village in Acme.

The program is called "Training for Intervention Procedures by Servers of Alcohol." TIPS and was developed by the Health Education Foundation, Inc., based in Washington, D.C. The program is being sponsored here locally by the Miller Brewing Company. Twenty-five area bartenders, waitresses and managers of local drinking establishments will participate in the TIPS training program.

Honored guests announced for McCune benefit dinner

The president of world renowned Interlochen Center for the Arts, Dr. Roger Jacobi and his wife, will be honored guests at the Five Million Dollar Dinner on May 17, at the beautiful hilltop estate of the MacGillivrays in Charlevoix. This fund-raising event sponsored by the Crooked Tree Arts Council will celebrate the fifth anniversary of the Virginia McCune Community Arts Center in Petoskey.

Tickets sell for $10 and the drawing takes place on May 1. Five couples will be winners. They will be seated at a table for 14 guests including host and hostess Joan and Chuck MacGillivray and Dr. and Mrs. Jacobi.

The table will be set with white damask linens, Fairfax pattern silverware, and Waterford Crystal wine glasses. The centerpiece will be an arrangement of dark iris. Each couple will be waited on by their own waiter and wine steward. The volunteer staff will be composed of well-known members of the community, dressed in uniform.

Each couple will be picked up in a chauffeur-driven limousine, with a footman, and escorted home.

The six-course menu is being catered by chefs from the Arboretum, the Rowe Inn, Stafford's Hospitality, Tapawingo, 218 Bridge Street, and Walloon Lake Inn. Symon's General Store is providing the hors d'ouevres. Appropriate wines will accompany the meal through the courtesy of The Wharf Side Market in Charlevoix.

Music and entertainment will charm the guests throughout the evening.

Tickets may be purchased at the Apple Tree or by calling 347-6443. Tickets may be charged to Visa or Mastercard.

Depot takes A league title

The five teams of the A league of Charlevoix Independent Basketball closed out the season last week with the Depot of Boyne City winning over Duffy's 83-75; Kit Carson Lumber edging Judy's Restaurant 64-62 on Wednesday; Dr. Dave's Green Grinders handing the Depot its second loss of the season by a score of 88-86; and Judy's forfeiting to Duffy's on Thursday.

The Depot captured the league title with a 14-2 record followed by the Green Grinders with a 10-6 record; Kit Carson Lumber in third place with a 9-7 record; Judy's in fourth at 5-11; and Duffy's in the league cellar with a 2-14 record.

In their game on Wednesday, the Depot got off to a slow start and trailed 19-14 before taking over 38-28 at halftime and 58-52 going into the final period.

Tom Beyer with 24 points, Tony Williams and Jeff Belford with 20 points each and Tim Hartwick with 12 points led the way for the Depot. Kim Thomson had 21, Cliff Haas 17 and Woody Pearson 10 for Duffy's.

Carson Lumber outscored Judy's Restaurant 18-10 in the final period to give the Depot a two-point win after a seesaw battle that saw Judy's take a 15-14 first-period lead only to lose it 35-31 at halftime; regain it 52-36 at the three-quarter mark only to fall behind at the buzzer.

Vince Left with 17 points, Roger Crain with 16 and Butch Klooster with 10 were the top scoreres for the victors. Brian Farrell had 20, Doug Buday 18 and Rob Hilton 12 for Judy's.

In the final game of the season, the Depot and the Green Grinders played to a first quarter 24-24 tie and a 44-all tie at halftime before the Depot edged to a 62-59 lead at the third quarter. The final period saw the Grinders outscore the league leaders 29-24 for the up-set.

Dick Swenor with 34 points was joined by Dan McKenzie with 17, Dean Fewins with 13 and Jim Parrish with 12 in the upset effort. Beyer had 20, Dean Hicks 18, Belford 17, Hartwick 13 and Williams 20 for the Depot.

The Depot of Boyne City captured the title in the A Division of the Charlevoix Independent Basketball League with a 14-2 record.

Lindberg posts perfect record

The Charlevoix Independent Basketball B League closed out its season last week with Paul Lindberg, Inc., concluding the season with a perfect record of 16 victories.

First State Bank with an 11-5 record finished in second place; the Clothing Company and Nanny's finished in a tie for third place with Wojan Aluminum occupying the league cellar with a 0-16 record.

In the last night of action, First State Bank defeated Wojan 70-56 and Lindberg won over the Clothing Company, 69-35.

First State and Wojan were fairly evenly matched as the Bankers led by slim margins of 19-17, 33-31 and 49-45 by quarters until the final period when they outscored Wojan 21-11 for the win.

Dennis Dominic had 21 points, Rod Stevens 14, Jim Gells 11 and Bob Sandahl 10 for the victors. Charles Carver with 22 points and Darrell VanLoo with 12 were the top scorers for Wojan.

In the second game Paul Lindberg trailed the Clothing Company for two periods before outscoring them 30-12 in the final period to finish the season undefeated. The Clothing Company trailed Lindberg 17-11 at the first period intermission but took over 30-27 at halftime and 43-39 at the three-quarter mark before losing control.

Dave Norton led the scoring with 26 points followed by Stan Martin with 20 and Doug Winnell with 11 for Lindberg. Bill Hoaglund had 15, Dave Cole 12 and Tom Morrison 10 points for the Clothing Co.

Middle School grapplers do well

"For our numbers we did a good job. Out of the 15 classes we filled six on the B team and nine on the A team. Overall, we showed much improvement over the earlier tournament in Charlevoix, Coach Greg Bryan said of this middle school wrestling team's performance at the Grayling Invitational on Saturday.

He went on to say that the talent is there but needs additional training. "Had we had a longer training period we could have made a much better showing. We need more technical trainung. However that will come," he continued.

SE Ignace won the meet with Grayling placing second. Other teams entered were Houghton Lake, Onaway, Petoskey and Roscommon.

Brad Zoet (101-pound class) was the only champion in the B division, winning three matches including a pin in 2:30 over teammate, Gary Haines who finished in second place. Also in the division as Joe Ehrke (94-pound class) who placed fourth after winning his first match, dropping his second, taking his third and losing in the consolation bracket on a third-period fall after leading the entire match.

Other team membrs and their records follow: Chris McCallum (87-pound class) won two and lost two; Herbie Pines (115-pound class) won one and lost one; and Ed Penfold (136-pound class) lost his first match and then was out because of an injury.

The results of the A team include: Dave Hunter (87-pound class) who placed fourth after two wins and two losses; Jacob Smith (101-pound class) wrestld well, winning one and losing two close matches; Brian Darrah (108-pound class) was the only champion in this division and was among the best wrestlers there. He had his best performance ever, winning three matches against tough competition; Tony Mervyn (115-pound class) lost one and defaulted in his second match. He was wrestling up one weight class in order to help the team and, though be wrestled well, couldn't match the strength of the higher weight class.

Charles Mathers (122-pound class) lost two matches; Scott Keheret (136-pound class) lost two matches but showed great improvement, losing his second bout in the final seconds after leading all the way; Andy Wynkoop (145-pound class) did extremely well, winning his first two matches against tough competition but losing in the finals by a quick pin; Jim Marquardt (heavyweight) placed third, winning three and losing one in the semifinals to the eventual champion. He won in the consolation bracket against a 255-pound heavyweight from Houghton Lake who was disqualified because of unsportsmanlike conduct. Marquardt was leading 4-0 at the time.

Bryan thanked all those persons, especially Norm Probert, who helped make the Charlevoix Invitational tournament such a success the week before. "We were still receiving compliments on it at the Grayling tournament," he added.

Paul Lindberg, Inc., with a perfect record, captured the B Division title in the Charlevoix Independent Basketball League.

Three Rayders named most valuable

Three members of the Charlevoix Rayder basketball team were named to the Michigan-Huron Shores conference most valuable player team, according to an announcement made by league officials. Three others were given honorable mention.

Charlevoix, with a 10-4 record in league play, placed Sean Ferguson, top scorer in the league, Jody Putman and Tim Salmonson on the team. Ferguson and Putman received honorable mention in 1985.

Receiving honorable mention this year were Tim Plagge, Patrick LaBlance and Jim Ciuk. All are seniors with the exception of Ciuk who is a junior.

In naming a most valuable player, each team makes its own choice with the number of players to be selected based on the team's finish in the league.

Netters honored

The Charlevoix Rayder volleyball players received two berths on the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference most valuable player team announced recently by league officials.

Lara Stargardt and Rhonda Brown received the most valuable player recognition. Teams make their own selection with the number based on the team's final standing in the league. Charlevoix finished the season with a 3-3 record and in a tie for third place in league play.

Carol Holm and Amy Antaya received honorable mention.

Stargardt and Holm are seniors; Brown and Antaya are juniors.

Filing date for primary elections is just over two months away

by PEG OHLE

While 1986 is really only an "off-year general election year" (meaning there is no presidential election), there will be contests for several state and a few local seats.

Statewide, voters will choose a Governor, Lieut. Governor, Secretary of State, Attorney General, members of governing boards of three state universities, several judges, and a member of the State Board of Education.

Charlevoix area voters will also elect their Representive in Congress, their State Senator, and their State Representative, as well as a County Commissioner to represent their particular city-township district in the County.

While the Primary Election is not to be held until August 5 and the General Election not until November 4, the filing date deadline for candidates is just over two months away, June 3.

Any local resident interested in a state office would have his campaign well under way by this time, but there may be some who would like to serve at the County level but who do not know how to go about it.

There are six County Commissioner Districts:

District No. 1: Hayes, Bay, Evangeline, and Melrose Townships, represented by Larry Matthew.

District No. 2: Boyne Valley, Chandler, Hudson, Wilson, and east Eveline Townships, represented by Ralph Harmon.

District No. 3: Boyne City, represented by Orville Sutliff.

District No. 4: City of East Jordan and South Arm Township, represented by Tom Breakey.

District No. 5: St. James, Peaine, Charlevoix, Norwood, Marion, and western Eveline Townships, represented by Don Smith.

District No. 6: City of Charlevoix, represented by Lee Moerland.

The six elected County Commissioners meet regularly as a County Board twice a month, on the second Wednesday morning and the fourth Wednesday evening; and also as a Committee of the Whole twice a month, on the first and last Thursday mornings.

County Commissioners must live in the District they represent. They receive a salary of $165 a month for attending the two regular Board meetings and $65 for attending each of the two Committee of the Whole meetings and any other committees or liaison meetings they attend as part of their Board work. They are also paid mileage.

Further information about filing as a candidate for County Commissioner may be obtained from the office of the Charlevoix County Clerk.

County plans program on hazardous wastes

District Health Department No. 3, which covers Charlevoix, Antrim, Emmet, and Otsego Counties, is planning a one-day household hazardous waste collection program.

The District was recently awarded $10,000 from the State's $10 million Clean Michigan fund to set up and carry out the program, which will be educational as well as physical, according to Bert Notestine of the Health Department.

The program is designed to get people to clean out their cupboards and garages and barns of such products as pesticides, oil based paints, used motor oil, and harsh cleaners – anything that should not be put into the ground.

Notestine said that the local environmentalist groups, "Tip of The Mitt" and "Recycle North" will assist with the program, especially in the educational process of showing what hazardous wastes go into our landfills and the problems they can cause in later years.

Collections will be made in shopping center areas, where stores will feature household items that can be substituted for the hazardous types, such as baking soda as a cleaning product.

The date of the hazardous waste collection program has not yet been set. The program may be held only in the four-county area covered by District No. 3 Health Department, or it may be coordinated with a statewide effort later on.

MichCon customers receive credit in March gas bills

MichCon customers will receive a one-time credit in their March bills that will result in savings of about $30 for the typical MichCon residential customer using 150 thousand cubic feet of gas a year.

The bills containing the credit will be mailed throughout MichCon's Service area during the period from March 10 to April 9.

The credit, requested by MichCon last month and approved by the Michigan Public Service Commission, represents a one-time gain for MichCon from the sale of its former office headquarters building and two years of lower-than-normal gas losses from operations.

MichCon sold its leasehold inteest in the One Woodward Avenue Building in downtown Detroit to American Natural Resources last year, and has been headquartered in the Guardian Building since December, 1981.

MichCon Chairman Alfred R. Glancy III explained that all gas companies experience small amounts of lost gas from their underground storage and distribution systems during a year's operations. In the past, these losses have been averaged over five years and updated only in periodic rate cases. In this case, MichCon requested permission to avoid the time lag associated with utility rate cases, and return the savings to customers as soon as possible.

Wetlands Act subject of hearing

LANSING — The Michigan Department of Natural Resources will hold public hearings in April on proposed rules for administration of the State's Wetlands Protection Act (Act 203, P.A. of 1979). The hearings will be held: April 2 at 2 p.m., Gaylord, Community Room, Old Kent Bank of Gaylord, 123 West Main Street; April 4 at 1 p.m., Lansing, Auditorium, Law Building, Capitol Complex; and, April 4 at 3 p.m., Marquette, Superior Room, Don H. Bottum University Center, Northern Michigan University.

The proposed rules provide definitions of activities having an impact on wetlands, and clarify the permit application process for draining, filling, dredging or construction within any wetlands area as defined under the Act. The rules will provide the Department with the ability to respond to emergency conditions impacting wetland areas regulated by the statute. If adopted, the rules will take effect 15 days after filing with the Secretary of State.

Written statements will be made a part of the hearing record if they are received by April 21 by the DNR Land Resource Programs Division, Box 30028, Lansing, MI 48909. Copies of the proposed rules are available upon request to the Department at the same address.

Chamber Chatter

By Claudia Kenifeck
Executive Director

Thanks to help from Chamber member Don Dannecker in making the contact, a retail market study of the Charlevoix business community is being planned. Robert Bouldry, dean of Continuing Education at North Central Michigan College, has assigned several students from the Marketing Management course at NCMC to do a study for the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce. Guidelines for the study have come from the Chamber Merchant Group.

The study hopes to provide the Chamber with a solid data base showing the buying habits of those who live in and around the area. This data will be used by the Merchant Group to better understand and meet the demands of the local consumer. The study will last 10 weeks, so if you are contacted to answer a few questions and participate, please help us with your cooperation.

Zoning Board approves new Water's Edge condominium plan zoning board and planning commission are advisory only.

Reaction to the plan was divided. John Haggard, a township resident, told the board he was one of the first persons to support the original proposal for Water's Edge. "I think what they are proposing now is much more convenient for the township board to control over the period of years of development," he said.

"I am very, very confused," Dale Boss said. "Here we have a corporation that would like to come in and develop a piece of property." Boss said a recent magazine article indicated Michigan had the smallest increase in income of any state (1.7 percent) compared to a national average of 7 percent. "I think we better get our heads turned on right or close the town and let the last person turn out the lights," he added.

City resident Suzi Reis called the project "one of the best projects we are ever likely to see in this area." She said most people wouldn't want to have lived in Charlevoix as it was 35 years ago. "There was nothing here," she said. "If you were to remove the condos, we wouldn't have the things we have now."

James Stewart, a resident of Charlevoix Township, responded to Boss and Reis. "Like my good friend, Dale Boss, I'm terribly confused as to why we are here tonight," Stewart said. In my occupation (I'm a physician), the relationship between physician and patient is based on trust. I sat through two meetings and heard Mr. Oelschlaeger (a development partner for Water's Edge) say he would abide by a vote of the people. We had a very costly vote that tore us apart and now we are facing this again plus a law suit."

Stewart said the wealth of the school district is not based on condos. "The tax base is based on business," he said. "The effect of these condominiums is negligible.

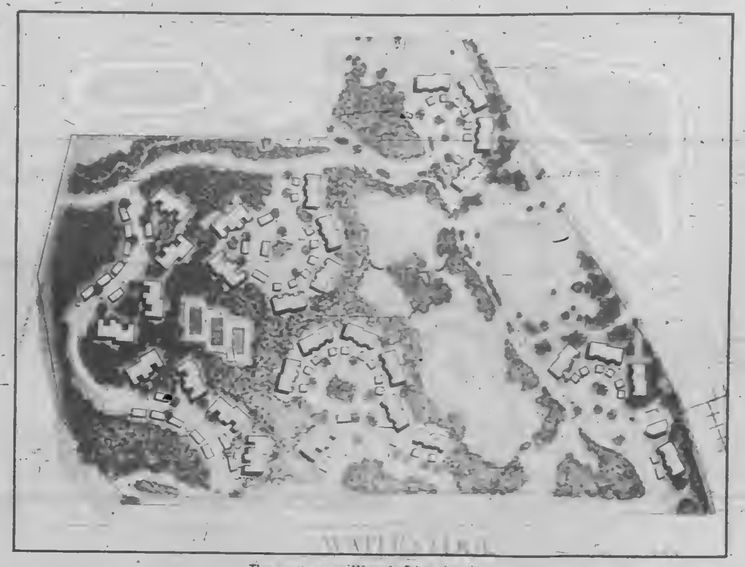
"I strongly feel that the decision to accept this proposal will result in another referendum with the same result," Stewart concluded.

Pete Phillips told the board he didn't have strong feelings one way or the other, but he objected to "people who have been here 10-15 years and all of a sudden they want to shut it down. On the other hand, I don't want to see a bunch of junk built there either.

"Who are you to say what a guy can do with his money?" he asked.

Steve Andreae asked that the zoning board give consideration to the aesthetics of the property as seen from the water. He indicated the cluster development would be preferrable to single family houses spaced every 100 feet.

Marcia Trimper, a member of ALERT (Area Leaders Environmental Response Team), said she was opposed to this plan, but not to the idea of a development at Water's Edge. "A large percentage of the township residents would like the zoning board to hold off on this," she said. "I don't believe that if this project does not go or is made considerably smaller that this town is going to have to close the door and shut everything down," she added.



The most recent Water's Edge site plan.

Developer files suit

The suit challenges the referendum on several grounds. The developers contend that the township board's act of rezoning was an administrative act and was not properly subject to a referendum, making the referendum illegal.

They also charge that "the reclassification of the property as a result of the referendum resulted in a denial of Water's Edge's right of substantive due process of law in violation of the State of Michigan Constitution."

The vote re-establishing the land as R-2 residential also amounts to "confiscation of Water's Edge's property without just compensation and a deprivation of Water's Edge's use of the property without due process of law," the developer asserts.

Charlevoix Township Supervisor Oscar Stroud said the township would fight the lawsuit, even though the Township Board had voted to have the property zoned R-4. "Certainly, that's our job," he said. "The township is being sued, therefore it is our job to protect it, whether you like it or not."

Stroud said the township had done everything according to law up to the point of the referendum.

"We accepted the petition of the people to have an election, had a referendum and accepted the decision of the referendum," he said.

Stroud said he still hoped for compromise on the issue. "We're going to do everything possible to cooperate, but we want to be fair. I'm not sure each side can't give a little."

Stroud said he is contacting lawyers for advice on the lawsuit.

"It's a typical move on their part," Marcia Trimper, a member of ALERT, said of the developers. "It's an unfortunate thing, because Ed Oelschlaeger said he would abide by the vote of the people. It's a really sad situation."

Kids and booze:

Youth speak out on parties, drinking

younger, but now you've got people trying to find out about it ... more people concerned about it."

THE DISCUSSION turned to why they drink. They all rejected peer pressure as a reason for teenage drinking, although nearly all of the adults the Courier has talked with mention this as a major cause. Most were adamant on this subject. "Some people drink because they like to drink. They don't drink to impress someone," a senior boy said.

"I swear to god, if I had the money I'd drink every day," he added.

"The majority of kids that drink look up to kids that don't," one of the students offered.

"Nobody's ever made a crack about my not drinking," another adds. "This peer pressure stereotype crap is stupid."

Someone notes that peer pressure may be a factor for freshmen.

Shannon Titsworth is a popular high school senior, a member of the winter homecoming court, who admits she likes to party. She sums of the feeling of many of her fellow students: "I drink, but I do it responsibly. I don't do it to excess, but I don't like to be thought of as a nerd or a narc. If I can't drive, I won't."

SENIOR YEAR is a time to party, Shannon adds. "I have four months to live under my mom's roof and still be a kid. This is my time to have fun and I plan to do as much partying as I can."

While these young people say they will look up to classmates who don't drink, they have little good to say about any classmate likely to inform on those who drink or take drugs – those who "narc." They are uniformly hostile toward narcs or others who interfere or seek to discipline them. "Nobody thanks they're a nerd because they don't drink. It's because they're in your business," someone says. "Where do they get off saying you're bad because you drink?"

The talk drifts toward discipline. No one sees much need for it on the drinking issue. "If they say you're going to get kicked off the team or stopped from extra-curricular activities because of drinking, I'll go out and drink more," one of the students says. "More discipline is just going to irritate the kids and they'll rebel more," a classmate adds.

"The more you're strict with them the worse they'll turn out."

Shannon suggests at one point that the emphasis should be on curbing drunk driving. "I don't think the focus should be on trying to stop kids from drinking. They should concentrate on getting kids to not drive when drinking."

NOT EVERYONE concurs with that opinion. "I drive mellower, slower, when I've been drinking," one of the boys says.

Shannon relates an incident in which a friend told her at a recent party he "was going to get trashed." He handed her his car keys and told her to drive him home after the party. When the evening ended, he was indeed drunk. "I was concerned because he couldn't walk in a straight line," Shannon recalls.

He insisted she turn over the keys and let him drive. She finally locked herself in the car and after one hour and 20 minutes of being called every name he could think of, the owner of the car consented to letting her drive him home.

The next morning, Shannon says, he called to apologize and told her to do the same thing if he was ever in that shape again.

Would a chapter of Students Against Drunk Driving (SADD) being organized by some Charlevoix High School students work if they are asked. "I think it's stupid," one students responds. "Everybody's responsible for their own actions."

SEVERAL ARE more sympathetic. One girl recounts having to call her mother to drive her home after she had consumed a 12 pack. "I didn't even know my own name," she says. Her mother was appreciative the next day. "She'd rather have me call."

Another student remembers his parents took him to the senior party when he was just a sophomore and then brought him home, so he was free to drink without worrying about driving.

The conversation drifts to non-alcoholic parties, dances and alternatives to drinking. The town is so boring, someone says, that if there is a party everyone goes to it. If there were no booze, one of the seniors says, "nobody would go."

Others are not so sure. If there was a disco, there would be plenty of action, kids would come from out of town, someone suggests, swarming to the area. Most concede they would drink before going to a non-alcoholic dance. "But even if you drink before, it takes you awhile to be driving," and the dancing would wear off the effects of the alcohol, one of the group notes.

THERE IS CONSENSUS that there is little for teens to do in Charlevoix. In an earlier conversation a junior honors student said there were three options: going to a movie, getting pizza or going to a party where you were likely to drink. "I go over to my friends house and watch movies, but it gets so boring. We've run out of movies."

What the town needs, she said only half jokingly, is a place like Arnold's in "Happy Days." – "a place where you can listen to music and dance."

The school dances have been canceled because of drinking, the students complain, causing more people to go out and party. It is a vicious circle, they say.

Drinking, the students say, "about doubles in the summer. You can find one (a party) every night."

"There's a party at the dunes for two months straight," another notes. Most parties during the winter, they say, are at the homes of kids whose parents are away.

While alcohol is clearly the drug of choice among most teens, they say that marijuana is common. "There's about as much pot smoking as alcohol," a student claims. Cocaine and other hard drugs are not circulating among high school students, they say.

The conversation is coming to a close. A student leans back and searches for a statement that will put things in perspective. "Kids just want to go out and have fun," he says. "Everybody doesn't drink to get drunk."

County to set up Youth Services Board

The County Board of Commissioners will soon set up a Youth Services Board to coordinate activities involving child care in Charlevoix County.

According to Commissioner Don Smith, the new Board would "set policies, monitor activities, evaluate programs, and advise the County Board" on child care matters.

The Youth Services Board would have oversight duties for all youth-related programs, which presently consist of a Youth Activities Program and an In-Home Care Worker. The County Board is recommending that a Diversion Program also be establish with funding through a basic grant. Those occupying all three of these positions would submit monthly reports to the Youth Services Board regarding their activities.

Also, the Youth Services Board would receive monthly or quarterly reports on the foster care caseload for both the Department of Social Services and Juvenile Court, as well as reports on expenditures and revenues.

The basic premise of the new Board would be to provide the best child care programming possible considering the County's resources. In past years, Child Care costs have risen above all expectations.

It is proposed that the Youth Services Board be made up of representatives from the Department of Social Services, Probate Court, County Board of Commissioners, Schools, and Law Enforcement.

Commission asks help in improving courts

A State commission has asked Michigan citizens for suggestions on how Michigan courts can be improved.

The Citizens' Commission to Improve Michigan Courts is asking organizations and individuals concerned with court operations to participate in the process by presenting their comments to the Commission.

The 27-member Commission, which includes Louis Hallow, president of First State Bank of Charlevoix, was appointed by the Michigan Supreme Court in January to recommend how courts can improve the services to people who use them. Wen-Chao Chen of Kalamazoo is chairperson and State Supreme Court Justice Patricia J. Boyle is supervising justice.

"The Commission welcomes the views of individuals on how courts can be responsive to the needs of the citizens of our state," he said.

Persons wishing to assist the blue-ribbon Commission should send their views to Citizens' Commission to Improve Michigan Courts, P.O. Box 30052A, Lansing, MI 48909.

Reading program gives kids free books

by ANNE KELLY

"Clifford the Red Dog" was the theme of reading month during the month of March at Charlevoix Elementary School. Even the slogan was R.E.D. (Read Every Day). First-graders and children in the HIP (Highly Intensified Program) followed Clifford's red footprints through the halls and out to the main lobby where tables of free books for their choosing were displayed.

Reading Is Fundamental (RIF) is a federally funded program which encourages reading. Books are distributed to participants in the program, free of charge, in hopes of getting books into children's hands, especially into those hands which might not be getting them at home.

"All the kids are really excited to get free books" explained program coordinator Diane VanGuilder. "The teachers have been doing lots of motivational activities to get them in the spirit of our campaign, some have made Clifford sock puppets, certificates are awarded to children who read at home, and on the day of the book selection, the kids were encouraged to wear red."

Sponsored by the Parent's Advisory Council, the RIF program has distributed over 300 books to 110 first-grade students this year.

Michiganders head for Florida in record numbers

Michigan's contribution to Florida tourism should reach record levels this Easter holiday, spurred by bargain air fares and continued improvements in the economy, reports AAA Michigan.

"Each year, an estimated 500,000 Michiganians travel to Florida from January through March," stated Peter Erickson, AAA Michigan Travel Services director. "Based on our requests for auto routings and airline ticket sales, that figure should be at least 3 to 5 percent higher this year."

Through February, requests for AAA Michigan auto routings to Florida were up nearly 16 percent over the same two-month period in 1985. Airline sales through the AAA Travel Agency to Tampa, Orlando and Miami jumped 17 percent.

Lower unemployment and inflation and increasing consumer confidence levels are helping generate a strong Easter travel market, Erickson pointed out.

This year, Easter is Sunday, March 30, a week earlier than last year and nearly one month earlier than two years ago. "The closeness of the holiday to Michigan's winter weather, also is encouraging more travel to warm-weather destinations," said Erickson.

"While total motor travel routing requests are up 4 percent, the air fare discounts are prompting more persons to fly," he said. "All AAA Michigan Florida charters are sold out for the Easter week."

A check of major airlines serving warm-weather destinations shows many with increases up to 30 percent in Easter travel bookings over last year. While some flights are sold out, space remains available for those with flexible travel plans.

The heaviest airline bookings are to Florida, Arizona, California and Las Vegas. The most heavily booked days are the weekends before and after Easter. The least traveled days during the period are the Tuesday and Wednesday before and after Easter.

Both Amtrak and Greyhound officials report increased business over last year, with seats still available on some schedules. Florida, Texas and California are among the most popular bus destinations.

Travelers who prefer to drive to their holiday destinations will find gasoline prices significantly lower than last year. AAA Michigan's survey Tuesday (March 18) showed statewide self-serve no lead averaged 93.5 cents per gallon, compared to $1.187 last year. Self serve regular averaged 88 cents, compared to $1.122.

Along main state highways, 56 percent of the stations surveyed plan to be open Easter Sunday. After 9 p.m. 39 percent will stay open and 18 will pump gas after midnight.

Those planning to stay closer to home this holiday will find at least 10 Michigan ski resorts planning to operate during the Easter weekend. They include, weather permitting, Boyne Highlands, Boyne Mt., and Mt. McSauba.

Thirteen persons died on Michigan roads last Easter weekend, compared to eight in 1964.

Sheriff George Lasater recently presented a Sheriff's Citizen Award to Timothy Hayes, 28, an employee at the Bergmann Center of Charlevoix. Tim has for two years assisted the Sheriff's office in the Senior Citizens Handicapped Citizens Daily Telephone Contact Program. He has two seniors that he contacts daily to check on their well-being. "Tim is the type of citizen that is most willing and eager to do what he can for our community to make it a better place to live," Sheriff Lasater said.

New 36-unit motel planned for downtown area

A new 35-room motel, called The Rysberg Inn, has been proposed for downtown Charlevoix just north of Ricciardi's restaurant on the west side of Michigan Avenue.

The three-story motel was approved 4-2 by the Charlevoix Planning Commission on Wednesday, March 26, and will be sent to City Council for action at its April 7 meeting. Voting against the proposal were commissioners Gordon Block and Barbara Fels.

The property, formerly Fochtman Oil Co., was purchased by Brian Rysberg of Okemos. He plans to build the units to front on Michigan Avenue, with a pool enclosed on the south side of the building. The motel units would be setback 25 feet from the sidewalk and would be screened by a low brick wall and a sunken garden area. An outside spa and terrace are also planned for the south side of the building.

The 45 parking spaces will be located behind the building. Rysberg told the planning group he would also like to construct meeting rooms to accomodate 75-100 people in the basement of the motel. Several commission members questioned the adequacy of the parking if the meeting rooms are constructed and the approval was made contingent on the meeting rooms not being used in July and August and the Board of Appeals approving the parking in the final site plan.

The motel would be too intense a use of the property, Fels said in objecting to the plan. As you look across the channel, she noted, it is already solid condominiums and adding more would increase the parking and traffic congestion already present in the area.

Alyce Lesser, owner of units at the Weathervane, questioned the look of the building from behind, since it would block the view of people who have already bought condominiums at the Weathervane.

Barbara MacArthur expressed concern about the scale of the project to other buildings in the area and asked the planning commission to consider requiring scale models or some way of showing the relationship of new construction to existing buildings.

Large citizens' group opposes plan to change Whiting Park

by PEG OHLE

Whiting Park does not often get into the news, but it did last week, in a big way.

Wednesday evening, a group of Boyne City residents appeared at the meeting of the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners to present 48 pages containing about 1,400 signatures of County residents who are opposed to most of the changes being planned for Whiting Park.

Calling themselves the "Concerned Citizens for the Preservation of Whiting Park Committee", the group's petitions express concern over what they call the "improvement plan" for Whiting Park, and especially oppose:

"Removing campsites from the beach area; upgrading by installing electricity, holding tanks, tennis courts, basketball courts, or winter sports area; soliciting or accepting State or DNR funds for our 'County' park; permitting control of Whiting Park to fall into State hands; and becoming an annex of Young State Park".

The petitions were circulated following a recent meeting of the County Parks & Recreation Commission at which the improvement plans were presented.

The plans were prepared as part of an application for federal Land and Water Conservation Funds, which are administered by the State Department of Natural Resources. The Parks Commission is requesting a grant of $36,300 (to be matched by a like sum from the County), for "Reclamation of shoreline (10 feet out), development of entry and parking on south side of Ferry Road, development of shower facility, and approximately 10 campsites."

Mike Davis, Charlevoix County Youth Activities Director, who wrote the grant application, says that the shoreline of the park is badly eroded and must be repaired. This will necessitate moving some of the shoreline campsites back into the woods, an action which the Concerned Citizens object to, as noted above.

Davis also explained that many campers had told the Park Manager that they would like to have shower facilities. In addition, Davis said that in this year of erosion problems, the State is much more likely to grant funds for projects that include more than just water erosion repairs.

Whiting Park is located on the South Shore of Lake Charlevoix between Adance and Ironton in Eveline Township. The 160 acres were deed-

Kids and booze: a growing crisis

Part IV: The community reacts

The Charlevoix Courier is publishing a five-part series on the growing problem of alcohol abuse among the city's teenagers. In today's segment, we look at how police, church and community leaders are addressing the problem. The concluding segment next week will examine suggestions and solutions from the community, school and parents. — Editor.

by DOUG TRUAX

"As a pastor, I'm tired of burying people because of alcohol," Rev. Lowell Anderson of the Assembly of God Church says bluntly.

He still remembers vividly having to bury a young mother this winter. Clara Kelley, one of his parisoners, was struck and killed returning from an evening program at the church, by a driver alleged to be drunk.

The driver crossed the center line and hit Kelley who was walking on the opposite shoulder.

Anderson is among a growing number of Charlevoix residents who are trying to come to grips with the issue of teenage drinking and drunk driving.

Many in the community are upset. Few, as yet, have any definitive answers. Students at Charlevoix High School have been meeting to try, for the second time, to form a chapter of Students Against Drunk Driving (SADD). Principal Dave Smith and other school administrators met recently with some 80 concerned parents and students seeking solutions to alcohol as it affects school activities.

The churches have sponsored meetings. School superintendent Gordon VanWieren has addressed the issue in his periodic Youth Discussion Group which involves school officials, police, judges, court workers, social work personnel, youth counselors and others.

There is a core of concerned professionals and parents looking for answers. Some veterans of dealing with Charlevoix's youth, however, quietly question whether any lasting solution is possible on a local level. Parent and community groups have been formed before, they warn, and as time interest ebbs and the problem remains.

In some cases it is exacerbated. Many high school students still talk of a group of parents who several years ago patrolled parties in an effort to identify, if not curb, the weekend parties. The kids still speak bitterly of the traveling bands of parent "narcs."

REV. ANDERSON believes the community is awakening to the problem, but has far to go. "I am really concerned because it seems that the majority of concerned people have been silent, have sat on their hands," he says.

"The pressure to participate in drinking seems to pervade the lives of young people," Anderson adds.

He feels the community must first address the issue of enforcement. "The bottom line is the failure to enforce drinking laws. The answer is strict enforcement of all laws pertaining to drinking, particularly use by minors and providing alcohol to minors," he says.

Anderson is aware of the lack of public support for law enforcement and believes the trend should be reversed. "The community has got to support local law enforcement agencies," he states. One idea he proposed at the recent parents' meeting was a petition to the County Sheriff and city police stating the community's support of strict enforcement.

Shoreline damage continues, experts outline help available

by PEG OHLE

Everybody is trying to meet the emergency, but the problems it is creating and general lack of knowledge about how long the emergency might last make definitive help difficult.

That is the feeling generated last week when a panel of public officials and private citizens met to discuss the high and rising water levels of Lake Michigan and its tributaries, especially Lake Charlevoix.

Representatives of the County Extension Service, Soil Conservation Service, Soil Erosion and Sedimentation Agency, County Emergency Services, a professional landscape architect, and a spokesperson for a sandbag manufacturer all offered suggestions about how to minimize damage from lapping waves, ice, and snow runoff.

All suggestions included erecting some kind of physical barrier: Stone revetment, wood or metal sea wall, stone-filled wire basket, or bags filled with sand or concrete. Slides were shown picturing these various barriers in use, often just by one lakeshore property owner, who now has a better beach front than his neighbors on either side.

Many of the barriers will do their job for an extended period of time, but often they cannot withstand the pressures wrought by nature. (Philip Naegele of the Soil Conservation Service noted that waves three feet high and one foot wide reaching the shore 10 feet apart weigh 9,360 pounds).

The question was asked, "How long are we going to have this high water problem?" With looks of dismay, the panelists admitted they had no idea. Reports from geological studies indicate that in the early part of the century, precipitation in the Great Lakes area was low, but apparently it is now on the increase. For the period 1540 through 1979, precipitation averaged 6 percent higher than in the period from 1900 to 1939.

On March 5 of this year, the level of Lake Michigan and its tributatries was more than 6 inches above the lake level a year ago at this time, the highest level for this time of year since the spring of 1887. The Army Corps of Engineers forecasts that the lake will rise this spring, setting new 20th century monthly record levels until the levels peak at the end of August.

Those who study rocks and soil formations have found that high and low water levels have been a fact of life for hundreds or thousands of years, with nature's forces

Community attempts to cope

ONE WHO WOULD welcome a sign of community support is Sheriff George Lasater. For the last three years he has been running a program called the Juvenile Alcohol Parental Advisement Program. Simply put, it consists of a letter sent to the parents of young people involved in incidents involving alcohol, but where no arrest could be made.

The letter states that "Your Sheriff's Department has recently been in contact with your juvenile son or daughter in a situation involving the use of alcoholic beverages." It indicates where the incident took place, notes the problem of drinking and driving and adds "We would like to ask that you discuss this problem with your son or daughter."

Innocent enough, Sheriff Lasater felt. "As a father of three children, I would want to know."

The response, however, has been less than encouraging. Of 56 letters sent out in the past three years, Lasater says, two parents have called with thanks, one has threatened to sue him, and four parents called to ask if the deputies don't have something better to do.

"To me, that's frustrating. I think it's a good program. I'm just hoping that the other 49 are the silent majority."

In the first year of a federal program to beef up patrols to increase drunk driving arrests, he notes, arrests were up 160 percent. Yet he is not going to win any popularity contests with the program, Lasater says. "Out of all the things we've done in the Sheriff's Department, I get more grief from that than anything else. It's confusing because we are trying to keep the roads safe for people who are victims of this."

Lasater says the effort is not to stop drinking, but to make sure people have a designated driver or a safe way home.

HIGH SCHOOL counselor Charlie Bentley's role is far removed from that of police officers. He concentrates on personal discussion and group education. Yet he, too, wonders if we don't have to get a little tougher on the issue.

"Nobody's the hardnose anymore. Nobody takes the stern disciplinarian role." Parents, teachers, administrators, the police and others all want to wear the white hat, he observes. "We have more and more trouble defining what is unacceptable behavior. The kids are pushing things until they get shut down."

Bentley says the issue of alcohol stands out from all others with this group of teenagers. "These are bright, articulate kids who make good decisions in other areas of their lives. But when it comes to alcohol, they make rotten decisions. It is almost as though it is their god-given right."

He believes the effectiveness of SADD or other such approaches will depend on how the approach comes. "It is a morality thing they will not do it. If it is a common sense thing, they are likely to go along. 'You shall' doesn't work very well."

Whiting Park changes opposed

operating at will with little or no opposition.

If rainfall, water evaporation, windstorms, snow runoff, and ice formations all cooperate to bring about a continuance of high water levels in the next decade or more, scientific and mechanical ingenuity will be forced to find ways other than those now known to contain our lakes in their basins.

In the meantime, lake shore property owners can do one of four things about their land erosion problems: Sell the property, move their houses, undertake some kind of erosion control, or do nothing at all.

John McKinney, Northwest Michigan Sea Grant Agent of the Cooperative Extension Service, made the above statement at last week's meeting and continued with some "bottom line" suggestions:

1. Residents in a specific area can form districts which would assess and collect taxes for shore protection in the area. These taxes would, of course, be deductible for income tax purposes.

2. Damage done to property by high water can often be declared a "casualty" for income tax purposes.

3. Capital improvements made because of high water threat or damage will usually result in some kind of "tax break".

4. Residents in a specific area can buy flood insurance. However, it was pointed out that damage from high water is seldom described as "flooding".

Richard Sikkenga of the Department of Natural Resources Land Division in Roscommon had a couple of other suggstions. While the State of Michigan has no low-interest loans available for erosion control projects, there are two related programs:

1. The Emergency Home Moving Program is available for homes that are within 30 feet of the water and face possible damage within the next 12 months. The homes must be moved at least 45 feet back from their present location. Under this program, homeowners secure a bank loan for the purpose and the State will subsidize 3 percent of the loan. (A person receiving a 9 percent bank loan would thereby be repaying it at only 6 percent because of the subsidy).

2. If a home cannot be moved, the owner may be eligible for a Shoreline Protection subsidy.

Most landlords with water erosion problems will wind up placing some kind of barrier between the water and their properties. Speakers at last week's meeting urged that they get some kind of professional advice on the subject before spending time and money on a system that might not work.

Public agencies like the Cooperative Extension Service, the Soil Conservation Service, and Soil Erosion & Sedimentation Control Agency have literature and suggestions to cover most problems. There are also some professional engineers and landscape architects who can be helpful not only in making suggestions but in securing proper permits and often doing the actual work.

After listening to two hours of talk about water erosion problems, one landowner remarked, "I think the Indians had a better way. When the water came too close to their homes, they just picked up and moved their wigwams somewhere else."

The county has dumped large amounts of fill along Lake Shore Drive in an effort to save the road from the high water.

Jim Annis's recent print of the Chicago Theater as it looked circa 1941.

Prime of Chicago's theatre era re-created in Annis's latest print

by ANNE KELLY

Charlevoix artist Jim Annis last week released the second print in a series on great movie palaces. Entitled "That Great Street," Annis's new artwork depicts a nostalgic view of the Chicago Theater as it may have appeared in the spring of 1941, late on an otherwise dreay afternoon.

A Chicago Motor Coach has just dropped off several patrons; a 1940 Packard Limousine and a '36 Ford Cope, help to date the scene. Already, theater goers are beginning to gather under the marquee, meeting dates and friends, perhaps talking about plans to attend tonight's double-billed performance of "The Eddie Howard Orchestra," on stage, and "The Road to Zanzibar" on the golden screen.

Located on State Street in the heart of the Loop district, the Chicago Theater was one of the flagship movie palaces of its day. The theater originally required the illumination of 20,000 electric light bulbs inside and out.

But not only the illumination of the Chicago was elaborate. The interior boasted hand carved woodwork, crystal chandaliers, over-stuffed, luxurious furniture, and the finest in draperies and carpeting. Even the lounges were embellished so that every patron could feel like a millionaire or a movie star for a night.

Visiting the Chicago was truly "a night out on the town." Gentlemen and ladies dressed for the occasion and were never disappointed with the quality of entertainment that they were offered.

Movie houses like the Chicago, are fast disappearing relics of another era, when extravagence and elaborate splendor belonged to all patrons, rich or poor, for the price of a $.75 ticket.

The shows were first rate movies, double-billed with live entertainment. The Chicago attracted all the big names: Bob Hope, Bing Crosby, the Marx Brothers, Martha Raye, Phil Harris, The Glenn Miller Orchestra; the list goes on and on.

And in movies, the Chicago ranked in status with the other great movie house: the Strand, in New York City, the Stillman in Cleveland, and the Central Park, also in Chicago. They were all cashing in on the fever; Errol Flynn in "Dive Bomber," Bogart in "Maltese Falcon," Bob Hope and Dorothy Lamour in "Caught in the Draft," all could be caught here, at the Chicago.

The Chicago Theater, opened in 1921, has always been a premiere example of the glory of the "movie boom" years. Recent renovation plans are slated to save it from the wrecker's ball, a fate befalling many of the lovely old movie palaces around the country.

The Chicago was officially closed in the fall of 1985 with plans to reopen one year and about seven million dollars later. Renovation will include restoring the original structure inside and out, adding restaurants, offices and retail shops, as well as annexing and incorporating the adjacent Page Brothers Building, the last remaining building in Chicago bearing a cast iron facade. The building pictured in the background is the 35 East Wacker Drive Building, formerly known as the Jeweler's Building.

Annis, a nature and nostalgia artist, is self-taught and has been painting seriously for the past 17 years. He has mastered the art of capturing the past on canvas in his memorable scenes of yesteryear; steam powered locomotives, electric trolleys, vintage automobiles and the movie palaces of old Chicago.

Naturalists delight in his depictions of northern Michigan fish and waterfowl. Jim has also met with success with his paintings of ships and lighthouses. If it smacks of the past, however, it holds special appeal for him.

Annis's railroad scenes have met with the approval of world-renowned rail artist, Howard Fogg, of Boulder, Colorado. Prints of Jim's work can be found around Michigan, the country and the world, for that matter. An original of the old "Lansing Electric" that ran between Lansing-Jackson and St. Johns was donated to the Michigan Historical Society in Lansing, Michigan.

Three prints have been added to the permanent research collection of the Chicago Historical Society. Other prints are sold in that museum store. His prints have become parts of collections of Americans working abroad in Germany, Australia, Saudi Arabia and Hawaii. There are pubs in London and Parish which display his paintings to enhance their "Chicago decor."

In conjunction with his sales representative, Annis sells his prints in numerous galleries in the Chicago area. He was accepted in Phase I of the Michigan Artist's Program, '80-'81, sponsored by the Detorit Institute of Arts. Jim has shown his work in Charlevoix at the Waterfront Art Fair, in East Jordan at Elm Pointe, at the Midland Hotel Showing in Chicago, and the Gaylord Michigan Fall Show. Locally, he has designed a banner for the Rotary and plans to do a painting of Charlevoix's new fire truck.

He has many awards to his credit including being a finalist in trout stamp competitions in Michigan, Kentucky, Illinois and Nevada. In 1983, he was commissioned to do three fish scenes for the National Wildlife Federation in Washington, D.C.

Here at home in that year, he was a winner of the 1st Annual Little Traverse Conservancy Artwork Competition with a painting of the lighthouse on the Pine River.

Interestingly, this painter of fish is also an expert fisherman who has been installed in the "Fresh Water Fishing Hall of Fame" in Hayward Wisconsin, for establishing a world record in catching a 31 pound muskellunge with a hook and 6 pound line through the ice.

In the near future, Jim hopes to add to his growing stock of paintings and prints from those paintings. Plans include more old and glorious movie palaces in his old theater series, with the Granada Theater next, more Michigan logging and railroad scenes, a wood duck print, Detroit city and trolley renditions and additional National Wildlife Stamps.

State okays search for PCE source in Charlevoix's water

Funds will be made available by the Department of Natural Resources to study a new contaminant of the Charlevoix groundwater – tetrachloroethylene (PCE) – according to Richard S. Johns, chief of the Groundwater Quality Division.

Johns, in a letter to State Senator Mich Irwin, said the money would provide for "limited remedial investigation of the groundwater contamination problem in Charlevoix."

The investigation would be "for the purpose of identifying the source and extent of the tetrachloroethylene (PCE) contamination plume that was detected during previous studies conducted in response to the discovery of trichloroethylene (TCE), in Charlevoix's drinking water," according to Johns.

The discovery of TCE in the municipal well supply in 1981 led to action to replace the well with a Lake Michigan water intake and treatment plant currently currently under construction.

The TCE plume was suspected of originating from the Charlevoix Middle School property, although the cause of the contamination has yet to be discovered.

The source for the DPCE is still unknown. Thrasos Eftaxiadis of the Remedial Action Section, Groundwater Quality Division of the DNR will coordinate the PCE study.

DNR plans public meeting on Ellsworth contamination site

A contaminated industrial site on the shores of Ellsworth Lake in Antrim County will be the subject of a public informational meeting held Tuesday, April 8, at the Ellsworth Community School gymnasium.

Representatives of the Environmental Protection Agency's Eastern Response Unit arrived in Ellsworth on March 6 and secured the site after International Disc Corporation, the most recent occupant of the site, failed to respond to an order from the Michigan Department of Public Health to fence the property and submit a detailed plan of action for elimination of all potential chemical and physical hazards.

The Department of Natural Resources said that when the owners failed to respond to the order by January 31, 1986, the EPA was notified and requested to assist in eliminating potential risks to the public health.

The site contained hazardous and toxic wastes stored in an unsafe manner, the DNR said, which presented the potential for a serious threat to the public health and environment.

Among the hazards were open vats of chemicals and old metal drums filled with cyanide.

The EPA repackaged and covered some of the open containers and fenced off the entrance to several buildings on the site.

The DNR had previously thought, through mistaken labratory water samples, that Ellsworth Lake itself had been seriously contaminated by the industrial wastes present at the site. The DNR now says that there are no known adverse impacts on the fish, water and sediments of Ellsworth Lake, "but the potential exists for offsite movement of contaminants.

Jessie Cunningham retires

An open house honoring Jessie Cunningham who is retiring as workshop supervisor at Bergmann Center for the past 19 years, will be held at the Bergmann Center at 345 Martin Road on Thursday, April 3.

The clients at the Work Activity Center are hosting the event to be held from 1-3 p.m. Thursday.

As workshop supervisor, Mrs. Cunningham is in charge of all activities at the center including social and scheduling as well as work activities.

The Center which grew out of the original organization established in 1964 presently has 36 clients who are metally and/or physically handicapped.

"She will be deeply missed. She has been a tremendous asset to the Center. As caring and loving as she is, she will be difficult to replace," Jim Hater, chairman of the Bergmann Center Board of Directors said.

As fellow worker at the Center for the past 10 years, Helen Denny, secretary, said: "She is fabulous. She has patience and compassion, and yet a firm discipline. With her, the clients come first."

Cunningham joined the facility when the work activity concept was initiated at Bergmann Center and has been instrumental in shaping the Center as it is operated today.

"This has been a rewarding experience but there are things I want to do and this seemed a good time to start," Cunningham says of her decision to retire. "I want to spend some time with my family. I have a long list of things I'd like to do. But I will miss the challenge the work offered and I will miss the clients. However, I am leaving with the knowledge that the program has come a long way and I know it will continue to grow."

Jessie Cunningham's duties as work supervisor at Bergmann Center were not confined to the contracts the clients fill. Here she is pictured helping several with their math problems.

Whiting Park changes opposed

ed to the County in 1923 by Perry Whiting of Los Angeles, who stipulated that the land be used for a public park and that it be called "Whiting Memorial Park" in memory of his father, Ryerson Whiting, who homesteaded the land in 1870.

operating at will with little or no opposition.

If rainfall, water evaporation, windstorms, snow runoff, and ice formations all cooperate to bring about a continuance of high water levels in the next decade or more, scientific and mechanical ingenuity will be forced to find ways other than those now known to contain our lakes in their basins.

In the meantime, lake shore property owners can do one of four things about their land erosion problems: Sell the property, move their houses, undertake some kind of erosion control, or do nothing at all.

John McKinney, Northwest Michigan Sea Grant Agent of the Cooperative Extension Service, made the above statement at last week's meeting and continued with some "bottom line" suggestions:

1. Residents in a specific area can form districts which would assess and collect taxes for shore protection in the area. These taxes would, of course, be deductible for income tax purposes.

2. Damage done to property by high water can often be declared a "casualty" for income tax purposes.

3. Capital improvements made because of high water threat or damage will usually result in some kind of "tax break".

4. Residents in a specific area can buy flood insurance. However, it was pointed out that damage from high water is seldom described as "flooding".

Richard Sikkenga of the Department of Natural Resources Land Division in Roscommon had a couple of other suggstions. While the State of Michigan has no low-interest loans available for erosion control projects, there are two related programs:

1. The Emergency Home Moving Program is available for homes that are within 30 feet of the water and face possible damage within the next 12 months. The homes must be moved at least 45 feet back from their present location. Under this program, homeowners secure a bank loan for the purpose and the State will subsidize 3 percent of the loan. (A person receiving a 9 percent bank loan would thereby be repaying it at only 6 percent because of the subsidy).

2. If a home cannot be moved, the owner may be eligible for a Shoreline Protection subsidy.

Most landlords with water erosion problems will wind up placing some kind of barrier between the water and their properties. Speakers at last week's meeting urged that they get some kind of professional advice on the subject before spending time and money on a system that might not work.

Public agencies like the Cooperative Extension Service, the Soil Conservation Service, and Soil Erosion & Sedimentation Control Agency have literature and suggestions to cover most problems. There are also some professional engineers and landscape architects who can be helpful not only in making suggestions but in securing proper permits and often doing the actual work.

After listening to two hours of talk about water erosion problems, one landowner remarked, "I think the Indians had a better way. When the water came too close to their homes, they just picked up and moved their wigwams somewhere else."

The county has dumped large amounts of fill along Lake Shore Drive in an effort to save the road from the high water.

Community attempts to cope

ONE WHO WOULD welcome a sign of community support is Sheriff George Lasater. For the last three years he has been running a program called the Juvenile Alcohol Parental Advisement Program. Simply put, it consists of a letter sent to the parents of young people involved in incidents involving alcohol, but where no arrest could be made.

The letter states that "Your Sheriff's Department has recently been in contact with your juvenile son or daughter in a situation involving the use of alcoholic beverages." It indicates where the incident took place, notes the problem of drinking and driving and adds "We would like to ask that you discuss this problem with your son or daughter."

Innocent enough. Sheriff Lasater felt. "As a father of three children, I would want to know."

The response, however, has been less than encouraging. Of 56 letters sent out in the past three years, Lasater says, two parents have called with thanks, one has threatened to sue him, and four parents called to ask if the deputies don't have something better to do.

"To me, that's frustrating. I think it's a good program. I'm just hoping that the other 49 are the silent majority."

In the first year of a federal program to beef up patrols to increase drunk driving arrests, he notes, arrests were up 160 percent. Yet he is not going to win any popularity contests with the program, Lasater says. "Out of all the things we've done in the Sheriff's Department, I get more grief from that than anything else. It's confusing because we are trying to keep the roads safe for people who are victims of this."

Lasater says the effort is not to stop drinking, but to make sure people have a designated driver or a safe way home.

HIGH SCHOOL counselor Charlie Bentley's role is far removed from that of police officers. He concentrates on personal discussion and group education. Yet he, too, wonders if we don't have to get a little tougher on the issue.

"Nobody's the hardnose anymore. Nobody takes the stern disciplinarian role." Parents, teachers, administrators, the police and others all want to wear the white hat, he observes. "We have more and more trouble defining what is unacceptable behavior. The kids are pushing things until they get shut down."

Bentley says the issue of alcohol stands out from all others with this group of teenagers. "These are bright, articulate kids who make good decisions in other areas of their lives. But when it comes to alcohol, they make rotten decisions. It is almost as though it is their god-given right."

He believes the effectiveness of SADD or other such approaches will depend on how the approach comes. "It it is a morality thing they will not do it. If it is a common sense thing, they are likely to go along. 'You shall' doesn't work very well."

Jim Annis's recent print of the Chicago Theater as it looked circa 1941.

Prime of Chicago's theatre era re-created in Annis's latest print

by ANNE KELLY

Charlevoix artist Jim Annis last week released the second print in a series on great movie palaces. Entitled "That Great Street," Annis's new artwork depicts a nostalgic view of the Chicago Theater as it may have appeared in the spring of 1941, late on an otherwise dreay afternoon.

A Chicago Motor Coach has just dropped off several patrons; a 1940 Packard Limousine and a '36 Ford Cope, help to date the scene. Already, theater goers are beginning to gather under the marquee, meeting dates and friends, perhaps talking about plans to attend tonight's double-billed performance of "The Eddie Howard Orchestra," on stage, and "The Road to Zanzibar" on the golden screen.

Located on State Street in the heart of the Loop district, the Chicago Theater was one of the flagship movie palaces of its day. The theater originally required the illumination of 20,000 electric light bulbs inside and out.

But not only the illumination of the Chicago was elaborate. The interior boasted hand carved woodwork, crystal chandaliers, over-stuffed, luxurious furniture, and the finest in draperies and carpeting. Even the lounges were embellished so that every patron could feel like a millionaire or a movie star for a night.

Visiting the Chicago was truly "a night out on the town." Gentlemen and ladies dressed for the occasion and were never disappointed with the quality of entertainment that they were offered.

Movie houses like the Chicago, are fast disappearing relics of another era, when extravagence and elaborate splendor belonged to all patrons, rich or poor, for the price of a $.75 ticket.

The shows were first rate movies, double-billed with live entertainment. The Chicago attracted all the big names: Bob Hope, Bing Crosby, the Marx Brothers, Martha Raye, Phil Harris, The Glenn Miller Orchestra; the list goes on and on.

And in movies, the Chicago ranked in status with the other great movie house: the Strand, in New York City, the Stillman in Cleveland, and the Central Park, also in Chicago. They were all cashing in on the fever; Errol Flynn in "Dive Bomber," Bogart in "Maltese Falcon," Bob Hope and Dorothy Lamour in "Caught in the Draft," all could be caught here, at the Chicago.

The Chicago Theater, opened in 1921, has always been a premiere example of the glory of the "movie boom" years. Recent renovation plans are slated to save it from the wrecker's ball, a fate befalling many of the lovely old movie palaces around the country.

The Chicago was officially closed in the fall of 1985 with plans to reopen one year and about seven million dollars later. Renovation will include restoring the original structure inside and out, adding restaurants, offices and retail shops, as well as annexing and incorporating the adjacent Page Brothers Building, the last remaining building in Chicago bearing a cast iron facade. The building pictured in the background is the 35 East Wacker Drive Building, formerly known as the Jeweler's Building.

Annis, a nature and nostalgia artist, is self-taught and has been painting seriously for the past 17 years. He has mastered the art of capturing the past on canvas in his memorable scenes of yesteryear; steam powered locomotives, electric trolleys, vintage automobiles and the movie palaces of old Chicago.

Naturalists delight in his depictions of northern Michigan fish and waterfowl. Jim has also met with success with his paintings of ships and lighthouses. If it smacks of the past, however, it holds special appeal for him.

Annis's railroad scenes have met with the approval of world-renowned rail artist, Howard Fogg, of Boulder, Colorado. Prints of Jim's work can be found around Michigan, the country and the world, for that matter. An original of the old "Lansing Electric" that ran between Lansing-Jackson and St. Johns was donated to the Michigan Historical Society in Lansing, Michigan.

Three prints have been added to the permanent research collection of the Chicago Historical Society. Other prints are sold in that museum store. His prints have become parts of collections of Americans working abroad in Germany, Australia, Saudi Arabia and Hawaii. There are pubs in London and Parish which display his paintings to enhance their "Chicago decor."

In conjunction with his sales representative, Annis sells his prints in numerous galleries in the Chicago area. He was accepted in Phase I of the Michigan Artist's Program, '80-'81, sponsored by the Detorit Institute of Arts. Jim has shown his work in Charlevoix at the Waterfront Art Fair, in East Jordan at Elm Pointe, at the Midland Hotel Showing in Chicago, and the Gaylord Michigan Fall Show. Locally, he has designed a banner for the Rotary and plans to do a painting of Charlevoix's new fire truck.

He has many awards to his credit including being a finalist in trout stamp competitions in Michigan, Kentucky, Illinois and Nevada. In 1983, he was commissioned to do three fish scenes for the National Wildlife Federation in Washington, D.C.

Here at home in that year, he was a winner of the 1st Annual Little Traverse Conservancy Artwork Competition with a painting of the lighthouse on the Pine River.

Interestingly, this painter of fish is also an expert fisherman who has been installed in the "Fresh Water Fishing Hall of Fame" in Hayward Wisconsin, for establishing a world record in catching a 31 pound muskellunge with a hook and 6 pound line through the ice.

In the near future, Jim hopes to add to his growing stock of paintings and prints from those paintings. Plans include more old and glorious movie palaces in his old theater series, with the Granada Theater next, more Michigan logging and railroad scenes, a wood duck print, Detroit city and trolley renditions and additional National Wildlife Stamps.

State okays search for PCE source in Charlevoix's water

Funds will be made available by the Department of Natural Resources to study a new contaminant of the Charlevoix groundwater – tetrachloroethylene (PCE) – according to Richard S. Johns, chief of the Groundwater Quality Division.

Johns, in a letter to State Senator Mich Irwin, said the money would provide for "limited remedial investigation of the groundwater contamination problem in Charlevoix."

The investigation would be "for the purpose of identifying the source and extent of the tetrachloroethylene (PCE) contamination plume that was detected during previous studies conducted in response to the discovery of trichloroethylene (TCE), in Charlevoix's drinking water," according to Johns.

"The discovery of TCE in the municipal well supply in 1981 led to action to replace the well with a Lake Michigan water intake and treatment plant currently currently under construction.

The TCE plume was suspected of originating from the Charlevoix Middle School property, although the cause of the contamination has yet to be discovered.

The source for the DPCE is still unknown. Thrasos Eltaxiadis of the Remedial Action Section, Groundwater Quality Division of the DNR will coordinate the PCE study.

DNR plans public meeting on Ellsworth contamination site

A contaminated industrial site on the shores of Ellsworth Lake in Antrim County will be the subject of a public informational meeting held Tuesday, April 8, at the Ellsworth Community School gymnasium.

Representatives of the Environmental Protection Agency's Eastern Response Unit arrived in Ellsworth on March 6 and secured the site after International Disc Corporation, the most recent occupant of the site, failed to respond to an order from the Michigan Department of Public Health to fence the property and submit a detailed plan of action for elimination of all potential chemical and physical hazards.

The Department of Natural Resources said that when the owners failed to respond to the order by January 31, 1986, the EPA was notified and requested to assist in eliminating potential risks to the public health.

The site contained hazardous and toxic wastes stored in an unsafe manner, the DNR said, which presented the potential for a serious threat to the public health and environment.

Among the hazards were open vats of chemicals and old metal drums filled with cyanide.

The EPA repackaged and covered some of the open containers and fenced off the entrance to several buildings on the site.

The DNR had previously thought, through mistaken labratory water samples, that Ellsworth Lake itself had been seriously contaminated by the industrial wastes present at the site. The DNR now says that there are no known adverse empacts on the fish, water and sediments of Ellsworth Lake – that the potential exists for offsite movement of contaminants.

Jessie Cunningham retires

An open house honoring Jessie Cunningham who is retiring as workshop supervisor at Bergmann Center for the past 19 years, will be held at the Bergmann Center at 345 Martin Road on Thursday, April 3.

The clients at the Work Activity Center are hosting the event to be held from 1-3 p.m. Thursday.

As workshop supervisor, Mrs. Cunningham is in charge of all activities at the center including social and scheduling as well as work activities.

The Center which grew out of the original organization established in 1964 presently has 36 clients who are metally and or physically handicapped.

"She will be deeply missed. She has been a tremendous asset to the Center. As caring and loving as she is, she will be difficult to replace," Jim Hater, chairman of the Bergmann Center Board of Directors said.

As fellow worker at the Center for the past 10 years, Helen Denny, secretary, said; "She is fabulous. She has patience and compassion, and yet a firm discipline. With her, the clients come first."

Cunningham joined the facility when the work activity concept was initiated at Bergmann Center and has been instrumental in shaping the Center as it is operated today.

"This has been a rewarding experience but there are things I want to do and this seemed a good time to start," Cunningham says of her decision to retire. "I want to spend some time with my family. I have a long list of things I'd like to do. But I will miss the challenge the work offered and I will miss the clients. However, I am leaving with the knowledge that the program has come a long way and I know it will continue to grow."

Jessie Cunningham's duties as work supervisor at Bergmann Center were not confined to the contracts the clients fill. Here she is pictured helping several with their math problems.

Chamber Chatter

By Claudia Kenifeck
Executive Director

After several years of planning and selling the idea to local innkeepers, the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce has been instrumental in the formation of the new Charlevoix Convention and Visitors Bureau (CVB). It is now an official organization empowered with the rules and regulations set up in the Michigan Public Act No 46.

As its own non-profit corporation, the CVB is in charge of handling a 2 percent room tax assessment levied to all lodging facilities with 20 or more rooms, within the city limits.

Named to the CVB executive committee are: President, Sandy Alward, Archway Motel; Vice-president, Doug Shaw, Bridge Street Inn; and Secretary-Treasurer, Sue Barnard, Nanny's Old Place. The CVB Board of Directors includes those on the executive committee along with Harold Krutsch, Weathervane Terrace Hotel, and Frank Hamilton, Capri Motel.

Meetings will be held the first Tuesday of each month at the Weathervane Terrace Hotel Conference room at 2 p.m. Businesses not in the lodging industry, but interested in supporting and participating in the CVB Market Plans may join as an associate member for $100 a year.

The Chamber and the new CVB will be working closely together in an effort to better promote Charlevoix. For more information, contact either Sandy Alward or the Chamber office.

Clockwise

Spring work

By Bob Clock

Who would have guessed that the spring thaw would leave such a mess?

When I tackled the front yard Saturday, I thought all the vegetation had died. The ground was covered with what appeared to be sheets of sandpaper.

It even sounded like sandpaper when I scraped across it with a rake.

But with a little effort a layer of dead leaves and old grass broke loose and to my surprise I found the lawn underneath – a little gray and shop-worn after being compressed under tons of snow all winter, but still alive. Quantities of grit and small pebbles tossed up by the snow plow quickly dissappeared between the blades.

The trouble with losing the snow is that long days of yard work lie ahead: raking the flower beds, removing dead raspberry canes, pruning the apple trees.

All this before getting down to the nitty-gritty of planting the garden.

Every year, astro turf and plastic flowers look more attractive.

IF YOU ARE STILL in Florida, you can come home now. Charlevoix has never had such a spate of beautiful weather so early. And seldom has so much snow gone so rapidly.

Of course, the snow cover was so heavy there was very little frost in the ground. The snow disappeared into the soil — or wafted away as water vapor — as soon as it melted, hardly leaving puddle in the driveway.

A friend commented the other day that people in Northern Michigan seem to enjoy spring more that our fellow citizens elsewhere in the country. He is probably right. After shoveling 136 inches of snow over five months, the sight of bare earth is a treat.

There is a good chance, of course, that we will have a humdinger of a snowstorm in April. We usually do. But it won't last long. It never does.

YOU MAY HAVE noticed that the U.S. Senate has approved $100 million in aid to the Contras who are trying to unseat the legitimate government of Nicaragua.

The measure was defeated earlier by the House but now the bill will return to that august chamber for a second vote.

Rep. Bob Davis — our man in Washington — voted for the aid the first time around and it is unlikely he will change his mind, in light of party politics.

If you think this is a wise expenditure of your tax dollars, you can let Rep. Davis know by calling his Upper Peninsula office at 1-800-682-8982.

However, if you feel that the United States should not help re-establish another Somoza regime in Nicaragua, I am sure Rep Davis would also like to hear from you via the same 800 number.

Remember, 800 numbers are treated as local calls by Michigan Bell, so it won't cost you a dime to make your views known.

Letters to the Editor:

"We are at war"

Dear Editor:

In his column, Bob Clock thinks it's tantamount to give any aid to the non-communist Contras. I disagree with him. We send 30¢ of billions of dollars every year to aid Marxist governments and I think it's about time to put a stop to this idiotic and stupid practice.

It's time we shore up pro-Western governments and stop aiding satanic and evil communist dictatorships.

Mr. Clock tells us that he thinks a communist government would be good for the Nicaraguan people. He tells us the reason he believes this is because of the success communism has had in China. I think this silly reasoning would even come as a surprise to the rulers of China, who have declared recently that communism is a dismal failure.

Mr. Clock tells us that Senator Joe McCarthy was a nemisis to America. For Mr. Clock's information, I would like to say that hatred against Senator McCarthy was initiated by the communists. During Senator McCarthy's era many communists were uncovered in the high echelons of the U.S. government. Alger Hiss, Nathan Witt, Harry Dexter White, Lee Pressman, John Abt, Lauchlin Currie and their comrades came to high government posts from Howard Law School. This was the first communist spy ring uncovered in the U.S. government. I think that God will reveal somewhere in eternity the scope of the harm these traitors did to our country.

J. Edgar Hoover warned us repeatedly when he was alive, "We are at war with communism and the sooner every red-blooded American realizes this, the safer we will be."

We cannot defeat communism with socialism, nor with secularism, nor with pacifism, nor with appeasement or accommodation – a "soft" attitude toward communism can destroy us.

Michigan mandatory school day law should be replaced

Dear Editor:

On February 18, our daughter Rebecelle, 15 years old, and her two friends, Kellie and Amie were killed in a tragic car accident on the way to school. The fog was so dense, the ice so slick, yet school officials here decided no delay was necessary, nor was school to be cancelled.

The decision was made, the results fatal. It is not the first time, nor will it be the last. We know nothing can ever change, nor will our girls ever be here, but we feel deeply to do anything we can to prevent any other senseless injuries or deaths from happening.

The legislature in Michigan has forced a new law upon us. Are you aware that there is a mandatory 180 school day in session law that says any day missed because of weather will have to be made up? Some school districts are forced to comply this year. All schools will be forced to next year.

We feel this puts undue pressure upon school officials to make decisions that might not be focused primarily on the safety of the children, but rather complications of extending the school calender.

We live in Michigan where nature and the weather play a big part in our everyday lives. Laws cannot change nature, therefore, the laws should conform and work with nature. This law defies nature and says our children must be in buses loaded to the hilt with students not in seat belts, and some even without proper seats, and then hope for the best.

Let's not play politics with our children's lives. Let's encourage them to learn in a safe, comfortable, and relaxed atmosphere. They are our most precious and most valued assets; they are our future. Let's let them have one. Our daughter, her two friends, and other students in Michigan have lost theirs this winter.

We need this law repealed now before more are injured and killed. Let's allow local school districts the liberty to make a reasonable and safe decision in weather-related school closings. You can help by writing to your legislators or us on your concerns. We will forward them to the appropriate committees.

Beacons of Blessing

A devotional column prepared by the Charlevoix Ministerial Association

THE FATHER IS WATCHING YOU

by Pastor Jeb Brusberd
Assembly of God

Discouragement is a fact of life for everyone who follows the leading of Jesus. In fact, there exists a true story about a boy and his father, where discouragement seemed to be the end; but be encouraged as you read.

About two years ago there was a boy named David who had a wonderful relationship with his father. In fact David's dad never missed one of his football games. Dave was a junior in high school and was the star football player. By the end of the year he was voted most improved, and most valuable player. Well, that summer Dave worked real hard on the weights, keeping himself on a ridgid schedule, training for his last high school season. He was a sure bet to be the star quarterback of his high school football team.

The season had finally come; and as some of you sports fan know, things just didn't come together. The whole season went by, and Dave just couldn't get together. Dave was pretty down and out. The team was suppose to take the State Championships but they were ranked last in the conference, and to top it all, David's dad died two nights before the title game and David's team was matched against the toughest team in the league.

Out of feelings of obligation the Coach had decided to let Dave play the last game of the year as quarterback. The team had done so bad throughout the year it didn't seem to really matter if they lost. The Coach, upon hearing of Dave's fathers death went over to Dave's house and told him not to worry, that if he didn't want to play, he had an out.

Dave responded, "Coach, you don't understand, I want to play football tomorrow night more than I have ever wanted to play football."

The Coach smiled and said, "OK, but just remember if you don't come, we'll understand."

Well, it was game time and David hit the field like 50,000 volts of electricity. He never played football so well in all his life. Not only did Dave's team win, but they won by an overwhelming margin.

Later in the locker room the Coach looked and said to Dave, "What happened to you?"

Dave stood up and the locker room became deathly silent as the whole team listened.

"You see," Dave began, "my father who just died two days ago was a Christian and a stong one at that. He attended every football game this year. My father was also blind and tonight was the first time my father ever saw me play football."

The moral of the story: when you get discouraged in your walk with Christ Jesus, walk knowing that your heavenly Father is watching you.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Wieland

Wielands celebrate 60th with roaring '20s party

The Barnard Grange Hall was the scene recently of a neighborhood gathering honoring the 60th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Wieland. Hosting the surprise party, attended by more than 100 neighbors, were the members of the Barnard Grange.

Mr. Wieland and the former Gerdena Steenhagen were married in Grand Rapids April 3, 1926 and lived on a farm in Antrim County until moving to their present home in Norwood Township in 1951.

At that time they were affiliated with the Community Reformed Church and were active in the Barnard Farm Bureau, the Charlevoix County Farm Bureau and the Charlevoix County Soil Conservation District. Before retiring, Wieland had represented Norwood Township on the Charlevoix County Board of Supervisors, the Board of Directors of the Michigan Milk Producers Association and the Ellsworth Farmers' Exchange.

Mr. Wieland was born in Grand Rapids Dec. 31, 1901, and as a child, came to Antrim County with his parents who settled on a farm now occupied by the Richard Wielands. Mrs. Wieland, was born in the Netherlands May 30, 1900 and came to Michigan with her family in 1904, living near Holland and later Grand Rapids.

The couple has two sons, Richard of Ellsworth and Thomas of Charlevoix. They also have eight grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

A program which traced the couple's lives since the beginning of the century was a highlight of the evening.

Their son, Tom, and daughter, Tammie, wearing bathing suits reminescent of the roarin' '20s when the couple were married, related the honoree's early histories. Members of the Smith family, their neighbors for many years, presented a special entertainment; Charles Dhaseleer related events of the '20s including stories of Will Rogers; Marge Warner presented a humorous impersonation with Norman Empey, Bill Stevens and Rod Stevens closed the program with the "Anniversary Song."

Jasper and the Tag-Alongs, an instrumental group, provided music for dancing with Marge Warner leading the group singing of songs popular in the 20s.

Ellsworth Elementary salutes National Wildlife Week

The Ellsworth Elementary School recently celebrated National Wildlife Week by inviting Joe Rogers, a biologist from the Wildlife Recovering Association in Midland, to the school.

Rogers brought four kinds of birds to show - screech owl, a great horned owl, a red tailed hawk, and a turkey vulture.

"It was a very intresting program and we appreciated his visit," a school official said.

Garden Club features April "pound auction"

A "pound" auction will be a feature of the meeting of the Charlevoix Area Garden Club meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. Joseph Morris, 513 Belvedere Club, at 1 p.m. Tuesday, April 8.

Club members are reminded to bring a pound of anything, attractively wrapped and marked as to its contents which will be sold at its specified cost plus a minimum $1 bid. Julie Leedy will be the auctioneer, assisted by Ruth Ann Curtis, club treasurer.

Proceeds from the auction will go to the State Federation of Garden Clubs to purchase wildflower seeds to be sown along inter-state highways in celebration of Michigan's Sesquicentennial in 1987. The Roadside Development of the Department of Transportation will match State Federation of Garden Club contributions to finance the project. Mrs. Leonard Dick of Holland and Mrs. John McGoff of Williamsburg, a local summer resident, are representing the MFGC on the project.

Pearl Rowe, a member of the club, will present a lecture followed by a question and answer period on the "Planting and Care of your Vegetable Garden."

Thought is also being given to the ordering of materials for the civic beautification areas sponsored by the club. These areas are: the triangle at Petoskey and Michigan Avenues chaired by Nancy Wood; the post office planters, Agate Santek, chairperson; the Pere Charlevoix park at West Dixon Avenue, Phyllis Block and committee; the sign area welcoming visitors to Charlevoix the Beautiful on U.S. 31 South, Marion Beatty. The largest of the projects, the Memorial Garden at the end of East Dixon Avenue at Mercer Blvd, is supervised by Marge Dinwiddie. This spot is where residents of the community including Garden Club members have honored the memory of loved ones.

In late March, the club will honor one of its own honorary members, Mrs. Ross Alexander, a founder when the club was chartered in 1939 and a past president of the organization.

Char-Em will host day recognizing achievement

The Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District will host the Michigan Educational Assessment Program Achievement Recognition Day on Friday, April 25, at the Petoskey Middle School Auditorium.

The ceremony will acknowledge outstanding performance of our students and school districts. One hundred eighty-three students from all school districts in the Intermediate School District will be honored in addition to 18 school buildings from eight school districts. Forty-five fourth-graders, 56 seventh-graders and 83 10th graders who scored 100 percent on both reading and mathematics tests will be honored.

In addition, 18 school buildings from eight school districts will be honored for having 75 percent of their students attain more than 75 percent of the objectives on both tests.

A reception will be held for students, parents-guardians, and board members at 6:30 p.m. in the cafeteria followed by the awards ceremony at 7:15 in the auditorium.

James Shepard, Char-Em Intermediate School District Superintendent, will be master of ceremonies. Representative Ralph Osting will speak briefly on educational achievement. Certificates will be presented by local district superintendents and board members.

This program will highlight exceptional student performance and the dedication of board members, administrators, and teachers to quality education.

Grandvue holds games party

The annual Spring Games Party and Bake Sale sponsored by the Grandvue Medical Care Auxiliary will be held at the facility on Peninsula Road, East Jordan, on Thursday April 10, Florence Stucker, auxiliary president, has announced.

Playing will begin at 1 p.m. All members are asked to fill a table and to bring items for the bake sale as well as items to be used as door prizes. They are also requested to bring cookies for refreshments.

Admission is $1 at the door.

This is one of two games parties sponsored by the auxiliary as fund raising projects.

Obituaries

Harold DeYoung

Funeral services for a former Atwood resident, Harold DeYoung, 68, of Farmington, Me., were held Thursday at the Atwood Christian Reformed Church. the Rev. James M. Evenhouse officiated. Interment was in Atwood Cemetery.

Mr. DeYoung died Sunday, March 24, at Farmington.

Born in Banks Township June 4, 1917, he was raised in the area. On May 18, 1940, he was married to the former Esther Mae Klooster who preceded him in death in 1982. He had lived on a farm near Atwood. On Dec. 31, 1985 he was married to the former Virginia Goodyk at Farmington, Me., where they made their home. He was a member of the Atwood Christian Reformed Church.

He had been employed at Drenth Bros. Inc., in Ellsworth for 15 years and, for the past six years, by Site Planning Development, Inc., in Charlevoix.

He is survived by his wife, Virginia; a daughter, Mrs. John (Louise) Bascom and a son, Harold B. DeYoung, both of Atwood; eight grandchildren; three great-grandchildren; two brothers; William and Joseph, both of Hudsonville and a sister, Ms. Paul (Gertrude) Doctor of Atwood.

The familiy suggests memorials to the Atwood Christian Reformed Church or the World Home Bible League. Envelopes for this purpose are available at the Hastings Funeral Home which was in charge of arrangements.

Jewell Perry Gillespie

A prayer service for Jewell Perry Gillespie, eight-month-old son of Daniel G. and Tamie A. (Delamater) Gillespie, was held Thursday at the Winchester Funeral Home. The Rev. Casimir Zawacki of St. Mary's Church officiated. Interment was in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Jewell died Tuesday, March 25, at Butterworth Hospital in Grand Rapids.

Jewell was born in Petoskey July 24, 1985.

Besides his parents he is survived by his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jewell Gillespie of St. James, Beaver Island; maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Delamater of Six Lakes and his maternal great-grandfather, Arthur Delamater of Six Lakes.

The family suggests memorials to the Crippled Children's Fund. Envelopes for this purpose are available at the funeral home.

Keith R. Bruhl

Full Military rites for a former Charlevoix resident, Keith R. Bruhl, 63, were held at the Memorial Chapel, Arlington, Va., Feb. 28. Interment was in Arlington National Cemetery.

Mr. Bruhl died Feb. 25 at his home in Falls Church, Va.

Born in Lincoln Neb., May 15, 1922, Mr. Brubl was stationed in Charlevoix with the U.S. Coast Guard in the 1940s. In Oct. 1946, he was married to the former Georgia Krehak at Charlevoix. During the ensuing years he served at various U.S. Coast Guard facilities including Bangkok, Thailand, and Hawaii. For many years they had lived at Falls Church, Va. He retired from the U.S. Coast Guard Sept 12, 1969. He was a member of the United Methodist Church, Charlevoix Lodge No. 282, F. & A.M., and the Kena Shrine in Falls Church.

He is survived by his wife, Georgia; two daughters, Leandra Peak and Tylene Bruhl, both of Falls Church and a son, George K. Bruhl serving with the U.S. Coast Guard.

Charlevoix students head for Spain and close look at family life there

by FRAN MARTIN

Happy young voices singing out "hasta la vista", were heard early Sunday as a group of ten Charlevoix High School Spanish students, accompanied by their teacher, Ted Miller, started on the first leg of their long-anticipated journey that would see them eating breakfast in Madrid, Spain, on Monday morning.

Actually, the trip began more than two years ago when the students opened their fund-raising campaign.

Reservations have been made with the Inter-culture Students Experiences, a program that arranges a week's stay in the home of a Spanish family to acquaint the American students with the people and culture of the country and to give them an opportunity to practice the language they have been studying.

In Detroit, the party will fly to New York where they will join similar groups from Ohio and Colorado for the trip abroad.

After two days of sight-seeing in Madrid, the party will journey to the south of Spain to visit the Sea of Cordova and, after two days, go to Malaga and Algeciras where they will meet their host families and return home with them for a full week's stay.

They will attend school with the students in the family, no doubt speaking, in their halting Spanish, to the students in the school. They will also visit the markets, be introduced to Spanish family life and join the family in its recreation pursuits over a weekend, including perhaps a tour through the Spanish countryside, a day at the bull fights, or a visit to the opera.

"I have every confidence that this will definately be the highlight of the trip for the students," Miller said. "I will be at a hotel in the city were I can be reached in the event a problem may arise, but I don't anticipate any. I feel that the kids are well prepared for this experience. We have studied Spanish culture, we have talked about what they can expect and, the questions they'll be asked. They are enthusiastic about the trip and I feel one key important it is they represent America well. I know it is going to be a most memorable experience for them," he added.

"They may be a little nervous about the week's stay with a Spanish family, but I'm confident that will disappear once they are there. The youngest students, three sophomores, have had two years of the language and the others have had three or four so I know they will be alright," he said.

After the week's visit with the family, the students will reassemble at Malaga and then spend two days in Seville before returning home on April 13.

Student trips are not new to Miller. Prior to coming to Charlevoix five years ago, he had traveled to Spain with a group from a Jackson high school and also accompanied one from here. He also took another group to Mexico.

This year's trip, I feel, is the ideal one for the student studying Spanish. The others were tours through the country. In this one, the students use their knowledge of the language they have been studying. They also get to hear native Spaniards speaking it and get the 'feel' of it. They'll learn how it's to be spoken. They will no longer think of it as a foreign language because it will be familiar to them. It will be a rewarding experience I know," Miller added.

Making the trip are Lara Stargardt and Sue Miller, seniors; Kristen Holmes, Alison Clock, Sandi Brosofske, Laura Reibel and Kathy Washburn, juniors; Brian Anderson, Lori Jinsky and Michelle Seibert, sophomores.

The students travelled to Detroit via van. They will be met there on their return two weeks hence.

April in Paris beckons students

by FRAN MARTIN

"April in Paris...chestnuts in blossom," will be more than a song made popular by the late Maurice Chevalier this week for a group of French students at Charlevoix High School who departed at 5 a.m. Wednesday for Sault Ste. Marie to catch a flight that will make those words a reality.

"Like the words in the song, I've always been told that April is the time to see this beautiful city. For the first time we will be doing just that," Yvonne Wendt, French teacher at the local high school who, with her husband, Richard, will accompany the 19 students on the week-long tour of the French capital, the Loire Valley and Brittany in northern France.

Departing the Soo later Wednesday morning, the group spent some time at Toronto before flying to New York and then to the Charles DeGaulle Airport on the outskirts of the historic city. They are expected to arrive in France at 6 a.m. Thursday.

After registering at their hotel, they will visit such fabulous places as the Cathedral of Notre Dame, the Latin Quarter, the flower market and enjoy a bateau mouche night cruise on the historic Seine River. In the days that follow there will be visit to the Louvre to view world famous works of art, the Palace of Versailles, Futuristic at Pumpidoue Center, window shopping along the famous boulevards of Paris and other points of interest.

On Monday, April 7, they will travel to the Loire Valley to visit the age-old chateaus and, from there, will travel to Brittany in the north of France to visit the Mont St. Michel and St. Malo monasteries.

Then it will be back to Paris for one, last glimpse of the city of dreams before departing for home early the morning of April 10. The flight will land at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., at 10 p.m. The returning group will be met there by vans for the last 100 miles of their journey.

"We've been studying French culture and history as well as customs in order to enjoy the trip and understand why all the things we will be seeing are a part of history. Because it is meant to be a very memorable experience, I have tried to prepare the student so they will get as much as possible out of the trip. It will be more low key perhaps than past trips because of the international situation but that will not detract from it," Wendt said of the trip.

Wendt who has made French a second language at the Charlevoix High School has accompanied tours for Charlevoix students to the French-speaking province of Quebec and more recently to France for a number of years.

The students making the trip are juniors and seniors with one sophomore. They are Curt McCandless, Dan Staublin, Valerie Barnes, Jennifer Bonar, Amy Antaya, Matt Dixon, Gary Frye, Lori Gleason, Mike Horton, Linda Jolliffe, Michelle Lounselle, Amy McKinney, Rochelle Miller, Carol Pitsenna, Jennifer Sell, Scott Stephan, Dirk VanEnkevort, Wendy Vosters and Tim Wyeland.

CHARLEVOIX: At 8:30 a.m. Sunday, these young people were Spanish students at Charlevoix High School. By 1 a.m. (EST) Monday, when their plane touched down at Madrid, Spain, they were seasoned world travelers as well. In the back row (from left) are Spanish teacher Ted Miller, Lori Jinsky, Allison Clock, Susan Miller, and Kathy Washburn. Front row (from left) are Brian Anderson, Lara Stargardt, Michelle Seibert, Laura Reibel, Sandra Brosofske and Kristin Holmes.

Consumers has record year

Consumers Power Company's nuclear plants produced more electricity in 1985 than ever before, lighting almost one of every five customer light bulbs during the year.

The nuclear plants accounted for 19.7 percent of the company's 1985 electric sendout, making uranium the utility's second most utilized fuel for power generation behind coal.

The utility's Big Rock Point plant near Charlevoix and the Palisades plant near South Haven generated a record 5,251,419 megawatt-hours of electricity. Their combined output for the year surpassed the previous record, set in 1977, by more than 200,000 megawatt-hours.

Together, Big Rock Point and Palisades are capable of generating enough electricity to power a city of 2.3 million people.

"We have a well-trained and highly committed work force in our nuclear operations," said Jack W. Reynolds, executive vice president for energy supply. "With continued emphasis on safety, quality and attention to detail, we expect a high level of performance in all areas of our nuclear plants in 1986 and beyond," Reynolds added.

The Big Rock Point plant, which became operational in 1962, is capable of producing 65 megawatts of electricity. The Palisades plant, which started commercial operation in 1971, has a rated capacity of 787 megawatts.

Smelt season fast approaching

Ask the average sportsman what an Osmerus mordax is and you may get a blank stare. Tell him Osmerus mordax is a smelt and he will run to his favorite dipping spot.

Smelt dipping is extremely popular because it is easy to do and requires very little fishing knowledge or equipment. Smelt also are tasty treats.

Sportsmen can expect a strong 1986 season, especially in Southwest Michigan and in the far western Upper Peninsula. Department of Natural Resources officials predict generally strong runs again this year.

Smelt runs should peak the last two weeks of April in most Lower Peninsula streams and in late April through early May in the U.P. Warmer weather could start the runs a week earlier while a cooler spring would mean later runs by one week.

East and Southeast Michigan smelt runs generally last 14 to 16 days while Lake Michigan tributaries, where activity is not as strong, have 18-day runs. Lake Superior tributary runs generally span 10 days while other U.P. streams are home to smelt runs for 12 to 15 days.

Smelt runs begin when the water temperature reaches 40 to 45 degrees. Most runs occur between 10 p.m. and 1 a.m. or on dark days.

When the smelt are running, anglers of all ages can be found in or along their favorite streams. Dipping doesn't require as much knowledge as other fishing and basic equipment -- besides a fishing license -- is nets, buckets, waders and warm clothing.

Smelt dippers may use hand nets up to one-half mile upstream from any river mouth from March 1 to May 31 south of M-72 and from April 10 to May 31 north of M-72. On some streams, large dip nets up to 9 feet square are allowed by permit only. Other pertinent fishing rules may be found in the 1986-87 Michigan Fishing Guide, available free at all DNR field offices.

Many beaches or stream banks are private property so sportsmen should secure permission from the property owner before starting.

Most sportsmen measure their smelt success by the pound or bucket, and the small, silvery fish provide good eating. Besides being simple to clean, smelt can be broiled, pan- or deep-fried.

Hunting and fishing licenses on sale, some fees increase for 1986 season

LANSING -- 1986 hunting and fishing licenses are now on sale at the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) District offices and are expected to be available from most local vendors by Friday.

The licenses, which replace those that expire March 31, reflect price increases for non-residents which were approved by the State Legislature, and require residents to pay $1 for passbooks.

In addition, spouses will have to buy individual fishing licenses, except spouses of senior citizens (age 65 or older). Previously spouses could fish on one license.

Other fee increases approved by the Legislature will go into effect April 1, 1987.

The sales of 1986 hunting and fishing licenses, which normally commence March 1, were delayed in anticipation of legislative approval of a bill which reorganized the license package and upped some fees.

Other changes include:

The Report All Poaching (RAP) fee which is added to each license will rise from 25 cents to 35 cents on April 1, 1987.

The Public Access Stamp, a $1.10 fee that hunters in southern Michigan paid to finance leasing of private lands for hunting access, is eliminated. Instead, 35 cents from each hunting license sold in southern Michigan will go into a special fund which will finance that program.

Those purchasing the Salmon-snagging stamp will no longer have to buy a trout and salmon stamp unless fishing for those species outside the legal snagging zones.

License agents will receive 8 percent of the total cost of the licenses they sell.

Sign up starts for 1986 Michigan Yough Corps

Applications for the 1986 Michigan Youth Corps program will be accepted at hundreds of locations throughout the state beginning today, Gov. James J. Blanchard announced today.

The 1986 Youth Corps program will provide jobs and valuable work experience to 12,500 unemployed 16-to 21-year old men and women in all 83 Michigan counties. Applications taken beginning April 1 with work projects starting June 2. The program ends September 31.

There will be 34 job-slots available in Charlevoix County.

"Thanks to the farsightedness of the Michigan legislature, which enacted legislation last summer ensuring the 1986 program, we able to begin the Youth Crops earlier than ever this year," the Governor said. "An early start-up of the application process will help ensure that many of the 80,000 18-to 21-year-olds facing a jobless summer find employment."

Applications are available at all Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC) offices, Service Delivery area agencies, Department of Social Services local offices, community colleges, colleges and universities.

Youth Corps jobs give youths a chance to earn up to $1,000 during the summer at $3.35 an hour. They also earn valuable work experience and help improve, repair and beautify Michigan through work at hundreds of sites in parks, offices, schools, community centers, hospitals, daycare centers and along rivers, lakes, drains and highways.

The Youth Corps, the largest state-sponsored summer jobs program in the nation, was established by Governor Blanchard and the legislature in 1983. It has provided 60,000 jobs to youths during the past three summers.

Charter boat workshop focuses on business

Charter boat captains attending a regional Sea Grant workshop April 15 at Ricciardi's Restaurant in Charlevoix will be briefed on a variety of fishery and business topics.

Representatives of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources will provide updates on sport fish species and fishery management issues in Lake Michigan. A Lake Huron charter captain will discuss fishing techniques appropriate to that lake.

Maureen McDonough, MSU associate professor and Extension specialist in park and recreation resources, will guide captains in marketing and promoting their businesses. Results of a 1985 charter boat marketing study will also be explained. Insurance, computer and navigational equipment specialists will present sessions on their specialties.

A $10 fee covers the cost of materials and lunch. For registration information, contact John C. McKinney, district Extension Sea Grant agent, 400 Boardman, Traverse City, Mich. 49684, or call (616) 941-2656.

The Michigan Sea Grant College Program is a cooperative effort of the University of Michigan and Michigan State University in Great Lakes research, education and extension.

Students in math competition

Students from Charlevoix will be among some 500 young people participating in the Michigan Council of Teachers of Mathematics' math competition held at Gaylord Middle School on April 12 from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. The competition is open to students at the sixth, seventh and eighth grade levels. The top 25 scorers at each grade level will qualify for state competition at Central Michigan University in May. St. Mary's School will sent two students -- Travis Blissett and Helen Hamlin. Shown above are those attending from the Charlevoix Middle School, clockwise from lower left: Dan Boss, Luke Porath, Willie Habel, Greg Lewis, Tim Henne, Mike Ochs and Amy Schupert.

Kiwanis prepares maple syrup — a sure sign of spring

The 600 buckets dangling from maple trees on Charlevoix's north side are a sure sign that the sap is running and life returning to northern Michigan.

Each year the Kiwanis Club of Charlevoix puts out the buckets, collects nearly 10,000 gallons of sap and produces some 245 gallons of finished maple syrup for sale through area retail stores.

The sale of the syrup is the main fund-raising project for the Charlevoix Kiwanis, says Ken Weller, and supports the club's many projects designed to benefit youth.

Weller notes that 300 man hours of volunteer labor go into the annual project.

Over the years, the group has refined its methods. One recent innovation is in the collection vat carried by a truck donated each year by Kit Carson Lumber. The volunteer workers dump the buckets from each tree into a small vat on the tail-end of the truck. A sump pump then draws the liquid up into the larger vat on the truck bed.

When the collection is complete for the day, the truck returns to the sugar shack on Carson Avenue and a specially constructed pipe allows the vat to be emptied directly into the gas powered evaporator which reduces the liquid into pure maple syrup in about five hours.

The amount of sap collected depends strictly on the weather, the experts say, with mild days in the 30s and 40s and nights below freezing best. Weather that is too warm can spell an end to the collection season.

Among the projects supported by Kiwanis through the sale of their maple syrup are Camp Daggett (to financially aid kids who might otherwise not be able to attend), Mt. McSauba, Scouts, Big Brothers-Big Sisters, Bergmann Center, Children's Community Choir and horseback riding for handicapped children.

Each year the club also awards a student achievement award scholarship through the high school.

Other fund-raising projects include a paper drive and food booths at the Venetian Festival and Apple Fest.

Gordie Meyers empties the rew sap into a specially rigged truck used during the daily rounds to empty the buckets.

Youth problem solvers make preparations for State Bowl

A team of Elementary School students and two from the Middle school have qualified to participate in the seventh annual Michigan Future Problem Solving State Bowl, according to Carol Elliot and Tom Sothard. These students and their coaches will meet in Ann Arbor at the University of Michigan on April 19-20 to compete with 123 teams, the top 20 percent of teams from throughout Michigan.

The State Bowl is the culmination of a year-long program where students are taught to creatively seek, attack, and solve problems related to projections into the future. More than 10,000 Michigan students worked on three problems during the 1985-86 school year: "endangered species," "famine," and "artificial intelligence."

Their solutions were critiqued by trained evaluators. Based on the third problem, the top 20 percent of Michigan teams from each grade divisions (4-6, 7-9, and 10-12) have been invited to participate in the State Bowl.

While teams know the general topic of this year's Bowl, "The American Legal System," they will not know the specific nature of the problem they will attempt to solve until the bowl begins.

This year Charlevoix's chances of doing well are increased by the fact that three team participants: Scott Miller, Ryan Holmes, and Bill Crook, are old-timers at the competition. This is their fourth consecitive year. For Matt Schnackenberg, it's the third. First-timers Brian Livingston, Tim Henne, Web Friedly, and Neal Stangis – are looking forward to the experience of participating on the state level.

On the elementary level, Charlevoix will be sending Eric Dikinson, John Hess, Anne Schairbaum and Mindy Noirot to Ann Arbor.

Solutions will be evaluated on clearly established criteria, and the top four teams from each division will receive trophies. The 1986 International Conference will be held on June 1-4 at the University of Michigan.

Council asks for more time to study motel plan

by DOUG TRUAX

City Council deferred action on the Rysberg Inn, a proposed three-story, 35-unit motel planned for Michigan Avenue just north of the bridge.

Council will take the matter up again at its work session next Monday. Mayor Hal Hill said the council needed more information in light of concerns expressed about increased traffic in the area and ownership of an easement at the north end of the property.

"I feel this is too intense a use, considering all the other units there," council member Shirley Roloff said in reaction to the site plan presented by Brian Rysberg, owner of the property.

"We are becoming a little Miami," she added. "I think we have a nice little town and I want to keep it that way."

Councilman William Bellows, on the other hand, said the project met the zoning requirements and should be approved with the conditions approved by the Charlevoix Planning Commission. The planners approved the motel plan 4-2 contingent on staff approval of final drainage design, the Michigan Department of Transportation approval of the driveway openings on Michigan Avenue, the restriction of the 100-person meeting room during July and August and the Board of Appeals approving the parking plans.

Rysberg told council the meeting rooms were planned to help stimulate business during the off season and he did not object to their not being used in July and August.

The hotel, proposed for the former Fochtman Oil Co. property, would be set back 25 feet from the sidewalk and would be screened by a low brick wall and a sunken garden area. An outside spa and terrace are planned for the south side of the building adjacent to Pine River Lane along with an enclosed pool.

There would be 45 parking spaces located behind the building.

Councilman Earl Muma questioned the traffic problems the motel would create. "Did the planning commission really go over the traffic problems we are going to have in the summer?" he asked. He said he felt the building was too tall and that cars exiting the motel would be forced to take a right turn through town because of traffic along U.S. 31 (Michigan Avenue).

"I really feel that we are creating a monster," he said.

Dwight Boss told council the traffic problem would be greatly alleviated if the right lane on southbound traffic was required to turn on Park Avenue. The bottleneck, he said, is where the two lanes turn into one lane just past Park Avenue.

"We're going to have to do something this summer," Mayor Hal Hill said, "because it's getting to be a madhouse."

Hagen Manker questioned the property ownership at the north end of the motel. He said he owns a house

Series finale next week

The final article in the Charlevoix Courier's series "Kids and booze: a growing crisis" will appear in next week's paper. Subtitled "A search for solutions," the article will explore ways the community plans to combat the problem.

Survey seeks residents' views on school issues

How do you feel about the Charlevoix School District and its operation?

That is what you will be asked in a random survey to be conducted within the district beginning at 6:30 p.m. on Thursday, April 17. On that evening, a corps of volunteers composed of behavioral science and Honor Society students, under the direction of Charles Bentley will call a sampling of district residents on a random basis to ask what they think of such things as the curriculum being offered, the present marking system, discipline, what they consider problem areas in the school, and how they would rate their school.

Those persons being called will also be asked to make suggestions about how the school system could be bettered and what they would like to see excluded from or included in the curriculum and school offerings.

The survey will also give residents who are called an opportunity to offer any criticism they have of the schools.

"We feel that the community survey is an excellent means of obtaining the feelings of the community regarding the school system", Supt. Gordon E. VanWieren said.

"It is done on a random basis and the persons being called need not give their identity. More than 40 questions relating to the entire operation of the school will be asked and each person will have an opportunity to make any comments he or she might desire. It gives the administration and board of education an opportunity to learn how we are doing as the educators of your children. We hope everyone will cooperate and speak their minds", VanWieren concluded.

City receives bids for Public Safety Building

Goodin and Bigelow of Traverse City was low bidder as general contractor for Charlevoix's new public safety building, according to bids opened Thursday afternoon at city hall.

The Goodin and Bigelow bid was $345,000 – $45,000 less than the $390,000 approved by voters for the building, which will house the city's emergency vehicles.

The other four bidders included: Colwell-Wangeman, Petoskey, $349,819; Chain O' Lakes, Bellaire, $380,157; Seals and Roberts, Boyne City, $396,541; and Gary Probert, Charlevoix, $429,050.

Architect Jack Begrow will be receiving several alternative material bids this week and City Manager Michael Wiesner expects to recommend an award of the contract at the April 14 meeting of city council.

County planners reject condo plan

by DOUG TRUAX

The Charlevoix County Planning Commission voted 5-3 Thursday, April 3, to recommend that the Charlevoix Township Board deny the rezoning of Water's Edge from R-2 residential to planned unit development (PUD).

The vote followed a recommendation by County Planner Larry Sullivan to deny the PUD based on a 10-point evaluation of the rezoning request.

The Charlevoix Township Board will take up the issue of Water's Edge at its April 14 meeting. On March 24 the Charlevoix Township Zoning Board voted 2-1 to approve the PUD request.

First Centrum Corporation of East Lansing in conjunction with Water's Edge, Inc. seeks to build 162 condominium units on the property's 41.6 acres which includes 1,510 feet of frontage on Lake Charlevoix.

Planning commissioners Larry Levengood, Vivian Visscher, Peggy Midener, Dorothy Custer and Cass Toton voted against the rezoning. Commissioners Junior Hunt, Arnold Hudson and Tom Wieland voted for it. Commissioner Dennis Jason was absent.

The Charlevoix Township Board had previously approved the rezoning of the property from R-2 to R-4 planned residential, but voters reversed the board's decision in a referendum vote on Feb. 17 by a 261-187 margin. The County Planning Commission also rejected that proposal.

County Planner Sullivan outlined 10 points he said were germane to any rezoning issue. He answered each in regard to the Water's Edge plan.

"Staff believes that the major, overriding concern is the existence of the wetlands on this property," Sullivan wrote. "Staff believes that from an engineering standpoint these problems may be able to be overcome although at a tremendous cost in dollars and at the expense of the aethetics and natural characteristics of the area."

AMONG THE questions and answers Sullivan supplied were:

1. Are there substantial reasons why the property cannot be reasonably used as it is currently zoned?

From 30-40 single family units could be constructed on this parcel without infringing on the wetland under R-2, Sullivan concluded. "The property could in fact be reasonably and economically developed as it is currently zoned," he said.

2. Would the change be consistent in relation to existing uses in the area?

Sullivan said the "PUD District would certainly not be out of place with adequate setbacks and buffering, given the diversity of uses that currently exist."

3. Would the change severely impact traffic, public facilities, and the natural characteristics of the area, or significantly change the population density?

He noted the PUD would generate the same or possibly less traffic than would R-2 development. The sewer line might have to be increased, he noted, since the township allocated 30 residential units to Water's Edge. "Rezoning the property from R-2 to PUD could have the potential to create a major impact upon the natural features and characteristics of the area presuming the number of units allowed under the PUD zoning was greater than that allowed under the R-2 zoning," Sullivan wrote. "The site for the most part is a cedar swamp which would be greatly impacted by the intensive type of development that could be allowed under the PUD district."

Business groups boycott Courier ads to protest paper's editorial stance

by DOUG TRUAX

Several local businesses have refused to advertise with the Charlevoix Courier in protest of what some say is biased reporting of the Water's Edge condominium issue.

"The realtors are boycotting," Steve Andreae, a broker for Coldwell Banker - Schmidt Realtors, told the Courier. "They are trying to make a statement." Andreae, who is also a member of the Northern Lower Michigan Development Council, a pro-development organization of realtors, said the decision to refuse business with the Courier was being made individually by the various realty offices.

Other sources said several restaurants and retail businesses were joining in the protest.

Bob Murray, sales manager for Sil and Shore Charlevoix, confirmed that his company was not presently advertising in the Courier because of the issue. Murray said he had been invited to discuss a boycott with a group of four to six persons some time last month. At that time, he said, his company had already decided not to advertise in the Courier.

Bill Carey, manager of Coldwell-Schmidt, said his office "went along with a lot of the local businesses on it. I do think we have to be concerned with a growth circumstance and not the non-growth circumstances," Carey said.

Much of the dissatisfaction appears to stem from an editorial written by Courier editor Doug Truax in the Feb. 12 issue. Appearing prior to a Charlevoix Township referendum vote on the rezoning of Water's Edge, the editorial urged a vote against the R-4 multifamily zoning. "The key question is simply whether or not the people of the Charlevoix area want lakefront property protected by special zoning which would control the sensitive belt along the water – in most cases wetlands and dunes – and prevent excessive densities," the editorial stated. "Unfortunately, Charlevoix Township officials have refused to seriously consider any measures to control lakefront property through local zoning," it continued.

SOME HAVE CHARGED that the newspaper has excluded letters to the editor favorable to development interests and has slanted its news toward environmentalists. "The Water's Edge issue started it," a local restaurant owner supporting the boycott said.

"There is a lot of concern among businessmen that the paper has taken a slanted position in relation to our interest," he said. "Water's Edge is absolutely the kind of project the community needs."

The restaurantuer, who asked not to be named, said the tone of the paper was slanted more to "bullfrogs and water snakes than to taking into consideration business people."

He said he had been asked by other businesses to participate in the boycott "until such time as they feel the point has been made."

The proposal to refuse to advertise with the Courier was raised during a meeting of a pro-development group attended by some 25 people, he said. The group discussed various ways to combat the influence of various environmental groups and the issue of refusing business to the Courier was raised.

"The general tone of the paper has not been in our best interests," he said.

Wetlands Act hearings are sparsely attended

by PEG OHLE

Five and a half years after the Goemaere-Anderson Wetland Protection Act became law, the State Department of Natural Resources (DNR) has held public hearings on proposed Administrative Rules under which the law will be enforced.

In Gaylord, Marquette, and Lansing last week, interested persons had a chance to voice their concerns, criticisms, and/or support of the Administrative Rules and clarifying definitions.

The Gaylord hearing was attended by fewer than 30 persons from an 18-county area, with Charlevoix County's representation of eight persons being the largest.

This show of interest by area residents confirms the frustration of landowners, real estate people, and builders who want to make use of properties surrounding lake areas, especially those around Lake Charlevoix, but who must first receive permission from the DNR under the Wetland Act. The frustrations center around two problems.

There are no maps indicating what land might be classified as wetland, and the length of time it takes to service applications for building permits.

The first problem will not be solved immediately because of the enormity of the task of mapping lake and stream areas statewide. The second problem, which is caused in part by lack of adequate DNR personnel, may be partially solved by some changes in permit procedures and by the use of some local, rather than state, officials.

Bill Grimm of Boyne City, former District Coordinator of the Charlevoix County Soil and Water Conservation District, was the first to suggest using a county employee to assist in determining wetland areas for the purpose of issuing a permit to build.

"You have a tool under Act 345 the Soil Erosion and Sedimentation Control Act to get that help," Grimm told Richard Sikkenga of the DNR Land Division, who was conducting the meeting.

Under Act 345, any person making "an earth change which disturbs one or more acres of land or if the earth change is located within 500 feet of a lake or stream" must obtain a permit from the local Soil Erosion office. Since practically all wetland is within 500 feet of a lake or stream the Soil Erosion agent should be able to tell whether or not the area for which a Soil Erosion permit is being sought would also fall under the Wetland Act, Grimm reasoned.

Sikkenga said the idea was a good one and would be considered.

Another method of decreasing the length of time required for processing applications for Wetland permits will be eliminating the necessity for public hearings for small activities (such as single family homes) in some possible wetland areas.

Charlevoix engineer Alvin Ranger especially noted the need for streamlining the permit process for small activities to cut the length of time involved. "Right now, the timetable for any kind of permit is at least 90 days, and that is too long," he said.

Northern Michigan building contractors who attended the meeting cited the special burden that the drawn-out Wetland permit process puts on them because of weather restrictions in the area. "If someone decides in the fall they want to build, sometimes it is the next July before they can get a Wetland permit" one builder pointed out. "That means that sometimes we can't finish the house that year."

The first local story about the Wetland Act and the building permit process appeared in the Courier in September, 1984. In January, 1985, the Courier reported a meeting of the Antrim-Charlevoix Board of Realtors, at which a representative of the DNR fielded questions about the Wetland Act and how it was to be enforced. Sikkenga said last week that over a year ago, the DNR sent out letters to city, township, and county officials, including building and zoning administrators and soil erosion agents and others, explaining the Wetland Act and the necessity for permits in certain areas. However, the lack of knowledge and confusion continues, as last week's meeting indicates.

Levengood: high water may cause problems

by PEG OHLE

While lakeshore condominium owners are trying to keep their buildings from washing into the lake, lakeshore cottage owners and many year-around house owners are facing different problems.

Their on-site sewage disposal systems are becoming endangered by the high water levels.

Larry Levengood, District Health Department Sanitarian, recently reported some of these problems to Thomas Martin, Director of the Michigan Office of the Great Lakes.

Levengood noted that because most of the properties fronting on Lake Michigan and Lake Charlevoix considered part of the Great Lakes system) do not have municipal sewers available, homebuilders are forced to use septic tanks and subsurface sewage disposal systems.

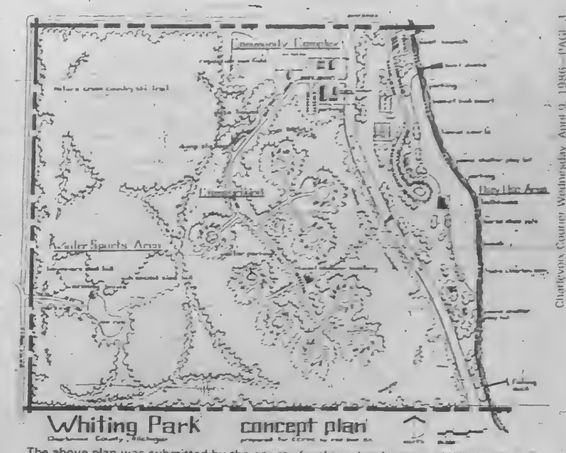
"Many of these systems are presently endangered due to the high lake water levels," he wrote.

"In some cases, the high water levels have caused systems to cease to function and become unusable. In a number of other cases, the rising lake levels have caused the lake to be dangerously close to some of these systems," Levengood continued.

A potentially more serious problem is then cited: "In other cases, erosion resulting from the lake levels and wave action have caused loss of soil which is critical for system cover and waste treatment. The impacts of these high water levels on these on-site sewage systems have caused a public health and safety concern and the further rising of the water levels will likely lead to greater hazards.

"It has been and will continue to be necessary for many property owners to initiate preventive and mitigating actions in order to alleviate and deter these hazards," Levengood concluded.

He said he wrote the letter to keep the Michigan Office of the Great Lakes advised of local problems due to the high lake levels in the event that State assistance is made available.



The above plan was submitted by the county for the redevelopment of Whiting Park.

Whiting Park donated in 1923

by PEG OHLE

When 1,400 county residents signed petitions objecting to rumored changes at Whiting Park, as reported in last week's Courier, they were striving to keep the park as it has been since it was deeded to the County in 1923 by Perry Whiting of Los Angeles, who requested it be named in honor of his father, Ryerson Whiting, a Charlevoix County pioneer.

Among the conditions of the deed were that the land "be used for and as a public park, and to be used for no other purposes whatsoever, and that no part or portion of said premises shall ever be used for any other purposes than as a public park".

That "the use of said park shall be free to the public and no admission fee charged either directly or indirectly", and...

That (The County) shall "expend each and every year...not less than the sum of One Thousand Dollars ($1,000) upon permanent improvements upon said premises."

The latter condition was changed in 1932 when the County requested and received permission to reduce the improvement sum to $750 a year.

In its early years, Whiting Park was the scene of an annual County picnic which was attended by hundreds of area residents. One of the features of the picnic was the distribution of oranges shipped from California by Perry Whiting.

Today, Whiting Park is the setting for meetings and picnics of many organizations, headquarters for numerous family reunions, and the favorite campgrounds of hundreds of local and downstate families. Because of its proximity, Whiting Park is probably used by more Boyne City residents than residents of any other area. The Boyne City summer swimming program for children has been held there for many years.

The County operates Whiting Park with a manager, Phillo Sumner, and a Parks & Recreation Commission made up of Herbert Griffin, chairman, Steve Wilson, County Commissioner Oral Spruill, Barbara Timms, Michael Davis, County Commissioner Don Smith, Drain Commissioner Clayton Healey, the chairman of the County Road Commission, and the chairman of the County Planning Commission.

In its 1984 report, the Parks Commission tabulated that 47 percent of the campers at Whiting Park were tenters, and that 40.2 percent of the campers were from Charlevoix County. Altogether, 388 persons camped out in Whiting Park in 1984.

The petitions, which were delivered to the County Board of Commissioners last week, have been turned over to the Board's Parks & Recreation Committee for consideration.

French Club gets tour of Toronto

A guided tour of Toronto was enjoyed by the members of the French Club during their six-hour layover in the Canadian city, Yvonne Wendt, French teacher, informed the Charlevoix Courier.

Arranged by Josh Barnes, president of Lavalite International which also has a plant in Toronto, the travelers were met at the Toronto airport upon their arrival from Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, and taken on a four-hour tour of the city. They also had a Dutch treat luncheon at the Old Spaghetti House before returning to the airport for their flight to Paris.

A difference of opinion

by Doug Truax

I disapprove of what you say, but I will defend to the death your right to say it.

Voltaire

Close to the time of February's Charlevoix Township referendum on Water's Edge, several people told me they were upset with an advertisement that had run in the Courier. The ad listed many businesses that supported the rezoning of Water's Edge.

The people who approached me said in essence: "I'm going to clip this ad and make sure I never patronize those businesses again."

I argued with each, explaining that a disagreement over policy should not be a grounds for refusing to do business with a person. In a small town, many of these people are not anonymous business interests but friends. Surely, I said, we ought to be able to respect a difference of opinion.

I even recall telling a small gathering of environmentalist that they should do the opposite: make sure they patronized the businesses on the list and let people know they were not anti-business. The issue, I argued, was zoning – not growth or no-growth, business or anti-business.

So it was with some shock and a great sense of sadness that I learned this past week that several establishments in town were refusing to do business with the Charlevoix Courier. They had taken exactly the same stance as the other individuals – only they were on the other side of the issue.

Aside from the immediate threat to the profitability of the newspaper and my livelihood, the action of these several businessmen spoke volumes about the current mood in Charlevoix.

The basis of the boycott action was in large part, several told me, an editorial I had written urging a no vote on the township referendum.

The editorial had argued that the issue on the election was whether or not the people would set the standards for development in the community and whether there would be special zoning to protect the lakefront properties in this area. Property along M-66 is inherently different than that along the wetlands bordering Lake Charlevoix. I urged that this be taken into consideration before any lakefront condominium project was approved in the Charlevoix area.

It might be useful to mention what the editorial did not say. It did not intend that growth should stop in the Charlevoix area. It did not urge an end to condominium building. It did not even oppose the development of Water's Edge for multifamily housing. It merely continued against development of large-scale projects without proper controls.

THE ESSENCE of a democracy is the free exchange of ideas and information. A newspaper plays a vital role in presenting not only news but opinions from a variety of sources.

While editorials are written by the editor or, in some cases, members of an editorial board, the opinions of the community are reflected through letters to the editor, columnists, and guest editorials.

At the Courier we take all of these sources of opinion seriously. We print all letters to the editor that are signed and have an address or phone number to verify their authenticity or to allow the checking of facts. Letters are, in essence, the peoples' editorials.

We also encourage guest viewpoints.

If one has full knowledge of the truth, then diverse opinions are of no use. But if the truth is something that must be learned through experience and exposure to a great many ideas and theories, then the free exchange of information is essential.

How is it then that in Charlevoix recently divergent opinions have become such anathema to so many? The issue of growth, condominiums and zoning is fragmenting the community – friends are driven apart, opinions are polarized and issues painted in black and white.

I think we need to pause a little, and listen more – on both sides. We need more discussion and more exchange of unpopular ideas, not less. We need, I think, to respect each others views more.

One thing that is so upsetting about the boycott of advertising is that no one bothered to confront us with their concerns. In fact it took a month before we were aware it was occurring. Have we gone beyond the point of civilized discourse?

The people of Charlevoix have some difficult decisions to make about their future. The process will not be easy and there will be no simple answers. To reach useful decisions we will have to respect ideas that may conflict with our own and learn to disagree without becoming entrenched and bitter in our views.

I would certainly hope that anyone with concerns about what the Courier publishes would feel free to either submit a dissenting opinion or to discuss the matter with us. I would be glad to review any and all news articles and to explain any editorial viewpoint. Likewise, I am eager to hear the views of those who disagree with me.

No one has a monopoly on truth. And until they do, we need all the chance of dissenting opinion that a democracy can muster.

Clockwise

Map puzzles

By Bob Clock

Have you ever looked closely — really closely — at the map of Michigan in relation to adjoining states?

If you do, you learn the darndest things.

Take the city of Menominee in the Upper Peninsula, for example. Sounds far away, doesn't it? The name smacks of sled dogs, igloos, 60 below temperatures and 100 mph winds off the frozen tundra.

Yet according to my Michigan road map, Menominee is a good 15 miles south of Charlevoix.

In fact, a fair-sized chunk of the Upper Peninsula lies south of Charlevoix on the western shore of Lake Michigan.

Now let's pretend we're traveling due west of Charlevoix across Lake Michigan. The first land we'd hit would be the south end of Detroit Island — a tiny fingernail of terra firma between the tip of the Wisconsin's Door Peninsula and Washington Island.

If we continued west, we'd cross Green Bay, which is normally associated with Wisconsin. But we'd hit land again at a place called Arthur Bay — in Michigan. We'd have to travel another 11 miles before we'd be back in Wisconsin.

If we traveled due west of Petoskey, which sits astride the 46th parallel, our first landfall would be Washington Island, Wis. Crossing Green Bay, we'd come ashore in Michigan, just south of Cedar River. If we continued west, we'd hit Wisconsin again about 12 miles inland. But three miles further on we'd be back in Michigan, passing through what appears to be a wilderness area north of the Menominee River. About seven miles further west we'd be back in Wisconsin — and we wouldn't leave it until we hit the Mississippi River.

I HAVE ALWAYS considered Pointe aux Barques at the tip of the Michigan Thumb as a part of the lush central Michigan farmlands. But if you draw a straight line westward from the tip of the Thumb across the mouth of Saginaw Bay, you'll hit U.S. 27 about 15 miles south of Houghton Lake — which is well into what I consider the north woods.

Another puzzlement: From which direction do ships enter the Soo locks from Lake Superior?

According to my map, southbound ships enter the St. Marys River from the southwest — not the northwest, as you'd expect. And they travel almost due east through the locks before heading south toward Lake Huron.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, is north, not east, of Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.

And if you've been laboring under the illusion that Chicago is at the south end of Lake Michigan, forget it.

The entire south end belongs to Indiana, from Michigan City to Whiting. Chicago doesn't start until well up the western shore.

Pastor needs help with surgical expenses

In response to community inquiries the Charlevoix Ministerial Association is glad to report that the Rev. David Yingling, pastor of the United Methodist Church and Greensky Hill Church, is recovering beautifully from major surgery in which a tennis ball size tumor was removed from the base of the skull. However the Yingling family is left with high medical debts beyond their insurance coverage.

Would you like to help? The "Rainbow Shoppe" has agreed to receive contributions from concerned members of the community.

God, not liquor, the answer

This letter is written in response to the young lady in high school who stated in a previous Courier article that she enjoyed partying in school because she only had a short time to enjoy her young adulthood.

Dear Shannon: We live in what is basically a non-Christian world. It's quite troublesome to me that a Christian way of living is so difficult for all of us to see. Life is meant to be a constant changing process to improve upon our human nature to prepare to meet Him when die. Christian value systems are sometimes difficult to see in our society, especially for the young who have sometimes stifling peer pressure.

God's rules are there to discover if we search for them. The devil's rules are out in the open and easy to follow, but you have to work much harder for God.

Liquor is a means to relax us, and with friends we can get high and mellow out from life's difficult burdens. God does the same thing if you spend time learning about Him, and life's burdens become easier to overcome each day.

While I was reading your responses in the newspaper I felt that you were quite centered on yourself – basically your happiness.

Did you know that happiness with God is based on thinking of others more than yourself? I would like to see you focus your leisure time on our community.

Groups of teenagers could drastically change a town where nothing is ever happening to one where everything is happening. What is happening in any town is not only your responsibility, but the adults' of our town.

It's a shame that less than 10 percent of people become involved in situations that relate to them. These young people are our future adults, so let's all get INVOLVED and interested and get those kids out and away from drinking parties.

Beacons of Blessing

A devotional column prepared by the Charlevoix Ministerial Association

I'm concerned! I'm concerned about the modern day churches. Much of what is passing for Christianity today isn't! Somehow a "Spectatorism" has all but replaced the real thing... that being a 100 percent "participation-ism." From its beginning, Christianity has not been a spectator sport. Grandstands were never meant to be occupied by believers, but by the world, who sat and marveled at us.

But today, in many churches, it's different! In America, hundreds of thousands of Christians come, sit, watch, gripe, whine, and go home mad if they're not properly entertained. I submit that neither the scattered church (the body of believers out in the trenches Monday to Saturday carrying the banner of the cross), or the gathered church (those same saints assembled for worship, praise, edification, and body-building) is to exist for the purpose of watching a performance.

God never intended that a religious show be performed by a few talented performers on Sunday!

Church hoppers and shoppers looking for the "best act" in own rather than looking for a church that can feed their souls in the Word of God shouldn't be able to find it. God's Word teaches that every believer is a priest, and every believer is gifted for service in the body. It's the only sport in the universe where everybody who shows up for the game can participate regardless of their skill, age, size or past experience.

I'm thankful that we have people learning to participate in praise and worship on Sunday. I'm also thankful that those same people are learning to assume their share of the responsibility Monday to Saturday in witnessing, inviting, and doing battle with the world.

Executive Director

After a long, hard winter, and in the wake of all the snow, much sand, litter and debris is left over. The city street sweeper is busy trying to clean up the curbs. Store owners and homeowners alike can be seen raking and cleaning all over town. Thank you for your effort to keep Charlevoix looking Beautiful!

The annual Spring Chamber Dance is set for May 10. Due to ongoing renovations at the Belvedere Casino Club, it was necessary to find an alternate site. This year's dance will be at the Chicago Club Clubhouse. Tickets will go on sale at the Chamber on April 15 for $10 per person; no reservations necessary, but must be purchased by May 1. Cruise Control, featuring Fonda Berry, will provide music for dancing. In lieu of a sit-down dinner, hot hors d'oeuvres and finger foods will be offered throughout the evening. Doug Shaw, chairman of the Chamber Internal Affairs Committee, is finalizing all plans. Chamber members will be receiving invitations soon.

The Lake Charlevoix Trout Tournament registration forms are now available at the Chamber. Also available are Lyric Opera tickets for the April 20 performance of "Side by Side by Sondheim," and Northern Michigan Canale's tickets to the April 23 and 24 presentation of "An April Affair."

Engagements

Lori Smith and Richard Witzke

Smith - Witzke

Frederick and Letha Parsons of Charlevoix and H. Paul and Joann Smith of Petoskey, announce the engagement of their daughter Lori Ann Smith, to Richard Kurt Witzke of Tucson, Ariz. He is the son of Richard and Sally Witzke of Chubbuck, Idaho.

Miss Smith is a 1985 graduate of Petoskey High School and currently a freshman at the University of Arizona.

Mr. Witzke is a 1981 graduate of Highland High School and Mr. Steak Culinary Arts and Management. He is the Arizona State manager at Mr. Steaks Inc. in Tucson, Ariz.

The wedding will be an event of May 17 at St. Francis Xavier Church in Petoskey.

Catholic Women plan Day of Recollection

The Northwest Region of the Gaylord Diocese Council of Catholic Women Day of Recollection will be held at the Sacramentine Monastery at Conway on Thursday, April 17.

The Rev. Casimir Zawacki of St. Mary's Church at Charlevoix will be the director for the day. Registration will begin at 9:30 a.m. Persons planning to attend are asked to call 347-9881 for reservations.

Women's Club to meet

The Charlevoix Women's Club will meet at the Fireside Restaurant on south Bridge St. at 1 p.m. Tuesday, April 15, for a luncheon meeting, Lucy Witthoeft, club president, has announced.

The installation of officers for the club year and a program featuring Charles Bentley, Charlevoix High School counselor, speaking on the subject "How to feel better about yourself," will follow the luncheon.

Lutherans host convention

The Northern and Traverse Bay Zones of the Lutheran Women's Missionary League (LWML) will host the 21st Biennial Convention of the Michigan District on July 8, 9, and 10 at Boyne Mountain. The Michigan District is an International auxiliary of the Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod.

Two Charlevoix women, Mrs. Marion Parker and Mrs. Leafa Miller, are in charge of registration for the convention.

The convention theme is "Lift High the Cross", called a fitting theme because the LWML stresses lifting the cross of Jesus Christ to people all over the world by education and services at home and by supporting missionaries and foreign missions.

Approximately 150 delegates will attend to vote on various resolutions, a new district budget and individual projects which the LWML supports by voluntary offerings.

A highlight of the convention's social program will be a banquet and program in the Alpine theme setting at Boyne Mountain.

Visitors are welcome to attend the opening services and any part of the convention. For reservations, call Mrs. Parker at 547-9085 or Mrs. Miller at 547-6485.

American Legion Auxiliary plans season's first luncheon

The Auxiliary of the Leslie T. Shapton Post No. 226, American Legion, will host the first casserole and salad luncheon of the season at the American Legion post home Wednesday, April 16, Auxiliary President, Kate Curtis, has announced.

The luncheon will be served at the post home on East Garfield Avenue from 11 a.m. until 1:30 p.m.

Tickets will be $3 for adults and $2.50 for senior citizens. Proceeds from the event will be used to purchase new draperies for the post home, Mrs. Curtis said.

The luncheon will offer a wide selection of hot casseroles and salads, rolls, a dessert, and a choice of beverage.

Mrs. Curtis is general chairperson of the luncheon. She will be assisted in the kitchen by Josephine Bindi, Mary Ann Ferras, Edna Miller, Nancy Wood, Rosalyn Gelardick, and Sue Lackner. The entire membership will join in furnishing home-prepared food.

Obituaries

Barbara J. Sutter

Funeral services for Mrs. Barbara J. (Marion) Sutter, 64, were held at St. Mary's Church Saturday, April 5. The Reverend Casimir Zawacki officiated. Interment was in St. Mary's Cemetery.

The Rosary was recited at the Winchester Funeral Home Friday evening.

Mrs. Sutter died Wednesday, April 2, at Little Traverse Division of Northern Michigan Hospitals.

Born in San Francisco February 24, 1922, the former Barbara Jones was raised in Santa Cruz, California. She joined the convent of the Adrian Dominican Order and received an M. A. degree in education from San Francisco University. She served as an Adrian Dominican Sister for 18 years. On May 24, 1964, she was married to Raymond F. Sutter at Felton, California. They made their home at Walled Lake from that time until 1968, when they came to the Boyne City-Charlevoix area.

She taught at the Boyne City High School from 1969 until 1978. She was a member of St. Mary's Church where she was active in education and the Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults, and was a retired member of the National Education Association.

Surviving are her husband, Raymond F. of Charlevoix; two daughters, Mrs. Robert (Monica G.) Currie of Waterford and Mrs. Robert (Anne Marie) Gresenhover of Farmington; three sons, Fritz of Ionia, Mike of Sturgis, and Tony of Redford; 19 grandchildren; two great-grandchildren; her parents, Jim Jones of Eugene, Oregon and Mrs. Marion Jones of Santa Cruz; and two sisters, Mrs. Dick (Dorothy) Stipovich of Eureka, California, and Mrs. Everet (Helen L.) Roberts of Santa Cruz.

The family suggests Mass cards or contributions in her name to the Adrian Dominican Legion Fund for retired sisters.

Kathryn L. Rogers

Graveside services for a former resident, Kathryn L. Rogers, 84, of Winchester, Mass., were held Thursday, April 3, at Brookside Cemetery. The Rev. Philip G. Schairbaum of the First Congregational Church officiated.

A private family service had been held at Concord, Mass., on Tuesday, April 1.

Mrs. Rogers died Sunday, March 30, at the Winchester Hospital in Winchester, Mass.

Born in Charlevoix, Feb. 11, 1902, to Reuben and Zella (Goodyear) Geer, the former Kathryn L. Geer received her teaching certificate from Central Michigan University.

For the past 25 years she had lived in Reading, Mass. She was preceded in death in 1969 by her husband, Norman W. Rogers.

She is survived by a son, Alan W. Rogers of Reading, Mass.; a daughter, Mrs. Patricia R. Gilbert of Carlisle, Mass.; six grandchildren; three great-grandchildren; and a sister, Mrs. Leroy (Hazel) Allers of Kalamazoo.

Winchester Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements in Charlevoix.

The family suggests memorials to Winchester Hospital in Winchester, Mass.

Frank R. Sumner

Frank R. Sumner, 79, of Ellsworth died Sunday, April 6, at his Six Mile Lake home in Charlevoix County.

Born in Pellston January 26, 1907, Mr. Sumner was married to the former Elma Bellinger at Lansing on April 2, 1928. They lived in Lansing, where he was employed as a machinist. In 1944, they moved to Banks Township in Antrim County and in 1946 to Six Mile Lake, where they had operated resort cabins. Mrs. Sumner preceded him in death in 1965.

He is survived by a sister, Mrs. Glen (Alma) Swisher of Charlevoix and two nieces.

Cremation followed. There was no service. The Hastings Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Carl C. Himebauch

Funeral services for Carl C. Himebauch, 72, of Ellsworth, were held Tuesday, April 8, at the Hastings Funeral Home. The Reverend Cecil Drost of Charlevoix officiated. Interment was in Brookside Cemetery in Charlevoix.

Mr. Himebauch died Saturday, April 6, at the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Born in Charlevoix August 19, 1913, Mr. Himebauch grew up in the Ellsworth area and served with the U.S. Army during World War II. On February 21, 1946, he was married to the former Ada Barksdale at Phoenix City, Alabama. They lived in Opa Locka, Florida, where he was employed by the Metro Dade Transit Authority until retiring in 1978. Mrs. Himebauch preceded him in death in December 1983. He returned to Ellsworth to live in 1984.

He is survived by five stepdaughters, Mrs. Nash (Virginia) Alcorn of Sacramento, California; Mrs. Bennie (Betty) Robertson of Miami, Mrs. James (Katherine) DeFoor of Haleyville, Alabama, Mrs. Arthur (Lasada) Dustin of Indiantown, Alabama, and Mrs. Dorothea Lynch of North Highland, California; a stepson, Joseph Bashaki of Miami; several step great grandchildren; a brother, Archie Himebauch of Charlevoix; and three sisters, Mrs. Earl (Katherine) Denny and Mrs. Enos (Anna Mae) Vander Silk, both of Ellsworth, and Miss Greta Himebauch of Grand Rapids.

Graveside services planned

Graveside services for Helen Moore Hyvenen, who died March 19 in Seney, will be held Friday, April 11, at 1 p.m. at the Brookside Cemetery. Mrs. Hyvenen's complete obituary appeared in the March 26 issue of the Courier.

Josephine Dhaseleer

Josephine Dhaseleer turns 99

Mrs. Josephine Dhaseleer observed her ninety-nineth birthday anniversary at a surprise birthday party Sunday at the home of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dhaseleer in Marion township with whom she now makes her home.

Attending the event were members of her family and former neighbors, some of whom she had known since coming to Marion township in 1925. Others came from Beaver Island where she lived when she was married to the late John Dhaseleer in 1914.

Mrs. Dhaseleer, the former Josephine Ricksgers was born in the Dakota Territory on April 2, 1887, two years before the Dakotas became states. She was born near what is now Mitchell, S.D. Her parents were German immigrants who had come from Europe to a German Settlement in the area.

Her father suffered from asthma and found the severe weather intolerable so, when she was only a child, the family moved by covered wagon, skirting Indian settlements enroute, to western Texas. This was a bad move for summer droughts resulted in the loss of their farm animals and crops and did nothing for her father's health.

The next move was to Carbondale in southern, Ill., where Mrs. Dhaseleer remembers spending all day in the corn field picking and husking corn when she was only 10 years old.

The land was great for farming but the weather did nothing for the father's health so, after hearing about Beaver Island being an ideal location for people with asthma, the family again moved, complete with livestock including horses and cows plus heavy farm machinery to Beaver Island via boat from Harbor Springs. The heavy farm machinery was of little use in the small fields on the island so it was sold. On the island, the family built a log cabin along the King's Highway 1½ miles south of St. James.

As a young woman, Josephine Ricksgers was employed by a family from Kalamazoo who had a summer home on the island. In 1912 she returned to Kalamazoo with them. It was here that she met her future husband who had migrated to this country from Belgium a short time before and was employed at Nazareth College.

The romance blossomed and, in 1914 they returned to the island to be married. They made their home there for 11 years during which their two children, Charles and Elizabeth, were born. In 1925 they purchased the family home in Marion township where Mrs. Dhaseleer now makes her home after several years in East Jordan with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey (Elizabeth) Mosher following Mr. Dhaseleer's death.

At one time, Mrs. Dhaseleer did handywork of every description including crocheting. However, failing eye sight has limited her activities though she does still enjoy a game of cards with members of her family. She also assists around the house by setting and clearing the table at meal time and doing similar household chores "just to keep busy".

On hand for the birthday party on Sunday were her own two children and their spouses and some other 15 grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Council wants time to study Rysberg Inn plan located where a dumpster is shown on the site plan and an eight-foot easement shown on the plan appears to be his walkway.

Manker said he had not had time to study the legal description of the property in detail.

Rysberg said details of the easement could be worked out and he would not prevent the owner from getting to Michigan Avenue. Rysberg noted, however, that he had a deed to the property.

COUNCIL ALSO approved a resolution to have the engineering firm of McNamee, Porter and Seeley prepare a change order to the contract for construction of the Charlevoix water treatment plant to allow expansion of the plant to a 3 million gallon per day (mgd) capacity.

A water plant with 2 mgd capacity is currently being constructed under an agreement between the Environmental Protection Agency, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, the Michigan Department of Public Health and the Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

The new water plant was required after TCE was discovered in the Charlevoix municipal well water. EPA Superfund officials agreed to have the federal government pay for replacement of the well system, but refused to go along with any increased capacity to meet future city water requirements.

An agreement was worked out whereby the city could pay for expansion of the plant from 2 mgd to 3 mgd on completion of the EPA construction project.

John Adams, project engineer for McNamee, Porter and Seeley, told council the EPA and Corps of Engineers have had a change of heart and will now allow the expanded plant to be build at the same time as other water plant construction.

This could result in a 20-25 percent savings over having to go out for bids next summer, Adams said.

He cited several advantages of the larger capacity plant including the ability to meet a greater maximum flow, reduced operating costs and the reduced construction costs because the contractors were already on site.

The expansion to a 3 mgd plant would involve one extra low service pump, a fourth filter and a doubling of the reservoir from 500,000 gallons to one million gallons, Adams said.

He noted that the 500,000 reservoir was inadequate even for the 2 mgd capacity water plant.

McNamee, Porter and Seeley's fee for providing the engineering on the expansion project are scheduled not to exceed $24,000. Voters approved a $400,000 bond issue for the costs of constructing the expansion of the water plant.

IN OTHER ACTION council approved a proposal from the Rotary Club to construct a children's park at the corner of West Carpenter Avenue and Norwood Road, next to the baseball fields: "It is our intent to provide recreational equipment and a safe and fun place for the children of that area and the children of the baseball participants to play," Robert Kern, chairman of the Rotary park project told council.

The city was asked to level and prepare the ground, dig holes for wood posts to border the park, and furnish manpower and equipment to maintain the park after it is constructed.

Kern said the retail value of the equipment being donated by Rotary was approximately $7,000.

The park would be for use by children of all ages, Kern said, with equipment for younger children on one side and equipment for older ones on the other.

– APPROVED A SITE plan for the expansion of Nanny's Old Place restaurant to allow for an addition to the kitchen and enclosing the existing deck with glass.

– Gave its authorization for a peace pole to be placed in Memorial Park.

– Registered no objection to the request by Leon and Karla Pease for a beer and wine takeout license for their store (formerly Gebeau's) at 106 East Lincoln.

– Approved the use of East Park on the evening of August 2 for a sacred music concert sponsored by the Charlevoix Ministerial Association.

– Established the city's Clean Up Week dates as follows: Third Ward: April 28-May 2; Second Ward: May 5-9; First Ward: May 12-16.

– Heard that the city golf course has been opened for free play by the general public, while conditions permit, until the club house opens on May 1.

County planners say no to Water's Edge plan

4. Is the change consistent with the purposes for which zoning is adopted?

"Staff would contend that he land use as proposed and the location of the uses themselves are not being proposed for use in accordance with their character, adaptability, or suitability for particular purposes other than the pond being located on the Linwood soils (muck) portion of the property," he concluded.

5. WOULD THE REZONING constitute spot zoning or the granting of a special privilege to one landowner that is not available to others?

It would not, he said.

6. Is the change contrary to the established land use pattern and will it adversely affect property values?

"PUD would not have a major impact upon the established land use pattern given the diversity of uses currently located in the area," Sullivan said. He noted there would be an impact on property values, but that it would be impossible to say whether it would be positive or negative.

7. Has there been a change in conditions in the area that would tend to support the rezoning?

The extension of sewer lines to the property has been the only change, Sullivan said.

8. Are adequate sites properly zoned, available elsewhere that could accommodate the types of uses being proposed?

There are no other PUDs in the township, he noted, because the zoning ordinance calls for this type of zoning only on request of the property owner.

9. Is the proposed change out of scale with the needs of the community?

"To say the proposed rezoning and proposed uses for this parcel of property are out of scale for Charlevoix Township would be a less than accurate statement," he concluded.

10. Was there a mistake made in the drafting of the original zoning map?

"The zoning map as currently depicted is accurate and was based upon the Charlevoix Region Comprehensive Plan of which the land use map shows this site as intended for medium density single family use," Sullivan said.

SHERMAN CHAMBERLAIN, a land surveyor representing Water's Edge and First Centrum Corp., introduced the site plan for the PUD development by asking the commission to think of 1870 when all able bodied men were used to dig the channel between Lake Michigan and Round Lake. "I think we can all agree that the changes they made in a natural feature has benefited us all," Chamberlain said. "Think about what man can do to alter nature for his benefit without doing harm."

William Johnson, landscape architect for the project, urged the commission to "be careful of taking absolute stands on wetlands." He said the property presented an opportunity for a tradeoff. "I think it is worthwhile to come back from the shore a little in order to avoid development of the waterfront," he pointed out.

Johnson said the construction would be on piers, except for roadways and parking areas, in order to maintain the drainage through the wetland.

He said the project would have a Victorian flavor, with porticos and porches, which "could be an interesting recall of the Belvedere" Club days.

CHARLEVOIX ATTORNEY Donald Berlage, asked the commissioners to consider the economic consequences of the development. Until recently the Charlevoix area had been in a 10-year recession, he said. "Now times are good and people seem to forget the lean times."

Charlevoix cannot expand on Lake Michigan, Berlage added. "There is absolutely no site presently available for high density development."

Eighty percent of the Lake Michigan shoreline is spoken for by the public or industry, he said, and the remaining 20 percent is set aside for residential development.

"The City of Charlevoix has been built – it has been plotted for 100 years," he said. "If we're going to have growth, where is it going to go?

"The emphasis on restricting shoreline development flies in the face of historic development," Berlage added.

Ed Crook, a resident living near the proposed development, questioned the density of the project. He also noted that the expected rise in water levels could threaten the condos near the shoreline.

Crook also said trees would have to be disturbed during construction and questioned whether they could be replanted.

Mike Barnard argued for the project, noting that "What scares me to death is if we don't plan for it, we will lose the opportunity to have residential development and have instead 200 units each eating up 200 feet of shoreline."

"We think that the benefits of this development are overwhelming," Ed Oelschlaeger, president of First Centrum Corp., told the commission. "Development is taking place in other communities at the expense of Charlevoix."

AFTER THE VOTE to recommend against the rezoning, commissioner Midener added: "Sometime I would like to see developers who appreciate and enjoy the area to take a look at the towns themselves. They have all had a charm that has been allowed to dissipate and fall apart."

She said developers should restore some of the resort hotels rather than build condominiums for private ownership.

Large developers, especially, seem to leave securing a Wetland permit to the last, a procedure which Sikkenga says "could cause a lot of trouble".

The purpose of the Goemaere-Anderson Wetland Protection Act, as stated in its preamble, is "to provide for the preservation, management, protection, and use of wetlands; to require permits to alter certain wetlands; to provide for a plan for the preservation, management, protection, and use of wetlands; and to provide remedies and penalties."

It may be an exaggeration, but it has been estimated that 80 percent of the shoreline of Lake Charlevoix could be considered Wetland areas. For that reason, the administration of the Wetland Act is of paramount importance to local landowners and those who serve them.

And the high lake water levels only add to the problem.

Copies of the Goemaere-Anderson Act, Act 203 of 1979, and the proposed Administrative Rules may be obtained from the Department of Natural Resources, Division of Land Use, P. O. Box 30028, Lansing, Michigan 48909.

Persons wishing to comment on the proposed rules may do so by writing to the above address before April 21.

Business groups boycott Courier

Donald Berlage, attorney and a founder of the Northern Lower Michigan Development Council, said he "would not characterize this as a boycott."

He said there was "widespread individual dissatisfaction among people who have to earn a living here 12 months a year.

"I think your coverage has been extremely one-sided," he added. "There is a constant barage, not only in your newspaper but in the Petoskey News Review of headlines and reporting on this issue. You seem more than willing to give all the coverage you can to those who oppose development and not enough coverage to those in favor," he said.

Ken Winter, vice president and general manager of The Courier Corporation, expressed concern about the action. "Certainly when one doesn't receive advertising it hurts a newspaper," he commented. "It is unfortunate people haven't discussed the issue with us. I've never felt a boycott of anything is constructive. I would hope that if individuals objected to the coverage they would talk to us," he said. "I have made an effort to contact those who I have heard were unhappy with our coverage."

Winter said that if those objecting to the Courier editorial would read it again without emotion they would see it was not against development per se."

Claudia Kenifeck, executive director of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, said she was unaware of the boycott but did not support it. In addition to not advertising in the newspaper itself, some businesses are not advertising in the Chamber's Charlevoix Guest Guide which the Courier publishes every year and distributes to some 15,000 tourists.

"The Chamber is working hard to bring all of the interest groups in this town together for the betterment of the community and for common goals," Kenifeck said. "Boycotting the local paper is not working for the betterment of the community.

"The ramifications of that kind of action could be so negative I think it's something that should be mediated before it gets out of control," Kenifeck added, "because this town cannot afford to be polarized and fragmented."

DNR holds Wetland hearings

The average person building a house these days probably finds the list of permit steps troublesome: To the Health Department for septic system and well permits; to the township or city for zoning permit; to the county for construction, plumbing, mechanical, and electrical permits; to the county for Act 347 permit in some cases; and to the DNR for Wetland Act permit in some cases.

When asked last week at what point a Wetland Act permit should be applied for, Sikkenga said, "If not the first one, certainly after the Health Department". He added that his department has to look at all applications the same way, paying no attention to what other permits have been obtained up to that point.

It is known that at least one landowner in Charlevoix County was forced to move the location of the house he was building on his property after securing all other permits and putting in the foundation because the foundation area did not meet Wetland Act specifications.

Softball squad looks at rebuilding year

FRAN MARTIN

Charlevoix Rayder softball candidates took to the practice field for the first time on April 11 in preparation for the 1986 season, coach Ron Cox said.

Seventeen candidates have been working out inside waiting for a break in the weather that would allow them to work at their assigned positions in the field setting, Cox said.

"This will be a rebuilding year for us. We lost all but four regulars from our district championship team including experienced pitchers and the catcher plus those who filled key positions in both the infield and outfield," Cox continued.

He said that of the 17 players, 11 have had some experience. "The four veterans I have returning will be filling positions different from what they played last year. For instance, Michelle Gagnon, a senior who has had little time on the mound, will be called on to do our pitching. Another senior, Lara Stargardt, an infielder, will take over behind the plate," Cox added.

Other regulars returning are juniors Amy Antaya and Jenny Sell. The former is expected to play in the infield and the latter the outfield.

Others with limited playing experience are Heidi Bolduc, an infielder, and Anne Smith, an outfielder, both juniors, and sophomores Jana Lashmit, who will be trying out as a pitcher, Becky Smith and Lisa Smith, candidates for infield positions, and Brenda Sutton and Michelle Seibert, potential outfielders.

Rounding out the list of candidates are Jill Raecke, who played as a freshman and sophomore but who missed last season when she was abroad, and newcomers to the sport, Kris Austin and Carol Holm, all seniors; juniors Cindy Boss and Beth Maue and a single freshman, Stacy Gebott.

"At the present time just about everyone is a candidate for any position on the team because we're starting from scratch," Cox said.

Veteran netters form core of Rayder team

Thirty-three candidates for the 1986 Charlevoix Rayder tennis team have been practicing regularly in preparation for the opening of the season at Petoskey on Thursday, April 17, coach Erik Lundteigen has announced.

"I have a good number to work with. I have experienced players returning and a host of newcomers who are being introduced to the game for the first time. It's a good mix", Lundteigen added.

Among his returnees are Rusty Coolman and Dan Staublin, regional flight standouts last season. Coolman a senior and Staublin a junior; Jason Brindel, a two-year veteran, and Sue Miller, both seniors; Ty Wagner, Mike Chew, and Jon Eakes, juniors; and Marty Joy and Dave Warth, sophomores.

Among the candidates are numerous freshmen, Lundteigen said. "Some just want to learn the game. Others are interested in competing. There's a lot of interest and that is good. It will assure us of a continued interest in the program", he added.

Earlier, the players were playing at the Racquet Club. Now, the spring weather has made it possible to move outside. Both the Charlevoix Township courts and the city courts have been made available to the team. Oscar Stroud, Charlevoix Township Supervisor, and Dwight Boss, city recreation director, have been very supportive of the program and have readied the courts for the team's use, Lundteigen said.

At this early date, Lundteigen has not named his starters but said they will likely come from the veterans with the other slots still open.

The Rayders finished in a tie for fourth place in regional competition in 1985.

VFW Auxiliary elects officers, plans meetings

Officers for the 1986-87 year of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary were elected at a recent meeting and will be installed in May.

They are Mrs. Arlene Staley, who was re-elected president; Mrs. Margaret Hewitt, senior vice president; Mrs. Angelina Borths, junior vice president; Mrs. Beverly Plum, treasurer; Mrs. Elinor Curtis, secretary; Mrs. Betty Hodgkinson, chaplain; Mrs. Rosalyn Goldstick, conductress; Mrs. Gertrude Holt, guard; and Mrs. Betty White, Mrs. Rosemary Warner and Mrs. Helen Phillips, trustees for terms of three, two, and one year respectively.

At the same meeting, delegates to district meetings were named. They are Mrs. Goldstick, Mrs. White, Mrs. Curtis, Mrs. Plum, and Mrs. Thelma Wagner; alternates named were Mrs. Ivy Woodcock, Mrs. Mary Ann Farkas, Mrs. Hewitt, Mrs. Hodgkinson, and Mrs. Borths.

The next district meeting is scheduled for May 4 at Gaylord. All post and auxiliary members are urged to attend the dinner meeting.

The next social meeting of the auxiliary will be held April 17. Members are urged to attend to work on the various chairmen's work books and reports which are due at department headquarters May 1.

The monthly potluck dinner for post and auxiliary members and their families, friends, and prospective members will be held at the post home Sunday, April 27, at 1 p.m. Those attending are asked to bring a dish to pass. Table service will be furnished. The event will also commemorate National Loyalty Day, May 1.

The dates for the annual VFW Buddy Poppy sales will be May 22, 23, and 24, Mrs. Pauline Russell, Poppy chairperson, has announced. All members are asked to assist. All funds from the sale are used for relief of veterans and their families and the National VFW Children's Home at Eaton Rapids.

Wines chosen for $5 million dinner feast

Mike Greeley of the Wharfside Market in Charlevoix would be the first to agree with Galileo that "Wine is light, held together by water". Mike has carefully chosen the wines to accompany the six course gourmet menus planned for the "Five Million Dollar Dinner".

This fund-raising benefit sponsored by the Crooked Tree Arts Council celebrates the fifth anniversary of the Virginia M. McCune Community Arts Center.

The event will take place May 17 at the beautiful hill-top estate of Chuck and Joan MacGillivray. Tickets are on sale for $10 per couple, and the drawing for winners will be held May 1. The five lucky couples will dine with the honored guests, Dr. and Mrs. Roger Jacobi, and the MacGillivrays at a table sumptuously set for fourteen. Dr. Jacobi is president of the Interlochen Center for the Arts.

During the cocktail hour, two types of champagne will be offered to blend with the pates and cheeses provided by Lynn Symons: a Domaine Chardon–Napa Valley Brut, and a Domain Chardon–Blanc de Noirs with 100 percent Pinot Noir grapes.

To accompany the morel appetizer provided by the Bowe Inn, a pale, light and most delicate dry sherry has been selected. Fino Sherry (Tio Pepe), according to many experts, is one of the best Sherry aperitifs when served chilled.

Linda Vigneau, LJV Wine Consultant, is donating the Chardonnay to accompany the chilled soup served by the Arboretum and the white fish served by Tapawingo. The choice is considered one of California's best white wines, a Chardonnay by Stag's Leap wine cellars.

For the veal and venison entree prepared by Stafford's Hospitality, an "Estate Bottled" Cabernet Sauvignon from the Jordan Vineyard and Winery in the Alexander Valley is the choice selection. California's Cabernet Sauvignon is widely regarded as America's best red wine.

For the fabulous Torte Walloon, prepared by the Walloon Lake Inn, guests will be given two wine choices: a Port or a Beerenauslese.

The Port, a Sanderman Founder's Reserve, is the most famous of all dessert wines. By Portugese law, Port is the wine of the Upper Douro Valley of Northern Portugal fortified by the addition of Portugese grape brandy, and shipped from Poorto, which gives Port its name.

The second selection of wine is 1976 Wehlener Munzlay-Beerenausleses, a German wine which is exceedingly rare and expensive. It is made from individual grape berries selected for their over-ripeness at the time of picking.

Beerenauslese is produced by leading growers, with rare exception, only in years ranked as good or great. (1976 is classified as great). It is produced more as a matter of prestige than for profit.

At the "Five Million Dollar Dinner", these carefully selected wines will be served by volunteer wine stewards and slowly sipped with appreciation by the guests from Waterford stemmed glasses. (Unless the guests prefer Perrier Water).

Trout tournament dinner nears

The second annual Lake Charlevoix Area Trout Tournament benefit dinner will be held April 12 at the American Legion Hall in Charlevoix.

The doors open at 6:30 p.m. for cocktails and dinner will be served at 7:30.

Tournament director Jim Withers said only 200 tickets are being sold "and they are going fast." He added that some tickets may be available at the door.

Tickets are $25 per couple or $20 for an individual for an all-you-can-eat buffet. There will be several nice door prizes, Withers said, including a 2 h.p. Yamaha outboard motor donated by Irish Boat Shop.

Withers also urged tournament supporters to get their tickets for the drawing on the 19-foot Wellcraft boat and trailer valued at $13,500. Tickets are $100 each and are tax deductible. Only 290 tickets will be sold, he said, and proceeds go to support the trout tournament.

In addition to the boat, the tickets will be good for some $2,500 in additional cash prizes including a second-place prize of $1,000. Third place will receive $600 and fourth through eighth places will receive $200 each. "Your chances of doubling your money are 25-1," Withers added.

Further information on the benefit dinner or the boat raffle tickets can be obtained from Sherry Withers at 547-4495.

The Lake Charlevoix Area Trout Tournament will be held May 16, 17 and 18 with headquarters in Charlevoix's East Park.

Church of God holds convention

The Community Church of God, 202 West Hurlbut Street, will host its sixth annual Faith-Promise Missions Convention April 11 to 13.

The Reverend Jerry Brandon, director of project support for Church of God World Service, and Mike Kinser, missionary to Hong Kong, will be the featured speakers.

An international dinner begins the weekend activities Friday night at 6:30. The public is invited to participate in and pray for any and all of these services. WPHN-FM is one of the ministries that will receive support from the convention's missionary budget.

Candidates file for board

Two candidates, both incumbents, filed nominating petitions for the vacancies on the Charlevoix Board of Education as the deadline for filing passed Monday.

They are Ardeth M. Wieland, who is seeking a fourth term on the board, and Elaine R. Martin a third term on the seven-member board.

Their names will appear on the ballot in the June 9 election.

Youth pastor communicates gentleness to young people

Jeb Brusherd

Jeb Brusherd, Youth Pastor at the Assembly of God Church, believes that the religion of Jesus Christ is loving and gentle and his job is to communicate that feeling to young people.

"For too many years, the Church has come across as being harsh," he explained, "but that is not true".

Jeb has been at the Charlevoix Church since last June. He is responsible for overseeing the functions of the Youth Department, to be the spiritual leader of the young people and to coordinate their Church and social activities.

At age 14, Jeb decided he wanted to spend his life doing Church work and he directed his education to that end, attending North Central Bible College in Minneapolis and Southern California College. His job in Charlevoix is his second one. His first was as Youth Pastor in Escondido, California.

Jeb's decision at age 14 to make Church work his career was the first of two important decisions he says every man must make: Whether or not to serve God, and choosing a mate.

Jeb and Jena met in college and were married last November. They both grew up in Illinois, he in Naperville and she in Ottawa, and, according to Jeb, he knows he made the right choice. Jena is much involved in his Church work and is especially helpful in working with the girls, he says.

Jeb's background is broader than that of Youth Pastor. He has made three missionary tours of Mexico and one of Canada; he has spoken on love and sex; and he has taught sex education in parochial schools; all of which he believes has helped him in understanding today's young people.

"They're not rebellious," he says. "They are crying out, they are hurting, trying to escape. They want someone to love them."

In dealing with young people, Jeb not only sets forth the standards by which they should live but explains why there are standards. He says in this way people can serve God by being law-abiding citizens.

When asked about his hobbies, Jeb mentioned he liked to ski and fish and play hockey, then modestly admitted he had tried out for the 1984 Olympic Hockey Team and almost made the cut. Nowadays, however, most of his spare time is spent with his "kids", at roller skating parties, pizza affairs, youth rallies, money-raising events, conducting services at Grandvue, or carrying on one-to-one conversations.

Elaine Mertin, right, assistant vice president of the First State Bank of Charlevoix, presents scholarship awards to Jill Raecke and Jason Brindel as school counselor Toni Feiter, left, looks on.

Local youth win scholarship awards

First State Bank of Charlevoix recently presented its 1986 Scholarship Awards to Jill Raecke and Jason Brindel.

The local scholarships were given in conjunction with a national essay contest by the Independent Bankers Association of America on the theme "Why Independent Banks?"

Jill, a senior at Charlevoix High School, received the first place award of $150 in the contest judged by Louis Hollow, president of First State Bank of Charlevoix. Her essay "Independent Banking at Work in My Community" said "independent bankers are a great asset to our local area.

"By helping businesses develop and prosper, the local banks show that they care what happen to their community and would like to see it develop and prosper also," she wrote.

Jason, also a senior at Charlevoix High School, received the runner-up award of $75. In his essay he said one of the prime factors in selecting a bank was service. "An independent bank needs my business and will work to get it. Service always seems to be friendlier at an independent bank."

Hollow said that "First State Bank of Charlevoix has always been proud to encourage the scholarship of the students of Charlevoix Public Schools."

Tourism conference focuses on marketing

KALAMAZOO–Michigan travel businesses will market themselves with a unified voice under a comprehensive, first-time, statewide marketing plan to be released at the Governor's Conference on Travel and Tourism at the Kalamazoo Hilton, April 13 to 15.

The plan, being developed by the Michigan Travel Bureau, will establish long-term goals and objectives and identify 10 promotional priorities. At the conference, representatives from tourist businesses will participate in seminars to learn how they can share in those promotions.

Seminars will look at:

Chicago: How businesses, especially those in western Michigan, can reach this abundant source of visitors to the state.

Golf: How cooperative efforts can pay off in national exposure.

Sesquicentennial: How the state's Yes 150 celebration can serve as a focal point for tourist promotions.

Feedback from seminar participants will give final shape to the marketing plan, which will be published and distributed at the conference.

Michigan's travel industry has experienced phenomenal growth in the past decade, culminating in a record year for 1985, in which $12.6 billion was spent on tourism-related activities in the state.

Couple observe 40th

Jerome and Marion Kimble of Charlevoix will celebrate their 40th wedding anniversary at an open house hosted by their children Sunday afternoon, April 13, at Zion Lutheran Church in Petoskey.

The Kimble's, who have lived in Charlevoix since 1960, were married March 2, 1946 in Royal Oak. They have five children and 12 grandchildren. The children, who are helping with the anniversary celebration, are Melody Kitt of Charlevoix, Delight Kiebel of Petoskey, Jerome, Jr. of Charlevoix, David of Charlevoix, and Gay Kiteley of Charlevoix.

All friends and relatives are invited to attend the open house.

Water's Edge decision delayed as parties talk

by DOUG TRUAX

A last-minute effort to mediate the Water's Edge condominium dispute gained a foothold Monday evening as the conflicting groups met for several hours prior to Monday's Charlevoix Township Board meeting and agreed to meet further.

Ed Oelschlaeger, president of First Centrum Corp., the primary developer involved in Water's Edge, asked the township board to postpone his request to have the 41-acre parcel rezoned from R-2 residential to planned unit development (PUD).

The one-month delay will give the various parties in the dispute time to report back to their constituencies and discover whether there are grounds for further negotiation, a spokesman said.

All parties to the dispute were refusing all comment on the mediation meeting which was held at an undisclosed site at 4 p.m. Monday prior to the 7:30 p.m. township board meeting.

The mediation effort was promoted by Bruce MacArthur, president of Keep Charlevoix Beautiful, Inc. Petoskey attorney David Fershee is directing the mediation.

Other parties involved include John Deery, representing Water's Edge Inc.; Jerry Puhl, president of WATCH and a member of ALERT, citizens groups opposed to the development; realtor Steve Andreae of Charlevoix, head of the pro-development Northern Lower Michigan Development Council; Bunny Goss, former president of the Lake Charlevoix Association; Michael Bonar, supervisor of Marion Township; Marcia Trimper, of ALERT; Oscar Stroud, Charlevoix Township supervisor; and Rose Bergmann, township board member who voted for the original Water's Edge plan.

The PUD zoning First Centrum Corp. and Water's Edge Inc. are requesting would allow 162 condominium units to be built on the property which includes some 1,500 feet of Lake Charlevoix frontage.

Water's Edge Inc. recently filed a lawsuit in 33rd Circuit Court challenging the results of a township referendum in which voters rejected a rezoning of the property for condominiums. The lawsuit seeks to reinstate the R-4 zoning approved by the township board last August which would allow five units per acre, or 208 condominiums on the property.

Members of ALERT – Area Leaders Environmental Response Team – have recommended that lakefront zoning allow a maximum of one unit per 25 feet of frontage, or about 52 units.

Phone survey explores school views

Residents of the Charlevoix School District are reminded of the random telephone survey to be conducted Thursday by the Charlevoix Public Schools.

Students under the direction of Charles Bentley, high school counselor, will be calling the residents of the school district to ask them how they feel about numerous facets of the school system. The survey will begin at 6:30 p.m. and continue until 9:30 p.m.

The questions being asked will give residents an opportunity to voice their opinions on everything from the present marking system and curriculum to extracurricular activities and discipline, a total of approximately 40 questions in all. The person being called may identify him-herself or remain anonymous.

Students making the calls have only telephone numbers to work with.

In announcing the survey, Supt. Gordon W. VanWieren said, "We have found that this is the best way to find out what people think of their school system.

The questions are varied enough to touch on all the important phases of education as well as extracurricular activities. It gives people an opportunity to point out what they feel are strengths and weaknesses of the system. It gives the board of education and the administration an opportunity to find out how we are doing as the educators of your children. We hope that everyone will cooperate and speak their minds".

Random telephone calls will be made to more than 500 homes in the school district during the three-hour survey Thursday.

County oks floodplain code

by PEG OHLE

Every resident of Charlevoix County may soon be able to participate in the federal government's National Flood Insurance Program.

To date, only the three cities in the County–Charlevoix, East Jordan, and Boyne City–have taken the necessary steps to adopt and enforce floodplain management practices.

Last week, the County Board of Commissioners agreed to provide for "efficient and competent floodplain construction code regulations" for all townships which request it. The floodplain construction code regulations will be administered by the County Department of Building Inspection.

In areas covered by the code, residents will be eligible for a federal subsidy when they purchase flood insurance from their insurance agent.

County Planner Larry Sullivan explained that the floodplain construction code regulations have to do primarily with preventing future

DDA unveils downtown parking, improvement plan

by DOUG TRUAX

The Downtown Development Authority (DDA) unveiled its proposed plan for the revitalization of downtown Charlevoix at City Council's work session Monday night.

Nearly a year in planning, the downtown plan calls for increased parking, improvements in sidewalks, changes to the several waterfront parks and boat piers in Round Lake.

The site design was prepared by Victor R. Nelheibel of Lansing who has been working on it with the DDA and city planner Gary Harsch since last spring.

Revenues to fund the improvements would come from the downtown tax increment financing plan and a 2 mill levy on downtown businesses. The legality of the tax increment financing method of "capturing" increases in the state equalized valuation, however, has been challenged in the courts and by the state attorney general.

Businessman Jim Mabee, a member of the DDA board, told Council the project was important to put something back into the downtown area. There are 125 different businesses downtown, he said, which employ 600 people. He called that "the biggest segment of the workforce."

The downtown businesses, he added, contribute over 22 percent to the general fund through taxes and assessments, and business owners "would like to be heard a little more."

Additional parking is the number one priority of the downtown development plan, the DDA stressed. The site design calls for a net increase of 91 parking spaces over a period of years. Some of those sites would be constructed on city-owned property (64 spaces at the old Erber Building site), others would come from purchase or lease of private property.

The plan calls for the elimination of some of the parking along Bridge Street and the side streets feeding it to allow for a left turn lane onto the side streets for traffic northbound on Bridge.

OTHER FEATURES of the downtown plan include two boat piers jutting into Round Lake to accommodate small boats. The piers, at the foot of Clinton and Mason streets, would handle 20 and 24 boats respectively.

Boaters restrooms and new harbormaster's quarters would be constructed at the base of Clinton Street, near the boat dock.

The Chamber of Commerce building would be renovated with office space below and a tourist information center on the street level.

The plan shows a central walkway in East Park with a fountain in the middle of the park.

A roof would be added to the bandshell and the fish pool removed. The shuffleboard courts would be relocated to behind the Chamber.

Other improvements call walkways and low seating walls in Hoffman Park, changes in Memorial Park walkways, a viewing deck on the pumping station near the Mesquite mooring, and restrooms and a park area north of the Burnsides store.

The parking area off Clinton and adjacent to the Mesquite mooring would be improved with greenspace along the shoreline. The number of parking spaces would remain the same.

Council will take up the downtown development plan again at its regular meeting next Monday night.

residential development on land below a specified elevation above sea level.

These regulations will eliminate, or at least decrease, the annual job of the federal government in rescuing persons who continue to live in floodplains in spite of being flooded out every spring.

Elevation limits for construction on land surrounding bodies of water in Charlevoix County are listed as:

Lake Michigan, 583.6 feet; Lake Charlevoix, 583.4 feet; Walloon Lake, 690.5 feet; Lake Marion, 727.0 feet; Lake Louise, 1644.5 feet; and Round Lake, 583.6 feet.

Township Boards must obtain from the County Clerk an "Intergovernmental Agreement" form if they wish to participate in the National Flood Insurance Program. After the agreement is signed by the Township and the County, it will be forwarded to National Flood Insurance headquarters and become effective within 30 days. Peaine, St. James, and South Arm Townships have already requested forms.

In this year of generally high water, the definition of "flooding" as it applies to the insurance program should be noted: "(Flood or flooding) means a general and temporary condition of partial or complete inundation of normally dry land areas from (1) the overflow of inland or tidal waters, and (2) the unusual and rapid accumulation of runoff of surface waters from any source."

Kids and booze: a growing crisis

Part V: a search for solutions

This week the Charlevoix Courier concludes its five-part series on the problem of alcohol abuse among the city's teenagers. Editor

By DOUG TRUAX

Defining the problem of teens and alcohol may be a lot easier than finding a solution.

Over the last month and a half of preparing this series, the Courier has contacted numerous professionals who deal with kids. All agree that there is a serious problem with teenagers and alcohol in Charlevoix.

Some parents and many teens themselves may not agree with that assessment. But by most reports teenagers in Charlevoix are drinking, and drinking to excess, at least at levels comparable to the national averages. In all probability, they are drinking significantly more.

Groups throughout the community are asking "What can we do?"

The answers are neither simple nor certain. But many people appear ready to try something, anything.

David Yingling, pastor at the United Methodist Church, knows the problem intimately, having himself been a teenager who drank often. A tough family life and a near alcoholic father were factors which contributed to his own problems.

"Drinking and drug abuse are a symptom," Yingling says. The breakdown of the family and kids' own inner insecurity often lie beneath the problem, he adds. "Youths are asking questions of identity. They are asking 'Who am I' 'Where do I fit?'

"Kids today are not being nurtured, they are not being listened to," he says.

Yingling believes one answer is give young people more responsibility – a voice in what happens to them.

"The second kind of thing I would like to see happen is community leaders get together and provide alternatives for kids." The churches, he suggests, could take the lead on this. "If there is enough spirit there — enough will to do something – we will find the way to bring it about," he says.

One pilot effort to provide a substance-free alternative is being sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce on May 2 at the Community Reformed Church. Jan Boss, youth director at the church, and Rev. Larry Grooters have been helping organize the event along with Leslie Cunningham and a committee of six young people.

They hope to provide games, food and videos.

"We'd like to see what kind of a need it is fulfilling," Rev. Grooters says. "At least it will give us a chance to work on a model."

Boss hopes such activities will attract teens who are borderline in their use of alcohol and drugs. "I'm not sure kids are totally committed to having to drink. It's just what's going on, what they do," she says.

"Positive alternatives seem to me the way to go, rather than just saying 'don't do it.'" Boss adds.

JEB BRUSHERD, youth pastor at the Assembly of God Church, believes the answer to the alcohol problem lies on a very personal level: "Much of this rebellion," he says, "is from the lack of relationships." The key to good relationships, he says, is good communication. "Kids have a tremendous desire to communicate. Almost categorically, they really just want someone to love them."

In addition to communicating, he thinks parents should do more listening. "Moms and dads don't spend enough time listening as they do giving out rules."

IN ADDITION to the larger philosophic issues, many in the community – especially the police and schools – have to deal with concrete issues of enforcement, discipline and control.

There is no unanimity on what can and should be done, but a variety of ideas are beginning to surface.

David Smith, principal at Charlevoix High School, and other school administrators recently convened a community meeting to address a variety of problems including guidelines for dances, senior graduation and prom parties, student attitudes, and the school's role in general.

He has compiled a list of suggestions provided by some 80 people who attended the meeting and an advisory committee of some 17 students and adults will be refining the suggestions and developing alternatives.

VANE SMITH, elementary school principal and former high school principal, has dealt with the issue for nearly two decades and has some practical advice for parents.

Parties often occur at the homes of kids whose parents are gone for the weekend, Smith says. Parents who are gone should make sure their home is supervised.

He also places some of the responsibility with the parents of kids who go out at night. "A parent has to be up and awake at night when their kid comes home from any activity," he says. "They have to make sure the kid attended the activity they were supposed to. I'm not too sure some parents really know where their kids are."

"If a child says he is going to spend the night somewhere, call to see that the parents are there. Parents have to start communicating with the parents of other kids their children hang around with," Smith says.

Smith adds that ultimately some parents have got to go out and prosecute people who are buying for their child, or parents who are allowing parties. Doing so in a small community, he warns, is difficult. "You'll pay for it."

SHERIFF GEORGE LASATER is well aware that 13 of the last 16 auto fatalities in Charlevoix County have been related to alcohol – way above the national average. He is also aware that many of the people who have been killed in alcohol-related car accidents have not themselves been drinking.

To drive home the point to some of the teens he sees who are involved with alcohol, he often has them sit in the wreckage of an auto in which two young women were killed on M-66 a year or so ago. The two were killed when a drunken driver crossed the line and destroyed their car.

"I think sitting in the car and describing the accident has more of an impact than me talking to them, or anyone talking to them," he says.

Lasater has considered putting the car on a trailer and taking it around to the schools.

With his own children, Lasater has come up with a novel approach. He has promised each a certain sum of money if, when they reach 18, they have not drunk alcohol or tried drugs.

He also advocates formal contracts with kids telling the child that if they have been drinking, they can call to get a safe ride home. No questions will be asked afterward, even if they have been at a place they should not have been.

It is impossible to report all possible solutions suggested for the problem of kids and booze, or even to keep track of them. But Charlevoix appears to be awakening to a serious problem that will require the testing and trial of many approaches before it is finally able to cope with this growing crisis.

School roundup planned

Kindergarten Roundup at the Charlevoix Public School on Tuesday and Wednesday, April 29 and 30, will have a "new look" this year.

"We hope that the 'new look' will give parents and teachers a better indication of the child's readiness for kindergarten," Vane H. Smith, principal at the school, explained.

The roundup will not only include registration but family background, speech, and motor coordination checks, and readiness tests. Parents should plan a minimum of 45 minutes on registration day and also be aware that appointments will be made between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. on roundup days.

Parents are also advised that appointments will be necessary before registering their child.

The appointments for kindergarten roundup must be made by calling 547-2242 during the following stated times: 8:30 a.m.-noon and 1-3 p.m. on Monday and Tuesday, April 21 and 22. If you have any questions or are unable to call for an appointment on these days, you may call 547-2215 at your convenience, Smith said.

When registering their child, parents are asked to bring only the child to be registered, the child's birth certificate and the child's up-to-date immunization record.

The Charlevoix Board of Education recommends that children entering kindergarten be five years of age by Sept. 1, 1986.

In the event that a child will not be living with his or her parents within the Charlevoix School District, guardianship papers must be presented to the school at the time of registration.

City should start planning for youth center

The Courier's recent investigation of the problem of alcohol abuse among teenagers turned up one consistent response from the kids themselves – there is often little to do in Charlevoix at night and especially on weekends.

One could argue with the logic of that, but the perception remains that kids feel a need for something social and entertaining on the weekends.

With few alternatives, alcohol and parties become, for many, the only game in town.

The community should address this problem with all the resources available. In particular, we think the city, schools, churches and parents should take a serious look at developing a teen center.

Perhaps the idea could thought of in even broader terms. What Charlevoix needs is a community center. The same structure that would serve for dances or meetings or games for teenagers on the weekends could certainly be used by seniors for meals during the week or by art classes or families during the weekend days.

Take the thought a step further. Why not combine the idea of a community center with the long-felt need for a community pool.

A little over a year ago, a group called SPLASH pursued the idea of a city pool and located the Ferry Beach area as the prime location. New plans have been drawn up (shown here) showing how the pool might be constructed as a part of the old electrical building, now used only for office space.

The idea has much merit. And at least one organizer of SPLASH agrees that the facility could be constructed to make room for a teen-community center. An additional floor would be relatively inexpensive and the handball courts or the exercise alcove could be a meeting room or game room.

The possibilities are many. With community involvement and good ideas from teens, parents, city officials, church leaders and others, a facility might be developed which would be the envy of the north country.

If a small town like Charlevoix can find the resolve to build a $400,000 public safety building and a $500,000 addition to the water plant, surely it accomplish similar feats which would benefit our youth.

Planners of the swimming pool have said that there are ways to finance the construction of such a building without costing the taxpayers a cent – through TIFA funds, private partnerships or other mechanisms. The taxpayers would be required to come up with only the operating costs, which initial estimates indicate might run as low as one-third mill – or $7 per year on a $40,000 home.

We think a community center should be a top priority for everyone in town. Young people are searching for healthy alternatives to drinking and hanging out. It is our responsibility to provide them.

City charter

By Bob Clock

I know money is tight and all that.

But I still think the City Council should start thinking about having copies of the city charter printed so that residents could have easy access to the rules they are supposed to live by.

Most cities, of course, do have copies of their charters available in handy booklet form.

I recall members of the Charlevoix Charter Commission sending away for copies of many different city charters when it was in the process of drawing up Charlevoix's first home-rule government. All of the communities contacted forwarded copies of their charters. None of them was very fancy, of course. Most were serviceable paper-bound pamphlets that told the commissioners what they needed to know.

I have no idea what Charlevoix uses when anyone asks for a copy of the city charter. The last time I saw the city manager's loose-leaf copy it was being eyed beyond belief.

Such an expenditure is too late for the 1986-87 budget. But there's always 1987-88.

If the charter is printed, the preamble should be prominently displayed on page 1. It was written in the Ottawa language by Commissioner Jay Oliver. I don't know of another city in the state which launches its charter in one of Michigan's native tongues.

THE EXODUS from Charlevoix to the South on Friday, April 4, was something to behold.

The few of us who remained in town during the spring break had the distinct feeling we were the last apples in the barrel.

However, most of the travelers have now returned and it's nice to have them aboard.

In a scant eight weeks, school will close for the summer and another hectic tourist season will be under way.

Whatever happened to January, February or March? Or 1985, for that matter?

WHERE WILL the new post office be?

Speculation abounds, but an official announcement won't be forthcoming for a couple of weeks, according to Bob Wilkes Jr., senior real estate specialist for the U.S. Postal Service in Detroit.

Of course, it would be convenient if the post office would stay downtown. But if there is no room available, so be it.

I'm sure we would all get used to another new location in a few months.

Postal officials, including Wilkes, were chagrined when they lost out on the State Street site next to city hall, which the city council has picked as the location of the public safety building.

However, in the years ahead I'm sure postal employees will be happy not to be locked into a relatively small tract of land with limited parking and absolutely no room for future expansion.

Chamber Chatter

By Claudia Kenefick
Executive Director

City Manager Mike Wiesner, Mayor Hal Hill, and I have begun contacting all local industrial facilities in an effort to establish a line of communication between the city, the township, the Chamber and local industry.

As the times of its gather information, we will become better equipped to pinpoint what it takes to service the needs of industry in this area.

Collectively, we are very committed to economic development in Charlevoix, that includes both expansion and retention of existing industry, along with solicitation of new industry.

It will take several more months to complete calls to all local industry, at the rate of one contact a week, but once this is accomplished, the valuable information gained will be compiled and a "Plan of Action" will be outlined.

If you are a local manufacturer and haven't been contacted as yet, you will be soon. Please let us know how we can better serve your needs. We want to hear the good and the bad.

When Joanna Gunn was in the Courier office last week, we began talking about the weather and making comparisons with other years. Mrs. Gunn said she kept a "weather diary" and could easily compare last winter with this winter. We asked her to share her notes with us. Her comments follow.

Do you hear people quote rumors about what a bad winter we had? And how long it was? They do it every year; it seems to be the "in" thing.

Did you know that in January, 1985 we enjoyed a January thaw completely? We had just one day above freezing, 15 January, 1986, we had nine days that melted ice and snow and 16 days when we had sunshine enough to make us smile.

Also, we're smiling all the cities north of the Mason-Dixon line who had a white Christmas. We had a total of 23 inches of snow that came and went during December. Anchorage, Alaska was the only city that didn't have a white Christmas. "Wouldn't you rather be in Charlevoix?"

Then along came February with sunshine on 17 days and 20 days with temperatures above freezing. Of course, we usually have more sunshine in February, but 17 days is a lot more than half, and we sure don't complain about it.

March is always bad. Right? This year the laundry-hanging-outers were hanging out in March. All those piles of snow were practically gone. In 1985, we were still trying to get the snow spread out to melt on April 15. In 1986, it had melted by April 1.

Letters to the Editor:

Boycott reaction

Offended by action

Dear Editor:

The boycotting of the Charlevoix Courier as well as the reasons given for this type of action is more characteristic of petulant children than of adult business people.

It is certainly an embarrassment to our community as a whole when individuals who disagree with the opinions of others try, in a petty forceful manner, to cause their viewpoints to be accepted and implemented.

Thus is NOT the American way.

Whatever happened to "Freedom of Speech" and an individual's right to a different point of view? I am curious as to what the attitude of those involved in the boycott would be if the shoe were somehow on the other foot and all who disagree with their view were to boycott their businesses.

Were this to happen, a small city like Charlevoix could in essence destroy itself!

After all, the off season in this area is twice as long as the tourist season. Now is the time to forget the almighty dollar and remember your neighbors and friends–they are the ones you have to live with.

Let's retain our own opinions but also be adult enough to at the very least accept the fact that others have a right to differ.

Cornerstones of democracy

Dear Editor:

I read in this week's Courier about the advertising boycott that some of the local businessmen are waging against the Courier. I just wanted to send you a brief letter letting you know that you have my support in the matter. It's a sad day for a community when local businessmen try to take a bite out of the cornerstones of democracy such as freedom of speech and freedom of the press. As a native of Charlevoix, I'm still inclined to feel most of the businessmen involved are basically decent people. I would hope that they soon see, and correct, the error they have made.

In regard to your editorial and coverage of the question which has aroused the community, you have done an excellent job and have every right to be proud. Stand by your journalistic principles even if some people aren't completely enamored of them. In the words of Thomas Paine (I think he was once the editor of a paper in either New York or Boyne Falls): "Let them call me a rebel and welcome, I feel no concern from it; but I should suffer the misery of devils, were I to make a whore of my soul..."

Lakes are crucial to area

Dear Editor:

I've read alot of pros and cons in regard to the Water's Edge Condos - and the other condos projected for Charlevoix. Nowhere have I read anything that is anti-growth, even in the most rabid of the letters against Water's Edge. The Courier editorial wasn't against "growth" either. We must separate our feelings about condos into where they might be built, and not whether they should be built.

The biggest asset Charlevoix has is its lake. Once the lake goes - the town goes. There are beautiful sites for condominiums - or homes - or apartments - on areas that are not lakefront. If we want condominiums to bolster the community financially, let's build them where they will not threaten our most important asset - the reason people want to build here in the first place - the lake.

Speaking of editorials: I think it's healthy to have an editor who speaks his mind. A small-town newspaper needs a certain amount of controversy. The advertisers who are threatening to withdraw their ads and/or their subscriptions are showing that they are fearful of any opinion but their own.

Gas price collusion?

Dear Editor:

With the advent of falling oil and gasoline prices nationwide I would like to publicly ask some questions regarding the gasoline prices of the five major self-serve gas stations in Charlevoix.

Why are gas prices in Charlevoix among the highest in the state? Why are gas prices below 90 cents a gallon in Traverse City and not Charlevoix? Why is gasoline cheaper at many stations in the Upper Peninsula?

When was the last time gasoline was less expensive in East Jordan, Boyne City, Petoskey etc. than in Charlevoix? Why do prices continue to fall at many stations throughout the state and have remained the same over $1 per gallon for the last month in Charlevoix?

Could there be collusion? Isn't price fixing illegal in the State of Michigan if there is collusion? Who would or could investigate these matters?

Please let me know.

Soviet threat less ominous

Dear Editor:

I would like to share some information which gives me hope. Joseph C. Harsch tells of three news items which brighten my outlook for the future.

Mr. Harsch in the April 4 Christian Science Monitor stated: "the following news items undercut those major contentions of the anti-arms control faction in the administration:

"1. Recent testimony before Congressional committees show the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) and the Defense Intelligence Agency (DIA) agreeing substantially that Soviet spending on weapons has been relatively constant over the last decade and is likely to remain constant in the near future and may even decline.

"2. Donald Hicks, undersecretary of defense for research and engineering, submitted an annual report to Congress on the race in military technology. It showed the U.S. leading the U.S.S.R. in the 14 most important areas of military technology and the U.S. trailing in none.

"3. The CIA has revised its method for calculating Soviet nuclear tests. The old method showed the Soviets to be cheating on tests. The new method reduces estimates of Soviet yield by 20 percent and indicates they may not have cheated. William Casey, CIA director, approved the downward revision on Jan. 31, 1986."

With these news items in mind, isn't this a good time for the U.S. to agree to "stop nuclear tests." The U.S.S.R. announced a test ban on July 29, 1985 and in January 1986 extended the ban for three months. After March 31 the U.S.S.R. said they would not resume testing unless the U.S. did so.

If we stopped testing we could reduce the deficit. The 1986 budget calls for $30.4 million to be used for nuclear weapons tests.

During Easter weekend the Reagan administration made it clear it intends to spend every bit of the money despite Gorbachev's push for a testing moratorium.

After I read the Harsch article the so-called Soviet "threat" seemed less ominous.

I am hopeful.

Band plans spring concert

The Charlevoix School Instrumental Music Department will present its annual Spring Band Concert at the Charlevoix High School gymnasium at 8 p.m. Tuesday, april 22, Terry Isenbarger, band director, has announced.

The concert will be a "dress rehearsal" in preparation for the state high school and junior high school festivals for which both bands qualified by earning first division "I" ratings at district festivals.

At the concert, the awards for the year will be presented to symphonic band members. Among them will be the John Philip Sousa award to be presented to the outstanding senior member of the band. Graduating senior band members will be recognized and band letter "C" awards will be presented to band members who are juniors, Isenbarger said.

Selections which the eighth grade band will play include: "New Frontier March" by John O'Reilly; "Brookpark Overture" by James Swearingen and "Scandinavian Folk Fantasy" by John Edmondson.

The high school band will play, among others, "Glory" by John Caceres; "Avatara" by Mike Lekrone and "Hymn of St. James" by Reber Clark.

Also appearing will be several members of the band who performed at the State Solo and Ensemble Festival at Ferris State College in March.

The high school band will travel to Lansing, Saturday, April 26, to appear in the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Festival. The group will stay in Lansing Saturday night and return on Sunday. The junior high band will perform at the State Junior High School Festival at Gladwin on the following Saturday, May 3.

Vera Marie Miller

Miller - Keie

Mrs. Vera Zillmer of Charlevoix announces the engagement of her granddaughter, Vera Marie Miller, to Jerome Robert Keie. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Keie, also of Charlevoix.

The bride-to-be graduated from Messmer High School in Milwaukee in 1978 and studied occupational therapy at the University of Wisconsin for three years. She is self-employed as a seamstress and also works as a waitress.

Her fiance graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1979. He is employed as a carpenter and works part time as a musician.

The wedding will take place June 7 at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Charlevoix.

Weight loss help offered

Charlevoix Area Hospital will offer a Pre-Summer Weight Loss Clinic at 7 p.m. Thursday, April 17, in the hospital classroom.

Since this is the time of year many people want to start trimming up for the fun and sun of summer, the free clinic will offer tips on diet and exercise aimed at preparing for the active months ahead.

Dietitian Julie Dalrymple, R.D., will discuss the topic of "sensible weight loss" to help people stay healthy and well nourished while they are shedding pounds. She will prepare and explain a 1200-calorie basic diet for participants which will be distributed as a handout.

Vital Options instructor Candy Smith will talk about the importance of exercise in the weight loss process. She will provide some types of activity geared toward slimming down and shaping up for the types of summer fun enjoyed by northern Michigan residents.

The Pre-Summer Weight Loss Clinic is part of the Third Thursday Health Talk series sponsored by the Community Education Committee of Charlevoix Area Hospital. For further information call the hospital at 547-4024.

Track squad readies for Thursday opener

The Charlevoix Rayder track teams, both boys and girls, will launch their season at Petoskey Thursday, coaches Hal Evans and Dennis Van Guilder have announced.

The boys team has more than 45 candidates reporting regularly, including freshmen, Evans said.

The girls team, with a nucleus of six returnees, has 24 candidates, among them several freshmen who did well on the middle school team in '85, Van Guilder said.

Seniors among the returnees are Tim Salmonson, a hurdler; Tim Wieland, who throws the shot and discus; Packy LaBlance, a high jumper, and Sean Ferguson, out for the first time, who is a candidate as a high-and broad jumper and the relays.

The five juniors are Jim Gibbs, a middle distance runner; Darren Batdorff, a pole vaulter, Doug Bergmann and Harold Herriman, distance runners; and Terry Bonar, a hurdler.

The only sophomore letterman is Pat Rajewski, a half-miler.

Others will come from among the young candidates, Evans said.

Four sprinters, all juniors, head the list of returnees for the girls. They are Barbie Boss, Rhonda Brown, Michelle Louiselle, and Stephanie Martin.

The only other letter winners among the 24 candidates are distance runners, Michelle North, a junior, and Betsy Haggard, a sophomore.

Others will come from among freshmen and sophomore ranks, Van Guilder said.

Jack Niswander takes a healthy swing during an outing at the city golf course. Play is free until May 1 when the course officially opens for business. Looking on is Bill Niswander.

Baseball team builds on veteran core

The Charlevoix Rayder baseball team will take on Central Lake on Wednesday at the latter's field in their second outing of the season after opening against East Jordan in a double-header on Tuesday.

Taking over the mound duties for the Rayders are Marc Himebaugh, a senior, and Mike Thompson, a junior, coach Brian Certa reports.

Kent Seymour and Jamie Bartlett, a transfer from East Jordan, will likely be behind the plate. Both are juniors. Himebaugh may also take a turn as a catcher.

Thompson will also double at shortstop while John Gray, a junior, is seeking the second-base assignment. Jody Putman, first base, and sophomore Scott Denny, third base.

Only veteran in the outfield will be Brian Wilmot.

Other positions will be filled by underclassmen, most of whom have had experience as Little League players. Among them are sophomores Dan Drury, Scott DeYoung, Derek Datcher, Nick Mellios, Levi McLellan, and Steve Hopkins, a transfer from Traverse City.

Freshmen candidates are Shawn Putman and Mike Himebaugh.

Softball meeting is planned

The 1986 softball season sponsored by the Charlevoix Recreation Department, will be the subject of an organizational meeting Thursday, April 17, at the Charlevoix City Hall at 7 p.m.

Dwight Boss, recreation director, has announced the meeting will plan both men's and women's teams. Players as well as managers and sponsors are asked to attend the meeting at which plans for the season will be made. Others who would like to be on a team are asked to attend.

Bowlers bring home prizes

Three bowlers from the Paul Bunyan Lanes in Charlevoix recently competed in the Annual Ladies Classic Scratch Tournament at J & G Lanes in Traverse City and came home with prizes.

Carol Burry took first place in the tournament, winning $800 and a trophy. Sally Geer came in fourth, and Mary O'Brien was sixth. They, too, were money winners.

Sally Geer won the tournament four years ago.

Young math students compete

The seven Charlevoix Middle School students who participated in the annual competition sponsored by the Michigan Council of Teachers of Mathematics did not qualify for advancement to State competition at Central Michigan University in May, Kay Fiederek, math instructor, said Monday.

Among the more than 300 students representing schools from throughout the north were Lutes Porath and Dan Boss, ninth-graders, Amy Shupert and Mike Ochs, seventh-graders, and Tim Henne, Willie Habel, and Greg Lewis, eighth-graders.

The Top 25 students in each of the three grade levels advanced to the state finals.

The regional competition was held at Gaylord.

Walkathon aims at $7M

Throughout America, people will be walking the streets for a cause on Saturday, April 26. It's the annual March of Dimes Walkamerica fundraiser.

Locally, walkers will take off at 9 a.m. from two locations - on Division Street behind Duffy's Restaurant in Charlevoix and by the Chamber of Commerce building in Petoskey. They will both walk 30 kilometers to Bay Shore and back.

This year's event promises to be bigger and better, according to Mike Coulter, March of Dimes campaign director for the area. There will be hundreds of balloons released as the walk begins. Four-year-old Russell Bess of East Jordan, local Poster Child, will be at the midway point of Subaru-by-the-Bay to greet and encourage the walkers.

Checkpoints along the way will provide refreshments for everyone. Rides will be provided for those unable to complete the walk.

A VCR will be awarded to the top walker-money raiser of Petoskey and Charlevoix for the 18-year-old and under category. For the over-18 category, a bed and breakfast at Harbour Inn on the Bay is the prize for Petoskey. The Charlevoix walkers will be competing for a weekend at Boyne Mountain.

The walkathon will be pre-paid, which means securing pledge money in advance of the event, eliminating the need of a return trip to collect money from sponsors. Sponsor sheets are available at 7-Eleven and City Hall in Charlevoix. In Petoskey, sponsor sheets can be picked up at the Chamber of Commerce office or from Mike Coulter at Bay Buick Pontiac Cadillac. Registration begins the day of the walk at 8:30 a.m.

Donna Rinock of Burger King, teamwalk chairman, reports that Burger King is challenging any and all businesses to beat them in the walk. They were the winners last year and are present holders of the Battered Boot trophy. Charlevoix Area Hospital team was top team in the Charlevoix walk in 1985 and are issuing a challenge to the hospital in Petoskey and other health care agencies to beat them.

Last year's combined walk raised $4,210 to fight birth defects. Mike Coulter, on an optimistic note, is projecting at least $7,000 will be raised this year.

For information concerning the Walk, call March of Dimes office, 547-5877.

Home Week observed

This month, for the 31st consecutive year, realtors are leading Michigan and all the U.S. in recognizing the importance of home ownership and of private property rights via "American Home Week," the new name this year for Private Property Week.

The National Association of Realtors is sponsoring a special national advertising campaign via radio, TV, and national publications which projects the positive message "Realtors - We do our homework."

Michigan's Gov. James J. Blanchard has declared this week of April 13-19 as American Home Week in Michigan as well.

"Home ownership instills in people a feeling of pride, accomplishments and security and is the basis of our free enterprise system," the governor says in his declaration.

"Knowing, exercising and protecting our private property privilege is important," he states. "The Michigan Association of Realtors and its member realtors, who honor the disciplines of a strict Code of Ethics, continues its commitment to work with Michigan citizens in preserving their rights of real property ownership," he stated.

Michigan touring company presents Sondheim musical

The Broadway musical, "Side by Side by Sondheim" will be coming to Charlevoix on Sunday, April 20.

The performance will be presented at the Charlevoix High School gymnasium at 4 p.m. on that date by the Lyric Opera Company under the direction of Jay and Marilyn Thompson, formerly associated with the Interlochen Music Academy.

The cast will include professional musicians from throughout the state presenting selections by Sondheim as well as Bernstein, Rodgers and Jule Styne, according to Fran Tollas, a member of the board of directors of the Lyric Opera Company. Among the selections most familiar to audiences is "Send in the Clowns," Tollas added.

"The Lyric Opera Company is a non-profit organization supported by the Michigan Council for the Arts. Thompson works with professional people from various universities and other professional groups to bring the musical to northern Michigan. The company plans three productions a year. If Charlevoix can support performances the community will be included in the tour," Tollas explained.

The company travels with costumes and scenery as though it were on Broadway, she added.

Tickets, which may be purchased at the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, are $7 for adults, $6 for senior citizens, and $5 for children. Tickets may also be purchased at the door.

Obituaries

Rosa Rosenthal

Funeral services for Mrs. Rosa Rosenthal, 55, will be held at the Assembly of God Church at 1 p.m. Friday, April 18. The Reverend Lowell Anderson will officiate. Interment will be in Brookside Cemetery.

Mrs. Rosenthal died Friday, April 11, at University Hospital in Ann Arbor.

Friends may call at the Winchester Funderal Home from 7 - 9 p.m. Thursday.

Born in Josefin, Poland, November 30, 1930, the former Rosa Friske moved to Germany with her family in 1940. On December 24, 1948, she was married to David Rosenthal at Klein Biewede, Germany. In 1951, they came to the United States, living in Alpena for a year before going to Racine, Wisconsin, where they lived until 1969, when they cathe to Charlevoix.

She and her husband owned and operated Rosenthal's Orchard. She was a member of the Assembly of God Church.

She is survived by her husband; a daughter, Mrs. Aron (Rita) Williams of East Jordan; three sons, Klaus of Petoskey, and Ralph and Walter of Charlevoix; four grandchildren; four brothers, Richard Friske of Ellsworth, Karl Friske of Ashville, North Carolina, Robert Friske of Cashton, Wisconsin, and Herbert Friske of Charlevoix; and four sisters, Else Friske of Racine, Mrs. Walter (Frieda) Challender of Bonifay, Florida, Hannah Friske of Minnesota, and Mrs. Elmer (Erna) Cilke of Boyne Falls.

Ruby E. Edwards

Funeral services for Mrs Ruby E. Edwards, 90, were held Saturday at the Winchester Funeral Home. The Rev. David W. Yingling of the United Methodist Church officiated. Interment was in Brookside Cemetery.

Mrs. Edwards died Wednesday, April 9, at the Community Memorial Hospital in Cheboygan.

Born near Eastport in Antrim County Dec. 14, 1895, the former Ruby E. Kirby was married to Percy A. Edwards at Petoskey on March 2, 1917. They always made their home in Charlevoix. For the past two years Mrs. Edwards had resided in Cheboygan with her daughter, Mrs. Bernice A. Knaffle. Mr. Edwards preceded her in death June 26, 1960.

She is survived by a son, William P. Edwards of Bellaire; two daughters, Mrs. Bernice E. Knaffle of Cheboygan and Mrs. Helen L. Daggett of Ashley; eight grandchildren; three great-grandchildren; a brother, James B. Kirby of Bellaire; and two sisters, Mrs. Dale (Bora E.) James of Central Lake and Mrs. Thelma D. Bradford of Ellsworth.

Edward P. Dalton

Edward P. Dalton, 73, died Wednesday, April 9, at his Banks Township home in Antrim County.

Born at Campbell, Mo., April 24, 1912, Mr. Dalton graduated from Campbell High School and came to Flint as a young man. In December 1934, he was married to the former Ann S. Perkins. For many years Mr. Dalton owned and operated several movie theatres in Flint, among them the Dawn Theatre in Flushing. He was also involved in land development in Flushing. He founded and owned the Dalton Airport in Flushing which he operated from 1946 until now. They moved to Atwood in Banks Township in 1976.

He was a charter member and past president of the Flushing Lions Club, a founding member of the Genessee Sportsman's Club, formerly the Flushing Sportsman's Club, served on the Mt. Morris Township Board and Planning Commission and after moving to Atwood, served on the Banks Township Zoning Board. During World War II he was commander of the 63rd Wing of the Civil Air Patrol in Flint.

He is survived by his wife, Ann S. of Atwood; his son and daughter-in-law, Edwin P. II and Lynn Ann Dalton of Flushing; two daughters, Mrs. Bob (Luanne J.) Henry of Atwood and Mrs. Bonnie S. Styes of Flushing; seven grandchildren; one great-granddaughter; and two sisters, Mrs. Laverne Payne of Flushing and Mrs. Sam (Floy) Fullwood of Flint.

Cremation followed.

A memorial service will be held at the Rossell Funeral Home in Flushing at a date to be announced.

The Winchester Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Leo E. Drewa

Full military rites for Leo E. Drewa, 60, were held Monday at St. Mary's Church. The Reverend Casimir Zawacki officiated. Interment was in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Mr. Drewa died Friday, April 13, at the Traverse City Osteopathic Hospital.

Born June 11, 1965 in Stevens Point, Wisconsin, where he was raised, he entered the United States Army in 1943 and served in the European theater during World War II. He then went to Chicago; where he was married to Geraldine Sarna on May 19, 1951. They came to Charlevoix to make their home in 1960. A carpenter by trade, he was a member of the Union Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners Local No. 1461 and had been employed by numerous contractors in the area.

He was a member of St. Mary's Church and a life member of Emmet-Charlevoix County Post No. 31, D.A.V. and Charlevoix Post No. 1153, Veterans of Foreign Wars. He had been active in the 4-H program for many years.

Surviving are his wife, Geraldine; a daughter, Mrs. James (Kathy) Marsh of Elk Grove, California; two sons, Daniel I. and David M., both of Charlevoix; a grandson, Brian March of Elk Grove; four brothers, Tony and Albin of Appleton, Wisconsin, Walter of Fond du Lac, Wisconsin, and Felix and two sisters, Mrs. Martha Wolosek of Appleton, and Mrs. Helen Flatoff of Fond Du Lac.

Joe Howey of the Charlevoix County road crew helps ready the Ironton Ferry for the upcoming season.

Ironton ferry set for spring season

The Ironton Ferry, which has been out of service since last November, is scheduled to resume seasonal operations Monday, April 28, according to Lee Moerland of the County Transportation Authority.

The ferry transports vehicles and people across the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix at Ironton, making for a shorter trip to and from the south shore of the main lake and Boyne City.

There has been a ferry at Ironton since 1885, when it was powered by horses. It was originally a private enterprise, then taken over by Eveline Township and eventually by Charlevoix County. There is some question as to whether it ever provided free rides, but fares have risen in steps through the years from five cents to over $1.

Youth Services Board formed

The formation of a Youth Services Board to coordinate the work of agencies serving children and teenagers was announced last week by the County Board of Commissioners.

Members of the Board are Brad Campbell, county juvenile officer; Vasco Zucchiatti of the Department of Social Services; Edwin Gregory, assistant prosecuting attorney; William Aten, Boyne Falls school teacher; and Don Smith, county commissioner. Aten formerly served the county as youth diversionary worker.

It is hoped the new board will be able to cut the costs of child care in the county, which last year amounted to more than $400,000, by providing for better oversight of care and placement procedures.

Under certain circumstances, the county and state became responsible for the care of abused, neglected, and delinquent children.

Barnard group will celebrate Grange Week

The week of April 20-26 has been designated as National Grange Week.

In observance of the special week, the Barnard Grange has planned several events to call attention to the organization whose early beginnings date back to the early 1700's.

The first of these events will be a hymn sing at the Norwood Grange Hall at 7 p.m. Sunday, April 20. In addition to traditional group singing, there will be several special numbers, including solos by Stephen Guthrie and Rod Stevens, and selections by the Smith family trio and the Maurer family quartet. Climaxing the event will be the presentation of the "Community Citizen's Award."

On Thursday, April 24, the Barnard Grange will present a program relating to Charlevoix County's new numbering system. A representative of the Building Codes Department of the county will give the history of the numbering system, explain how it was devised, and answer any questions the people of the community might have. The program is scheduled from 7:30 p.m.

A second community service program is scheduled for 1:30 p.m. Saturday, April 24, when a representative from the Top O' Michigan Electric Cooperative will present a program on "The Hazards of Electricy." The program is presented out-of-doors with the use of a specially equipped trailer. In the event of rain, the demonstration will not be held at this time.

Council oks Rysberg Inn

by DOUG TRUAX

City Council approved the site plan for the new three-story, 35-unit Rysberg Inn Monday night on a 3-2 vote.

The approval was contingent on owner Brian Rysberg receiving variances from the Zoning Board of Appeals for the height of the building and for waiver of 45 required parking spaces if a conference center is build in the basement.

Voting for the motel proposal were councilmen Ray Wood, William Bellows and Robert Timms. Shirley Roloff and Norm Probert voted against the plan.

Council had questioned the height of the building in previous meetings on the site plan and was informed Monday that the code calls for a two and one-half story maximum or 35-foot height, whichever is less, in this commercial zone. City Manager Michael Wiesner also informed the council that the Zoning Board of Appeals had ruled at their April 16 meeting that the 35-foot maximum was interpreted from the lowest point on the foundation to the highest point of the roof.

In two previous council discussions on the plan, council was unaware of the two and one-half story limitation and was unclear as to how the height requirement was interpreted.

The Rysberg Inn plan calls for a total height of some 43 feet.

Rysberg told council he had redrawn the site plan to eliminate a disputed eight-foot easement at the north end of the property. The new plan calls for a 14-foot one-way drive at the north end. Council approval was also contingent on the developer receiving a curb cut permit from the Michigan Department of Transportation and completion of drainage and utility plans.

Councilwoman Roloff objected to passing the site plan with the variances. "Things are supposed to be up to code," she said. "We're not supposed to have variances every time they come in."

She also noted the congestion the new motel would create.

City attorney Jeffery VanTreese told council it could approve the site plan as it exists with the contingency that the owner acquire all zoning variances from the Zoning Board of Appeals.

At a work session of council last week, Rysberg noted that the meeting room plans were added because of a need among several downtown businesses for facilities to attract off-season business groups.

The Charlevoix Planning Commission had recommended that, in lieu of adding additional parking for the meeting rooms, the motel not be allowed to use the meeting rooms in July and August when the need for parking was greatest. During other times, the planning commission felt the parking for motel guests could accommodate the meeting rooms as well.

The city code requires one parking space for each three persons accommodated by a meeting room, city planner Cary Harsch explained last week.

IN OTHER ACTION council:

– Approved a site plan for the construction of a new cabana at the Belvedere Club Lake Charlevoix beachfront. There are currently 22 cabanas at the site.

– Rejected a request from Ward Gremore, developer of Adventure Golf at the corner of M-66 and Stover Road, for approval of a restaurant site plan. Attorney Ed Gregory, representing Captain's Corners Associates, told council the site plan parking was inadequate because 14 of the parking spaces were on propery owned by Captains Corners and there was no lease agreement between the two parties. Three additional parking spaces shown on the plan are not owned by Adventure Golf, Gregory said.

A spokesman for the developer said excavation for the Adventure Golf amusement center had already begun.

–Awarded a contract to R. B. Lyons, Inc. for the construction of a 68-foot steel sheeting seawall at the end of Burns Street. The seawall will be used to control erosion at the end of the city owned right-of-way.

– Executed an Declaration of Trust for Pine River Place allowing the Charlevoix Housing Commission to issue bonds while the city remains title holder to the property and agrees not to transfer any of its rights in the property.

– Approved by a 3-1 vote a roesolution to have the Michigan Department of Transportation study the downtown traffic problem. The resolution calls for MDOT to "study the possibility of creating turning lanes or four lanes of traffic on U.S.

Work on the sewer and water lines for Charlevoix's new industrial park is going very well, according to City Manager Michael Wiesner. Workers are shown digging the trench for the 10-inch sewer line which will run from Duffy's on U.S. 31 to Charlevoix Manufacturing. Although the industrial park project is not scheduled for completion until October, the contractor feels most of the work may be done by July.

Flower shop plan approved

The long struggle of owners of Expressions Unlimited to relocate their flower shop to a residence on Petoskey Avenue is over. City Council approved Monday night the final site plan for the Expressions Unlimited, a flower shop to be located at 306 Petoskey Avenue.

Owners Roger Peacock and Ron Taepke have been trying for over a year to have the residential property approved for their flower shop which once was located on U.S. 31 north and is currently run from the North Star motel on U.S. 31 south.

Residents of the north side objected to the location of the commercial business in the residentially zoned neighborhood. Attempts to rezone the property commercial were defeated and council in May 1985 defeated, on a 3-3 deadlocked vote, a proposal to allow special use zoning for the area of Petoskey from Nettleton Street to Mercer Boulevard.

In February 1986 council again took up the question of special use zoning and passed it unanimously. The amendment permits florists, shops, art and photographic studios, and interior decorating shops in the area.

The long history of debate on the flower shop was reflected by Mayor Hal Hill on Monday. "I don't think there is any project in this town where there has been more nitpicking," Hill said in objecting to several of the conditions for approval laid down by the planning commission. "I'm getting sick and tired of one man getting nitpicked like this," he added.

Council removed two of the six contingencies suggested by the planners: staff approval of a landscape design and the blocking of an entrance to an alley.

Council members said the blocking of the drive to the alley was unnecessary and not within the city's jurisdiction. The planning commission had recommended access be allowed to the Expressions Unlimited parking lot only off Burns Street. The alley entrance would be dangerous, they argued.

Council also gave the owners until July 1, 1987 to comply with the blacktopping of the parking lot.

Other conditions retained by council included: moving the gazebo back even with the front of the house, increasing the depth of the parking spaces and city approval of a drainage plan.

City plans spring cleanup

It is time for city residents to get busy on gathering brush, tree limbs and rubbish as city crews will soon be making the rounds in the annual spring cleanup campaign.

City crews will pick up rubbish which is placed behind the curb before the following dates: Third Ward, April 28-May 2; Second Ward, May 5-9; and First Ward, May 12-16.

City officials say this will be the last opportunity to have brush, tree limbs and leaves picked up from private property until after Labor Day.

The city has issued a few guidelines for the pickup. Residents should mark containers "save" if they want them returned. Large objects do not have to be placed in containers. Brush and tree limbs must be cut into four-foot lengths and must be separated from other rubbish.

No regular garbage will be picked up as a part of this special spring cleanup.

Questions regarding the campaign should be directed to the city manager's office at 547-2290.

Water levels break records again

DETROIT—The elevation for Lakes Michigan-Huron at the end of March was about five inches above the previous all-time monthly mean high for March, which was set in 1973.

The lake level was seven inches above what it was one year ago and about three inches above one month ago.

The end of March level of the two lakes was 580.69 feet above the mean water level at Father Point, Quebec.

The March monthly mean level was 31 inches above the long term average and about 61 inches above the all-time March monthly mean low set in 1964.

For mariners, the end of March level was 46 inches above chart datum.

The six-month forecast of levels for Lakes Michigan-Huron shows that the lakes are expected to be above the long-term average level during the next six months. The forecast shows that at the end of April, Lakes Michigan-Huron will be about four inches above what they were at the end of March.

The lakes are expected to continue their seasonal rise into July.

At the end of September, the lakes are expected to be eight inches above what they were at the same time in 1985. The September mean would be above the long-term average for that month and seven inches above the all-time high mean for September, which was set in 1952.

Clarence Way autobiography

Local author recounts history

by FRAN MARTIN

It's a book that belongs in the archives of the historical library for it's a saga of the early days of this century. It relates the joys and tribulations, the hardships and compensations, of growing up in the time of oil lamps and outdoor plumbing to today's way of life.

It's the book written and published by Clarence Simeon Way, now four score and five, entitled "From the Oxcart to the Space Shuttle."

In the foreward he states that this is not a book telling of the life of a great person. Its uniqueness comes from the fact that he is just an ordinary person relating his life's story, something few people take the time to write.

Written in a "down-to-earth" style, it tells the story of a boy growing up on a farm in Kalkaska County, where Way was born September 23, 1899.

In it he tells of experiences unheard of in today's world—things like going to school in a one-room schoolhouse heated by a potbelly stove; of carrying water three-fourths of a mile to be used as drinking water for the teacher and students because there was no well; of flagging down a passing train if you needed a ride into town.

He tells also of the early days of the automobile industry when farm youths worked in factories from the time the crops were harvested until planting time, when they returned to the farm for the spring and summer months.

The book recalls the days of logging camps and the family's first car, the sorrow at the loss of a child as the result of "black diptheria", and the joys of family life. It tells of later years when the family comes to northern Michigan through, as Way states in the book's title, the space shuttle.

Though Way states that the book has been written by a "nobody", he can boast that he has never had to look for a job. Nor has he ever lost a day of work except one caused by a vaccination. Today, at age 85, he is employed by Brumm Studios and still works regularly.

Way says he continues to work so he can wear out his old clothes, because he doesn't like to waste precious time, and because he likes the company of the people at the studio.

He has been working at Norm and Judy Brumm's Studio for the past 18 years and has had an important role.

in the making of beautiful birds, flowers, and plants in true-to-life enameled metal.

"I keep telling Norm and Judy that I want to cut back on my hours. I have cut back some because I just work five hours a day. However, something always seems to interfere and I keep going", he continues.

"But one of these days..." Way mildly threatens, but always shows up for work the next day.

In addition to working through the years, Way has found time to compile a book of poems that he has written entitled "Rhyme, Rythm 'n' Reason".

Why did he write the book? "I was 'needled' into it. After my book of poems, everyone kept telling me I should write a book, so I did. Now I'm going to need some time to sell it. That's what I will do if I ever get around to leaving the studio", he added.

Among the people who "needled" him, he admits, were his wife, the former Ruth Olson, to whom he has been married 65 years; their children, Mrs. Arthur (Gerald Hittenberger of Fort Lauderdale; Robert, who has been ministering for the past 30 years and who is now in Augsberg, Germany; and the three "D's"—Dawson, Doug, and Dick—all local businessmen, and his many grandchildren. The great-grandchildren, most of them anyway, aren't old enough yet.

Townships discuss computers

Local township officials will learn how computers can be used in township government when the Townships Association and Cooperative Extension Services meet together Monday, April 28, in the Boyne City Hall Auditorium.

The program will deal with specific information on micro computer hardware and software packages which can be used by township governments. Speakers will be:

Rod Cortright, Charlevoix County Extension Director, Phil Armstrong, consultant with Reinhart & Armstrong; and Alfred Hoedley, Helena Township supervisor, Antrim County.

Further information about the program may be obtained by calling 582-6222. The meeting, which is the regular monthly meeting of the Townships Association, will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Society sale

The Charlevoix County Humane Society will sponsor a flea market and bake sale on Saturday, May 3, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the East Jordan Senior Center, 110 Main Street.

Charlevoix Yesterday

Before the days of the Medusa Cement Company, the Charlevoix Rock Products Company was operating in Charlevoix in the general vicinity of Carpentar Straat and Norwood Road. In the beginning, crushed rock from the quarry wes cerried eway by horse and wegon and much of it was used in the original paving of Charlevoix streets. The quarry eventually becema the city dump.

Genealogical workshop planned

A Genealogy Workshop will be held on Saturday, May 10, beginning at 10 a.m. at the United Methodist Church, corner of Park and Pine Streets, Boyne City.

The workshop is being sponsored by the Antrim-Charlevoix-Emmet (A.C.E.) Genealogical Society, Cheboygan County Genealogical Society, and Grand Traverse Area Genealogical Society.

Topics to be discussed include, "How to Date Your Pictures from Costumes Being Worn", "Evidence (Proofs)", "Libraries in Michigan and How to Use Them", and "Government Records".

Mrs. Carol Ring of Berkley will be the speaker of the day. She has been lecturing on genealogical topics for many years and is active in the Daughters of the American Revolution as well as the Michigan Genealogical Council.

Each person attending may bring a picture or two to learn how to date the pictures.

The morning session is scheduled to last until 11:30 a.m., and the afternoon session will last from 1 p.m. to 2:30 p.m. Beverage will be provided those who bring their brown bag lunch. Those who prefer to eat elsewhere will find several nearby restaurants.

The cost of the workshop is $5.

Further information may be obtained from Bea Smith at 582-6117 or Rose Elzinga at 547-6787.

Conference looks at water issues

"Water" will be the subject of a conference scheduled for May 1 at the Cheboygan Opera House, co-sponsored by the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service and the participants in Extension's Public Affairs Leadership (PAL) program.

However, this time the discussion will not be about lake water levels or wetlands, but rather about water used for drinking, for cooking, for bathing, and for recreational purposes.

As the full title indicates—"Michigan Water, our Home and our Future — the conference is designed to help people know their water rights, learn who are the decision-makers on water issues, and discover what the future of Michigan's water will be.
